Report of the Board of Auditors on the implementation of its recommendations relating to the biennium 2004-2005 as at 31 March 2007

Summary

Mandate

The present report, up-to-date as at 31 March 2007, relates to recommendations made by the Board of Auditors in its reports for the biennium 2004-2005 and approved by the General Assembly in paragraph 2 of its resolution 61/233. It reflects the status of recommendations which (a) have been implemented; (b) are under implementation; (c) have not been implemented; or (d) have been overtaken by events.

Scope and methodology

The present report covers 14 organizations on which the Board reports on a biennial basis to the General Assembly. Those activities on which reports of the Board are submitted annually, or are not submitted to the Assembly, are not included. No recommendations were issued in respect of the United Nations Office for Project Services for the biennium 2004-2005 as the submission of its financial statements was delayed and, accordingly, the audit was postponed. Therefore, the present report does not include any statistics on the Office.

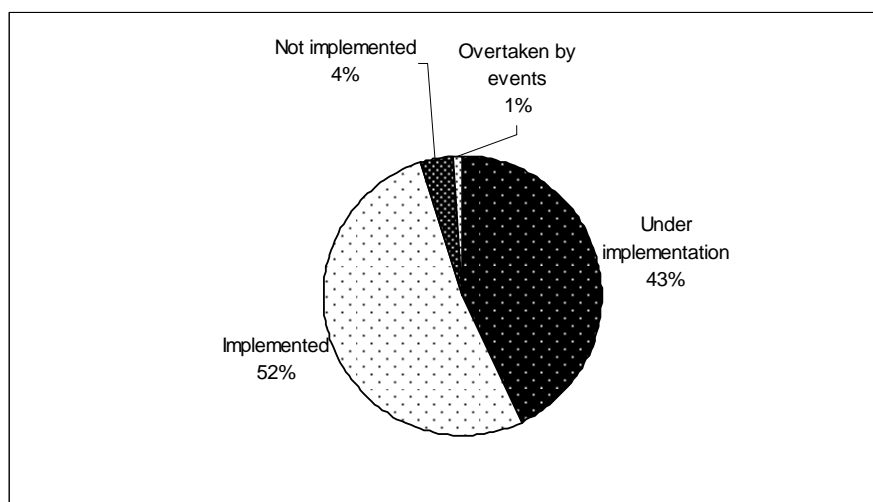

The Board has validated the statistics supplied by the Administrations on the status of implementation of its recommendations in all the cases where such validation was possible based on the Board's audit plans and proved cost-effective. In other cases, the Board has not yet validated the data, which would be validated within the current audit cycle.

Overall observations

The number of recommendations made by the Board increased by 28 per cent over the last biennium. Despite the increase in number, the rate of implementation of the Board's recommendations as at 31 March 2007 has improved compared to the rate as at 31 May 2005.

Overall status of implementation of the recommendations of the Board of Auditors for the biennium 2004-2005 as at 31 March 2007

The reasons for the lack of full implementation of the recommendations varied depending on the organization. However, the Board identified some common elements, as follows:

- The lack of a dedicated follow-up mechanism to focus the attention of senior management on the steps necessary to ensure full implementation of the Board's recommendations, as approved by the General Assembly
- The lack of sufficient inter-agency coordination in the implementation of recommendations that pertained to more than one organization
- The undertaking of medium-term projects in the areas of inter-agency coordination, information and communications technology, human resources management, procurement and treasury management.

The Board has also identified good practices in relation to the implementation and follow-up of its recommendations, which include:

- The identification and monitoring of a list of top priority audit issues (when it did not result in a lack of attention to the Board's other recommendations)
- The validation of management's assessment of the status of implementation of the Board's recommendations by internal auditors
- The identification of causes of recurring audit observations and the development of appropriate action plans to address them.

The Board's mandate, scope and methodology for the present report are set out in the introduction. The Board's overall observations are contained in part II. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations is detailed by entity in part III.

I. Introduction

Mandate

1. In its resolution 52/212 B, the General Assembly emphasized that primary managerial responsibility and accountability for the implementation of the recommendations of the Board of Auditors should remain with department heads and programme managers. In the same resolution, the Assembly endorsed the proposals of the Board (see A/52/753) for improving the implementation of the recommendations approved by the Assembly, subject to the provision contained in the resolution. The Administration has taken steps to address the following:

- (a) Need to specify timetables for the implementation of recommendations;
- (b) Disclosure of the office holders to be held accountable;
- (c) Establishment of an effective mechanism to strengthen oversight in regard to the implementation of audit recommendations. Such a mechanism could be in the form of a special committee comprising senior officials or of a focal point for audit and oversight matters.

2. The present report, up-to-date as at 31 March 2007, relates to recommendations made by the Board in its reports for the biennium 2004-2005. It reflects the status of recommendations which (a) have been implemented; (b) are under implementation; (c) have not been implemented; or (d) have been overtaken by events.

Scope and methodology

3. The present report covers 14 organizations on which the Board reports on a biennial basis. Those activities on which reports of the Board are submitted annually (i.e., United Nations peacekeeping operations, the capital master plan and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees) are not included in the present report but are covered, as before, in an annex to the respective reports of the Board to the General Assembly. Similarly, reports that are not submitted to the Assembly (United Nations escrow (Iraq) accounts, the United Nations Compensation Commission, the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification) are not included in the present report.

4. At the time of preparing the present report, the audit of the United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS) for the biennium 2004-2005 had not been completed, as the submission of financial statements by UNOPS in respect of that biennium was delayed and the previous scheduled audit of UNOPS by the Board had to be suspended. As a result, the status of implementation of recommendations issued in respect of the biennium 2004-2005 could not be included in the report. The audit of UNOPS was completed on 29 June 2007.

5. The Board requested that the 14 organizations covered in the present report provide it with the status of implementation as at 31 March 2007 of the recommendations contained in its reports on the 2004-2005 accounts. Whenever audit teams were already present at headquarters between 31 March 2007 and 31 May 2007 for planning missions or substantive audits, they validated that data. In most other cases, the Board determined that it would not be cost-effective to dedicate specific teams to the review and validation of the data provided. The review would then be undertaken in time for inclusion in the relevant reports to the General Assembly on the 2006-2007 financial statements. In the case of the United Nations, dedicated teams were sent to the New York and Geneva headquarters given the high number of recommendations involved (176).

6. The validation process consisted of a desk review and requests for supporting documents to back up the assessments provided by the Administrations. The Board's work did not involve site visits of field operations. Whenever the evidence provided did not support management's assessment, the Board reflected its own assessment in the validated data contained in the present report. In cases where no teams were scheduled to conduct the review, or where further audit procedures were needed to reach satisfactory conclusions, the data is shown as not validated. Table 1 below reflects the status of the validation process for each entity. In all cases, the status of implementation of some recommendations could not be determined until substantial procedures were performed on the 2006-2007 financial statements.

7. Some Administrations provided the Board with updated statistics on the status of implementation of the Board's recommendations. They were excluded from the present report in view of the lack of opportunity for validation of those updates and the need for timely reporting and consistency.

II. Status of implementation of the recommendations of the Board of Auditors: overall observations

8. The number of recommendations made by the Board has more than tripled over the past four bienniums, and increased by 28 per cent over the last biennium, as shown in table 2. The number of recommendations issued is influenced both by management and audit-related issues. Audit-related issues varied over time. Therefore, that series of statistics is not directly indicative of the quality of the management of the organizations audited.

Total	208	335	509	651<sup>a</sup>	28

<sup>a</sup> The 2004-2005 figures exclude the recommendations made in relation to UNOPS, which were included in data for previous bienniums.

9. Despite the increase in the number of recommendations, the rate of implementation of the Board's recommendations as at 31 March 2007 had improved compared to the situation as at 31 May 2005. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations by individual organization is set out in table 3 and graph 1.

<sup>a</sup> This line shows the status of implementation of the recommendations contained in the Board's reports on the biennium 2002-2003 as at 31 May 2005 (as per A/60/113). It provides an indication of the relative pace of implementation of two different sets of the Board's recommendations, over two successive bienniums.

for the biennium 2004-2005 by entity as at 31 March 2007

10. In paragraph 2 of its resolution 61/233, the General Assembly approved all the recommendations contained in the Board's reports on the 2004-2005 accounts, which are reflected in table 3 above. However, the Board notes that 4 per cent of those recommendations had not been implemented as at 31 March 2007, as indicated in graph 2.

Overall status of implementation of the recommendations of the Board of Auditors for the biennium 2004-2005 as at 31 March 2007

11. The reasons for the lack of full implementation of the recommendations varied depending on the organization. However, the Board identified some common elements:

- The lack of a dedicated follow-up mechanism to focus the attention of senior management on the steps necessary to ensure full implementation of the Board's recommendations, as approved by the General Assembly
- The lack of sufficient inter-agency coordination in the implementation of recommendations that pertained to more than one organization
- The undertaking of medium-term projects in the areas of information and communications technology, human resources management, procurement and treasury management.

12. The Board understands that the relevant projects (human resources reform, treasury information technology and management improvements, implementation of the coherence panel recommendations and the enterprise resource planning project) would take some time to come to fruition. It would keep those matters under review to ensure that the implementation of its recommendations is not unreasonably delayed.

13. The Board has also identified good practices in relation to the implementation and follow-up of its recommendations, which include:

- The identification and monitoring of a list of top priority audit issues (provided it does not result in a lack of attention to other binding recommendations)
- The validation of management's assessment of the status of implementation of the Board's recommendations by internal auditors
- The identification of causes of recurring audit observations and the development of appropriate action plans to address them.

III. Status of implementation of the recommendations of the Board of Auditors detailed by entity

A. United Nations

14. Of the 176 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>1</sup> the United Nations had implemented 79 (45 per cent), while 95 (54 per cent) were under implementation and 2 (1 per cent) had been overtaken by events, as shown in graph 3. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

<sup>1</sup> See Official Records of the General Assembly, Sixty-first Session, Supplement No. 5 (A/61/5), vol. I, chap. II.

15. Four areas showed evidence of a relatively low implementation rate: human resources management; treasury and investment management; inter-agency services; and information and communications technology, as shown in table 4.

16. Most observations in the four areas highlighted above would be influenced by the ongoing reforms in the Secretariat. Information technology and treasury management are of particular concern, as those areas make up half of the 27 recommendations from the Board's report on the biennium 2002-2003 that were still under implementation as at 31 March 2007.

17. The Administration indicated that the recommendation contained in paragraph 778 of the Board's report,<sup>2</sup> to ensure that a formal contract amendment is prepared for review by the local committee on contracts, in relation to security works performed in a special political mission, was overtaken by events. Those works were not compliant with original contract terms owing, inter alia, to an increase in contract price of more than 20 per cent and to changes to the terms of payment and date of completion of the works. As the Administration had not acted in a timely fashion, the works were completed before such an amendment could be negotiated with the contractor. The Board noted that the submission of a formal contract amendment would have ensured that the local committee on contracts was aware of the non-compliance of the works with legislative authority.

18. The Administration stated that primary responsibility for implementing recommendations lay with the programme managers to whom the recommendations were addressed. The Department of Management ensured that the responsibility for implementation of each recommendation would be assigned to a programme manager and that time frames would be set for their implementation. The Secretary-General had entrusted the Management Committee with the overall responsibility for ensuring that programme managers were effectively implementing recommendations in a timely manner. During November and December 2006, the Management Committee reviewed the progress of 18 main recommendations of the Board on the accounts of the United Nations that were more than two years old. Of those, 10 have been verified as implemented by the Board. Quarterly benchmarks have been identified for the recommendations that remained in progress to enable regular monitoring.

B. International Trade Centre UNCTAD/WTO

19. Of the 13 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the International Trade Centre UNCTAD/WTO (ITC) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>3</sup> ITC had implemented 7 (54 per cent), while 4 (31 per cent) were under implementation and 2 (15 per cent) were not implemented. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented in graph 4 and table 5 was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

20. The implementation of some recommendations addressed to the United Nations contained in the Board's report on ITC was contingent upon adequate coordination between the United Nations and ITC. The Centre had understood that it was not in a position to reply to recommendations addressed to the United Nations and failed to indicate their status. At the request of the Board, ITC contacted the concerned sections of the United Nations Secretariat in order to obtain an update on the status of implementation of those recommendations. However, the status of implementation of two recommendations included in the report of the ITC financial statements remained as not implemented, and in one case, no information had been received. The Board noted that even though the recommendations were addressed to the United Nations, it was the responsibility of ITC to inquire about the status of implementation of those recommendations and to report on it to the Board. As no reply had been received from the United Nations, the Board considered that that recommendation had not been implemented and encouraged the United Nations and ITC to improve their cooperation in order to implement all the recommendations included in the Board's report on ITC accounts for the biennium 2004-2005.

C. United Nations University

21. Of the 15 recommendations made by the Board of Auditors with respect to the accounts of the United Nations University (UNU) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>4</sup> UNU had implemented 10 (67 per cent), while 3 (20 per cent) were under implementation and 2 (13 per cent) had not been implemented, as shown in graph 5. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

22. Three areas showed evidence of a relatively low implementation rate: financial overview; presentation and disclosure of the financial statements; and programme management, as shown in table 6.

23. The Board's two recommendations that the Administration consider enhancing the Financial, Budgetary and Personnel Management System (FBPMS) to make it consistent with the financial recording and reporting requirements and that it apportion proper expenses to project costs, were not yet implemented by UNU. The Administration indicated that reprogramming FBPMS would entail costs that might not be affordable for UNU. The Administration also explained that the software used was obsolete and did not qualify for further development. The Administration estimated that FBPMS would support UNU for a maximum of three years and would eventually migrate to another system that included project and personnel management modules.

24. In response to the Board's recommendation that UNU implement a strategy that would enable it to be less dependent on the endowment fund for its sustainability, the Administration was in the process of evaluating ways to increase returns from the investments in the endowment fund and of commissioning an independent asset allocation study, in coordination with the Investment Management Service of the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Fund.

25. The Board recognizes the efforts of UNU in respect of its recommendations on programme and project management that are under implementation. The Administration expressed the view that it could only implement results-based budgeting over time as organizational units became more conversant with the approach and identified more measurable outputs.

D. United Nations Development Programme

26. Of the 115 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>5</sup> UNDP had implemented 78 (68 per cent), while 37 (32 per cent) were under implementation, as shown in graph 6. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

27. Five areas showed evidence of a relatively low implementation rate: programme expenditure; programme and project management; inter-agency coordination; procurement and contract management; and internal oversight, as shown in table 7.

28. UNDP has established a timetable for the implementation of its recommendations. It advised the Board that it had met the milestones as envisaged up to March 2007. Programme expenditure implemented by Governments and non-governmental organizations was a concern in that three of the eight recommendations had not been fully implemented. Management had indicated that key measures would be implemented that included a review of the nationally executed expenditure (NEX) modality audit risk assessment framework, strengthening the oversight and monitoring function at regional bureaux on NEX projects with recurring audit qualifications and exploring policy implications of alternative project arrangement for programme countries with recurring audit concerns.

29. Six of the seven recommendations in respect of programme and project management have not been fully implemented. Management advised that that would be an area for renewed focus in UNDP as it was committed to delivering the results articulated in the strategic plan. The project risk identification was one component of the organization's enterprise risk management strategy and would be integrated into the results planning at all levels of UNDP.

30. In respect of internal oversight, only three of the six recommendations had been fully implemented to 31 March 2007. Management explained that it was making efforts to review the resources situation against the audit risk assessment and expedite the filling of vacancies in the Office of Audit and Performance Review, and performing a headquarters treasury audit during 2007.

31. UNDP indicated to the Board that its recommendation pertaining to the reconciliation of the UNOPS inter-fund account had been implemented. While UNDP and UNOPS had identified and resolved most items, some items amounting to approximately $10 million still required resolution.

32. UNDP management commented that it was on target to implement the remaining audit recommendations by the end of 2007. While many of the recommendations required action from UNDP, a number of them required close collaboration and/or harmonization with other United Nations agencies. Examples included inter-agency account reconciliations, inter-agency coordination with programme countries in the establishment of United Nations Houses and joint offices as well as the coordination of the Indian Ocean tsunami relief efforts.

33. UNDP indicated that as part of implementing the audit recommendations of the Board, the management oversight tool and processes continued to be strengthened. They included: (a) the formalization of the regular review of the "top 15 audit priorities" to ensure management focus across the organization; (b) the continued use of the UNDP audit dashboard to promote transparent reporting of audit implementation status by responsible managers and offices; (c) the establishment of the quality assurance function in the Bureau of Management to identify underlying audit issues and emerging trends; (d) the formalization of the user guide on audit management in UNDP offices; (e) the endorsement of an accountability framework and governance mechanism for audit follow-up in UNDP; and (f) the formalization of periodic country scans to better understand the programmatic, financial, human resources challenges and audit issues at all UNDP country offices.

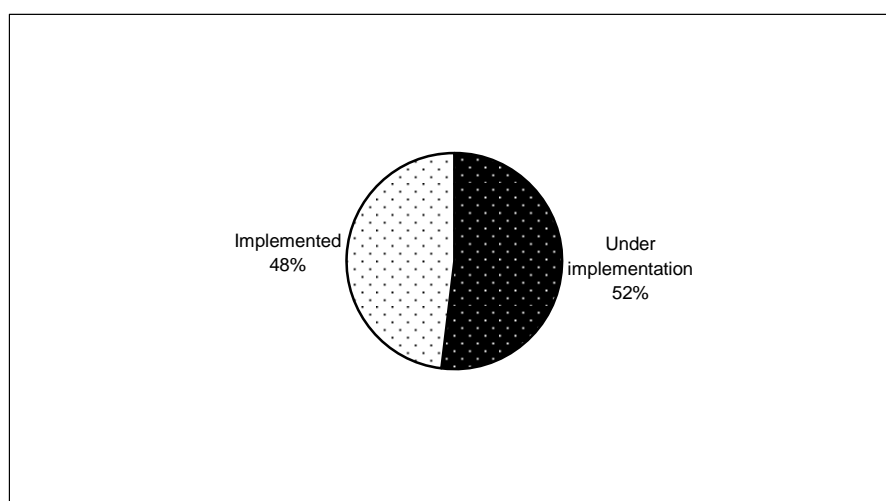

34. UNDP performed an analysis of the underlying causes of recurring audit issues which resulted in the planning and implementation of the following key strategic measures: (a) strengthening internal capacity through staff professionalization programmes; (b) exploring alternative support structures such as the subregional shared service centre; and (c) reviewing NEX practices with the joint NEX task force.

E. United Nations Children's Fund

35. Of the 96 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>6</sup> UNICEF had implemented 46 (48 per cent), while 50 (52 per cent) were under implementation, as shown in graph 7. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was supplied by the Administration and validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

36. Six areas showed evidence of a relatively low implementation rate: financial overview; management of the Private Sector Division; Office of Emergency Programmes; Supply Division; Indian Ocean tsunami; and information technology, as shown in table 8.

37. As part of addressing the Board's concern about the need for UNICEF fund-raising activity to deal with the challenge of increasing regular resources in proportion to total income, the Administration stressed the strategic importance of regular resources to its donors through the multi-year funding framework, participation in two annual pledging events (United Nations and UNICEF) and advocacy, and by illustrating results-based actions at all levels using regular resources.

38. In respect of management of the Private Sector Division, the Administration stated that it had ensured compliance with the requirements cited in the cooperation agreements with National Committees, such as (a) development of the financial reporting annex to be attached to the Cooperation Agreement with National Committees and (b) work with the National Committees on the appropriate disclosure of the total support costs of raising funds and implementing programmes. The Administration has also completed its study of the options for harmonizing the accounting treatment of private sector fund-raising proceeds and will consider the results/recommendations of the study in conjunction with the organizational review and the implementation of International Public Sector Accounting Standards.

39. In addressing the Board's observation on the emergency procurement of the Supply Division, UNICEF indicated that it would be establishing quality standards for the supply and logistics components of emergency preparedness and response plans, in conjunction with the review of the procurement strategy for emergencies.

40. UNICEF, in response to the tsunami, had (a) worked towards the approval of country programme workplans with the Governments of the tsunami-affected countries on the utilization of funds received in excess of initial requirements, (b) ensured that emergency funding would be allocated in accordance with appeals made or identified needs, (c) sought explicit donor approval to extend or modify the geographic or thematic reach of funds it was entrusted with, and (d) worked with the United Nations Development Group ExCom agencies to assess the financial and administrative capacity of its implementing partners.

41. UNICEF explained that it had continued to address issues on information and communications technology. It had established a global security operation centre to manage global logical controls and was developing automated alerts and statistics on the use of information technology resources. UNICEF also performed regular vulnerability assessments of firewalls within the evolving framework of the information technology security environment and budget availability.

F. United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East

42. Of the 34 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>7</sup> UNRWA had implemented 9 (26 per cent), while 17 (50 per cent) were under implementation, 7 (21 per cent) had not been implemented and 1 (3 per cent) had been overtaken by events, as shown in graph 8. Those statistics were supplied by the internal oversight services of UNRWA, based on their tracking of the implementation of recommendations. They were verified by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

44. The Board noted the low implementation rate of its recommendations of 26 per cent. Some of the recommendations were multi-year and required sustained effort in order to be fully implemented.

45. Information technology and human resources management made up half of the 34 recommendations, and 6 of the 17 recommendations had not been implemented. Management indicated that UNRWA had not finalized the information security policy and implementation plan to strengthen information and communications technology capacity.

46. Management commented that the three-year organization development internal management reform plan incorporated a human resources management strategy that had been developed through internal consultations and with the assistance of an external expert. The strategy focused on the key areas of staffing (retention, recruitment, succession and separation), training and development, performance management, compensation management, human resources delivery and gender equality.

47. As previously reported, UNRWA did not have policies/directives/guidelines to implement and sustain results-based management. Management has indicated that the establishment of results-based management was foreseen in its three-year organization development management reform plan.

48. Management commented that UNRWA remained determined to implement all outstanding recommendations as quickly as possible. The outstanding matters were linked to the Agency's organizational development process and depended on the availability of additional funding.

G. United Nations Institute for Training and Research

49. Of the 21 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>8</sup> UNITAR had implemented 1 (5 per cent), while 5 (24 per cent) were under implementation and 15 (71 per cent) had not been implemented, as shown in graph 9. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

Most areas showed evidence of a low implementation rate, including the programme of correspondence instruction, programme management, information and communications technology and fraud prevention and management, as shown in table 10.

50. The Board was concerned that the Administration had not implemented its recommendation in four areas, as shown in table 10. The Board noted, however, that the Administration had indicated the creation of committees and assignment of staff to address 12 of the 15 recommendations not implemented. As regards the remaining three unimplemented recommendations, the Administration was not able to provide to the Board the required revised agreements with the UNITAR programme of correspondence institution, new rules of admission to its core training programme and fund-raising strategy.

H. United Nations Environment Programme

51. Of the 26 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>9</sup> UNEP had implemented 20 (77 per cent), while 6 (23 per cent) were under implementation, as shown in graph 10. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was not validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

I. United Nations Population Fund

52. Of the 42 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>10</sup> UNFPA had implemented 21 (50 per cent), while 21 (50 per cent) were under implementation, as shown in graph 11. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was not validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

54. In the areas of procurement and contract management, as well as human resources management, 11 of 18 recommendations were under implementation. The policy for the receipt of gifts by Procurement Services Section staff was not in accordance with the United Nations policy. UNFPA commented that a suitable amendment would be made in the next regular update in summer 2007. The purchase orders for many low value purchases were not recorded on Atlas in a timely manner. Management has indicated that UNFPA was developing a query that would quantify the extent of the problem. UNFPA was monitoring compliance with the submission of procurement plans by the country office and implementation of the recommendation through the Post-Establishment Committee.

55. The inter-fund account with UNDP was not fully reconciled. Management explained that UNDP was reconciling that discrepancy. The reconciliation of education grants was not fully transferred to Atlas, and management indicated that efforts were ongoing to resolve system interface problems between IMIS and Atlas.

56. Management has indicated that in respect of the Division of Oversight Services, UNFPA planned to increase the capacity to meet requirements for reviewing financial data.

J. United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat)

57. Of the 18 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat) for the biennium 2004-2005, UN-Habitat had implemented 14 (78 per cent), while 3 (17 per cent) were under implementation and 1 (5 per cent) had not been implemented, as shown in graph 12. The status of implementation of the Board's recommendations presented below was not validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

58. In paragraph 25 of its report (A/61/5/Add.8, chap. II), the Board recommended that the Administration conduct an inventory of expendable items as at the end of the biennium and account for as well as disclose them pursuant to paragraph 49 (iv) of the United Nations system accounting standards. The Administration indicated that paragraph 49 of the accounting standards on disclosure of assets, other than non-expendable property, did not apply. The Board deemed that that interpretation was contradicted by paragraph 49 (iv), according to which assets to be disclosed included “other assets, including, inter alia, inventories (other than non-expendable equipment, furniture and motor vehicles) and deferred charges”. Therefore, the Board was of the view that that recommendation was not implemented.

K. United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime

59. Of the 30 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime for the biennium 2004-2005, the Office had implemented 19 (63 per cent), while 10 (33 per cent) were under implementation and 1 (4 per cent) had not been implemented, as shown in graph 13. The status of implementation of the Board’s recommendations presented below was validated by the Board, as explained in the scope and methodology section of the introduction to the present report.

60. In paragraph 66 of its report (A/61/5/Add.9, chap. II), the Board recommended that external auditors of nationally executed expenditures refer explicitly to United Nations accounting standards to ensure that audited expenditures include disbursements and unliquidated obligations. The Administration replied that expenditures on nationally executed projects were recorded on a cash basis as per UNDP procedures. Therefore, audits of NEX projects would continue to be based on the disbursements reported in the combined delivery reports for those projects.

61. The Board would keep the matter under review in the current audit cycle.

Of the 33 recommendations made by the Board with respect to the accounts of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda for the biennium 2004-2005,<sup>11</sup> the Tribunal had implemented 25 (76 per cent), while 8 (24 per cent) were under implementation, as shown in graph 14. 64. The Tribunal indicated that the recommendations in respect of human resources management that were under implementation were (a) use of general temporary assistance, (b) vacancy rates, (c) education grants, (d) home leave and (e) performance appraisal. The Tribunal had initiated steps such as establishing a general temporary assistance committee to evaluate the use and engagement of staff on general temporary assistance, making efforts to reduce the vacancy rates, updating education grant information in the Field Personnel Management System, completing documentation for home leave claims and conducting e-PAS training.

65. The Tribunal indicated that it was in the process of implementing the results-based budgeting mechanism, but that full implementation would require more resources and proper training.

68. As regards the Board's recommendations on human resources management, the Tribunal would continue its effort to recruit and promote women Tribunal posts and to ensure equitable representation of Member States.

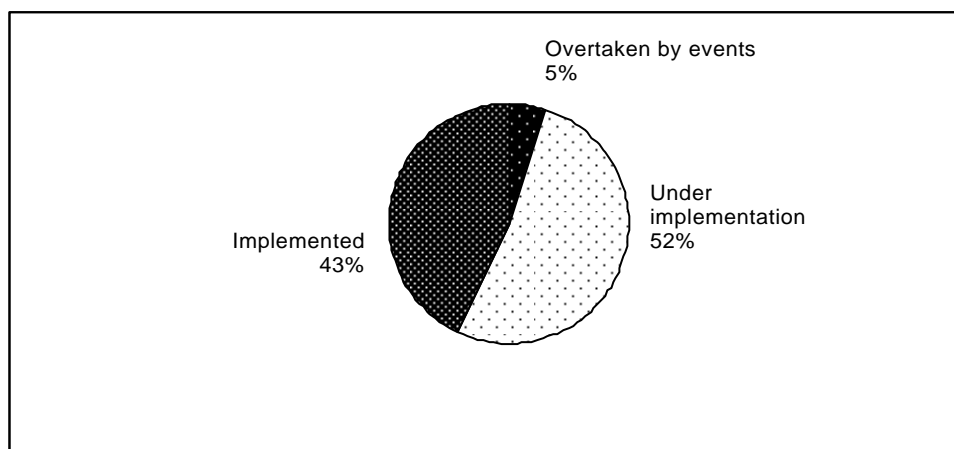

69. As to the Board's concern about the Tribunal's effective capacity to cover its liabilities for end-of-service and post-retirement benefits, the Tribunal had proposed funding for after-service health insurance benefits, which was under consideration by the Fifth Committee of the General Assembly (see A/61/730). It was also in the process of finalizing a document covering all legacy issues. The legacy policy paper was discussed by a Security Council working group with both Tribunals (the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia and the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda). Related financial implications were to be submitted to the Assembly at its fall 2007 session.

72. Investment management and fund administration were of particular concern, as those areas made up 14 of the 21 recommendations from the Board's report on the biennium 2004-2005 and 9 of the 11 recommendations that were under implementation.

73. The Investment Management Service commented that a detailed asset-liability management study was under way. The final report would be presented to the Board of the Fund in July 2007. Furthermore, the Service was in the process of acquiring a new trade order management system.
