安全、有序和正常移民方面符合国际人权法的原则、良好做法和政策简编报告

摘要

人权理事会请联合国人权事务高级专员向其提交一份安全、有序和正常移民方面符合国际人权法的原则、良好做法和政策简编报告。该报告特别提及在全球移民契约拟订工作的筹备进程中指引磋商的六个专题领域。报告提供了不甚详尽的法律标准和其他权威性指导简编，例如一般性评论和特别程序报告、各国通过宣言和其他协定作出的联合承诺，以及联合国实体和其他国际组织编制的指导准则和工具，并随附了各区域可取做法的详细清单。

报告以高级专员的建议结尾，认为全球契约必须首先以移民为中心，以人权为基础，并促进性别平等。这将促进安全、有序和正常移民，确保社会的包容性，并保证与《2030年可持续发展议程》的首要目标保持一致，那就是绝不让任何一个人掉队，并首先尽力帮助落在最后面的人。国际人权框架是安全、有序和正常移民全球契约据以制订的规范性基础。此外，为了坚守《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》的承诺，全球契约应首先努力形成以人权为基础的移徙办法，而这样的办法将立足于普遍性、不可分割性、参与性、平等性和问责制原则。

* 报告附件原文照发。

 由于授权撰写本报告的依据——人权理事会第35/17号决议在拟由理事会第三十六届会议审议的报告提交截止日期之后通过，因此本报告迟交会务部门。

一. 导言

1. 人权理事会在 2017 年 6 月 22 日通过的关于“保护移民的人权：安全、有序和正常移民全球契约”的第 35/17 号决议第 18(c)段中，请联合国人权事务高级专员在其第三十六届会议之前，经与各国及包括各区域组织、民间社会组织和国家人权机构在内的其他相关利益攸关方磋商，向理事会提交一份安全、有序和正常移民方面符合国际人权法的原则、良好做法和政策简编报告，并将该报告转呈大会第七十二届会议。

2. 据此，联合国人权事务高级专员办事处(人权高专办)于 2017 年 6 月 29 日向各会员国、政府间组织和非政府组织发出了一份普通照会，就该问题征求意见和资料，并特别提及在安全、有序和正常移民全球契约筹备进程中界定的六个专题领域，后收到了会员国、政府间组织、非政府组织以及个别专家提交的书面材料。¹

3. 本报告旨在提供一份与安全、有序和正常移民密切相关的符合国际人权法的法律标准和其他权威性指南简编²，如一般性评论、联合国人权条约机构和特别程序任务负责人的报告，³以及联合国实体和其他国际组织编制的指导准则和工具。然而，考虑到篇幅和主题范围均有限，下文提供的原则简编并不一定详尽。此外，为方便参考，这些原则划分成了六个专题领域，但其中许多原则所涉专题领域都不止一个。因此，这里的编排应作为指南，而不是权威分类。本报告附件随附了一份可取做法的详细清单，同样也不甚详尽，其中包括各个国家、地方当局、非政府组织和其他相关利益攸关方的各种做法和政策实例。⁴

二. 背景

4. 所有移民都享有一切人权。各会员国在《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》中毫不含糊地重申并承诺将充分保护所有移民的人权，无论其身份如何，还重申所有人都是权利持有人(第 5 段)。

5. 世界各地的证据表明，对许多移民而言移徙是一种增强能力的积极经历，可以为移民及其社区以及原籍国、过境国和目的地国带来经济、社会和文化裨益。

² 简编通常指与某一特定主题相关的简明而详尽资料的汇总，或某一知识领域的简要总结(见 www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/compendium)。

⁴ Elspeth Guild教授、Kees Groenendijk教授和Stefanie Grant教授为本报告提供的文稿都强调了有必要确保“良好做法”须以符合国际人权法的稳固法律依据为基础，并须达到履行或超标准履行各国现有国际人权义务的要求。

然而，移民在移徙途中以及在过境国和目的地国，显然都面临着严重的人权保护空白，尤其是由于地方、国家、区域和全球各级都缺乏以人权为基础的移民治理制度。

6. 各国加入国际人权条约后，即需依据国际法承担义务，并承诺制订反映这些义务的国内措施和立法。⁵ 因此，市政当局和地方政府也可能面临实际后果。各国还要对私营部门，包括公司、民间社会成员和私营安保承包商的行为或不作为造成的人权后果负责。国际人权框架明确指出，为了切实落实这些权利并坚持不歧视的基本原则，义务承担人必须考虑每个人独特的个人情况。⁶

7. 下列九项核心国际人权文书为所有人提供法律保护，包括所有移民，无论其身份如何。因此，核心文书涉及移徙所有领域以及安全、有序和正常移民的所有方面。

- (a) 《消除一切形式种族歧视国际公约》(1965 年)
- (b) 《公民权利和政治权利国际公约》(1966 年)
- (c) 《经济、社会及文化权利国际公约》(1966 年)
- (d) 《消除对妇女一切形式歧视公约》(1979 年)
- (e) 《禁止酷刑和其他残忍、不人道或有辱人格的待遇或处罚公约》(1984 年)
- (f) 《儿童权利公约》(1989 年)
- (g) 《保护所有移徙工人及其家庭成员权利国际公约》(1990 年)
- (h) 《保护所有人免遭强迫失踪国际公约》(2006 年)
- (i) 《残疾人权利公约》(2006 年)。

A. 促进和保护所有移民的人权，反对一切形式歧视并确保社会融合

8. 许多移民，特别是那些处于不正常境况的移民，往往在阴影中生活与工作，害怕抱怨，被剥夺了大多数人认为理所当然的权利和自由，尤其容易受到歧视和边缘化伤害。根据国际法，非正规入境和逗留属于行政事项，而非刑事犯罪，因此应予以相应的制裁；但这些行为本身并不构成危及个人、财产或国家安全的犯罪。⁷ 在不影响命令移民离开的主权权力的情况下，有关国家当局因这类移民处

⁵ 各国依国际法承担尊重、保护和实现人权的义务和责任。尊重人权的义务意味着各国不得干涉或限制享有人权。保护人权的义务则要求各国保护个人和团体免遭第三方侵犯人权的行为。实现人权意味着各国必须采取积极行动，以促进人权的享有。

于其管辖范围内，所以应对他们承担特定义务，包括承认他们的存在，这是首要义务，还应承认他们可以提出权利主张。⁸

9. 各会员国已承诺，将用手中掌握的一切手段，消除身处弱势的无数移民遭受的虐待和剥削。(《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》，第10段)。“身处弱势的移民”这一概念可理解为他们面临着一系列因素，这些因素往往相互交织，可以同时共存，也可能相互影响和相互激化。随着环境的改变或演化，弱势境况也可能随着时间推移而发生变化。人权理事会对移民面临的特殊弱势境况和风险表示严重关切，这些境况和风险可能源于：离开原籍国的原因；移民在途中、边境和目的地国遇到的情况；个人身份或情况的某些特定方面；或上述因素兼而有之。⁹

10. 移民政策要基于人权规范和标准，因而，目标是保护所有迁徙人员。确保这一点的首要一步是，批准并有效实施所有国际和区域人权文书及相关公约，并在政策和实践中重申尊重、保护和实现所有移民人权的根本重要性。

11. 国际人权法和相关标准的法律框架为形成切实可行的行动承诺提供了权威性基准。国际法是迁徙和移民政策和惯例的基础，为各国提供实际指导，并为它们，且在必要时也为其他利益攸关方提供必要工具，用于以维护所有相关人员权利的方式进行移民治理。

12. 《世界人权宣言》(1948年)明确规定，“人人生而自由，在尊严和权利上一律平等”(第一条)。《国际人权宪章》包括《世界人权宣言》、《公民权利和政治权利国际公约》及《经济、社会及文化权利国际公约》，仅就两项权利且仅在极少数情况下对国民和非国民进行了区分。¹⁰

B. 移徙驱动因素讨论

13. 在《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》第 1 段，大会承认当代移徙的驱动因素多种多样，往往还相互交织。尽管许多移民的迁徙都是自愿而安全的，目的是寻求更好的机会，并且能安全而有尊严地迁徙、生活和工作，但许多其他移民却是被迫迁徙。除迫害和冲突之外，移民被迫离开原籍国的原因包括贫困、缺乏基本人权，如获得教育、卫生、食品、水和体面工作的权利，以及暴力、性别不平等、家人分离以及各种自然灾害、气候变化和环境退化的后果。¹³

14. 有必要回顾一下的是，贫穷不仅仅是一个经济问题，更是一种多方面的现象，它包括缺乏收入，缺乏有尊严地生活的基本能力，以及社会排斥，而这种排斥在可预见的未来会损害行使或重新获得权利的机会。¹⁴除社会暴力盛行等问题之外，歧视、排斥和不平等的基本结构在推动移徙、特别是不安全和不稳定移徙方面起着重要的作用。

15. 引发移徙的相关因素可能还包括突然发生的灾害，如洪水和飓风，以及具有累积效应的缓发事件，如海平面上升、土地和森林退化、生物多样性的丧失和荒漠化，¹⁵这些通常与贫穷、歧视和管理薄弱有关。必须特别注意的是长期受到相互交织的多种歧视的个人和群体的移徙驱动因素。

16. 在《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》第 43 段，各会员国重申，移民应该是自主选择，而非迫不得已。那些出迫不得已而非自由选择迁徙的移民在整个旅程中以及在目的地都面临着更大的人权遭受侵犯的危险。如果未经计划就移徙，则不太可能有替代选择，因此更有可能陷入人类尊严得不到尊重的境地。

¹³ 人权理事会在第35/17号决议中，铭记关于移民问题的政策和举措应倡导整体解决办法，考虑到移民现象的原因和后果；承认贫困、欠发达、缺少机会、治理不善和环境因素、侵犯和践踏人权行为，以及武装冲突、恐怖主义、没有和平与安全、冲突预防和解决等都是驱动移民的因素。

¹⁴ 见A/HRC/5/3号文件，第6段。经济、社会和文化权利委员会将贫穷定义为“由于持续或长期地被剥夺资源、能力、选择、安全和权力而不能享受适当的生活标准以及其他公民、文化、经济、政治和社会权利的人类状况”（见E/C.12/2001/10号文件，第8段）。另见《关于赤贫与人权的指导原则》。

C. 加强国际合作以及边境、过境、入境和遣返方面的移民治理

17. 人们跨越国界流动是人类经历的一个自然组成部分，在国际边界形成之前就已存在了。¹⁷ 促进、规范和管理这一流动是一个错综复杂的合作过程，涉及各个国家之间的双边和多边合作，以及各个政府内部和各个社会内部的合作。¹⁸ 国际人权框架的法律和标准规范和决定了各国在移民问题上的行动，是移民治理的一个组成部分，设定了所有移民治理措施的参数和基准。

18. 当移民寻求跨越国际边境或进入一个国家时，他们可能面临一系列妨碍其享有人权的障碍。国际法明确指出，边境不是排除或免除人权义务的界限。相反，身处边境的移民往往是弱势群体，需要特殊保护措施，因此各国在边境上更有义务照顾这些移民。然而，国际边境上往往缺乏适当的个人评价和参照，难以确定弱势境况和人权保护需求。

¹⁶ 此外，指出九项国际人权文书全部相关。

¹⁷ 《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》申明，自古以来，人类就一直在流动(第1段)。

¹⁸ 见人权高专办，《移徙与人权：改善基于人权的国际移徙治理》(2013年)。

19. 过境移民冒着人权遭受侵犯和践踏的风险，从在边境上被驱赶和任意拘留，到人贩子和边境警卫队的暴力，以及被剥夺获得基本服务、甚至救命服务的权利。世界各地对非正规移民的拘留日益增多。行政拘留是一种会对拘留对象产生严重影响措施，可这一措施非但未被当作最后手段，往往成了常规程序，在某些情况下俨然成了法定程序，甚至对儿童亦然如此。

20. 所有的驱回必须合法。各国义务确保不将任何人遣返到其可能遭受酷刑或其他严重侵犯人权行为的地方，包括强迫失踪、严重歧视及任意干涉家庭和私生活权利的行为。不驱回原则和禁止任意或集体驱逐的规定是国际人权法的基石，适用于所有移民，不论他们在哪里，也不管他们的移民身份如何。在这方面，重要的是确保重新接纳协定建立在人权原则的基础上，并以透明和负责的方式得以商定和执行。

21. 遣返还应该可持续。如果移民被遣送回国后面临的状况与当初迫使他们离开的状况并无两样，他们将无所归依，也没有理由留下来。相反，当人们追求实现人权和有尊严的生活时，他们极可能会在日益险恶的条件下通过十分危险的路线重复移徙。

D. 促进可持续发展与移徙之间的人权联系

22. 《2030 年可持续发展议程》毫不含糊地以人权为准绳,明确宣布以《联合国宪章》、《世界人权宣言》、国际人权条约和其他文书为依据,并要求执行议程的方式应符合国际法为各国规定的义务,包括人权义务。《2030 年议程》承诺,绝不让任何一个人掉队,让各国要首先尽力帮助落在最后面的人。因此,为了有效地挖掘移徙的发展潜力,必须确保促进、保护和实现所有移民的人权,无论其身份如何。很明显,当法律、社会或政治障碍阻止社会所有部门(如移民),为其作出贡献时,任何社会都无法真正发展潜力。

23. 虽然人们日益认识到并欢迎移民为原籍国、过境国和目的地国社会和经济做出的重要贡献,但仍有必要强调许多移民挣钱环境之恶劣,而他们正是在那样危险的境况下赚取他们得以汇出的汇款,同时还要强调不得将移民仅仅视为商品或其他人经济发展的工具。发展战略应确保移民不会被进一步边缘化、被剥夺权利、被排斥或被抛弃。在这方面,重要的是要确保在有关卫生、教育、住房、就业和不歧视的国家战略和行动计划中考虑到移民,包括非正规移民。需要从新的数据来源收集分类数据,以衡量和监测所有移民的发展进程。

E. 打击偷运移民、贩运人口及当代形式奴役

24. 随着对移徙和边境治理的限制性措施日益严苛,加上安全、正规、可利用的移徙渠道之缺乏,这样的状况可能会让移民更有动机转而采取更危险途径,以及向蛇头寻求旅行、住房、就业和其他方面的协助服务。

25. 从人权角度看,偷运移民本身并不构成侵犯人权的行为,在某些情况下可以算是相对中立地提供服务。偷运只是提供了必要手段,让移民能从一个地方迁移到另一个地方,而迁徙往往是为了逃避侵犯人权的行为。有时,偷运甚至是地方经济和生计策略中根深蒂固的一种选择。然而,在其他一些情况下,蛇头也深入

²⁰ 此外,指出九项国际人权文书全部相关。

参与对移民的敲诈、暴力、虐待和盗窃行为，是有组织犯罪集团的一部分。向蛇头求助的移民通常几乎没有其他移徙方式可以选择，特别是那些出身贫穷而被边缘化的移民，他们冒着很大风险，可能遭受蛇头和边境主管部门及其他行为人的虐待和剥削。

26. 以人权为基础的对人口贩运和偷运移民的有效对策包括建立国家转送机制，促进对受害者的识别、援助和保护服务，包括区分性别的措施和针对儿童的措施，以便侦查偷运案件和弱势境况下的移民，并在移民所处的所有地方，包括收容站和行政拘留中心以及其他正式和非正式安置点，提示贩运和其他侵犯人权的风险。

27. 需要注意打击偷运的措施以及打击人口贩运的干预措施对人权的影响，以确保这些措施不会将移民置于更加弱势的处境。令人关切的措施包括对移民的危险拦截、对边境的重兵把守、侵入性监测和情报收集方法，以及对蛇头的不当刑罚或者对出于人道主义原因协助移民者的定罪等。

F. 促进体面工作和劳工流动

28. 绝大多数移民无论是否主要为了寻找体面的工作,实际上都进入了工作领域。据估计,超过70%的国际移民为移徙工人。

29. 世界各地的移徙工人,特别是那些处于非正常境况的移徙工人,遭受着多种形式的虐待和剥削。许多人工作的部门,如建筑业、农业、食品加工业和渔业、家庭和护理工作,都可以不受监管,不受保护。保护所有工人免遭剥削和虐待是劳工相关人权问题的核心组成部分,特别是在弱势境况下以及在工人与雇主之间权力严重不平衡的情况下。国际人权法和国际劳工法在这一点上可谓异曲同工。²²

30. 移民在诉诸司法方面往往面临着一系列障碍,包括在国家法院、法庭以及监测和申诉机制当中。此类障碍可能包括缺乏当地语言技能、对其权利和补救手段知之有限、雇主的威胁和恐吓、不同权利由各种司法和非司法机制分散处理、缺乏获得合格律师或翻译的途径,以及缺乏法律援助。

三. 结论和建议

A. 结论

31. 在《国际移民与发展高级别对话宣言》(2013 年)中,大会决定努力制定有效力和包容各方的国际移民议程,以确保安全、有序、正规并且充分尊重人权的移徙(第 3 和 5 段)。在《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》和《2030 年可持续发展议程》中,各会员国以类似的方式表达了希望促进安全、正规、有序和“负责任”的移徙的意愿。

32. 从人权角度看,重要的是确保在试图界定“安全、正规和有序”移民的内容时要以人类——移民——的权利和状况为中心。例如,“有序”的移民治理,最好指移徙措施,包括与入境、出境和遣返有关的措施,措施应以不歧视为目的和效果,并能为移民本身和各个国家提供可预测性,以便防止任意或非法的移民对策。“有序”的特征不应仅仅作为控制和预防移徙的同义词,而不全面分析移民路线和环境、移民途中的个人情况及保护需求。采取经授权的“正规”移民渠道并充分尊重法治的移徙更有可能促进和保护移民的人权。在这方面,鼓励各国配合建立符合经济和社会需求且方便人们采用的正规移民渠道。²⁴ 在最终分析中,全球契约的首要目标应该是确保移徙无论对移民本身(无论其身份如何),还是对他们所离开、途经或进入的社区,都是“安全的”。在这种情况下,安全不仅指人身安全,更广泛地指尊重、保护和实现尊严和人权的环境的拓展。

33. 全球契约首先以移民为中心,以人权为基础,并促进性别平等。这将确保社会的包容性,并保证与《2030 年可持续发展议程》的首要目标保持一致,那就是绝不让任何一个人掉队,并首先尽力帮助落在最后面的人(第 4 段),且与可持续发展目标的具体目标 10.7 内含的减少不平等目标一致。因此,国际法律框架是安全、有序和正常移民全球契约据以制订的规范性基础。本报告通过详细列举为所有移民(无论其身份如何)人权提供法律保护的广泛国际法和相关标准,旨在质疑那种认为并无全面框架来保护移民的观点。

34. 此外,为了坚守《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》的承诺,全球契约应首先努力促进以人权为基础的移民办法。这样的办法将立足于以下原则:²⁵

(a) 普遍性和不可剥夺性。包括移民在内的所有人都有权享受普遍和不可剥夺的人权;

(b) 不可分割性、相互依存性和相互关联性。所有人权(不论是公民、文化、经济、政治或社会权利)都不可分割,而一项权利的实现往往全部或部分取决于其他权利的实现;

(c) 参与和包容。移民有权有效、自由和有意义地参与直接影响自身的决策;

²⁴ 在《保护所有移徙工人及其家庭成员权利国际公约》中,各缔约国铭记移徙过程中所涉及的人的问题在不正规的移徙中更为严重,因此深信应鼓励采取适当行动以期防止和消灭对移徙工人的秘密移动和运输,同时保证他们的基本人权得到保护(序言)。另见保护所有移徙工人及其家庭成员权利委员会,第2号一般性意见,第17段。

²⁵ 见A/68/292号文件,第12段。

(d) 非歧视性和平等性。应解决在法律、政策和实践中直接或间接歧视移民的问题；

(e) 监督制与问责制。移民政策的制订和执行应透明，应确保移民能利用纠正和补救机制。²⁶

35. 有效保护和包容移民的实现取决于确保整个社会为这项事业的成功而投入的情况。因此，移民相关政策须包括所有利益攸关方的参与，包括议会、地方政府、工会、国家人权机构、非政府组织和移民本身。

36. 保护知情权是赋予移民权利的一个关键因素；让他们获得相关信息和支持，他们便可以发挥自己的能力，作出明智的决定，并通过有效的诉诸司法途径捍卫自己的权利。²⁷ 为了确保各国的移民政策不会造成不平等或妨碍享有人权，各国应有义务监测其政策和行动的效果，包括通过收集分类数据，至少按年龄、性别和移民身份分类收集。²⁸ 各国已在《关于难民和移民的纽约宣言》中承诺考虑审查其移民政策，检查可能存在的并非有意的不良后果(第 45 段)。

B. 建议

37. 高级专员建议，安全、有序和正常移民全球契约除其他外应特别让各国承诺：

(a) 审查将移徙定为犯罪的政策，并在法律上设定一种不拘留推定，包括通过法律规定符合人权的、以社区为基础的非监禁替代办法，用来代替拘留。各国应作为一项优先事项，制订消除儿童入境拘留的国家行动计划，让政府当局、民间社会和其他有关行为人为参与进来，包括让儿童本身参与；²⁹

(b) 就在所有各级移民执法机构与公共服务机构之间建立“防火墙”，制订和执行明确而有约束力的程序和标准，包括在诉诸司法、维持治安、住房、保健、教育、社会服务和劳工服务等领域；³⁰

(c) 建立切实有效的机制，根据正当程序保证，在移民抵达后尽快评估边境上所有移民的个人情况。各国应制订指导准则并执行与国家人权保护机构、法律援助服务提供者和其他相关行为人的协定，以确保及时有效地筛查弱势移民并转交有关机构处理。在相关情况下，这类程序应在庇护申请评估之前或之外进行，或与之并行。各国应就面向所有移民儿童(包括那些可能未提出庇护申请者)切实落实儿童最佳利益原则提供指导；³¹

²⁶ 解决移民监督和问责问题的办法很多，包括：

(一) 批准和执行国际人权公约；(二) 司法和准司法机制，例如，国家法院、宪法和行政审查、国家人权委员会和监察机构等；(三) 行政和政策机制，例如审查移民政策的人权影响；(四) 政治机制，如议会程序、非政府组织的监测和倡导；及(五) 向国际人权监督机制报告。

(d) 颁布严格有效的反歧视立法，保护移民免遭一切形式歧视，包括以国籍或移民身份为由的歧视，并建立这方面的国家专门机构，同时制订消除对移民的仇外心理的基准；³²

(e) 为所有弱势移民提供有效的人权保护，并在这方面承诺执行全球移民小组的《实际指导支持的弱势移民人权保护原则和准则草案》提供的全面指导；

(f) 确保国家、区域和国际移民政策的制订受到监测和监督，包括议会审查，并公布所有与移徙有关的所有双边协定、重新协定和谅解备忘录。全球契约应努力确保国际合作始终遵守尊重、保护和实现人权的义务，而这种合作决不以非法或不当地限制或惩罚移徙或移民的措施为条件；³³

(g) 定期审查在全球契约下所作承诺的执行进展，包括通过建立或加强独立的内部和外部机制，以监测与移民有关的法律、政策和惯例的人权影响。所有利益攸关方，包括移民本身，都应参与执行和问责机制。

Annex

Examples of practice

The content of this annex on good and promising practice is extracted from the inventory of ‘practical guidance’ contained within the Global Migration Group ‘Principles and Guidelines, supported by practical guidance, on the human rights protection of migrants in vulnerable situations’ (draft). The latter document is regularly updated with examples of good and promising practice on the human rights protection of migrants in vulnerable situations. It should be noted that OHCHR has not independently verified the information contained in this annex. The following examples of good and promising practice are presented without claiming to be complete or geographically representative.

Principle 1: Human RightsEnsure that human rights are at the centre of addressing migration, including responses to large movements of migrants

States of the Ibero-American Community have undertaken “[t]o promote the strengthening of human rights as a key component of the immigration policies and practices of the countries of origin, transit, and destination, ensuring the protection of the human rights of migrants within the framework of the laws of each State, regardless of their immigration status, nationality, ethnic origin, gender, or age.”¹

The Netherlands Institute for Human Rights published The Human Rights Yardstick for assessing migration agreements between the European Union and third countries. The yardstick summarizes and lists the international human rights obligations that States are bound by when negotiating migration agreements with other countries.²

Article 40 of the Ecuador Constitution states that no person shall be identified nor considered as “illegal” due to his/her migration status.³

Article 2 of the Mexican Migration Law establishes that irregular migration status does not in itself constitute a criminal offence.⁴

The new Migration Law of Brazil adopted on 24 May 2017 provides that the Brazilian migratory policy is to be governed by the principle of non-criminalization of migration (Art. 3(III)). This new legislation aims to guarantee rights, foster inclusion and ensure that the fundamental respect for the dignity of all migrants lies at the centre of national policies. It will also provide for humanitarian visas.⁵

The Santa Cruz Declaration (2006) sets out practical steps that National Human Rights Institutions (NHRIs) can undertake to promote and protect the rights of migrants to uphold migrants’ rights.⁶

UNHCR is running the Campaign to End Statelessness in 10 years: #IBELONG to a world where everyone has the right to a nationality.⁷

The European Network on Statelessness (ENS) document that 21 European States have national laws that fully comply with international and regional law on statelessness and the right to a nationality: Armenia, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Finland, France, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Malta, Moldova, Montenegro, Portugal, Serbia, Slovakia, Spain, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom.⁸ The ENS is running a campaign, No Child Should Be Stateless, to prevent children from growing up without a nationality.⁹

Chapter six of the Brazil Plan of Action adopted by the governments of Latin America and the Caribbean in December 2014 addresses statelessness, including a call to “adopt legal protection frameworks that guarantee the rights of stateless persons, in order to regulate issues such as their migratory status, identity and travel documents and, more generally, ensure full enjoyment of the rights”.¹⁰

Principle 1: Human RightsEnsure that human rights are at the centre of addressing migration, including responses to large movements of migrants

The 2004 Argentinian National Migration Law contains standards to ensure respect for human rights of migrants and their families, while establishing mechanisms for easy access to migratory regularization. The provisions include respect for human rights and international commitments (article 3), the right to migrate, based on the principles of equality and universality (article 4) and the principle of equal treatment (article 5). Migration status does not preclude migrants' equal access to the right to health, social assistance and education.¹¹

In Guatemala, OHCHR continued to provide technical assistance and advice to various commissions in the Congress of Guatemala on reform of the law on migration. The views expressed by the Office, and the recommendations made by the Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants and the Committee on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families were incorporated into the draft.¹²

In Timor-Leste, OHCHR provided assistance in preparing the first State party report under the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families. Between March and October 2015, three training sessions on the Convention, the reporting process and its outcome were conducted and OHCHR co-facilitated with the Government two consultations that gathered input for the report from State officials, civil society entities, the private sector and embassies.¹³

Principle 2: Non-discrimination
Counter discrimination against migrants in all its forms

Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica and Venezuela strongly espouse the principle of non-discrimination and do not distinguish between nationals and non-nationals for the purposes of access to and enjoyment of fundamental rights.¹⁴

The Charter on Inclusion of Persons with Disabilities in Humanitarian Action recognizes the multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination that exacerbate the exclusion of migrants with disabilities in situations of risk and the further impairment that may result from that intersection. The Charter was developed in a consultative process with over 70 stakeholders and is endorsed by over 100 states, civil society organizations and UN agencies.¹⁵

In order to prevent discriminatory conduct by police officers, Switzerland undertakes the following measures: 1) Capacity building: modules on human rights and racial discrimination are included in the basic professional training for police officers; 2) Monitoring: as part of the fight against racial profiling, inspections and arrests are regularly supervised; 3) Complaint: mechanisms are in place to file a complaint in case of racist conduct of a member of the police force.¹⁶

In New Zealand, there are various legal and complaint mechanisms available to people who believe they have been discriminated against or who have been subjected to hate speech. Depending on the nature of the concerns individuals are able to complain to the law enforcements agencies or to organizations such as the Human Rights Commission.¹⁷

The European Union High Level Group on combating racism, xenophobia and other forms of intolerance, which was set up to foster peer learning and exchange of best practices between Member States, civil society and international partners, developed a hate crime training guide for law enforcement and criminal justice authorities.¹⁸

The Polish-based Fundacja Rozwoju “Oprócz Granic” (Foundation for Development “Beyond Borders”, FROG) has worked to develop documented and undocumented women’s engagement with media. They are involved in “Broadcasts radjowe”, a bi-weekly radio initiative that informs listeners about migration issues such as the role of undocumented domestic and care workers as Polish women migrate west.¹⁹

Counter discrimination against migrants in all its forms

In 2016 the New Zealand Human Rights Commission launched the “#ThatsUs”²² campaign, an initiative in support of the New Zealand Migrant Settlement and Integration Strategy. That’s Us is New Zealand’s first anti-racism campaign that asks New Zealanders to start sharing personal stories about racism, intolerance and hatred as well as their hopes for the future. It is based on the belief that talking about the impact of casual racism will deter xenophobia.²³

The Austrian Redcross has developed the “Stammtisch APP” to counter misinformation leading to racism and to promote discussion and integration of migrants in Austria.²⁴

ProjektXchange is a programme of the Austrian Red Cross created in response to increasing negative public attitudes to migration. Approximately 300 volunteers with a migratory background were invited to act as ‘ambassadors of integration’. These migrant ambassadors visited schools and met with youth groups to share their experiences, including why they came to Austria, what they do, their experiences of discrimination and xenophobia, and their hopes for the future.²⁵

The African Centre for Migration & Society (ACMS) at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg and the technology website iAfrikan have launched a crowdsourcing platform called Xenowatch to address the lack of information on violence against migrants and refugees, which is not officially monitored and documented. People can report xenophobic threats or violence to Xenowatch online, by SMS or email. Reports are verified, anonymized and documented on a map using the Ushahidi platform, as well as shared with the police and the United Nations High Commission for Refugees. The ACMS and iAfrikan are working with the South African Local Government Association to have data from Xenowatch included in the scorecards they use for evaluating local political performance. The data can also be used by NGOs to advocate for accountability.²⁶

The Youth Department of the Council of Europe coordinates Hate Speech Watch, a user-generated repository to trace, share and discuss online hate speech content, including that targeted towards migrants and refugees.²⁷

In collaboration with the UNHCR and with the participation of more than 35 NGOs and other bodies, the Greek National Commission on Human Rights (GNCHR) established the Racist Violence Recording Network, which primarily focuses on monitoring and recording of racist attacks against migrants in Greece. Quantitative and qualitative analysis of the network’s data is used to alert authorities on new trends or escalations in hate crime. The network also raises awareness of hate crime and methods for combatting it; supports victims to report incidents and obtain legal aid; and organises training programmes for civil society and institutional bodies on how to identify, record and combat hate crime.²⁸

Principle 3: Access to justice for migrants
Ensure access to justice for migrants

Several measures have been adopted in Mexico to guarantee access to justice for irregular migrants, such as the creation of the public prosecution service for migrants in the state of Chiapas, as well as the protocols adopted by the National Institute of Migration in 2010 for the identification and assistance of migrants who are victims of crime.²⁹

Article 1.1 of European Union Directive 2012/29/EU requires States to ensure access to justice, information, support and protection to all victims of crime, irrespective of their residence status.³⁰

Article 59 of the Council of Europe Convention on Preventing and Combatting Violence against Women and Domestic Violence introduces the possibility of granting migrant women, who are victims of domestic violence and whose residence status depends on that of their spouse or partner, with their own residence permit when the relationship ends. This allows a victim of domestic violence to leave the relationship and seek protection without losing her residence status.³¹

The European Union Directive on the right of access to a lawyer in criminal proceedings (2013/48/EU) is a regional standard that provides for minimum rules on the right of access to a lawyer from first stage of police questioning throughout criminal proceedings, the rights to legal advice in country where the arrest is carried out and where it is issued (dual legal representation), and the right to have a third party informed upon deprivation of liberty as well as to communicate with consular authorities.³²

Article 52.V of Mexico's Immigration Law provides for a right to remain on humanitarian grounds for persons who are victims, witnesses of or affected by a crime in Mexico. They will be allowed to remain in the country until the end of the criminal process, after which they must leave or apply for a new immigration status. Humanitarian status allows multiple entries into Mexico and work permit.³³

Brazil, Poland and Singapore reported specific provisions to enhance access to justice for survivors of trafficking, including treatment of a trafficked person as a victim and survivor of abuse and not as an offender; investigations to identify and prosecute traffickers; and engagement with foreign embassies and non-governmental organizations to encourage trafficked victims to come forward without risk of prosecution.³⁴

In the United States, legislation provides temporary migration status to migrants who are victims of certain crimes, including human trafficking.³⁵

Ensure access to justice for migrants

Numerous jurisdictions in the United States have firewalls in place between the criminal justice system and immigration enforcement. The Los Angeles Police Department in the State of California prohibits officers from initiating contact with someone solely to determine whether they are in a regular situation, a practice mandated by a special order signed in 1979. The police department has stopped turning over people arrested for low-level crimes to federal agents for deportation and moved away from honouring federal requests to detain inmates who might be deportable past their jail terms.³⁶ Sanctuary cities in the USA are those that have adopted a policy of protecting the rights of migrants in an irregular situation by not prosecuting them solely for violating federal immigration laws. These jurisdictions commit to limiting how local law enforcement and federal government agencies interact on matters of immigration enforcement. The first declared sanctuary city was San Francisco in 1989; the country now has more than 300 sanctuary jurisdictions.³⁷

In the USA, California state officials are proposing to further restrict the ability of federal authorities to detain and deport the approximately 2.3 million undocumented immigrants living in the state. Senate Bill 54 would prohibit state and local law enforcement, including school police and security departments, from using their resources for immigration enforcement. The Bill would also create “safe zones” at public schools, hospitals and courthouses where immigrant enforcement would be banned, and require state agencies to update their confidentiality policies so that information on individuals’ immigration status is not shared for enforcement purposes.³⁸

The US the Justice Department is trying to minimize the role of bias in law enforcement and the courts. More than 250 federal immigration judges attended a mandatory anti-bias training session in August 2016, and the Justice Department announced that 28,000 more employees would go through a similar exercise.³⁹

Ensure access to justice for migrants

Bosnia and Herzegovina, Jamaica and the United Arab Emirates have reported undertaking capacity-development of government officials and service providers to improve service delivery to women migrants. Such initiatives focused on the provision of training related to gender-based violence for the judiciary, prosecutors and service providers.⁴⁰

Resource: The International Commission of Jurists (ICJ) has published a set of Principles on the Role of Judges and Lawyers in relation to Refugees and Migrants. The Principles seek to help judges and lawyers, as well as legislators and other government officials, better secure human rights and the rule of law in the context of large movements of refugees and migrants.⁴¹

Principle 4: Rescue and assistance
Protect the lives and safety of migrants and ensure rescue and immediate assistance to all migrants facing risks to life or safety

Migrant Offshore Aid Station (MOAS) is a foundation working to saving lives at sea by providing professional search and rescue services for people in distress on the open sea in search for safe shores. MOAS actively search for vessels in distress, and immediately inform the official coast guards and/or Rescue Coordination Centres and then assists as directed or as required by the situation.⁴²

Front-line officers from the Tucson sector of the US Border Patrol pooled resources to purchase and established rescue beacons at several points in the desert, from where migrants can call the Border Patrol directly when in distress, providing locations of these beacons via their own GPS units.⁴³

The Italian Red Cross provides first line primary health support at disembarkation points in Italy. Once migrants arrive, doctors from the Ministry of Health conduct an on-board medical check. Then, Italian Red Cross volunteers take care of the migrants when they disembark from the ships at the ports; volunteers perform triage on the docks to identify the most vulnerable migrants. Depending on their condition, migrants are either referred to hospitals or treated at medical posts. Other services provided by the Italian Red Cross at disembarkation are hospital transportation, distribution of relief items, restoring family links, psychosocial support, and advice on health issues and services.⁴⁴

The government of Zambia collaborated with the IOM, UNHCR and the United Nations Children's Fund to develop a National Referral Mechanism and associated Guidelines to effectively identify vulnerable migrants and refer them to appropriate authorities and services. More than 200 frontline officers have received training on the mechanism and associated guidelines.⁴⁵

The Republic of Macedonia has adopted Standard Operating Procedures for Vulnerable Individuals-Foreigners, and Standard Operating Procedures for Unaccompanied and separated children, which support protection activities implemented in the transit centers.⁴⁶

Kids Café provided a safe welcoming space for unaccompanied minors in the Calais Jungle. Established by a refugee and a volunteer, the café provided 200 meals a day, English and French classes, and asylum advice for the hundreds of unaccompanied children who lived there. The café was also a space where the children could be registered. The café had a drum kit, pool table, dart board and some sofas. The children could get warm meals a day, for free, and it was one of the few spaces the children could call their own.⁴⁷

A State-civil society partnership plan involving El Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras has been developed to improve the lives of young children and address humanitarian and social problems associated with unaccompanied children migrating to the United States.⁴⁸

During the large influx of migrants into Malmö in the autumn of 2015, the Swedish Red Cross created a condensed version of their volunteer training programme that can be rolled out quickly when the urgency of the response and associated time constraints preclude volunteers from undergoing the full training programme. Due to the abridged nature of the training, volunteers were also encouraged to consult the e-learning platform and work closely with more experienced colleagues.⁴⁹

In Italy, the Extraordinary Commissioner for Missing Persons (CSPS) constantly updates the National Register of Unidentified Bodies and national statistics on missing persons. In 2010, the CSPS and the Public Security Department of the Ministry of Interior developed a new information system, called Ri.Sc. (Missing People Research, in Italian “Ricerca Scomparsi”). The Ri.Sc. system, in addition to the complete and interconnected management of information, enables to make a cross between biometric and descriptive data saved in the ‘missing person’ file with those collected in the ‘unidentified corps’ file.⁵¹

In Arizona, USA, Tucson-based grassroots organization Derechos Humanos operates the Missing Migrant Hotline Project, to help families locate loved ones who go missing while crossing the border. Staff and volunteers respond to three types of calls: migrants lost in detention, migrants lost in the desert, and those who died while crossing the US-Mexico border. The organisation keeps an updated record of the number of bodies recovered and, with the cooperation of Arizona county officials, as well as the Consular offices of México, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, and Brazil, and the Binational Migration Institute, attempts to put names to those who have been recovered.⁵²

The Last Rights Project is developing a set of principles in order to clarify which steps states should take when dealing with dead, missing and bereaved migrants. The guidance draws upon international human rights, humanitarian, maritime and criminal law and aims at ensuring that the rights of missing and dead and bereaved family members are respected.⁵³

Principle 5: Border governanceEnsure that all border governance measures protect human rights, including the right to freedom of movement and the right of all persons to leave any country, including their own, recognizing that States have legitimate interests in exercising immigration controls

Article 40 of the Constitution of Ecuador recognizes the right of all individuals to migrate.⁵⁴

Article 4 of Argentina’s Immigration Law (Law 25.871), enacted in January 2004, recognises the right to migrate base on the principles of equality and universality.⁵⁵

Azerbaijan and Bosnia and Herzegovina have undertaken various initiatives for training public officials on migration and trafficking in persons, including on the application of the provisions of the international human rights framework. Colombia provides training to its immigration authorities on provisions relating to human rights and migration, refugee law and trafficking in persons and smuggling of migrants. In Romania, immigration officials working in locations such as ports, airports and border crossings benefit from training programmes on the practical application of human rights standards.⁵⁸

Principle 6: Returns

Ensure that all returns are only carried out in full respect for the human rights of migrants and in accordance with international law, including upholding the principle of non-refoulement, the prohibition of arbitrary or collective expulsions and the right to seek asylum

The Centre for Care for the Returned Migrant (CAMR), located in Honduras, is an initiative of the Government of Honduras administered by the Honduran Red Cross. The centre offers the following services, among others, to returned migrants: (1) reception, (2) registration, (3) food and water, (4) health services, (5) transport, (6) a chapel or prayer room, (7) a phone call, (8) toilets and hygiene services, (9) clothing and footwear, (10) gender-separate accommodation, (11) information on employment programmes. The Belen Care Centre for Returning Underage Migrants (CANFM-Belen) is led by the Department of Children, Youth and Family. It offers similar services and in addition: (1) a gender- and age-separated playground area, (2) psychological support, (3) social work, (4) gardens and green areas, (5) gender- and age-separated accommodation, and (6) vocational training, among others.⁶²

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), in collaboration with the Mexican and Central American National Societies, provides free assistance to migrants (in transit or returned) who have suffered major illnesses or injuries during their journey (including amputations, spinal cord injuries, etc.). They offer the following services: (1) donation of prostheses (before physical rehabilitation), (2) osteosynthesis materials, wheelchairs and crutches, (3) ambulance transfers, (4) referral to rehabilitation and medical care centres in Mexico and Central America, and (5) reestablishment of family links when necessary.⁶³

Sri Lanka has implemented programmes addressed to returnees in the areas of education, social security, housing, employment and psychosocial assistance.⁶⁴

Mali has implemented measures aimed at the economic reintegration of returnees, such as the creation of an information desk and an agreement with two banks.⁶⁵

Ecuador Organic Law on Human Mobility sets out the rights that Ecuadorian returning migrants enjoy, including the right to information on return, social and economic inclusion, education, vocational training, recognition of educational qualifications and skills, transfer of educational achievements, and retirement benefits.⁶⁶

Caritas Ukraine has implemented several projects aimed at sustainable reintegration after return, based on the following principles: individual approach; building of trustful relations; regular contacts with returnees.⁶⁷

Principle 6: Returns

Ensure that all returns are only carried out in full respect for the human rights of migrants and in accordance with international law, including upholding the principle of non-refoulement, the prohibition of arbitrary or collective expulsions and the right to seek asylum

Post-return monitoring is carried out by local NGOs in Uganda for unaccompanied or separated children returning from Norway and in the Democratic Republic of Congo for unaccompanied or separated children returning from Belgium. This includes, in some instances, post-return support for families.⁶⁸

The International Refugee Rights Initiative has established a Post-Deportation Monitoring Network that connects lawyers and organizations working in deporting and receiving countries.⁶⁹ Among these organizations, ANAFE has put in place a monitoring system for individuals who are returned after decisions of non-admission at French borders.⁷⁰ The Refugee Law Project in Uganda runs a post-deportation project and offers a number of services to people who are deported to Uganda.⁷¹ The Refugee Support Network's Youth on the Move project, through a Kabul-based Monitoring Officer, tracked well-being, education and employment outcomes for young Afghans who have been forcibly removed to Afghanistan after turning 18.⁷² The Edmund Rice Centre sends teams of researchers to follow up on returned failed asylum seekers deported from Australia.⁷³

UN-Women has supported paralegal training for organisations that support returnee women migrant workers in Nepal and that deal with cases of labour rights violations and violence against women.⁷⁴

In Romania, the General Inspectorate grants tolerated status and issues a document to persons who cannot leave the Romanian territory but who would not otherwise have a legal basis to remain. Tolerated status is granted for an initial period of six months, renewable for further six-month periods until the reasons for toleration cease to exist. At that time, the individual is required to depart the country. Individuals holding a tolerated status document have the right to work. They are required to report regularly to a territorial unit of the General Inspectorate and to reside in a particular geographical area. They must obtain approval to travel outside of this area and must notify authorities of any changes to their place of residence.⁷⁵

Under Turkey's Law on Foreigners and International Protection (LFIP, 2014), humanitarian residence permits are issued to individuals who are at risk of torture/ill-treatment if expelled; are unable to travel due to poor health, age or pregnancy; require medical treatment that cannot be obtained in the country of origin or return; or are undergoing treatment due to serious psychological, physical or sexual violence, from deportation orders and, therefore, detention. These permits can also be issued to individuals for whom a deportation order has been issued but who cannot be deported (e.g. because their country of origin refuses to accept their return). Permit holders may be required to reside at designated reception and accommodation centres and to report to authorities at specified periods. The permit includes a foreigner identification number, which is used to access health care, education and legal services.⁷⁶

Principle 7: Violence

Protect migrants from all forms of violence and exploitation, whether inflicted by institutions or officials, or by private individuals, entities or groups

Cambodia, China, Jamaica, Japan, Namibia, Norway, Peru, Qatar, Singapore and Sweden have reported on provisions of their penal codes that address violence against all women, including migrant workers. Some States have introduced legislation, articles or penalties that respond specifically to violence against migrant workers; Singapore has introduced a specific penalty for abuse of foreign domestic workers.⁷⁷ Bosnia and Herzegovina, Cambodia, Greece, Italy, Jamaica, Peru and Namibia have reported on the adoption of national policies and strategies to combat violence against women and children that respond to migrant women.⁷⁸

The Swedish Trade Union Centre for Undocumented Migrants was created in 2008 by a number of Swedish trade union organisations, together with an organisation promoting the rights of undocumented migrants. The objectives of the centre are to inform undocumented migrants about their rights in the labour market and represent them vis-à-vis their employers in any proceedings if they so wish. In addition to the network of trade union organisations, the centre consists of a centre, open one afternoon and evening every week and staffed by trade union ombudsmen and officials from the participating organisations. It also provides a phone service giving information and helping irregular migrants get in contact with a trade union.⁷⁹

Resource: The Guidelines to prevent abusive recruitment, exploitative employment and trafficking of migrant workers in the Baltic Sea Region were designed by the European Institute for Crime Prevention and Control, affiliated with the United Nations (HEUNI) to respond to challenges in effective cross-border cooperation and prevent the abuse of workers' rights. The guidelines are available in English, Estonian, Finnish, Lithuanian and Swedish.⁸⁰

Principle 7: ViolenceProtect migrants from all forms of violence and exploitation, whether inflicted by institutions or officials, or by private individuals, entities or groups

Caritas Bangladesh works on the prevention of trafficking at the community level, for instance building the capacity and raising the awareness of community based organizations' leaders and creating local Migrants Sub-Committee, which are playing a watchdog role in combating human trafficking.⁸²

Following the money trail to detect and investigate human trafficking is proving to be an effective strategy to identify potential victims. Launched in early 2016, Project PROTECT, a public-private sector initiative has gathered the major Canadian banks, the Financial Transactions and Reports Analysis Centre of Canada (FINTRAC) and law enforcement to support the identification and reporting of financial transactions suspected of being related to human trafficking.⁸³

In New Zealand, employers who exploit migrants can be imprisoned for up to 7 years and/or fined up to $100,000. The New Zealand Government has developed an approach to reassure migrants that they will not be disadvantaged by coming forward to relevant agencies with any genuine claims of workplace exploitation. Immigration New Zealand has developed resources specifically targeted at migrant groups and sectors in which migrants have been identified as vulnerable to workforce exploitation, including international students, Pacific migrants and those working in the dairy farming, construction, or aged care sector. To achieve the outcomes set Migrant Exploitation Prevention Strategy, government agencies continue to progress a wide ranging programme of work to address exploitation and trafficking in New Zealand. The result has been an integrated Government-wide view of the work priorities needed to prevent, detect, and combat trafficking and exploitation.⁸⁴

Several EU Member States reported the possibility of referring victims of gender-based violence to specialised women's shelters, providing immediate and safe accommodation to female victims of violence and their children, such as Austria, Greece, Germany, Italy, Hungary and Sweden. In Hungary, there is one special accommodation available for victims of sexual violence, torture or rape at the protected shelter in Kiskunhalas. In Sweden, the Swedish Migration Agency must offer safe housing for all persons who are victims of violence or threats of violence.⁸⁵

In Greece, the National Centre for Social Solidarity (EKKA) is a State Organization under the supervision and monitoring of the Ministry of Labor, Social Security & Social Solidarity. It is funded solely by the State. EKKA offers protection and psychosocial support to victims of violence, mainly domestic violence and trafficking. The services provided to victims, according to their individualized needs, are: shelter to women victims; counselling/ psychotherapy; social support; material assistance; mediation to health care, legal counselling and representation, issuing of residence permit; integration activities; repatriation procedure; translation services. EKKA manages one emergency shelter in Attica for women and girls victims of violence, as well as two short-term shelters in Attica and Thessaloniki (part of which operates also as an emergency shelter for the region).⁸⁶

Protect migrants from all forms of violence and exploitation, whether inflicted by institutions or officials, or by private individuals, entities or groups

In Greece, the “National Program for the Prevention and Combating Violence against Women” has established a network against violence made up of 62 state structures: the SOS telephone helpline 15900, forty Counseling Centers and twenty-one shelters in operation throughout the country. These services are dedicated to all forms of gender based violence against women and support the special needs of people with physical disabilities.⁸⁷

Several States (Bosnia and Herzegovina, Germany, Greece, Jamaica, Norway, Paraguay, Peru, the Philippines, Qatar, Singapore and the United Arab Emirates) have reported that they had put into place services and mechanisms to protect migrant women survivors of violence, including making information services available. Such services took the form of multilingual telephone hotlines and e-mail addresses and the provision of information on shelters, dormitories, legal aid, health services, compensation and redress. Certain States (Bosnia and Herzegovina, Germany, the Philippines and Singapore) highlighted the importance of establishing partnerships with non-State actors in the provision of those services. Germany, Greece and the Philippines reported on the effectiveness of the results of their service provision.⁸⁸

The Argentinian National Council for Women (Consejo Nacional de las Mujeres), which is in charge of the implementation of the National Plan for the Prevention, Assistance and Eradication of Violence against Women, manage an hotline for women victims of violence.⁸⁹

The Government of the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia adopted in February 2017 “Standard Operating Procedures for the prevention and addressing gender based violence during emergency and crisis situations” (GBV SOPs), as part of wider National Preparedness and Response Plan of the Health Sector in Emergencies. The GBV SOPs are first of this kind in the country and were developed in a coordinated multi-sectorial effort of UN offices, governmental institutions, civil society, under the leadership of the Ministry of Health. Beside them, the Government, supported by the UNFPA, also approved a Protocol for sexual and reproductive health services in mobile clinics, Action Plan for 2016 coordination of SRH in crisis and related ToRs defining relevant actors’ roles and responsibilities.⁹⁰

The Texas Association Against Sexual Violence (TAASA) has produced a Guidebook for Immigrant Victims, outlining their rights, access to remedies and agencies, associations and resources for service provision.⁹¹

The LGBT group “Fliederlich” in Germany opened the first shelter for LGBT migrants in Nuremberg, at the request of a number of LGBT migrants who felt threatened in the shelters where were accommodated. There were also plans to open a larger shelter in Berlin.⁹²

Greece has established a gender-sensitive counselling methodology for interaction of lawyers, social workers and psychologists with migrant women who have been victims of abuse.⁹³

On 18 December 2015, International Migrants Day, Mexico's Attorney General's Office (Procuraduría General de la República, PGR) formally established two bodies to investigate crimes committed against or by migrants in Mexico, as well as cases of Mexicans who have disappeared in other countries. These two bodies are the Unit for the Investigation of Crimes for Migrants (Unidad de Investigación de Delitos para Personas Migrantes, the "Unit") and the Mechanism for Mexican Foreign Support in the Search and Investigation (Mecanismo de Apoyo Exterior Mexicano de Búsqueda e Investigación, the "Mechanism").⁹⁴

In Amsterdam, the anti-discrimination unit of the police has started the "Veilige Aangifte" (Safe Return) initiative in which they inform undocumented migrants about their rights, and enable them to report crimes in secure way. Their "free in, free out" approach allows migrants to report crimes without fear of arrest. The unit visits the migrant support centre Wereldhuis once a month to meet with a group of undocumented migrants, and answer queries on key thematic issues such as lodging a complaint, getting a protection order, and taking a case to court.⁹⁵

Principle 8: DetentionUphold the right of migrants to liberty and prohibition of arbitrary detention through making targeted efforts to end immigration detention of migrants. Never detain children on account of their migration status or that of their parents

The International Detention Coalition has developed the Community Assessment and Placement (CAP) model, which is a tool for governments, civil society and other stakeholders to build systems that ensure detention is only used as a last resort and that community options result in optimal outcomes. The CAP model combines the overarching principles of liberty (presumption against detention) and minimum standards with three key steps: 1) identification and decision making; 2) placements options; 3) case management.⁹⁶

Principle 8: Detention

Uphold the right of migrants to liberty and prohibition of arbitrary detention through making targeted efforts to end immigration detention of migrants. Never detain children on account of their migration status or that of their parents

Alternatives to detention in law, policy or practice have been documented in states including New Zealand, Venezuela, Japan, Switzerland, Lithuania, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Austria, Germany, and Canada.⁹⁷

Lithuanian law contains a list of alternatives to detention, including: periodic reporting to the territorial police office at a reporting frequency decided by the court; trusting the foreigner to the guardianship of a citizen or a foreigner legally residing in the country; or reporting about her place of stay by means of communication at certain times to the territorial police office.⁹⁸

All European Union countries, except for Cyprus and Malta, have legislated that alternatives to detention must be pursued prior to any decision for detention. The 2004 immigration law of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela prohibits detention and provides several alternatives that may be adopted within a deportation procedure, including reporting regularly to the competent authority, settling in a given locality during the administrative procedure and providing a financial security guarantee (for which the migrant's economic condition must be taken into account).⁹⁹

The Canadian Border Services Agency (CBSA) is required by law to consider all reasonable alternatives before detention, which is a measure of last resort.¹⁰⁰

In Slovenia, third country nationals subject to a deportation order may be required to report to the nearest police station instead of being placed in detention. Individuals are usually required to report once per month.¹⁰¹

Austria has established in law that alternatives must first be considered or applied before a decision to detain is made.¹⁰² The Aliens Police Act stipulates that individuals shall be provided with an alternative to detention if the grounds for detention are present and the purpose of detention can be achieved by their provision.¹⁰³ The law establishes conditions that can be imposed as an alternative to detention including residing at a particular address determined by the authority; reporting periodically to the police station.

Poland has passed legislation providing for a mandate to consider alternatives to immigration detention.¹⁰⁴ Article 398 of the New Act on Foreigners provides for the Polish Border Guard authority to apply any one or more of the following conditions: 1) Reporting at specified intervals to the Polish Border Guard; 2) Lodging a security deposit, no lower than twice the amount of the minimum wage stipulated by minimum wage law; 3) Surrendering of travel documents; 4) Directed residence at a location specified by the authorities.

Section 315 of the New Zealand Immigration Act 2009 outlines specific conditions that may be applied to a person who would otherwise be subject to detention, including reporting, guarantors, and undertaking actions towards case resolution.¹⁰⁵

Article 107 of Mexico's Migration Law lists specific standards that must be ensured in immigration detention, including: medical, psychological and legal aid (para. 1); adequate food, including three meals a day of sufficient quality. Meals should meet the special needs of children, adolescents, the elderly, pregnant or breastfeeding women, persons with specific health conditions, and other vulnerable people, and respect religious traditions (para. 2); separate facilities for men and women. Children should join their mothers or fathers or other persons accompanying them, except if this is not in the children's best interest (para. 3); adequate space; accommodation should not be overcrowded (para. 6); recreational, sports and cultural facilities (para. 7).¹⁰⁶

In Mexico, the Mexican Regulation (Reglamento) for the Law on the Rights of Children and Adolescents prohibit the immigration detention of children, regardless of whether they are accompanied or not by an adult. (Article 111, 2 December 2015).¹⁰⁷

In 2008, Panama introduced a law prohibiting the detention of child migrants.¹⁰⁸

Article 47 of the Costa Rica's Refugee Regulation (No. 36831-G) prohibits the detention of all children regardless of whether they are accompanied, unaccompanied or separated.¹⁰⁹

The Irish International Protection Act 2015 states that a person who has not yet reached the age of 18 may not be detained in immigration detention centres. Specifically, Part 3, Section 20, Subsections (1)-(5) of the Act outline the grounds for detention of foreigners in the Republic of Ireland. Subsection (6) states that: [detention] shall not apply to a person who has not attained the age of 18 years.¹¹⁰

In the UK, the Family Returns Process has reduced the detention of family with children, with 97% of the 1470 families who left the country in 2014-16 leaving the UK without enforcement action or detention. The Independent Family Returns Panel ascribes the improved rates of non-enforced return to improved engagement and dialogue with families involving a "Family Engagement Manager" (FEM), noting that the FEM role helps families to understand the process and prepare for a return both practically and psychologically".¹¹¹

Uphold the right of migrants to liberty and prohibition of arbitrary detention through making targeted efforts to end immigration detention of migrants. Never detain children on account of their migration status or that of their parents

At the global level, the Global Campaign to End Immigration Detention of Children was launched in 2012 to draw attention to the detrimental effects that immigration detention has on children, and to encourage states to cease the immigration detention of children consistent with their obligations under the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The Campaign coordinates international, regional and national activities urging states to adopt alternatives to detention that fulfil the best interests of the child and allow children to remain with their family members and/or guardians in non-custodial, community-based contexts while their immigration status is being resolved.¹¹²

Under the Turkey's Law on Foreigners and International Protection (LFIP, 2014) detention is prohibited for unaccompanied children seeking international protection, trafficked persons, international protection status holders, international protection applicants (except in set circumstances) and stateless individuals. The LFIP also exempts individuals who are at risk of torture/ill-treatment if expelled; are unable to travel due to poor health, age or pregnancy; require medical treatment that cannot be obtained in the country of origin or return; or are undergoing treatment due to serious psychological, physical or sexual violence, from deportation orders and, therefore, detention. Such individuals are issued with humanitarian residence permits (with specific permits for trafficked persons).¹¹³ Unaccompanied children are placed "by the Ministry of Family and Social Policies in suitable accommodation facilities, in the care of their adult relatives, or in the care of a foster family, upon taking into account the opinion of the unaccompanied minor." If they are over 16 they can be placed in reception centres.¹¹⁴

In March 2007, New Zealand ratified Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture to allow visits by the Subcommittee on Prevention and the National Preventive Mechanism. The Office of the Ombudsman has been designated as the National Preventive Mechanism for immigration detention facilities.¹¹⁵

In relation to immigration detention, some States have ensured that independent and regular detention monitoring is conducted at the national level. For example, such monitoring has been conducted by the national human rights institutions of Fiji, Honduras, Mali, Mauritius, Mexico, Nicaragua, Nigeria, South Africa, Switzerland and Uganda, and the ombudsmen and independent commissions of Ecuador, Hungary, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Maldives, Montenegro, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Poland, the Republic of Moldova, Senegal, Serbia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.¹¹⁶

Uphold the right of migrants to liberty and prohibition of arbitrary detention through making targeted efforts to end immigration detention of migrants. Never detain children on account of their migration status or that of their parents

Resource: The UN Refugee Agency (UNHCR), the Association for the Prevention of Torture (APT) and the International Detention Coalition (IDC) have jointly produced a Monitoring Immigration Detention Manual that provides a step-by-step guide for institutions and organizations carrying out immigration detention monitoring. It can also be used by authorities, detention centre staff and journalists, as a checklist of the standards that must be applied when migrants are detained.¹¹⁷

Principle V of the Inter-American Commission of Human Rights, Principles and Best Practices on the Protection of Persons Deprived of Liberty in the Americas (2008) states that “Persons deprived of liberty in a member State of the Organization of American States of which they are not nationals, shall be informed, without delay, and in any case before they make any statement to the competent authorities, of their right to consular or diplomatic assistance, and to request that consular or diplomatic authorities be notified of their deprivation of liberty immediately. Furthermore, they shall have the right to communicate with their diplomatic and consular authorities freely and in private.”¹¹⁸

Principle 9: Family unity

Ensure the widest protection of the family unity of migrants, facilitating family reunification, and preventing arbitrary or unlawful interference in the right of migrants to the enjoyment of private and family life

In Serbia, Save the Children runs rapid family reunifications of children accidentally separated from their families during transit periods.¹¹⁹

Save the Children has helped set up bilateral coordination working groups which consist of government and non-governmental actors from both sides of the borders between Mozambique, South Africa and Zimbabwe. One of the tasks for the groups has been to work to improve protocols and guidelines for family tracing and reunification and for the provision of psychosocial support both for children in shelters and for those who have recently returned to their families.¹²⁰

Principle 9: Family unityEnsure the widest protection of the family unity of migrants, facilitating family reunification, and preventing arbitrary or unlawful interference in the right of migrants to the enjoyment of private and family life

Tracing tools help reconnect families who have lost contact as a consequence of migration. The ‘Snapshot’ programme, run by the ICRC and the National Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies of Ethiopia, Kenya, South Sudan and Uganda, helps people find missing relatives by having their own photos published in booklets that are circulated in camps and communities. If a family member recognizes the photo of a relative and the relationship can be confirmed by the National Society, contact can be restored by means of phone calls or National Society messages. The photos are also published online on familylinks.icrc.org in order to reach a global audience.¹²¹

In Somalia, the ICRC, in cooperation with the BBC, broadcasts the names of missing Somalis at the request of their families on the ‘Missing persons’ radio programme six times a week. In cooperation with the Somali Red Crescent Society, the ICRC maintains a list of people whose names have been broadcast and for whom tracing requests have been opened by the Red Cross Red Crescent network. This list is also available online on familylinks.icrc.org.¹²²

With the assistance of the United Nations Children’s Fund, the South African Department of Social Development and the Zimbabwean Ministry of Public Service, Labour and Social Development have developed draft standard operating procedures for the tracing, reunification or alternative care placement of unaccompanied and separated children.¹²³

In Belgium, a specialized unit for unaccompanied children has been established in the Immigration Office, with the responsibility to grant residence documentation, conduct family searches and ensure that any family reunification is in the best interest of the child. In addition, specialized centres have been developed for unaccompanied minors.¹²⁴

In Chile, civil unions made abroad are recognized for the purpose of obtaining residence permits without distinguishing the sex of the parties to recognize the validity of the bond.¹²⁵

Principle 10: Child migrantsGuarantee the human rights of all children in the context of migration, and ensure that they are treated as children first and foremost

The Constitutional Court of Spain has upheld the right of the child to be heard in the context of unaccompanied children facing repatriation or deportation.¹²⁶

The regional Mixed Migration Secretariat (RMMS) and Save the Children has highlighted that for child migrants peer-to-peer approaches may be effective in communicating self-protection strategies and information about migration risks, and identifying children at risk of exploitation.¹²⁷

Resource: The Recommended Principles to guide actions concerning children on the move and other children affected by migration were developed at an expert meeting in Geneva in May 2016 that included participants from OHCHR, UNHCR, IOM, UNICEF, International Detention Coalition, Save the Children, Terre des Hommes, International Catholic Migration Commission, Destination Unknown Campaign, Caritas, PICUM and Service Social International. They have been endorsed by the UN Committee on the Rights of Migrant Workers and Members of their Families.¹²⁸

Save the Children has developed a best interests determination toolkit to improve the best interests determination process for unaccompanied children on the move in South Africa. Developed within the South African legal and policy frameworks, the toolkit is aimed at field practitioners who manage the identification, documentation, tracing and reunification processes in the country and is designed to ensure children's involvement and take into consideration the range of factors that have contributed to the migratory experience of the child.¹²⁹

The Belgian National Human Rights Institution Myria developed a checklist for practitioners, civil servants and judges to assess if the best interest of the migrant child is duly taken into account in all decisions that concern them. The checklist is based on human standards.¹³⁰

Save the Children has developed a Mobility Assessment Tool (MAT) for children on the move. The MAT is a data collection tool that gathers information about children's reasons for migration, travel plans, needs while in transit, destinations, coping mechanisms, and suggestions of required services. The tool aims to collect evidence of the different protection needs and opportunities in each context and help design key protection intervention throughout the journey.¹³¹

Principle 10: Child migrantsGuarantee the human rights of all children in the context of migration, and ensure that they are treated as children first and foremost

UNHCR and UNICEF set up special support centres for children and families along the most frequently used migration routes in Europe. The “Blue Dot” child and family support hubs provide a safe space for children and their families, including services, recreational activities, protection and counselling in a single location. They play a key role in identifying unaccompanied and separated children and providing the protection they need.¹³²

Near Gevgelija town, in the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia at the border with Greece, UNICEF has established a child-friendly space within the compounds of the migrant rest area established by UNHCR able to support 50 children at one time. This is a safe place for children to rest and play while families complete registration procedures. UNICEF’s mobile team is able to screen children, and to identify and refer those who are in need of specialized protection services. A mobile team from LaStrada, a local NGO, assists in the reunification of children with their families and provides psychosocial support and early childhood development services to children.¹³³

In South Africa, unaccompanied migrant children are assigned a social worker, who can refer them to the Children’s Court to make an alternative care order.¹³⁴

Resource: Child Protection Working Group, Minimum Standards for child protection in humanitarian action; UNHCR, A Framework for the Protection of Children.¹³⁵

Outreach to unaccompanied migrant children increases their protection against violence, abuse, exploitation and ensure their access to information and essential services. Save the Children reported that in Greece and Italy drop-in centres were set up. They reach unaccompanied children where they gather or live to invite them to visit the centre for more detailed information, counselling and assistance, stressing the service does not require identification or registration with the authorities. The NGO has seen a high number of unaccompanied children registered at the drop-in centres as a result, which helps to reduce the disappearances of children from reception centres and other temporary accommodations.¹³⁶

In March 2017, the Italian Parliament passed the Provision of Protection for Unaccompanied Foreigner Minors Law, which enhances support and protection for unaccompanied and separated children arriving in the country. Along with an absolute prohibition on refoulement, the law incorporates the establishment of a structured national reception system, with minimum standards in all reception facilities, education and health rights for all unaccompanied and separated children, the right to be heard in administrative and judicial proceedings, including in the absence of a guardian, and the right to legal assistance.¹³⁷

The Mexican government, with the support of UNICEF Mexico, have developed the Protocol for Consular Attention for Unaccompanied Migrant Child and Adolescent as a tool for consular attention and protection of Mexican unaccompanied migrant children and adolescents. The Protocol sets out a number of steps to establish adequate conditions for the interview and helps to provide comprehensive attention, bearing in mind the situation of each child, in order to identify situations of risk and activate the inter-institutional protection chain.¹³⁸

Ensamkommandes forbund is an organization created in Malmo, Sweden in 2013 by former unaccompanied minors to help them to integrate and find support networks. The organization started informally with a few former unaccompanied minors who wanted a space where they could discuss, take decisions, and make their message heard. The organization has created a friend-matching system, where any member can volunteer to be matched with others in the network. In addition, the organization provides support to unaccompanied minors to advocate for the rights of unaccompanied minors in the asylum process as well as in society in general.¹³⁹

As a way to share good practice, the Belgian NGO Service droit des jeunes has created and administered with guardians, an Internet forum on unaccompanied and separated children to encourage networking among guardians, specialized lawyers, and NGOs. The forum is administered by NGOs as well as guardians.¹⁴⁰

The percentage of registered children is above 90 per cent in all industrialized countries and among some countries in Central and Eastern Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States (CEE/CIS) and Latin America and the Caribbean.¹⁴¹

The Netherlands provides for undocumented children's right to birth registration explicitly in law.¹⁴²

In 2009, the Italian government adopted a change in the immigration law, introducing the requirement for a residence permit to be shown to register a birth. On the eve of the law entering into force, and as a result of advocacy efforts, the Ministry of Interior issued a circular clarifying that irregular migrants have the right to register their child at birth: it allows for the mother to be issued a temporary residence permit, valid for six months.¹⁴³

In Thailand, the right to birth registration of children of irregular migrant parents is recognized in the Civil Registration Act (2008). In addition, the 2008 Nationality Act provides for the naturalization of specific categories of persons including children of irregular immigrants born in Thailand before 1992.¹⁴⁴

Principle 11: Women migrants
Protect the human rights of migrant women and girls

At the 9th MERCOSUR's Meeting of Ministries and High-Level Authorities of Women's Affairs, a recommendation for mutual recognition, within the region, of protection measures for victims of gender based violence was adopted.¹⁴⁵

A newly-constructed temporary shelter facility located in Serbia several kilometres from the Hungarian border meets all Sphere standards including private and secure family-only and women-only accommodation, common areas and separate WASH facilities for women and men.¹⁴⁶ In the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, WASH facilities in Gevgelija are made of semi-permanent construction sanitation blocks with wheelchair accessible sex-segregated toilets, sex-segregated showers and hand washing facilities. The facilities are lit at night. There is a separate a mother/baby changing station in the sanitation block which can be accessed by requesting a key from the UNICEF Child Friendly Space nearby.¹⁴⁷

The camps for Syrian refugees in Turkey have instituted, in partnership with World Food Programme (WFP), a programme enabling Syrian families to purchase pre-approved food items from participating vendors both within camps and in nearby towns and cities. These monthly food stipends are linked to each, individually registered adult in the camps, thereby affording women the same fixed and dedicated resources as their male counterparts.¹⁴⁸

At Šentilj accommodation centre and Dobova reception centre in Slovenia, health care of pregnant women is available (a mobile medical team providing basic health care is there permanently, and pregnant women are referred to a local health centre if necessary), as well as a private area for women — breastfeeding area, children's corners, family corners, etc. (the Šentilj centre includes an area for family member reunification). Women have separate restrooms and showers and sanitary kits are available.¹⁴⁹

The Greek General Secretariat for Gender Equality (Ministry of Interior) has issued a guide for migrant women concerning their rights in the areas of work, health and social security. This also helps to sensitize officials and others to the need for equal treatment.¹⁵⁰

Protect the human rights of migrant women and girls

Some States have conducted training programmes for government officials, the police, the judiciary, medical staff and other service providers to ensure gender-sensitive policy implementation, service provision and assistance, including access to justice, in the context of violence against women, human trafficking and protection of migrant workers. Belgium, for example, has conducted training to raise the awareness of prosecutors, police and medical personnel about domestic violence. Italy has undertaken awareness-raising campaigns and delivered human rights courses and training for judicial system personnel to prevent and eliminate violence against and stalking of women.¹⁵¹ Certain States (Germany, Greece, Malta, Peru, the Philippines, Sweden and the United Arab Emirates) have reported on the production of guidelines, the provision of support and the conduct of training programmes for public officials (including the judiciary, police, immigration officials and civil servants) on the identification of migrants at risk and the prevention and protection of migrant women workers from exploitation and abuse.¹⁵²

In order to mainstream a gender perspective into policies and programmes addressed to migrants, Mexico is undertaking a review and analysis of governmental programmes and actions to ensure that they do not contain requirements that impede migrant women and their families from accessing them. As part of this work, the Mexican government established the Technical Group for the Incorporation of the Gender Perspective in Care and Protection Policies for Migrant Women within the framework of the Consultative Council on Migration Policy of the SEGOB, ensuring the state is acting in line with its international and regional obligations.¹⁵³

OHCHR released a short documentary film in 2015, “I Am Not Here”, in collaboration with Oscar-nominated director Ashvin Kumar, that follows the stories of three women in cities in Switzerland, the United States and Malaysia. It highlights the situation of undocumented women migrant domestic workers, millions of whom live in the shadows. In the framework of the Global Action Programme on Migrant Domestic Workers and their Families, OHCHR convened a global seminar in Bangkok on the human rights of migrant domestic workers in an irregular situation in September 2015 and launched its report “Behind closed doors: protecting and promoting the human rights of migrant domestic workers in an irregular situation”.¹⁵⁴

Principle 12: Right to health
Ensure the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health of all migrants

Through its Strategic Plan for Migration adopted in 2015, Portugal granted access to the National Health System to all residents, whether or not they have regular status.¹⁵⁵

In Argentina, Trinidad and Tobago and Uruguay, all migrants enjoy the same access to social services as nationals. Other States, including Belgium, France, Italy and the Netherlands, have implemented administrative systems to give irregular migrants access to a range of health service. The right to equal access of all children to health care is recognized in Greece, Portugal, Romania and Spain.¹⁵⁶

Under a new law that entered into force on 1 July 2013, people who stay in Sweden without a permit must be offered the same subsidised health and medical care as adult asylum seekers, and such children must be offered the same care as resident and asylum-seeking children.¹⁵⁷

In 2014, the Chilean Ministry of Health established a task force to develop a migrant-responsive health policy. Several actions have been undertaken to ensure the right to health of migrants, regardless of their status, including: a) the inclusion of irregular migrants as beneficiaries of the public health insurance FONASA (Decree of the Ministry of Health No. 67 of 29 May 2015); b) the development of trainings on migration, health, human rights, and cultural awareness addressed to health professionals, service providers, and officials in charge of health programmes; c) the implementation of a strategy to improve the collection of data and information on migrants' access to health; d) the organization of 8 dialogues, which are spaces of participation where migrants and nationals can express their concerns and proposals in relation to the health policy for migrants.¹⁵⁸

In northern France, MSF teams provided medical consultations, nursing care, physiotherapy and psychological support at the camp known as 'the Jungle' in Calais, as well as in another camp in Grande-Synthe, near Dunkirk.¹⁵⁹

In Greece, the health screening of migrants aims to provide, where necessary, appropriate therapeutic intervention and to ensure the referral of those in need of medical care to competent health structures.¹⁶⁰

In Spain the Association Salud y Familia (Health and Family) is implementing several programmes to improve access to health services for undocumented migrants in the Barcelona region. The association combines policy advocacy with coordination with service providers and the government to guarantee undocumented persons' access to a health card. In collaboration with the public hospitals of Cataluña, they implement the "Mothers between two cultures" programme, aimed at designing and piloting intercultural education activities targeted toward migrant mothers with different cultural background who have children of three years or younger. The objective is to improve coverage and reduce unmet needs in the area of maternal and child health prevention and promotion, by strengthening knowledge, capacity and social support networks. The Association also offers a programme called "Assistance for At-Risk Maternity" which provides partial assistance for pregnant women to receive pre-natal care and psychosocial support.¹⁶¹

In Sweden, health screening must be offered to all applicants for international protection by the county councils/regions in which they reside. The health screening is offered to identify any health problems relating to the individual, but also as a measure for infectious disease control. The health screening is voluntary and an interpreter can be engaged if necessary. The health screening aims to deliver a medical assessment of what kind of healthcare services should be offered to the person in question. The screening must include questions about the person's immunisation status, his or her exposure to infections, as well as other information that may be needed to discover any infectious diseases. The questions must be based on the epidemiological situation of the places where the person in question has stayed before arriving in Sweden. The health screening must also include a health dialogue (hälsosamtal) concerning the person's past and present physical and mental health. A part of this dialogue must concern the person's psychosocial situation or traumatic experiences. A physical examination and tests must be carried out as part of the health screening. They should be based on the findings from the questions asked earlier and the health dialogue.¹⁶²

In Serbia, migrants living in reception and transit centres are provided with access to health care. Centres have rooms for the provision of healthcare (24 hour medical teams, gynaecologists and international organizations which provide information of health). In cooperation with civil society organisations and international organisations, migrants have access to psychosocial support. In cooperation with the local healthcare centres, conditions and resources have been ensured for the provision of health care, in order to adequately respond to the needs of migrants present in the territory.¹⁶³

Article 32 of the Italian Constitution guarantees assistance to everyone under the national health-care system, based on the principles of universality and solidarity. This implies the compulsory enrolment in the National Health-Care Service (NHS) to all migrant children being on the national territory, regardless of their legal status.¹⁶⁴

The Swiss Red Cross runs health centres for undocumented migrants in Bern and Zurich. According to Swiss Law, irregular migrants have the right to health insurance and therefore access to public health care. The centres provide health counselling, health insurance information, primary health care, psychiatric support, and preventive care. The centres also support irregular migrants to access specialists, hospitals or dentists.¹⁶⁵

One of the priorities of the Swiss national programme "Migration and Health" is to enable migrants' access to health services, regardless of their migration status. The programme has set up an online platform to support health professionals' intercultural competences and a telephone interpretation service available in 50 languages.¹⁶⁶

Doctors and volunteers from Gynécologie Sans Frontières carry out visits to refugee and migrant women in locations lacking basic living conditions and access to adequate health care, including reproductive health care.¹⁶⁷

MSF operates at the arrival spots in Sicily, assisting people onshore by providing a Psychological First Aid. A mobile team composed of a psychologist and adequately trained cultural mediators is deployed within maximum 72 hours after the alert is given by the Italian Ministry of Interior. A number of essential services are then given to survivors, such as access to basic needs, orientation and information, referral of severe medical cases, emotional and psychological support. According to the landing location and with the agreement of national authorities, group and/or individual psychological sessions are provided.¹⁶⁸

A programme called Ventanillas de Salud, Institute for Mexicans Abroad, was created to assist the Mexican immigrant population in the United States. Beginning in 2003 in California and spreading to all Mexican Consulates in the US, it provides health information, screenings and referral services to Mexican citizens living in the US, partnering with local non-profits to provide services. They also assist in helping those eligible to enrol in federal and state health programmes.¹⁶⁹

The Swiss Red Cross has published a booklet with information on the right to health care, how to access health care and insurance, and recommendations for health practitioners on how to treat migrants who do not have health insurance.¹⁷⁰

Malta has established a special unit within the Department of Primary Health to attend migrants. It is staffed with several ‘cultural mediators’ from migrant communities (Somali, Ethiopian, Eritrean, Congolese, and Nigerian). Half of these are women, who provide assistance during prenatal and gynaecological appointments at the “women’s clinic” in the health centres. In addition to direct assistance and cultural sensitivity training for staff, the Unit has also conducted community outreach on sexual health, how to navigate the health system and mental health. Materials have been published in many languages, including Somali, Tigrinya, French and Arabic.¹⁷¹

At the World Humanitarian Summit, the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and 13 States — Australia, Central African Republic, Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Liberia, The Netherlands, Norway, The Philippines, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, and Uruguay — committed to intensify support, including financing for humanitarian action, to ensure universal access to sexual and reproductive health and reproductive rights in crisis settings.¹⁷² This includes a rollout by 2017 of the Minimum Initial Services Package (MISP) within 48 hours of an emergency which will help prevent maternal and new born deaths; support those who have been targeted for sexual violence and subsequent trauma; sexually transmitted infections; unwanted pregnancies and unsafe abortions; and the possible spread of HIV.¹⁷³

The United Kingdom makes antiretroviral therapy available to all people living with HIV in the country at no cost regardless of their migration status.¹⁷⁴

The South African National AIDS Council is establishing a multistakeholder advisory committee on mobile men and migrant populations to provide advice on a comprehensive and strong programme aimed at reducing the risk of HIV transmission and other infectious diseases among migrants.¹⁷⁵

Migrant and Refugee Communities Forum (MRCF) is a bilingual mentoring support scheme in the UK, developed in 2007 in order to take advantage of the skills of unemployed refugee doctor who wanted to support non-English speaking migrants and refugees experiencing mental illness, using a US cultural brokerage model. Mentees not only reported feeling better, but started attending college, volunteering and some secured paid work. MRCF has opened the mentoring role to all individuals who want to support migrants and refugees. Training and structured support is provided for mentoring vulnerable migrants and refugees weekly for at least six months to help them break out of isolation and build confidence for a new start.¹⁷⁶

In the USA, non-profit organisations are explicitly exempt from any requirements to verify immigration status as a condition for providing services. Rather, any non-profit or government domestic violence service programme or shelter that denies assistance to migrants on the basis of their irregular situation is in violation of the Attorney General's order requiring that services "necessary for the protection of life and safety" be provided without regard to immigration status.¹⁷⁹

Some US cities including Chicago have introduced municipal identification cards so that undocumented residents can more easily access public services such as healthcare and schools.¹⁸⁰

The Committee for the Rights of Foreigners of the Council for Human Rights (an advisory body to the Czech Government) concluded after a meeting with health professionals in September 2010 that reporting migrants in an irregular situation to the police is unlawful and should not take place. As a follow-up, the Czech Medical Chamber clarified this issue in a newsletter, sent to every doctor.¹⁸¹

Principle 13: Adequate standard of livingSafeguard the right of migrants to an adequate standard of living

In March 2016, the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI), part of the Council of Europe, has adopted the General Policy Recommendation No. 16 on safeguarding irregularly present migrants from discrimination.¹⁸² The policy calls for the creation of firewalls to prevent state and private sector actors from denying human rights to migrants in an irregular situation by clearly prohibiting the sharing of the personal data of, or other information about, persons suspected of irregular presence or work, with the immigration authorities for purposes of immigration control and enforcement. The recommendations outlines ways to ensure that these rights are respected in the areas of education, health care, housing, social security and assistance, labour protection and justice. In relation to housing, in order to reduce the risk of exploitative or abusive situations, States are required to ensure that renting accommodation to irregular migrants is not criminalised by reason only of their immigration or migratory status.¹⁸³

In 2005, the Municipality of Utrecht in the Netherlands supported the Dutch non-profit organisation STIL to set up a shelter for women and children in irregular status called Fanga Musow (“Strong Women”). This initiative offers undocumented women and children safe and stable accommodation, financial help, legal assistance, education and medical services. Now run as a project of Stichting Seguro, the shelter is partly funded by the Municipality (staff costs) and partly funded by numerous independent donors (other running costs and financial assistance to the women). Stichting Seguro also manages three shelters for undocumented men who are homeless in Utrecht, entirely funded by the Municipality. The Municipality also fully funds another shelter for undocumented women and children called Huize Agnes. Most of the undocumented women supported in this shelter arrived in the Netherlands as unaccompanied children and are now undocumented young women, some with children.¹⁸⁴

In Greece a collective of refugee, student and solidarity activists have squatted City Plaza, a disused hotel that was closed for several years, since 22 April 2016. From 2nd May, City Plaza has hosted refugees who arrived prior to the EU/Turkey Deal of March 2016. It is not funded by the state or by NGOs, but is self-funded and self-run. City Plaza is collectively organised in its daily operation, with all those living at the site involved in decision making through various cross-represented assemblies. The people living on site participate in ensuring the collective living arrangements run smoothly, and there is a rota to cover all the cooking, cleaning, and additional activities required to ensure that everyone experiences comfortable living conditions.¹⁸⁵

Principle 14: Decent workGuarantee the right of migrants to work, in just and favourable conditions

In Spain the Ley de Extranjería (Foreigners' Law) of August 2000 denied migrants in an irregular situation the right to assemble, demonstrate, associate, join a union and go on strike. In January 2001, three major trade unions — the Union General de Trabajadores (UGT), Comisiones Obreras (CCOO) and the Confederación General de Trabajo (CGT) — made a public announcement stating that the law was unconstitutional, that they would not follow it, and that they would allow undocumented migrants to be members of their trade unions. Another Spanish union, the Sindicato de Obreros del Campo (SOC), has also gone against this law by making undocumented workers union members.¹⁸⁶

Labour laws in Azerbaijan, Jamaica, and Peru also ensure that migrants have equal access to social protection, including contributory pension schemes and health care.¹⁸⁷

The Swedish Trade Union Centre for Undocumented Migrants was created in 2008 by a number of Swedish trade union organisations, together with an organisation promoting the rights of undocumented migrants. The objective of the centre is to inform undocumented migrants about their rights in the labour market and represent them vis-à-vis their employers in any proceedings if they so wish.¹⁸⁸

In Belgium, DUO for a JOB connects young migrants looking for jobs with experienced professional mentors in early retirement, who share their knowledge, experience and personal networks, to support migrants in their research for jobs.¹⁸⁹

The Bulgarian Red Cross offers assistance to migrants in finding jobs via an employer referral programme, job seeking support and language lessons. Six volunteers from migrant communities, under the supervision of two Bulgarian Red Cross staff members in Sofia, assist migrants to register with the employment office, draft CVs, prepare for job interviews, and enrol in trainings. The Bulgarian Red Cross also works to encourage employers to hire migrants, and refers migrants to employers who have expressed willingness to consider them. In addition, the Bulgarian Red Cross offers language lessons to support the integration process. Migrants receive lessons from Bulgarian teachers several times a week. One lesson from the project has been that the involvement of potential employer companies in implementation of the programme, for example in trainings, encourages the participation and long-term commitment of both companies and employees.¹⁹⁰

The ASEAN Qualifications Reference Framework (AQRF) is a system to relate existing qualification framework/training system between ASEAN member states. The AQRF has eight qualifications levels, ranging from basic skills to most advanced and specialised skills agreed among all 10 member states.¹⁹¹

ChileValora, the national System of Certification of Professional Skills, certifies the job skills of migrants that are included in the Catalogue of Job Skills, regardless of migrants' status and where the professional skills have been developed.¹⁹²

The New Skills Agenda for Europe launched by the European Commission in June 2016 outlines a number of initiatives with the aim to assess, profile, recognise and upgrade skills of third country nationals, including the launch of a 'Skills Profile Tool for Third Country Nationals', which will assist services in receiving and host countries to identify and document skills, qualifications and experience of newly-arrived third country nationals.¹⁹³

Principle 14: Decent workGuarantee the right of migrants to work, in just and favourable conditions

In Canada, recognition of credentials for regulated occupations is mainly a sub-national responsibility that is mostly delegated, in legislation, to professional regulatory bodies that have the primary responsibility for establishing occupational standards. The federal government plays a facilitative role to foster the development of consistent, national approaches. To this end, the Forum of Labour Market Ministers has developed the Pan-Canadian Framework for the Assessment and Recognition of Foreign Qualifications. Since the launch of the Framework in 2009, government representatives of labour, immigration, and health departments have worked collaboratively towards the enhancement of foreign-qualification recognition processes across Canada.¹⁹⁴

Since 2010, Canada's Labour Program has partnered with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to raise awareness on human trafficking for forced labour among provincial labour inspectors and other labour officials, including providing information about possible signs and indicators of human trafficking and possible areas of cooperation between federal, provincial, territorial labour officials, law enforcement and other implicated parties. Since migrant workers are potentially at risk, raising awareness among front line labour inspectors may help mitigate the risk and identify potential victims.¹⁹⁵

In Thailand, all workers, regardless of migrant status, have the right to claim compensation in case of accident or injury at work through the Workmen's Compensation Fund. All employers are obligated to pay in to the fund and may be liable under civil or criminal law if they do not.¹⁹⁶

Sri Lanka requires all recruitment agents and employers recruiting Sri Lankans nationals for employment abroad to be registered and licensed by the government. They must be registered with the relevant Diplomatic Mission, which approves jobs requests and placements.¹⁹⁷

Principle 15: Right to educationProtect the right of migrants to education, including primary and secondary education as well as higher education and vocational and language training

The fundamental right of all children to education, regardless of their legal status, is recognized in Argentina, Belgium, Chile, Italy, Spain, Thailand, the Netherlands and Uruguay. In France, there is a ministerial circular to the same effect.¹⁹⁸

Italy guarantees to migrant children the right to education, regardless of their status, on the same terms as Italian children. The 1998 Immigration Act integrates the right to education in national legislation. It provides for the compulsory education of migrant children, the teaching of Italian, and the promotion of the culture and language of the countries of origin of migrant children.¹⁹⁹

Chile guarantees access to public education to migrant children and adolescents, regardless of their migration status (Ministry of Education, Ordinary Communication No. 07/1008 of 2005). In 2016, a new procedure was established to facilitate the enrolment of irregular migrant children.²⁰⁰

In Serbia, school age migrants in transit have access to informal education, provided by the competent institution in cooperation with civil society organisations.²⁰¹

Through its Strategic Plan for Migration adopted in 2015, Portugal promotes access to education to the children of all migrants, whether or not they have regular status.²⁰²

The US Supreme Court ruled in the landmark Plyler v. Doe case in 1982, that it was a violation of the Constitution to deny irregular migrant children free compulsory education under the same conditions as citizens and regular migrant children. The legal ruling has been complemented by guidelines, for instance those produced by the National School Boards Association and the National Education Association, regarding legal issues and specific schools. A number of States have fully implemented this ruling to include access to other school-based services, such as free and reduced-price meals and educational assistance for children with learning disabilities.²⁰³

In 2005, Thailand's Ministry of Education instructed school directors to enrol all children, including irregular migrant children, so they could access free basic education.²⁰⁴

The Council of Europe's project Linguistic Integration of Adult Migrants (LIAM) provides assistance to member states in developing coherent and effective policies on linguistic support to adult migrants. In this area, the Council of Europe has also developed standard setting instruments, policy guidelines²⁰⁵ and tools²⁰⁶ for policy makers, language course providers, teachers and learners.²⁰⁷

In Belgium, head teachers are not required to inform the police of the administrative status of children and their parents, and undocumented migrants will not be arrested in the vicinity of the school. This guarantee was extended to the entire Belgian territory through a circular letter signed by the Ministry of Interior on 29 April 2003, recalling that police services cannot enter schools in order to carry out deportations.²⁰⁸ In the Netherlands, legislation explicitly prevents schools from sharing personal information with others (for example, immigration authorities) and from refusing registration because of immigration status.²⁰⁹

Portugal provides for enhanced protection of undocumented children and the children of irregular migrants. Their details are confidential and may not be shared with immigration authorities. This practice prevents situations in which children do not attend school or receive proper health care for fear of their status being exposed.²¹⁰

In 1997, Germany set up a national database of leaving certificates, exams and degrees and information about the authorities responsible for recognition in specific sectors and regions. Since 2012, there has been a publicly accessible version online. Detailed information on foreign educational institutions, their courses and certificates is available for institutions that have to assess these for recognition (the database covers 180 countries, approximately 25,000 institutions, 22,000 university degrees and 25,000 evaluations on individual cases; professional qualifications — 5,800 entries — and secondary school leaving certificates — 1,500 entries — complement the academic sector). One consequence of standardizing this recognition procedure has been a significant reduction in the administrative budget for this work.²¹¹

Ecuador's Human Mobility Law, passed in January 2017, guarantees to migrants and returnees the right to the recognition of degrees and studies carried out abroad.²¹²

The Platform for International Cooperation on Undocumented Migrants (PICUM) have produced a teachers' guide to accompany their web documentary "Undocumented" to educate students at all levels about the daily lives of undocumented migrants, drawing on stories of undocumented migrants, migrants' rights defenders, professionals and public authorities. The tool also addresses related issues such as human rights, migration, social studies, civic education, and current affairs.²¹³

In Slovenia, UNICEF trained teachers on working with migrant children and elaborated a school activities model at the Livada Primary School as a good practice. They provided school teaching staff with dictionaries to facilitate communication with children (Arabic, English, Slovenian).²¹⁴

In Ecuador, UNHCR and the Nation Human Rights Institution (Defensoria del Pueblo) promoted the development of a methodology of inclusive education addressed to teachers and educators working in urban and rural areas of Ecuador.²¹⁵

In Switzerland, school curricula include learning objectives related to non-discrimination and respect for diversity.²¹⁶

The Hague court found that Dutch national law (Aliens Employment Act or WAV) is in violation of Article 2 of the 1st Protocol of the ECHR by requiring students to have a residence permit in order to carry out an internship which is a compulsory part of an educational programme.²¹⁷

A special programme called "Mama Learns Greek" — Learning of the Greek Language Tailor-made for Migrant Mothers helps migrant mothers to learn the language and improve their ability to help their children in school. This contributes to gender equality, the integration of mothers and children, cohesion of the family and human development of mothers and children. This programme is also part of the Annual Programme of the European Integration Fund, a programme that promotes linguistic skills and women's capacity to assist their children in their schooling and life.²¹⁸

Principle 16: Right to information
Uphold migrants' right to information

Traditional information distribution strategies, including pamphlets, posters and information sessions may not be effective in the context of large and/or mixed movements, given that individuals cannot carry non-essential material with them and time spent in the reception and transit centres is limited. In the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, the NGO La Strada has been handing out laminated maps to women and girls — which they will likely keep given the importance of maps to their journey — on the back of which contacts of protection services in transit and destination countries are listed.²²⁰

On arrival in Slovenia, every migrant was given a pamphlet with basic information on the country, registration procedure, available services and information on accommodation, care and health services as well as the names of organisations providing these services (Police, Caritas, Administration for Civil Protection and Disaster Relief, Red Cross, Slovenska filantropija), including the information of the Red Cross being responsible for tracing family members and reunification of families when family members get lost on route. The pamphlet was also available in Arabic.²²¹

PROGE (Die Produktionsgewerkschaft) in Austria is a union which provides information about rights such as the minimum wage, working hours and holidays, for example to seasonal harvest workers.²²²

The New Zealand Government provides trusted settlement information to migrants on a variety of topics, including New Zealand's employment law, finding employment, cost of living, housing, healthcare, education and schooling and opportunities to participate in the community.²²³

In Serbia, several NGOs are developing phone apps for migrants and asylum seekers with a view to provide updated information on border closures, transport options, and available services along the transit route. One organization wanted to include a mapping of gender-based violence health services in countries along the route.²²⁴

In the Balkans, governments have discussed using loudspeakers with recorded messages in multiple languages playing in transit centres to ensure that information is properly shared. This would improve access to information especially for women and girls who may have lower literacy rates.²²⁵

In 2015, Turkey launched a new communication center for foreigners (Yimer Line). The centre acts as a 'helpline' and provides information in Turkish, English, Arabic and Russian. This calling center also serves as hotline for victims of human trafficking and provides translation services for foreigners who need to contact law enforcement agencies.²²⁶

Uphold migrants' right to information

Welcome to Europe (w2eu.info) provides independent information, including contacts and counselling, for refugees and migrants coming to Europe. The information is accessible by country or issue.²²⁷

The Netherlands Red Cross launched the Refugee Buddy app in November 2015 to provide newly arrived migrants with information about their new area of residence. The app was developed in close consultation with migrants who had said that lack of any information on where they were or what to do was a key challenge. The app provides information on: the asylum procedure; key facilities nearby (e.g., pharmacies, supermarkets, churches and mosques); relevant news; traffic and transportation; medical facilities; and Dutch culture. The app can be downloaded in Arabic or English and provides translations. The existing Red Cross Red Crescent First Aid app has also been translated and integrated into the Buddy app. The app had been downloaded 4000 to 5000 times in the first six months of release.²²⁸

NetHope, is a public & private partnership of aid groups and technology companies providing low-bandwidth Wi-fi hotspots and charging facilities to migrants along the Balkan migration route and in camps in Greece. Given that some services, such as booking an interview with the Greek Asylum Office, are only available online, the internet is essential for migrants to be able to access services and secure their rights such as making informed decisions about their migration and connect with family members.²²⁹

Red Cross National societies use the opportunity provided by setting up charging stations where migrants can charge their smartphones to share Red Cross Red Crescent information material and audio. In camps in Rwanda, the ICRC is implementing the 'Mobile Solar Kiosk' project to help migrants in camps charge their phones. Many migrants in camps own phones but cannot use them due to lack of access to the Rwandan mobile network, no airtime/credit, and no access to electricity to charge their phones. A solar kiosk that allows 20 phones to be charged at any given time has been set up in the camp; the kiosk charges 60 phones per day on average.²³⁰

In March 2016 the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) Representative on Freedom of the Media recommended the member States to: a) instruct immigration and other law enforcement agencies to respect the right of members of the media to report on issues of public interest and to ensure their safety; b) facilitate journalists' access to areas and locations relevant from a migration perspective, such as border areas, camps and other facilities; c) allow journalists to interview or have contact with migrants in order to report personal stories and current living conditions; d) respect and promote media self-regulatory mechanisms in order to avoid the stereotyping of migrants.²³³

Principle 17: Monitoring and accountabilityGuarantee monitoring and accountability in all responses to migration, including in large and/or mixed movements of migrants

UN-Women's migration programme "Promoting and Protecting Women Migrant Workers' Labour and Human Rights: Engaging with International, National Human Rights Mechanism to Enhance Accountability" was piloted in Mexico, Moldova and the Philippines and had global reach through high-level policy and normative work (February 2014-January 2017). Activities were aimed at promoting the rights and protection of Women Migrant Workers against exploitation and abuse at all stages of migration by 1) strengthening strategic international human rights institutions, parliaments, governments to ensure accountability to WMWs at all stages; and 2) strengthening WMWs organizations to effectively engage with these mechanisms and governments to ensure greater accountability at all stages of migration.²³⁷

Within the European Network of National Human Rights Institutions, many of the members have done significant work on combatting negative stereotyping and hate speech, through their monitoring and reporting work. For instance, the French Commission (CNCDH) in its annual report on combatting racism, anti-Semitism and xenophobia is monitoring and analysing the actions of the public authorities and formulates recommendations to help them fight against this phenomena, but also through complaints handling and legal action. The latter is the case of the Belgian NHRI, Interfederal Centre for Equal Opportunities (UNIA), which handled an increased number of complaints during the past year. Several NHRIs are also working on projects to identify and prevent hate speech on the internet.²³⁸

Principle 17: Monitoring and accountabilityGuarantee monitoring and accountability in all responses to migration, including in large and/or mixed movements of migrants

OHCHR has carried out monitoring of the human rights of migrants at the request of the Human Rights Council, as well as under the mandate of the High Commissioner for Human Rights. In a report on the situation of migrants and asylum seekers in the North African region, OHCHR highlighted the specific human rights concerns of migrants and provided recommendations designed to protect their human rights. OHCHR and the United Nations Support Mission in Libya (UNSMIL) released a joint report documenting the human rights abuses against migrants in Libya and providing recommendations to the authorities in Libya, as well as to countries of origin and destination, to ensure adequate human rights protections for migrants.²³⁹

Principle 18: Human rights defendersRespect and support the activities of human rights defenders and others working to rescue and provide assistance to migrants

The Constitution of Montenegro recognizes that forming an association is a right that requires no form of approval; it is applicable to children from the age of 14 years. In Finland, online notification is sufficient to register a civil society organization and unregistered organizations operate freely, in line with recommendations of United Nations experts.²⁴⁰

In Mexico and Côte d'Ivoire, laws have been enacted that specifically protect human rights defenders, drawing on the UN Declaration on the Right and Responsibility of Individuals, Groups and Organs of Society to Promote and Protect Universally Recognized Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.²⁴¹

The Workbook on Security by Front Line Defenders is inspired by human rights defenders from over 50 countries who have attended Front Line Defenders' workshops on security and protection. The Workbook is designed to raise awareness on security issues and mitigation of threats. The workbook illustrates to human rights defenders how to assess the security situation, develop risk and vulnerability reduction strategies, and produce a security plan for individuals and for organisations.²⁴²

The UN has adopted the Guidelines against Intimidation or Reprisals (“San José Guidelines”) in response to intimidation and reprisals against those who provide information or contribute to the treaty bodies’ work to promote and protect human rights. The Guidelines underline States’ responsibility to avoid acts constituting such intimidation or reprisals and mobilise treaty bodies’ means to assist and protect individuals and groups who have been targeted for seeking to cooperate or cooperating with them.²⁴³ Specifically, the Committee on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families has adopted the San José Guidelines and appointed one of its members as Rapporteur on reprisals.²⁴⁴ One of the Assistant Secretaries General for Human Rights has also been mandated to lead UN work on ending intimidation and reprisals against human rights defenders.²⁴⁵

Several resources can support human rights defenders in improving their digital security, including: a) Tactical Tech offers digital security workshops and has an archive on digital security and human rights;²⁴⁶ b) Security in-a-Box is a guide to digital security for activists and human rights defenders throughout the world. It was developed by Front Line Defenders and Tactical Technology Collective, with the support of a global network of activists, trainers and digital security experts;²⁴⁷ c) Ononymous.org provides a collection of digital security training materials — videos, toolkits, guides — from contributors such as Tactical Tech, Front Line Defenders, EFF, Open Data City, The Tor Project, The Centre for Investigative Journalism and Access Now.²⁴⁸

Principle 19: DataImprove the collection of disaggregated data on the human rights situation of migrants, while ensuring the right to privacy and protection of personal data

In 2014, the Regional Mixed Migration Secretariat (RMMS) created the Mixed Migration Monitoring Mechanism Initiative (4Mi), as an attempt to address the need for better data. The 4Mi is an innovative, low-cost approach to collect and analyse data on mixed migration flows from the Horn of Africa. Through a network of thirty locally-recruited monitors in strategic migration hubs in Northern, Eastern, and Southern Africa, Southern and Eastern Europe, and the Middle East, the 4Mi project tracks Eritrean, Ethiopian, Djiboutian and Somali people on the move through interviews and questionnaires, generating data disaggregated by gender, country of origin, and their experience of human rights abuses.²⁵¹ The RMMS compiles monthly summaries of mixed migration movements, data and trends in the sub-region, as well descriptions of political events and policy changes affecting mixed migration. It publishes monthly narrative summaries, maps, and quarterly and annual trend analysis.²⁵²

UNHCR publishes data on the numbers of migrants travelling along different routes, including those dying or going missing en route.²⁵³ IOM also maps this data.²⁵⁴ IOM has published two reports in the Fatal Journeys series, on tracking, identification and the tracing of dead and missing migrants.²⁵⁵

The Human Costs of Border Control project published the Deaths at the Borders Database for the Southern EU, an open-source evidence base of individualised, but anonymised, information about the 3188 people who died between 1990 and 2013 at the borders, sourced from the death management systems of Spain, Gibraltar, Italy, Malta and Greece. It is the first database on border deaths in the EU based on official sources as opposed to the news media.²⁵⁶

In response to a longstanding demand to develop and deploy appropriate statistical indicators in furthering the cause of human rights, OHCHR developed a framework of human rights indicators that is now being applied by national governments, national human rights institutions and non-governmental organisations worldwide. Human rights indicators are essential in the implementation of human rights standards and commitments, to support policy formulation, impact assessment and transparency.²⁵⁷

OHCHR, the Global Knowledge Partnership on Migration and Development of the World Bank, UNICEF, ILO and the Migrant Forum in Asia have developed indicators for the human rights of migrants, focusing on the rights to health, education and decent work. The indicators were piloted in Mexico and Tunisia with local and national government officials, human rights and migration experts, statisticians and representatives of civil society organizations with expertise in data collection.²⁵⁸

Principle 19: DataImprove the collection of disaggregated data on the human rights situation of migrants, while ensuring the right to privacy and protection of personal data

In 2015, the NGO Women for Refugee Women carried out a research on women asylum seekers' experiences of detention in the UK. The methodology adopted took into account the individual vulnerabilities of refugee women and was in line with the Social Research Association Ethical Guidelines. After the research aims and purposes were explained, all participants were asked to give consent. Participants were informed that their names and details would be kept confidential.²⁵⁹

KOK e.V., a German NGO network against trafficking in human beings, with La Strada International, the European NGO Network against Trafficking in Human Beings, implemented datACT, a joint project to develop data protection standards for anti-trafficking NGO service providers. The aim of the project was to promote the rights of trafficked persons to privacy and autonomy and to protect their personal data.²⁶⁰

The Council of Europe Convention for the Protection of Individuals with regard to Automatic Processing of Personal Data is the first binding international instrument which protects the individual against abuses which may accompany the collection and processing of personal data and which seeks to regulate at the same time the transfrontier flow of personal data.²⁶¹

Recognising that there was limited guidance on protecting personal data in the context of migration, the International Organization for Migration (IOM) produced a data protection manual comprised of three parts: IOM's data protection principles as informed by international standards; comprehensive guidelines on each principle, consideration boxes and practical examples. The manual includes templates and checklists to ensure that data protection is taken into account when collecting and processing personal data.²⁶²

Principle 20: Capacity and cooperationBuild capacity and promote cooperation amongst and between all relevant stakeholders to ensure a gender-responsive and human rights-based approach to migration governance and to understand and address the drivers of the movement of migrants

The Praesidium project, led by the Italian Ministry of Interior and carried out by States institutions, in partnership with IOM, UNHCR, the Italian Red Cross and Save the Children Italy, provides a multi-agency cooperation model for humanitarian reception and assistance. Since 2006, various activities have been coordinated among the different agencies according to their mandate and expertise. They include legal information and counselling, identification of individual cases, monitoring reception procedures, and monitoring migrants' health, paying particular attention to women, children and people with disabilities. The partners developed joint procedures to guarantee the constant presence of field officers in landing areas and in migrant reception centres. This allowed for better coordination and information exchange efforts between the different stakeholders.²⁶³

Principle 20: Capacity and cooperation

Build capacity and promote cooperation amongst and between all relevant stakeholders to ensure a gender-responsive and human rights-based approach to migration governance and to understand and address the drivers of the movement of migrants

The Nansen Initiative consultative process worked to build consensus among States on key principles and elements to protect people displaced across borders in the context of disasters caused by natural hazards, including those linked to climate change. Efforts are now focused on the follow up and implementation of the recommendations of the Nansen Initiative Protection Agenda, endorsed by 109 governmental delegations during a Global Consultation in October 2015.²⁶⁴ The Protection Agenda offers States a set of tools to prevent and prepare for displacement before a disaster strikes, as well as to respond to situations when people are forced to move, either within their own country or across an international border.²⁶⁵

In Mexico, the 3x1 Programme for Migrants supports projects formulated by groups of Mexican migrants and aimed at the socio-economic development of their communities of origin. For each peso provided by migrants, the Mexican state contributes with 3 pesos, through the federal, state and municipal governments.²⁶⁶

The Agreement on Residency for Nationals of States Members of the Common Market of the South (MERCOSUR) was signed in 2002 and came into force in 2009. The Agreement guarantees that nationals from a country of MERCOSUR can acquire a temporary residence (and after two years, permanent residence) in any of the countries of the regional organization, and that such individuals are entitled to receive the same treatment as nationals, including in the labour market. Regularization programmes have been adopted in Argentina (2007-2010), Brazil (2009), Chile (2007) and Paraguay (2011). The programme in Paraguay allowed the regularization of about 5,000 individuals who had entered the country irregularly prior to October 2010. It has been reported that the “Patria Grande” regularization programme of Argentina that granted either temporary or permanent residence to 560,131 people has brought significant development benefits to the host country.²⁶⁷

The Canadian national migration system includes diversified pathways to migration for work at all skills levels, study, family unification, and humanitarian purposes. Legal channels include: a) permanent residents under three broad categories (economic, family and humanitarian); b) temporary residents, according to eligibility requirements for admission; c) pathways to citizenship offered to permanent residents. The Canadian system is based on an annual immigration levels plan that sets out the number of permanent residents to be admitted each year in the economic, family reunification and humanitarian categories. It is consulted with provinces, territories and key stakeholders and considers labour market needs, and the capacity of settlement and integration service providers.²⁶⁸

The Geneva Canton in Switzerland has launched a pilot regularization programme called “Papyrus” which aims to facilitate irregular migrant workers’ access to Permit B.²⁶⁹

Principle 20: Capacity and cooperation

Build capacity and promote cooperation amongst and between all relevant stakeholders to ensure a gender-responsive and human rights-based approach to migration governance and to understand and address the drivers of the movement of migrants

Article 61 of Argentina's 2004 National Migration Act demands that in all cases in which the irregular status is identified, the primary response from the State is to grant a time period for migratory regularization and only in the case that the regularization is not possible after an integral analysis of the categories and the spirit of the law, the Authority could consider their possible expulsion from the territory. In this case, the decision would not become official until a judge reviews the administrative decision.²⁷⁰ In addition, article 17 of the Law 25.871 establishes that "the State shall facilitate the adoption and implementation of measures aimed at regularising the migration status of foreigners." Decree No. 616 of 2010, that regulates the Law 25.871, establishes that "in order to regularise the migration status of foreigners, the National Migration Office may: a) Issue provisions that simplify and streamline respective administrative processes; b) Sign agreements and receive cooperation from public or private entities; c) Develop and implement programs in those areas of the country that require special treatment; d) Sign agreements with foreign authorities within the Republic of Argentina in order to streamline and promote receipt of documentation from those countries; e) Establish criteria for exemption from payment of the migration tax in cases of poverty or when humanitarian reasons justify such action."²⁷¹

Since 2008, Mexico has implemented 3 temporary programmes of regularization (2008, 2015, 2017), in order to overcome obstacles that irregular migrants face in accessing rights and public or private services and to prevent abuses from authorities and non-State actors.²⁷²

In November 2016, the Battersea Arts Centre in London hosted London Stories: Made by Migrants, a festival of storytelling where people shared their experiences of moving to the UK capital. 30 selected storytellers performed each night and covered a broad range of migration experiences to the UK, from those who emigrated in the 1940s to recent arrivals, showing how migration is driven by a range of factors.²⁷³

Greece will create Migrants/Refugees Integration Centres across the country. The Migrants/Refugees Integration Centres will function as parts of Community Centres which will be established in the Municipalities of the country. The aims of their operation are the development of local information points for the integration of migrants/refugees, and the planning/implementation of integration activities, tailored made to the needs of these groups.²⁷⁴

In Canada a whole-of-society approach to integration is undertaken, engaging national and sub-national governments, municipalities, educational and other public institutions, the private sector, community organizations, and individuals. Examples of inclusion are the Local Immigration Partnerships (LIPs), which are community-based partnerships that enhance collaboration, coordination and strategic planning at the community level in order to foster more welcoming and inclusive communities and improve settlement and integration outcomes.²⁷⁵

Good Chance builds temporary ‘theatres of hope’ where the need for expression is great and where there is nowhere to fulfil this need. Supported by a couple of UK theatres and other allies, they spent seven months creating work with the residents of the Jungle camp in Calais and felt the difference that a space to be together, to express, can make. The daytime schedule could include writing workshops, music lessons, dance, acting and performance. They also regularly welcomed visiting companies and artists who deliver workshops over one to seven days in specific performance arts like circus and clowning, or work in smaller groups to develop a more intimate process and performance piece over a longer period. Every evening they hosted big communal events which bring all of the camp’s many nationalities together. Events included poetry slams, stand up comedy, acoustic sets, theatre performances, rap battles, film nights and mass chill outs.²⁷⁶

In South Africa in 2013, Community Media for Development worked with 20 refugees, migrants, and South Africans to develop three mini-dramas and related discussion guides to help promote awareness, encourage dialogue, and urge migrants and refugees in South Africa to seek protection. The drama, “Change the Story: Migrants and Refugees speak against Gender-based violence” was played on radio in 2013. One episode explores the plight of a migrant woman who is physically and sexually assaulted by her husband and her difficulties seeking help from police.²⁷⁷

Canada regularly evaluates its immigration programs and uses the findings to make improvements. These evaluations are published online.²⁷⁸
