Review of the problem of human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (HIV/AIDS) in all its aspects

Programme budget implications of draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1

Statement submitted by the Secretary-General in accordance with rule 153 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly

Summary

In draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1, the General Assembly would decide to convene a special session of the General Assembly for a duration of three days, to review and address the problem of human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (HIV/AIDS) in all its aspects and to coordinate and intensify international efforts to combat it, as soon as possible, preferably in May 2001 but not later than the end of its fifty-sixth regular session.

Should the General Assembly adopt the draft resolution, the estimated costs for convening the special session would amount to $1,628,900. This requirement would be subject to established procedures for the utilization of the contingency fund in accordance with General Assembly resolution 41/213.

Pursuant to operative paragraph 3 of the draft resolution, the General Assembly would decide that the exact date of the special session, as well as the modalities, participation in and organization of the preparatory process and the special session, should be finalized, at the earliest opportunity, at its fifty-fifth session. Once these modalities have been finalized and should they require resources, the Secretary-General would revert to this issue.

I. Draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1

Statement of programme budget implications

1. By operative paragraphs 1 and 3 of draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1, the General Assembly would:

(a) Decide to convene a special session of the General Assembly, for a duration of three days, to review and address the problem of HIV/AIDS in all its aspects and to coordinate and intensify international efforts to combat it, as soon as possible, preferably in May 2001, but not later than the end of its fifty-sixth session;

(b) Also decide that the exact date of the special session, as well as the modalities, participation in and organization of the preparatory process and the special session, should be finalized, at the earliest opportunity, at its fifty-fifth session.

II. Estimated additional requirements

2. The secretariat of the Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) would act as the secretariat of the special session of the General Assembly on HIV/AIDS with substantive support from organizations within the United Nations system, including the United Nations Secretariat and its funds and programmes. The secretariat of the special session would take the necessary steps for the organization of the preparatory process and the special session and the preparation of the modalities of the preparatory process, which should be finalized as requested by the Assembly in operative paragraph 3 of the draft resolution, at the earliest opportunity for submission to the Assembly at its fifty-fifth session. Once these modalities have been finalized, and should they require resources, the Secretary-General would revert to this issue.

3. In order for the secretariat of the special session to provide substantive services to the special session of the General Assembly on HIV/AIDS, the UNAIDS secretariat offices in New York and Geneva would need to be strengthened. The UNAIDS secretariat in New York would have major responsibilities for backstopping the processes of the special session, and for coordinating with the United Nations Secretariat and the UNAIDS co-sponsor, which are based in New York. The Geneva office would oversee substantive preparations, ensuring inputs from the country and regional levels. A major task would be the preparation of a background document for the special session. The report would include an overall assessment of progress to date in the global effort to combat HIV/AIDS, an analysis of major gaps and constraints, an overview of remaining challenges, lessons learned and best practices, as well as the formulation of recommendations for the future.

4. To carry its task, the UNAIDS secretariat, acting as the secretariat of the special session of the General Assembly on HIV/AIDS, would need to be supplemented by general temporary assistance ($538,400) and other related costs ($95,400). Details of the requirements are contained in annex I.

5. The convening of a special session of the General Assembly would require the servicing of the United Nations. Public information programme and activities would likewise be undertaken by the United Nations. On this basis, the estimated expenditures are contained in the following paragraphs.

6. Conference servicing costs, estimated on a full-cost basis for the special session, would amount to $542,400. Subject to the decision which the Assembly may yet wish to take regarding the structure of the special session, these costs are based on assumptions indicated below, the details of which are contained in annex II.

(a) The special session would be held in New York for three days in May 2001, meeting in plenary and a Committee of the Whole;

(b) There would be two simultaneous meetings per day, with provisions for evening meetings, as required;

(c) Interpretation and documentation would be provided in all six languages of the General Assembly;

(d) Pre-session documentation would consist of four documents for a total of 120 pages; in-session documentation would consist of six documents for a total of 100 pages, and post-session documentation would consist of one document for a total of 60 pages;

(e) In accordance with establishment entitlements, as contained in General Assembly resolution 49/221, verbatim records would be provided for the nine meetings of plenary in all six languages of the General Assembly.

7. The public information programme and coverage for the special session, details of which are contained in annex III, are estimated at $585,200 consisting of coverage of the special session itself ($198,000) and promotional activities and products for the special session ($387,200).

8. The requirements for central support services to the special session are estimated at $253,700, inclusive of security and safety services. Details of these requirements are contained in annex IV.

9. Protocol services, the details of which are contained in annex V, are estimated at $20,200.

10. In accordance with General Assembly resolutions 1798 (XVII) of 11 December 1962 and of 41/213 of 19 December 1986, travel but not subsistence would be paid by the Organization to one representative or alternate representative of countries which are least developed to attend a special or a special emergency session of the General Assembly. Based on the pattern of expenditures for other similar sessions of the General Assembly, the costs are estimated at $136,000.

11. The estimates indicated above are subject to decisions which the General Assembly has yet to take regarding the exact date of the special session, as well as the modalities, participation in and organization of the preparatory process. These estimates may thus need to be revised in the light of actions still to be taken by the Assembly.

III. Contingency fund

12. It will be recalled that, under the procedures established by the General Assembly in its resolutions 41/213 of 19 December 1986 and 42/211 of 21 December 1987, a contingency fund is established for each biennium to accommodate additional expenditures derived from legislative mandates not provided for in the proposed programme budget. Under this procedure, if additional expenditures are proposed that exceed the resources available from the contingency fund, the activities concerned can be implemented only through redeployment of resources from low-priority areas or modification of existing activities. Otherwise, such additional activities will have to be deferred to a later biennium.

13. No provisions have been made in the programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001 for activities called for by draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1. Therefore, should the General Assembly adopt the draft resolution, additional expenditures would arise in respect of the strengthening of the UNAIDS secretariat, acting as the secretariat of the special session ($633,800), travel of representatives of Member States which are least developed ($136,000); and requirements for protocol ($20,200), public information ($585,200) and central support services ($253,700).

14. In connection with conference servicing requirements, the extent to which the Organization's permanent capacity would need to be supplemented by temporary assistance resources can be determined only in the light of the calendar of conferences for 2000-2001. However, provisions are made under section 2 of the proposed programme budget for 2000-2001, not only for meetings programmed at the time of the budget preparation but also for meetings that would be authorized subsequently, provided that the number and distribution of meetings and conferences are consistent with the pattern of meetings in past years.

IV. Action required from the General Assembly

15. Should the General Assembly adopt draft resolution A/54/L.88/Rev.1, provisions of $1,628,900 would be required over and above the resources in the programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001 as follows: $790,000 under section 1, overall policy-making, direction and coordination; $585,200 under section 26, public information; and $253,700 under section 27, management and central support services.

16. Pursuant to operative paragraph 3 of the draft resolution, the General Assembly would decide that the exact date of the special session, as well as the modalities, participation in and organization of the preparatory process and the special session, should be finalized, at the earliest opportunity, at its fifty-fifth session. Once the exact date, the modalities, participation in and organization of the preparatory process have been finalized, and should they require resources, the Secretary-General would revert to this issue.
