Section 29F

Administration, Vienna

(Programme 24 of the medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005)

Overview

- 29F.1 Since the establishment of permanent headquarters at the Vienna International Centre in 1979, the United Nations Office at Vienna, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) have provided administrative support to each other on a common or joint service basis under the terms of the tripartite memorandum of understanding signed in March 1977. With the change of status of UNIDO to a specialized agency, effective 1 January 1986, arrangements were completed under separate agreements between the United Nations and UNIDO for other support services not covered by the memorandum of understanding. Subsequently, the agreements were modified when the responsibility for financial and general support services was transferred from UNIDO to the United Nations Office at Vienna during the biennium 1994-1995. Also during that time, unified conference services were established under the aegis of the United Nations Office at Vienna. Furthermore, the agreements were augmented when the provisional Technical Secretariat of the Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty Organization, which was established at the Vienna International Centre in March 1997, began formal participation in the cost-sharing arrangements, in 1998.
- 29F.2 Within the United Nations Office at Vienna, the Division of Administrative and Common Services provides administrative services to the United Nations Secretariat units located at the Vienna International Centre and to the international organizations located at the Centre. The United Nations Secretariat units receiving administrative support include the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime, the Office for Outer Space Affairs, the International Trade Law Branch of the Office of Legal Affairs, the secretariat of the United Nations Scientific Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation and the United Nations Information Service. The Division also provides some support services to IAEA, UNIDO, the Vienna offices of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the United Nations Development Programme and the United Nations Office for Project Services and other international organizations located in the complex. In addition, the Division provides some administrative support to the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute, located in Turin, Italy. During the biennium 2002-2003, the Division expanded its administrative support to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime in the financial, human resources management and technology support areas. This support is financed largely through reimbursement by the Office for those services.
- 29F.3 Under the various agreements with other organizations, the Division provides the following administrative services at the Vienna International Centre: security and safety, language training, issuance of laissez-passer and travel documents, communications and garage administration. In addition, the Division coordinates and monitors the provision of services provided for the United Nations by other organizations, namely, building management services, which are the responsibility of UNIDO, and medical and printing services, which are the responsibility of IAEA.
- 29F.4 Table 29F.1 summarizes the support services provided at the Vienna International Centre by the three original occupant organizations for themselves and at least one of the other organizations.

29F.5 The United Nations Office at Vienna does not participate financially in the joint housing service provided by IAEA. United Nations Office at Vienna staff have access to it for a fee. The language training provided to those staff in accordance with General Assembly resolution 52/220 of 22 December 1997 is open, on a fee-paying basis, to the staff of other organizations as well as to dependants of staff and members of permanent missions. Accordingly, there is no service-level agreement with the other organizations covering language training.

29F.6 The activities presented in the present section fall within the framework of programme 24, Management and central support services, of the revised medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005. The specific objectives, expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement relating to specific areas of activity programmed in the context of programme 24 are set out in specific subprogrammes presented under part A, Programme of work. The overall framework of those expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement is shown in table 29F.2.

Table 29F.2 Framework of expected accomplishments and indicators of achievement by component

2. Programme planning, budget and accounts	2	3
3. Human resources management	3	5
4. Support services	4	5
5. Jointly financed security and safety services	1	2
Total	11	16

29F.7 The overall level of resources for the Division of Administrative and Common Services under the regular budget amounts to $26,808,700, before recosting, reflecting an increase of $810,400, or 3.1 per cent, against the revised appropriation for 2002-2003. The resource growth relates largely to increased requirements under posts, reflecting costs of the proposed new and reclassified posts, other staff costs, contractual services and furniture and equipment, offset partly by minor decreases under general operating expenses and the reduction of the contribution of the United Nations Office at Vienna to financing the costs of the common security and safety services.

- 29F.8 In reviewing resource allocations among subprogrammes, priority has been accorded to subprogramme 4, Support services, to enhance the support of information and communication technology through the provision of new posts, to strengthen related contractual services and to acquire and replace office automation equipment. An increase of some $600,000 for those items represents the bulk of the resource growth under this section, enabling the Information Technology Section to cope with an increased workload arising from the transfer of technology support functions from the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime and for support for the Integrated Management Information System (IMIS).
- 29F.9 For the biennium 2004-2005, extrabudgetary resources amount to $3,222,000. Those resources would be derived from programme support income received as reimbursement for the services provided by the Division to the extrabudgetary activities, funds and programmes.
- 29F.10 The percentage distribution of the resources under this section is shown in table 29F.3.

The additional post costs are fully offset by reductions in temporary assistance. The overall reduction of $1.2 million in non-post costs reflects the discontinuation of non-recurrent costs incurred in 2002-2003 for physical security improvements to the premises. The net cost for security and safety attributable to the United Nations amounts to $2,585,000, and is provided for under subprogramme 4.

Table 29F.18 Summary of follow-up action taken to implement relevant recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

Brief description of the recommendation	Action taken to implement the recommendation
Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/56/7)
The Advisory Committee recommended that the following issues be kept under review: (a) a system of advance payments from user organizations towards building management activities to avoid pre-financing of building management activities by UNIDO; and (b) continuous review of the UNIDO Building Management Service functions to identify further possibilities for increased efficiency (para. VIII.111).	Effective 1 January 2002, new arrangements were adopted with regard to the financing of UNIDO Building Management Service activities at the Vienna International Centre. With the establishment by UNIDO of a specific fund for building management activities, all organizations based at the Centre pay the fund quarterly advance instalments of the annual budget of the Building Management Service. The only exception is staff-related costs, which continue to be reimbursed to UNIDO on a post facto basis. With regard to the second issue, the Vienna International Centre working group on Building Management Service activities, comprising chiefs of general service sections of all organizations based at the Centre, regularly reviews the activities of the Building Management Service. This constant monitoring contributes positively to the quality and efficiency of the building management services delivered by UNIDO.
The Advisory Committee recommended that, once an agreement has been reached with the host Government on removal of asbestos from the Vienna International Centre buildings, the results be communicated to the General Assembly through the Advisory Committee (para. VIII.114).	The Government of Austria has accepted responsibility for the removal of asbestos from the Vienna International Centre. In the context of that project, the organizations based at the Centre considered replacing cables and carpets within their respective areas. Negotiations were held with the host Government on its assuming some of these replacement costs, given an expectation that the replacement of cables and carpets would be cheaper than cleaning in the long run. Potential contractors have been requested by the host Government to include three options in their asbestos removal bids: cleaning of carpets and cables; replacement of cables and cleaning of carpets; and cleaning of cables and replacement of carpets. With this arrangement the Vienna International Centre-based organizations and the host Government would be able to estimate

Brief description of the recommendation	Action taken to implement the recommendation
The Advisory Committee recommended that a review be conducted of the implementation of the delegation of authority in personnel actions with a view to streamlining the process (para. VIII.116).	the differences in costs between those options and the share that the host Government could possibly contribute to the cabling and carpeting replacement component of the asbestos removal project. The request for proposals was released in 2002, and the responses of bidders are currently under review.
The Advisory Committee recommended that a better indication of benefits resulting from investments in technology and a clearer indication of increased productivity be reflected in the budget submission for the biennium 2004-2005 (para. VIII.117).	As part of the implementation of the new Galaxy staff selection system, which became effective 1 May 2002, the United Nations Office at Vienna was granted additional delegation of authority by Headquarters for the recruitment, placement and promotion of staff up to the D-1 level, regardless of source of funding. The expected benefit of this increased delegation would be the speedier appointment of staff at the P-5 and D-1 levels. Given the short period of time in which the new arrangements have been functioning, the results will be reported at a later stage.
	The Information Technology Section of the United Nations Office at Vienna is focusing on a service-oriented approach. In this context, the Section has significantly enhanced help desk services and has put an emphasis on the development of workflow applications. The latter investment has clearly paid off with increased productivity. Prior to 2001, five Lotus Notes workflow applications were in existence at the United Nations Office at Vienna; 19 more applications were added in 2001, and 28 were deployed in 2002. The focus has been on the timely deployment of cost-effective applications. The effectiveness of this approach in the workplace is demonstrated by the fact that the Section now receives requests for new applications continuously. It has been able to largely accommodate the increased workload, improve timeliness in the preparation of mandated documentation and streamline the internal administrative processes.
