

General Assembly

Distr.: General
26 November 2004

Original: English

Fifty-ninth session

Agenda item 98

Advancement of womenReport of the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women*Report of the Secretary-General on the financial situation of the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women*Future operations of the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women;
programme budget implications of draft resolution
A/C.3/59/L.26*Report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

1. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered the report of the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women (INSTRAW) (see A/59/560), the report of the Secretary-General on the financial situation of INSTRAW (A/59/433) and the statement submitted by the Secretary-General in accordance with rule 153 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly on the programme budget implications of draft resolution A/C.3/59/L.26, concerning the future operation of INSTRAW (A/C.5/59/16).

Overall situation and future operation of the International Research and Training Institute for the Advancement of Women

2. The report of INSTRAW (A/59/560) is submitted to the General Assembly in accordance with paragraph 7 of its resolution 57/311 of 18 June 2003, in which the Assembly requested the Institute to report to it, one year after the appointment of a Director, on its work programme and on the implementation of the recommendations contained in the report of the Office of Internal Oversight Services. The report of the Secretary-General (A/59/433) is submitted in response to the request of the Fifth Committee (A/58/649, para. 3) that the Secretary-General report to the Assembly at its fifty-ninth session on the overall financial situation of the Institute.

3. The Advisory Committee met with the new Director of INSTRAW in October 2004, close to one year after her appointment on 1 December 2003. It was informed that the new team had analysed the underlying causes of the chronic financial crises faced by the Institute and concluded that one of the factors had been the lack of trust of the donor community. This was further exacerbated by the fact that the post of Director of the Institute had been vacant for a period of two years prior to the appointment of the current incumbent. It was therefore essential to rebuild trust, and the work programme of the Institute had been designed to achieve this goal. The Director indicated that she was confident that trust could be restored.

4. In its strategic framework, INSTRAW has outlined its four main areas of work, namely, research, information and communication, capacity-building and training, and institutional development. In the area of institutional development, INSTRAW intends to develop results-based management processes that optimize the use of resources with transparency and accountability. Other objectives include the development of new initiatives for resource mobilization, exploration of new funding sources, strengthening of the working relationship with the Executive Board and working more closely with partners and stakeholders.

5. As shown in paragraph 8 of document A/59/560, the indicators of achievement in the area of institutional development are: funding from the regular budget for the core operations of INSTRAW (indicator (a) (i)); and an increase in voluntary funding by 50 per cent in 2005 (indicator (a) (ii)). In the opinion of the Advisory Committee, these indicators of achievement raise a number of concerns. The General Assembly, in resolution 58/244 of 23 December 2003, has stressed the critical importance of voluntary financial contributions by Member States to the United Nations Trust Fund for the Institute to enable it to carry out its mandate. The statute of INSTRAW stipulates that the Institute shall be funded by voluntary contributions by States, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, foundations, including the United Nations Foundation, private sources and other sources. With regard to indicator (a) (ii), given that the total extrabudgetary funds raised as at October 2004 amounted to $176,713, an increase of 50 per cent would still fall far short of the current core annual requirement of approximately $1.1 million for the operation of the Institute. The Advisory Committee points out that funding of the core activities of the Institute from the regular budget since 1999 has been an extraordinary, temporary measure, intended to allow the Institute to become financially viable. It has been incumbent upon the Institute to develop a realistic strategy for achieving financial autonomy. In the opinion of the Committee, to continue to provide support on an extraordinary basis is not sound. The Committee urges that consideration be given to a more long-term, viable solution.

6. The proposed budget for 2005 has been presented in three main categories. The first category of substantive strategic areas encompasses activities relating to research, information and communication, and capacity-building and training. The estimated resource requirement for these substantive strategic areas is $693,000, representing 58.5 per cent of the total budget. This amount includes salaries and other staff costs for one P-3, two P-2 and two General Service staff, as well as contractual services, meetings, travel of staff, supplies, materials and consultancies. The second category of the budget concerns institutional development, which includes such activities as oversight, management, leadership and fund-raising. The estimated resource requirements for this area are $237,000, representing 20 per cent of the total budget, including the salary of the Director of the Institute at the D-2 level, official travel, meetings and consultancies. The resource requirements for the third category, concerning administration and support services, amount to $209,000, or 17.5 per cent of the total budget. This includes $138,000 for one P-2 and three General Service staff, as well as $70,700 for general operating expenses. The balance of the provision (4 per cent of the budget) represents the costs of programme support incurred in the implementation of the activities funded from the trust fund.

Programme budget implications of draft resolution A/C.3/59/L.26

7. Draft resolution A/C.3/59/L.26 on the future operation of INSTRAW, by which the General Assembly would decide to provide its full support to the current efforts to revitalize INSTRAW and, in that regard, to ensure that the Institute would be able to continue functioning for a period of at least one year (from 1 January 2005 to 31 December 2005), was adopted by the Third Committee at its 37th meeting, on 4 November 2004. The Advisory Committee notes that a statement of the resulting programme budget implications (A/C.3/59/L.36) was submitted to the Third Committee in connection with its consideration of the draft resolution.

8. The statement of the Secretary-General on the programme budget implications of draft resolution A/C.3/59/L.26 (A/C.5/59/16) indicates that the resource requirements for 2005 are estimated at $1,183,700. The balance of the United Nations Trust Fund for the Institute as at 31 December 2004 is currently projected to be approximately $91,300. Additional pledges of $12,900 to the Trust Fund were made by four countries during the Pledging Conference for Development Activities, held in New York on 11 November 2004. These funds would enable the Institute to continue its operations until January 2005. It is not possible at the present stage to determine whether the Institute would have adequate resources from voluntary contributions to function beyond 31 January 2005. The Secretary-General estimates that, in the event that insufficient voluntary contributions are received prior to 31 January 2005, the continued operation of INSTRAW until 31 December 2005, as called for in the draft resolution, would give rise to additional requirements of $1,092,400 under section 9, Economic and social affairs, of the programme budget for the biennium 2004-2005. The Advisory Committee understands that, should additional voluntary funds become available, they would be used to offset the amount of the regular budgetary requirement.

9. Accordingly, the Advisory Committee recommends that the Fifth Committee inform the General Assembly that, should it adopt draft resolution A/C.3/59/L.26, an additional provision of up to $1,092,400 would arise under section 9, Economic and social affairs, of the programme budget for the biennium 2004-2005. The additional requirements would need to be considered for appropriation in the context of the review of the consolidated statement of programme budget implications and revised estimates, provided for in the procedures established by the Assembly in its resolutions 41/213 of 19 December 1986 and 42/211 of 21 December 1987 for the use and operation of the contingency fund, which is to be undertaken by the General Assembly during the main part of its fifty-ninth session.¹

¹ An amount of $234,700 was set aside in the contingency fund for the biennium 2004-2005 pursuant to the decision of the Fifth Committee (A/58/649, para. 3). This amount remains unutilized.