Appendix

Conclusions of the expert workshop on “International cooperation on counter-terrorism, corruption and the fight against transnational organized crime”

COUNTER- TERRORISM

- A terrorist offence should under no circumstances be considered a political offence;
- For all terrorist offences, the rule aut dedere aut judicare should be mandatory;
- In relation to extradition the anti-discrimination clause should not be confused with a political offence;
- Participating States should, whenever necessary, take the universal instruments against terrorism as a legal basis for extradition, and consider these instruments as bilateral treaties when States require these treaties as a legal basis for extradition;
- If a participating State refuses extradition or mutual legal assistance based on a lack of relevant legislation or the relevant international or a regional treaty in force in cases related to terrorist offences, the UN Security Council resolution 1373 (2001) should be applied, under the principle of reciprocity;
- The concept of double criminality should benefit of a flexible interpretation in order to allow the broadest mutual legal assistance possible, based on corresponding elements identified in a national legislation.
- Law enforcement liaison officers are recognized by the participating States as very efficient channels for the exchange of information. Their status, role and functioning should be regulated by multilateral (bilateral) agreements;

TRANSNATIONAL ORGANIZED CRIME AND CORRUPTION

- In order to detect and suppress transnational organized crime, the participating States, which have not yet done so, are encouraged to adjust their national legislation in order to meet the requirements to conduct joint international investigations in accordance with international conventions and protocols;
- Recall that an organized criminal group does not require defined roles for its members, hierarchy, continuity of its membership or a developed structure;
- In the framework of international cooperation in criminal matters it is recommended that the request should be as comprehensive as possible to comply with the rule of speciality;
- It is recommended that the competent authorities of a country requested for confiscation of assets deriving from the transnational organized crime activities give immediate effect to the foreign confiscation order, to the greatest extent possible within its domestic legal system, including through agreements on the recognition of foreign judicial decisions;
- Bank secrecy shall not be a ground for refusal of mutual legal assistance in criminal matters;
- Properties deriving from proceeds of crime should be liable to confiscation;
- Participating States should extend their jurisdiction on money laundering cases as broadly as possible regardless of the place where the predicate offence has been committed;
- In the case of extradition, the principle aut dedere aut judicare should be fully applied, including in exploring the possibility of surrendering the alleged criminals, upon condition that they will be returned to the country of origin to serve the sentence;
- Participating States should be encouraged to negotiate arrangements to avoid positive or negative conflicts of jurisdiction regarding transnational organized crime cases;

- Participating States recommend a fast, strong and reliable method for the exchange of information to be established, if not yet done so, in the course of detecting and prosecuting organizers and perpetrators of transnational organized crime;
- Participating States are encouraged to improve and promote the protection of victims of trafficking (of persons) and/or smuggling in migrants and to ensure adequate assistance to them, in accordance with the international conventions and protocols;
- Participating States are encouraged to allow their criminal justice systems to admit new methods of evidence necessary to combat transnational organized crime and corruption;
- Participating States are encouraged to promote adequate measures to facilitate the reporting of corruption.
