I. Introduction

1. The General Assembly, in its resolution 54/110 of 9 December 1999, inter alia, decided that the Ad Hoc Committee established by resolution 51/210 of 17 December 1996 should meet from 14 to 18 February 2000, devoting appropriate time to the consideration of the outstanding issues relating to the elaboration of a draft international convention for the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism, and that it should address the question of convening a high-level conference under the auspices of the United Nations to formulate a joint organized response of the international community to terrorism in all its forms and manifestations. It further decided that the work should continue, including beginning consideration with a view to the elaboration of a comprehensive convention on international terrorism within a comprehensive legal framework of conventions dealing with international terrorism, during the fifty-fifth session of the General Assembly from 25 September to 6 October 2000, within the framework of a working group of the Sixth Committee.
2. Accordingly, the Sixth Committee, at its 2nd meeting, on 25 September 2000, established such a Working Group and elected Mr. Rohan Perera (Sri Lanka) as its Chairman.
3. The Sixth Committee also decided, at its 2nd meeting, to open the Working Group to all States Members of the United Nations or members of the specialized agencies or of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA). At its 1st meeting, on 25 September 2000, the Working Group decided to invite the representative of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) to participate in its discussions as an observer. At its 5th meeting, on 27 September 2000, the Working Group extended a similar invitation to the representatives of the Commonwealth Secretariat, the European Union (EU), the League of Arab States and the Organization of African Unity (OAU).
4. The Working Group held nine meetings, from 25 September to 6 October 2000.
5. The Working Group had before it the report of the Working Group of the Sixth Committee (A/C.6/53/L.4) containing a revised text of the draft convention on the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism prepared by the Friends of the Chairman (ibid., annex I); the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on the work of its fourth session;<sup>1</sup> as well as the working document submitted by India entitled "Draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism" (A/C.6/55/1).
6. The Working Group also had before it oral and written proposals submitted during its meetings. The texts of the written proposals are contained in annex III to the present report.
7. The report was considered and adopted by the Working Group at its 9th meeting, held on 6 October 2000.

II. Proceedings of the Working Group

A. Elaboration of the draft international convention for the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism

8. At its 1st meeting, on 25 September 2000, the Chairman of the Working Group observed that the coordinator for the draft convention, Cate Steains (Australia), had continued to conduct consultations, during the inter-sessional period, on the outstanding issues and that further, broader consultations might be required in the pursuit of a solution that would lead to the adoption of the convention. He also indicated that he would give Ms. Steains the necessary flexibility to continue such consultations during the session of the Working Group. He further pointed out that the completion of the work on the draft convention depended, primarily, on the political will to reach a compromise.

B. Question of convening a high-level conference under the auspices of the United Nations to formulate a joint organized response of the international community to terrorism in all its forms and manifestations

9. At the 1st meeting of the Working Group, the Chairman drew the attention of the delegates to the relevant parts of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee. He informed the meeting that he had not received any additional information on the matter and suggested that it might be useful to continue consultations so that the Working Group might have some concrete suggestions on how to proceed further. He invited all interested delegations to continue their efforts and to approach him with any proposals.

C. Question of the elaboration of a comprehensive convention on international terrorism within a comprehensive legal framework of conventions dealing with international terrorism

10. At the 1st meeting of the Working Group, the delegation of India introduced the working document entitled "Draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism" (A/C.6/55/1), which was a revised version of the text previously presented by India at the fifty-first session of the General Assembly (A/C.6/51/6).

11. The Working Group commenced its work on the elaboration of a comprehensive convention on international terrorism on the basis of the draft submitted by India. Discussions were held both in the Working Group and in informal consultations. The Working Group conducted a first reading of articles 1 to 22 and the preamble. Subsequently, the delegation of India prepared revised texts of articles 1, 3, 6, 8 and 11 (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.8 and 17) and an informal revised text of article 2 (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP. 35). Following the informal consultations, based on the above revised texts and other written and oral submissions, the delegation of India prepared a further revised text of articles 1, 3, 6, 8 and 11 and another informal revised text of article 2, as contained, respectively, in annexes I.A and I.B to the present report.

12. At the 8th meeting of the Working Group, on 5 October 2000, the coordinators of the informal consultations on articles 2, 3 and 6, and 8 and 11 presented oral reports to the Working Group.

13. Annex IV to the present report contains an informal summary of the general discussion in the Working Group prepared by the Chairman for reference purposes only and not as a record of the discussion.

III. Recommendations of the Working Group

14. At its 9th meeting, on 6 October 2000, the Working Group decided to refer the consideration of the present report to the Sixth Committee. The Working Group decided, bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 54/110, to recommend to the Sixth Committee that the work continue on the elaboration of a draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism, building upon the work accomplished during the meetings of the Working Group.

15. Also at its 9th meeting, the Working Group decided to recommend that the coordinator for the draft international convention for the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism should continue consultations on the draft convention and report to the Sixth Committee on those consultations.

Article 12

Any person who is taken into custody or regarding whom any other measures are taken or proceedings are carried out pursuant to this Convention shall be guaranteed fair treatment, including enjoyment of all rights and guarantees in conformity with the law of the State in the territory of which that person is present

States Parties shall afford one another the greatest measure of assistance in connection with investigations or criminal or extradition proceedings brought in respect of the offences set forth in article 2, including assistance in obtaining evidence at their disposal necessary for the proceedings.
2. States Parties shall carry out their obligations under paragraph 1 in conformity with any treaties or other arrangements on mutual legal assistance that may exist between them. In the absence of such treaties or arrangements, States Parties shall afford one another assistance in accordance with their domestic law.
3. States Parties which are not bound by a bilateral treaty or arrangement of mutual legal assistance may, at their discretion, apply the procedure set out in Annex II.

Article 14

None of the offences referred to in article 2 and the acts which constitute an offence within the scope of and as defined in one of the treaties listed in Annex I shall be regarded, for the purposes of extradition or mutual legal assistance, as a political offence or as an offence connected with a political offence or as an offence inspired by political motives. Accordingly, a request for extradition or for mutual legal assistance based on such an offence may not be refused on the sole ground that it concerns a political offence or an offence connected with a political offence or an offence inspired by political motives.

Article 15

Nothing in this Convention shall be interpreted as imposing an obligation to extradite or to afford mutual legal assistance, if the requested State Party has substantial grounds for believing that the request for extradition for offences set forth in Article 2 or for mutual legal assistance with respect to such offences has been made for the purpose of prosecuting or punishing a person on account of that person's race, religion, nationality, ethnic origin or political opinion or that compliance with the request would cause prejudice to that person's position for any of these reasons.

Article 16

1. A person who is being detained or is serving a sentence in the territory of one State Party whose presence in another State Party is requested for purposes of identification, testimony or otherwise providing assistance in obtaining evidence for the investigation or prosecution of offences under this Convention may be transferred if the following conditions are met:

- (a) The person freely gives his or her informed consent; and
  - (b) The competent authorities of both States Parties agree, subject to such conditions as those States Parties may deem appropriate.

  - (b) The State to which the person is transferred shall without delay implement its obligation to return the person to the custody of the State from which the person was transferred as agreed beforehand, or as otherwise agreed, by the competent authorities of both States;
  - (c) The State to which the person is transferred shall not require the State from which the person was transferred to initiate extradition proceedings for the return of the person;
  - (d) The person transferred shall receive credit for service of the sentence being served in the State from which he was transferred for the time spent in the custody of the State to which he was transferred.
3. Unless the State Party from which a person is to be transferred in accordance with this article so agrees, that person, whatever his or her nationality, shall not be prosecuted or detained or subjected to any other restriction of his or her personal liberty in the territory of the State to which that person is transferred in respect of acts or convictions anterior to his or her departure from the territory of the State from which such person was transferred.

Article 17

1. The offences referred to in article 2 shall be deemed to be included as extraditable offences in any extradition treaty existing between any of the States Parties before the entry into force of this Convention. Extradition shall be subject to the other conditions provided by the law of the requested State.

4. If necessary, the offences set forth in article 2 shall be treated, for the purposes of extradition between States Parties, as if they had been committed not only in the place in which they occurred but also in the territory of the States that have established jurisdiction in accordance with article 6, paragraphs 1 and 2.

5. The provisions of all extradition treaties and arrangements between States Parties with regard to offences set forth in article 2 shall be deemed to be modified as between States Parties to the extent that they are incompatible with this Convention.

Article 23

1. Any dispute between two or more States Parties concerning the interpretation or application of this Convention which cannot be settled through negotiation within a reasonable time shall, at the request of one of them, be submitted to arbitration. If, within six months from the date of the request for arbitration, the parties are unable to agree on the organization of the arbitration, any one of those parties may refer the dispute to the International Court of Justice, by application, in conformity with the Statute of the Court.
2. Each State may at the time of signature, ratification, acceptance or approval of this Convention or accession thereto declare that it does not consider itself bound by paragraph 1. The other States Parties shall not be bound by paragraph 1 with respect to any State Party which has made such a reservation.
3. Any State which has made a reservation in accordance with paragraph 2 may at any time withdraw that reservation by notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

5. A State shall not decline to render mutual legal assistance under this Annex on the ground of bank secrecy.
6. The provisions of this Annex shall not affect the obligations under any other treaty, bilateral or multilateral, which governs or will govern, in whole or in part, mutual legal assistance in criminal matters.
7. prejudice to the right of a State to require that such requests and communications be addressed to it through the diplomatic channel and, in urgent circumstances, where the States agree, through channels of the International Criminal Police Organization — Interpol, if possible.

9. Requests shall be made in writing in a language acceptable to the requested State. The language or languages acceptable to each State shall be notified to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. In urgent circumstances, and where agreed by the States Parties, requests may be made orally, but shall be confirmed in writing forthwith.

10. A request for mutual legal assistance shall contain:

- (a) The identity of the authority making the request;
- (b) The subject matter and nature of the investigation, prosecution or proceedings to which the request relates, and the name and the functions of the authority, conducting such investigation, prosecution or proceeding;
- (c) A summary of the relevant facts, except in respect of requests for the purpose of service of judicial documents;
- (d) A description of the assistance sought and details of any particular procedure the requesting party wishes to be followed;
- (e) Where possible, the identity, location and nationality of any person concerned;

11. The requested State may request additional information when it appears necessary for the execution of the request in accordance with its domestic law or when it can facilitate such execution.

12. A request shall be executed in accordance with the domestic law of the requested State and, to the extent not contrary to the domestic law of the requested State and where possible, in accordance with the procedures specified in the request.

13. The requesting State shall not transmit or use information or evidence furnished by the requested State for investigations, prosecutions or proceedings other than those stated in the request without the prior consent of the requested State.

14. The requesting State may require that the requested State keep confidential the fact and substance of the request, except to the extent necessary to execute the request. If the requested State cannot comply with the requirement of confidentiality, it shall promptly inform the requesting State.

15. Mutual legal assistance may be refused:

(d) If it would be contrary to the legal system of the requested State relating to mutual legal assistance for the request to be granted.

16. Any assistance under this Annex may not be refused on the sole ground that it concerns a political offence or an offence connected with a political offence or an offence inspired by political motives.

17. Reasons shall be given for any refusal of mutual legal assistance.

18. The requested State may postpone mutual legal assistance on the ground that it interferes with an ongoing investigation, prosecution or proceeding. In such a case, the requested State shall consult with the requesting State to determine if the assistance can still be given subject to such terms and conditions as the requested State deems necessary.

19. A witness, expert or other person who consents to give evidence in a proceeding or to assist in an investigation, prosecution or judicial proceeding in the territory of the requesting State shall not be prosecuted, detained, punished or subjected to any other restriction of his or her personal liberty in that territory in respect of acts, omissions or convictions prior to his departure from the territory of the requested State. Such safe conduct shall cease when the witness, expert or other person having had, for a period of fifteen consecutive days, or for any period agreed upon by the States Parties from the date on which he or she has been officially informed that his or her presence is no longer required by the judicial authorities, an opportunity of leaving, has nevertheless remained voluntarily in the territory or, having left it, has returned of his or her own free will.

20. The ordinary costs of executing a request shall be borne by the requested State, unless otherwise agreed by the States concerned. If expenses of a substantial or extraordinary nature are or will be required to fulfil the request, the States Parties shall consult to determine the terms and conditions under which the request will be executed as well as the manner in which the costs shall be borne.

21. The States Parties shall consider, as may be necessary, the possibility of concluding bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements that would serve the purposes of, give practical effect to, or enhance the provisions of this Annex.

Annex III<sup>3</sup>

Extradition procedure

1. The offences referred to in article 2 shall be deemed to be included as extraditable offences in any extradition treaty existing between States Parties. The States Parties undertake to include such offences as extraditable offences in every extradition treaty to be concluded between them.

2. The States Parties that do not make extradition conditional on the existence of a treaty shall recognize the offences referred to in article 2 as extraditable offences between themselves subject to the conditions provided for by the law of the requested State.

<sup>3</sup> Reference is made to this Annex in article 17.

3. The offences referred to in article 2 shall be treated, for the purpose of extradition between States Parties, as if they had been committed not only in the place in which they occurred but also in the territories of the requested States Parties.
4. The States Parties may, at their discretion, apply paragraphs 5 to 18 of this Annex to requests for extradition in respect of offences referred to in article 2 if they are not bound by a treaty of extradition. If these States are bound by such a treaty, the corresponding provisions of that treaty shall apply unless the States agree to apply paragraphs 5 to 18 of this Annex in lieu thereof.
5. States Parties shall designate an authority, or when necessary, authorities, which shall have the responsibility and power to execute requests for extradition or to transmit them to the competent authorities for execution. The authority or the authorities designated for this purpose shall be notified to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. Transmission of requests for extradition and any communication related thereto shall be effected between the authorities designated by the States Parties; this requirement shall be without prejudice to the right of a State to require that such requests and communications be addressed to it through diplomatic channels and, in urgent circumstances, where the States Parties agree, through channels of the International Criminal Police Organization — Interpol, if possible.
6. Requests shall be made in writing in a language acceptable to the requested State. In urgent circumstances, and where agreed by the States Parties, requests may be made orally, but shall be confirmed in writing forthwith.
7. A request for extradition shall contain:
  - (a) The identity of the authority making the request;
  - (b) As accurate a description as possible of the person sought, together with any other information which would help to establish the identity, location and nationality of the person concerned;
  - (c) A summary of the facts of the offence for which extradition is requested; and
  - (d) The text, if any, of the law defining that offence and prescribing the maximum punishment for that offence.
8. If the request relates to a person already convicted and sentenced, it shall also be accompanied by:
  - (a) A certificate of the conviction and sentence; and
  - (b) A statement that the person is not entitled to question the conviction and sentence and showing how much of the sentence has not been carried out.
9. If the requested State considers that the evidence produced or information supplied is not sufficient in order to enable a decision to be taken as to the request, additional evidence or information shall be submitted within such time as the requested State may require.
10. A request shall be executed in accordance with the domestic law of the requested State and, to the extent not contrary to the domestic law of the requested State and where possible, in accordance with the procedures specified in the request.

11. The requesting State shall not transmit or use information or evidence furnished by the requested State for investigations, prosecutions or proceedings other than those stated in the request without the prior consent of the requested State.

12. Any person who is returned to the territory of the requesting State under this Convention shall not be dealt with in the territory of the requesting State for or in respect of any offence committed before he was returned to that territory other than the offence in respect of which he was returned, any lesser offence disclosed by the facts proved for the purpose of securing his return other than an offence in relation to which an order for his return could not lawfully be made, or any other offence in respect of which the requested State may consent to his being dealt with.

13. The provisions of paragraph 12 of this Annex shall not apply to offences committed after the return of a person under this Annex or matters arising in relation to such offences, or when the person having had the opportunity to leave the territory of the requesting State has not done so within sixty days of his final discharge, or has returned to that territory after having left it.

14. If extradition of the same person, whether for the same offence or for different offences, is requested by two States Parties, or by a State and a third State with which the requested State has an extradition arrangement, the requested State shall determine to which State the person shall be extradited.

15. When a request for extradition is granted, the requested State shall, upon request and as far as its law allows, hand over to the requesting State articles which may serve as proof for evidence of the offence. If the articles in question are liable to seizure or confiscation in the territory of the requested State, the latter may, in connection with pending proceedings, temporarily retain them or hand them over on condition that they are returned. This provision shall not prejudice the rights of the requested State or any person other than the person sought. When these rights exist, the articles shall on request be returned to the requested State without charge as soon as possible after the end of the proceedings.

16. Reasons shall be given for any refusal of extradition.

17. If criminal proceedings against the person sought are instituted in the territory of the requested State, or the person is lawfully detained in consequence of criminal proceedings, the decision whether or not to extradite the person may be postponed until the criminal proceedings have been completed or he or she is no longer detained.

18. The ordinary costs of executing a request shall be borne by the requested State, unless otherwise agreed by the States Parties concerned. If expenses of a substantial or extraordinary nature are or will be required to fulfil the request, the States Parties shall consult to determine the terms and conditions under which the request will be executed as well as the manner in which the costs shall be borne.

19. The States Parties shall consider, as may be necessary, the possibility of concluding bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements that would serve the purposes of, give practical effect to, or enhance the provisions of this Annex.

3. Each State Party shall likewise take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences referred to in Article 2 in cases where the alleged offender is present in its territory and where it does not extradite such a person to any of the States Parties that have established their jurisdiction in accordance with paragraph 1 or 2.

4. When more than one State Party claims jurisdiction over the offences set forth in Article 2, the relevant States Parties shall strive to coordinate their actions appropriately, in particular concerning the conditions for prosecution and the modalities for mutual legal assistance.

5. Without prejudice to the norms of general international law, this Convention does not exclude any criminal jurisdiction established by a State Party in accordance with its domestic law.

Article 11

1. The State Party in whose territory the alleged offender is present shall, if it does not extradite the person, be obliged, without exception whatsoever and whether or not the offence was committed in its territory, to submit the case, without undue delay, to its competent authorities for the purpose of prosecution through proceedings in accordance with the laws of that State. Those authorities shall take their decision in the same manner as in the case of any ordinary offence of a grave nature under the law of that State.

2. Whenever a State Party is permitted under its domestic law to extradite or otherwise surrender one of its nationals only upon the condition that the person will be returned to that State to serve the sentence imposed as a result of the trial or proceeding for which the extradition or surrender of the person was sought and this State and the State seeking the extradition of the person agree with this option and other terms they may deem appropriate, such a conditional extradition or surrender shall be sufficient to discharge the obligation set forth in paragraph 1.

Annex IV

Informal summary of the general discussion in the Working Group, prepared by the Chairman

1. At its 1st meeting, held on 25 September, the Working Group held an exchange of general views on issues within the mandate of the Ad Hoc Committee, pursuant to paragraphs 12 and 13 of General Assembly resolution 54/110 of 9 December 1999.

2. All delegations stressed their unequivocal condemnation of terrorism in all its forms and manifestations. Some delegations placed particular emphasis on Security Council resolution 1269 (1999). Some noted the special importance attached at the Millennium Summit to the problem of terrorism as a serious threat to international peace and security and to the stability of States. It was also emphasized that terrorism posed a serious threat to human rights, affecting the right to life and other freedoms of the individual. The need to strengthen international cooperation in combating this scourge was highlighted. Such international cooperation should be in conformity with the principles of the Charter of the United Nations, international law and the relevant conventions. Some delegations stressed the need to elaborate the definition of terrorism and underscored the distinction between terrorism and the legitimate struggle for national liberation, self-determination and independence of all peoples under colonial and other forms of alien domination and foreign occupation. It was also highlighted that State terrorism was the most dangerous form of terrorism.

3. The importance of the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism, as effective instruments to counter international terrorism, was emphasized. States were urged to take the appropriate steps with a view to becoming parties to those conventions so as to strengthen the effectiveness of the international legal regime against terrorism. The hope was expressed that both conventions would receive the required number of ratifications and enter into force in the near future.

A. Elaboration of the draft international convention for the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism

4. Support was expressed for the finalization of a consensus text of the draft international convention for the suppression of acts of nuclear terrorism. Several speakers commended the efforts of the coordinator in seeking an acceptable compromise on the remaining issues concerning the scope of the draft convention.

5. Concern was voiced by some delegations, however, about the lack of progress in the finalization of the instrument. The hope was expressed that agreement would be reached by means of a continued exchange of positive and constructive views and that the draft convention would be concluded in the near future so as to supplement the existing conventions. The point was also made that the draft convention should not address issues relating to disarmament that were better dealt with in other forums.

6. Others remained convinced that the specific character of the subject matter of the draft convention did not permit the exclusion of armed forces from its scope and reiterated their position that draft article 4 should be deleted. The view was expressed that the scope of the proposed convention should cover acts of State terrorism. The view was also expressed that the scope should cover the unlawful use of radioactive materials, including the dumping of radioactive wastes, resulting in serious damage to the environment. These delegations reaffirmed their support for the position of the Movement of Non-Aligned Countries on the scope of the draft convention. While stressing their willingness to continue to work with the coordinator of the informal consultations, they stated that the concerns of the States members of the Movement of Non-Aligned Countries on the draft convention, which had been reiterated on many occasions in the past, still remained.

B. Question of convening a high-level conference

7. Some delegations supported the proposal to convene a high-level conference on terrorism to formulate a joint, organized response of the international community to terrorism, characterizing it as a valuable and useful initiative. It was felt that the success of this endeavour depended to some extent on the delineation of the objectives and modalities of the proposed conference.

8. It was also suggested that the conference should elaborate a comprehensive definition of terrorism based on a clear distinction between terrorism and the legitimate struggle of peoples against alien domination and foreign occupation.

C. Elaboration of the draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism

9. At the 1st meeting of the Working Group, held on 25 September 2000, the sponsor delegation, India, introduced the draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism (A/C.6/55/1) and noted that the draft text was based on the initial proposal presented by India to the General Assembly at its fifty-first session in 1996 (A/C.6/51/6), which had subsequently been revised in the light of the adoption of the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism and comments and suggestions received from delegations. Reference was made to several of the key provisions, including articles 2 (scope of the draft convention), 5 (non-justification clause), 6 (jurisdictional clause), 7 (limitation on the granting of asylum), 8 (obligation to cooperate in the prevention of terrorist acts) and 11 (extradite-or-prosecute principle), as well as to the proposed annexes to the draft convention containing, inter alia, optional procedures in relation to extradition and mutual legal assistance. It was observed that the proposed draft convention had received the support of the Movement of Non-Aligned Countries, as well as that of the Group of Eight Ministers for Foreign Affairs, at their meeting held at Miyazaki, Japan, in July 2000.

10. The view was expressed in the Working Group that the draft text before it was a good basis for discussion and that an article-by-article consideration was timely. Furthermore, it was stated that a comprehensive convention would be a valuable contribution to, and a useful tool in, the struggle against terrorism. It was also suggested that the provisions and approach of several anti-terrorism instruments developed at the regional level, aimed at strengthening cooperation among States, should be taken into consideration by the Working Group in finalizing the provisions of the draft convention.

11. A clarification was sought as regards the scope of the draft convention and its relationship to existing treaties regulating aspects of international terrorism. Different views were expressed as to whether the draft should add to the existing sectoral terrorism conventions or whether it should be more of an “umbrella” convention. It was observed that care had to be exercised to ensure that the new convention did not adversely affect the existing legal framework, or separate initiatives being undertaken in related fields. As such, a preference was expressed for a treaty that would close any gaps in the existing legal framework, while preserving past achievements. Others maintained that the comprehensive convention should reinforce, complement and complete the existing legal framework, and therefore would necessarily overlap with existing treaties. It was therefore proposed that a provision should be included in the draft convention clarifying its relationship to existing treaties. The absence of such a provision, it was observed, would create uncertainty as to whether article 30 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties would apply, as there was room for disagreement on whether the draft convention and any of the existing treaties constituted “treaties relating to the same subject matter”.

12. The point was made that the comprehensive approach raised the issue of the definition of terrorism. Failure to address that important issue in the draft comprehensive convention would bring into question the necessity and utility of the exercise. In particular, it was proposed that provision should be made for the recognition of the existence of State terrorism. It was also suggested that the draft comprehensive convention should unequivocally draw a distinction between terrorism and the legitimate struggle of peoples in the exercise of the right to self-determination as well as the right of self-defence against aggression and occupation. The point was also made that the term “terrorism” was inapplicable to the conduct of States, which was governed by other rules, namely those relating to the use of force, for example, Article 2, paragraph 4, and Article 39 of the Charter of the United Nations.

13. The Working Group subsequently undertook, at its 3rd to 7th meetings, held from 26 to 28 September, the first reading of the draft convention (except for the final clauses and article 23 relating to dispute resolution),<sup>1</sup> including the preamble. Further consideration of the draft articles continued in the context of informal consultations on the basis of oral and written submissions (see annex III to the present report).

14. The coordinators of the informal consultations presented oral reports to the Working Group at its 8th meeting, held on 5 October 2000. Concerning the offences provision, that is, article 2, discussion had been undertaken on the basis of a non-paper, dated 2 October 2000, prepared by the sponsor delegation (subsequently issued as A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.35), together with several written proposals (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.4/Rev.1, A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.5, 13, 15, 18, 30 and 32). It was observed that the discussion had focused primarily on paragraph 1, and that the debate had only been preliminary in nature. It was therefore not possible to draw any concrete conclusions. Further reference was made to an oral proposal relating to the issue of the relationship between the draft convention and the previous conventions, which had elicited many comments and which would have to be considered in the context of the relationship issue. It was also reported that views had been divided on the reference to “causes” in the chapeau of paragraph 1, which had replaced the phrase “does an act intended to cause” in the original version. Owing to time constraints a number of issues were not discussed in detail and consideration of article 2 will need to be continued at the next session.

15. Regarding article 3, it was observed that the discussions, which had proceeded on the basis of a revised draft prepared by India (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.8), had focused largely on drafting suggestions to accommodate the concerns of delegations. Reference was made to a subsequent proposal (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.14), which was aimed at addressing those concerns. It was also noted that there was general support for the inclusion of the reference to victims. The key outstanding issue was the cross-references to other articles at the end of the provision, which would have to be further considered once the content of the relevant articles was known.

16. Article 6 was also considered on the basis of the revised proposal of the sponsor delegation (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.8). It was reported that agreement had been reached on the major part of the text. It was further observed that a general preference had been expressed for not including a reference to “habitual residence” in paragraph 1 (c); that, despite some concerns, paragraph 2 (a bis) did not create many problems since it was optional for States; and that general support existed for paragraphs 2 bis, 3, 4 and 5, which were based on existing precedents. The only remaining parts of article 6 to be considered were subparagraphs (b), (c) and (d) of paragraph 2, for which two proposals had been submitted in writing (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.19 and CRP.20). It was suggested that those remaining issues should be considered at the next session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

17. Article 8 had been considered on the basis of a revised text prepared by the sponsor delegation (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.17). As regards paragraph 1, it was reported that various views had been expressed on the new phrase “and areas under their jurisdiction”; that a proposal to delete the words “by whomsoever and in whatever manner” had received support; and that several views had been expressed with regard to subparagraphs (i) and (ii). In connection with paragraph 2, while the revised text had received support, some doubts had been expressed about subparagraph (ii) of paragraph 2 (b) since it seemed to be more suited to the International Convention on the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. With regard to the alternative proposal contained in document A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.12/Rev.1, it was stated that while strong doubts had been expressed in the light of article 20, the proposal had received some support.

18. With regard to article 11, which had been considered on the basis of the revised text prepared by the delegation of India (A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP.8), it was reported that no objections had been raised to the replacement of the original phrase “is found” with “is present”. Support had also been expressed for the new phrase “without undue delay”, although it was queried as being too vague and its legal value questionable. It was further observed that support had been expressed for the inclusion of the phrase “in cases to which article 6 applies” in the first line after the word “shall” or at the beginning of the paragraph. Nevertheless, it was noted that the view had also been expressed that the addition was not appropriate because it omitted cases where article 6 did not apply. Furthermore, general support had been expressed for replacing the words “any ordinary offence” in the last line of paragraph 1 with “any other offence”. Two alternative proposals relating to article 11, contained in documents A/C.6/55/WG.1/CRP. 21 and 24, had also been considered. However, while many views had been expressed, only a preliminary debate had been possible, and it was therefore suggested that the consideration of the proposals should continue at a later stage.

19. On the question as to the relationship between the draft comprehensive convention on international terrorism and the earlier “sectoral” or “specific” conventions, it was observed that, generally speaking, three different concepts of the purpose of the draft convention had emerged: (a) that the draft convention should be truly comprehensive in nature, i.e. that it should be an “umbrella” convention covering all aspects of terrorism, including aspects already governed by existing conventions and areas not yet covered, and thereby superseding existing conventions; (b) that the draft convention should fill in the gaps in existing conventions, for example, by extending the ancillary offences and cooperation provisions found in the most recent conventions (such as the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism) to the earlier conventions as well; and (c) that the draft convention should provide a framework to cover existing and future activity not already covered in the existing conventions, thereby complementing the existing conventions by filling in the gaps with regard to offences not already defined in those conventions, including new types of offences that might be committed in the future. The view had also been expressed that the draft convention should be seen as a composite proposal to be examined on its own merit. It was, however, generally agreed that, while the discussion on the relationship issue had been inconclusive, the matter would need to be reconsidered once key draft articles, such as article 2, had been finalized; and that a provision that would govern the relationship issue should be included in the final text.
