I. Introduction

1. The budget for the maintenance of the United Nations Organization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) for the period from 1 July 2006 to 30 June 2007 (see A/60/840) amounted to $1,097,294,400 gross ($1,078,068,000 net). It provided for 760 military observers, 16,115 military contingent personnel, 1,141 United Nations police, including 750 in formed units, 1,122 international staff, 2,189 national staff and 604 United Nations Volunteers, including temporary positions. The budget provided for the retention for the 10-month period from 1 July 2006 to 30 April 2007 of 26 general temporary assistance positions and 28 United Nations Volunteers to support the preparations for local elections after the completion of presidential and legislative elections. The budget did not provide for the temporary redeployment of one infantry battalion, a military hospital and up to 50 military observers from the United Nations Operation in Burundi (ONUB) to MONUC, as authorized by the Security Council in its resolution 1669 (2006).

2. Based on the recommendation of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions in paragraph 60 of its report on the financing of MONUC (A/60/888), the General Assembly, by its resolution 60/121 B, appropriated the amount of $1,091,242,800 gross ($1,072,482,800 net) for the maintenance of the Mission for the period from 1 July 2006 to 30 June 2007. The total amount has been assessed on Member States.

II. Mandate performance

3. The mandate of the Mission was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1291 (2000) and extended in subsequent resolutions of the Council. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 1711 (2006), 1736 (2006), 1742 (2007), 1751 (2007) and 1756 (2007).

4. By its resolution 1692 (2006), the Security Council decided to extend until 30 September 2006 the authorization, contained in paragraph 1 of its resolution 1669 (2006), for the Secretary-General to redeploy temporarily a maximum of one infantry battalion, a military hospital and 50 military observers from ONUB to MONUC. The temporary redeployment of military personnel from ONUB to MONUC was subsequently extended by the Council in its resolutions 1711 (2006) and 1736 (2006). By its resolution 1742 (2007), the Council decided to extend the mandate and personnel strength of MONUC, as set out in previous relevant resolutions, until 15 April 2007. By its resolution 1756 (2007), the Council extended the deployment of MONUC until 31 December 2007 and authorized the continuation until that date of up to 17,030 military personnel, 760 military observers, 391 police trainers and 750 personnel of formed police units.

5. The Mission is mandated to help the Security Council achieve an overall objective, namely, to maintain international peace and security in the region.

6. Within this overall objective, the Mission has, during the reporting period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below for the peace and security, transitional process, humanitarian assistance and human rights, and support components.

7. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based budgeting frameworks set out in the 2006/07 budget. In particular, the performance report compares the actual indicators of achievement, that is, the extent to which progress has been made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement, and the actually completed outputs with the planned outputs.

B. Monthly expenditure pattern

8. Higher expenditures in July and August 2006 are attributable mainly to obligations for operational costs and the reimbursement of troop-contributing countries for troops and formed police costs, contingent-owned equipment and the self-sustainment of military contingents and formed police personnel in October and November 2006 and January 2007.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

	Variance
Military observers	($495.5)	(1.1%)

9. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to the lower delayed deployment rate of 4.1 per cent, compared to the budgeted delayed deployment factor of 5 per cent, as well as the higher number of rotation trips taken.

	Variance
Military contingents	$22,837.1	6.0%

10. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for the reimbursement of troop-contributing countries for contingent-owned equipment. The unspent balance also resulted from reduced requirements for fresh rations, as well as to fewer than planned rotations of military contingents, lower actual costs of rotations conducted under letter-of-assist arrangements (compared to commercial arrangements) and the combined rotation of contingents from countries in the same region.

	Variance
United Nations police	$2,959.1	14.0%

11. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to the actual delayed deployment rate of 17.9 per cent, compared to the budgeted delayed deployment factor of 10 per cent, as well as to the extension of the tours of duty of 178 United Nations police officers during the post-electoral period, which resulted in fewer rotations.

	Variance
Formed police units	$1,001.8	5.5%

12. The unspent balance was attributable mainly to reduced requirements for the reimbursement of formed police-contributing countries for major equipment. The unspent balance also resulted from fewer service-incurred incidents of death, injury or illness of formed police personnel. The unutilized balance was partly offset by higher actual rotation costs of two formed police units.

	Variance
International staff	($6,688.6)	(4.8%)

13. Additional requirements resulted mainly from a lower average vacancy rate of 15.3 per cent compared to the budgeted vacancy factor of 18 per cent higher travel costs for staff on initial appointment and an increase in the hazardous duty station allowance from $1,000 to $1,300 per person per month effective 1 January 2007. The additional requirements were also attributable to the fact that mission subsistence allowance and hazardous duty station allowance for international staff funded under general temporary assistance were inadvertently charged under the international staff class of expenditure.

	Variance
National staff	$1,277.8	4.3%

14. The unspent balance was attributable mainly to the higher average vacancy rate of 7.3 per cent compared to the budgeted vacancy factor of 5 per cent. The reduced requirements were partly offset by the inadvertent recording of hazardous duty station allowance for national staff funded under general temporary assistance under the national staff class of expenditure. The unutilized balance was also partly offset by increased requirements for national staff salaries owing to a revision of the national salary scale effective 1 October 2006 and the consequential increase in the hazardous duty station allowance rate.

	Variance
United Nations Volunteers	($8,504.1)	(43.2%)

15. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to higher actual expenditures owing to the deployment of additional United Nations Volunteers during the period to support preparations for local elections. While the 2006/07 budget was based on the approved strength of 567 Volunteers, 132 additional Volunteers were deployed for varying intervals during the period. Consequently, the actual average number of Volunteers during the reporting period was 624, compared with the 667 approved, which resulted in an actual vacancy rate of 6.4 per cent compared to the budgeted vacancy factor of 10 per cent.

	Variance
General temporary assistance	($5,093.5)	(174.8%)

16. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to the deployment of additional international and national temporary staff to support the presidential and legislative elections that were held in July and October 2006. The approved 2006/07 budget was based on 16 international and 24 national posts funded under general temporary assistance, including 7 international and 19 national temporary posts for the period from 1 July 2006 to 30 April 2007 to support the elections. In view of the delay in the conduct of presidential and legislative elections, additional temporary staff (66 international and 255 national) were deployed for varying periods to support the elections. The additional requirements were partly offset by expenditures on mission subsistence allowance and hazardous duty station allowance for international and national staff positions funded under general temporary assistance, which were inadvertently charged under the international and national staff classes of expenditure.

	Variance
Consultants	($582.1)	(183.5%)

17. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to the expenditures related to the engagement of consultants to support preparations for the local elections, to draft the security sector reform strategy and to review and analyse the proposals of potential contractors for new fuel and airfield services contracts. The additional requirements were offset in part by reduced expenditures related to training consultants because some of the training programmes requiring external consultants were cancelled owing to the fragile security situation and the difficulty of the Mission in releasing staff for training during peak workload periods related to the preparation and conduct of elections, and because some in-house expertise was available to conduct training programmes.

	Variance
Official travel	($3,214.7)	(79.2%)

18. Additional requirements resulted from increased within-mission travel related to logistical, substantive and administrative support for the presidential and legislative elections. The additional requirements were partly offset by lower actual expenditures on training-related travel owing to the difficulty of the Mission in releasing staff for training during peak workload periods related to the preparation and conduct of elections.

	Variance
Facilities and infrastructure	($1,839.4)	(2.0%)

19. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to the acquisition of firefighting equipment and the unplanned acquisition of office furniture for additional staff deployed in support of the preparation and conduct of presidential and legislative elections. In addition, the variance was attributable to additional requirements related to residential security measures for United Nations Volunteers, military observers and United Nations police officers. Furthermore, the increased requirements resulted from higher unit costs for security and safety equipment, freight costs for the delivery of prefabricated facilities and the acquisition of fuel tanks for new locations to replace tanks that were previously provided by suppliers.

	Variance
Ground transportation	($1,387.7)	(8.1%)

20. Additional requirements were due to the increase in the price of diesel fuel ($0.99 per litre compared to the budgeted $0.91 per litre), higher actual freight costs for the acquisition of vehicles and the acquisition of two heavy buses. The additional requirements were partly offset by reduced requirements for liability insurance premiums.

	Variance
Air transportation	$5,299.5	2.2%

21. The unutilized balance was attributable mainly to delays in the establishment of new commercial airfield services contracts owing to delays in the procurement process. Delays in the acquisition of the airborne surveillance system owing to the unavailability of suitable vendors and the lower consumption of fuel for fixed-wing aircraft owing to fewer flight hours also contributed to the unspent amount. The unspent balance was partly offset by additional requirements for the rental of 25 helicopters to support the presidential and legislative elections.

	Variance
Naval transportation	$705.1	25.8%

22. The unutilized balance was attributable mainly to the replacement of some riverine cargo moving services by more cost-effective freight-forwarding services, resulting in a reduced number of rented pushers, barges and speedboats and reduced requirements for fuel.

	Variance
Information technology	$572.0	7.6%

23. The unspent balance was attributable mainly to reduced requirements for spare parts for laptop computers and other information technology equipment, as spare parts were provided by the vendors under warranty clauses in the contracts, as well as to reduced requirements for spare parts resulting from the smaller number of existing printers and digital scanners.

	Variance
Medical	$594.6	3.9%

24. The unutilized balance resulted mainly from fewer hospitalizations and lower actual medical treatment costs, as well as the availability of medical supplies in stock.

	Variance
Special equipment	$1,713.2	23.8%

25. The unutilized balance resulted mainly from reduced requirements for reimbursements to troop-contributing countries for self-sustainment.

	Variance
Other supplies, services and equipment	($3,119.9)	(26.7%)

26. Additional requirements were attributable mainly to the utilization of a freight-forwarding contractor in order to reduce reliance on air assets for cargo movement and the engagement of individual contractors to carry out required tasks until additional staff were recruited. In addition, the recording in the Mission account of losses on exchange resulting from fluctuations during the reporting period of the value of convertible currencies compared to the United Nations operational rates of exchange and an increase in charges levied by local banks for the transportation of cash to additional locations also contributed to the additional requirements.

V. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

27. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of MONUC are:

(a) To decide on the treatment of the unencumbered balance of $6,114,900 with respect to the period from 1 July 2006 to 30 June 2007;

(b) To decide on the treatment of other income/adjustments for the period ended 30 June 2007 amounting to $55,462,400 from interest income ($11,759,200), other/miscellaneous income ($2,195,700) and savings on or cancellation of prior-period obligations ($41,508,700), offset by prior-period adjustments ($1,200).
