Committee against Torture

List of issues prior to submission of the third periodic report of Kenya*

The Committee against Torture, at its thirty-eighth session (A/62/44, paras. 23 and 24), established an optional procedure which consists in the preparation and adoption of a list of issues to be transmitted to the State party concerned prior to the submission of its periodic report. The replies of the State party to this list of issues will constitute its report under article 19 of the Convention.

Specific information on the implementation of articles 1-16 of the Convention, including with regard to the Committee's previous recommendations

Articles 1 and 4

1. With reference to the Committee's previous concluding observations (see CAT/C/KEN/CO/2, para. 6)¹ on the need for a comprehensive definition of torture and punishments commensurate with the gravity of the offence, please indicate when the Prevention of Torture Bill (2014) will be tabled for adoption by Parliament. What measures will the State party take to ensure its prompt consideration, adoption and implementation?
2. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 8), in which the Committee expressed concern that the Children Act of 2001 only punishes torture or ill-treatment of children with imprisonment not exceeding 12 months or a fine or both, please provide information on the measures taken to ensure that national legislation provides appropriate penalties for torture or ill-treatment of children.
3. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 7), in which the Committee expressed concern that State officials accused of violations of the Convention were not being charged with the offence of torture, please indicate whether any law enforcement, intelligence, prison or military personnel have been prosecuted for the crime of torture. If so, please provide details on the relevant cases and their outcomes.

* Adopted by the Committee at its fifty-sixth session (9 November-9 December 2015).

¹ Unless otherwise indicated, paragraph numbers in parentheses refer to the previous concluding observations adopted by the Committee.

4. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 9), in which the Committee expressed continued concern about persistent allegations of extrajudicial killings, enforced disappearances and excessive use of force by officials, and in the light of the State party's follow-up report, in which it indicated that it was collecting and would submit data on the results of all investigations into such incidents,² please provide that data, indicating the number of prosecutions undertaken during the reporting period concerning extrajudicial killings, enforced disappearances and excessive use of force allegedly committed by police, intelligence, prison, military or other security personnel, such as municipal guards (City askaris); the charges levied against the accused in each case; the number of cases in which prosecutions resulted in convictions; and the punishments in each case.

Article 2³

5. With reference to the previous concluding observations (para. 10), in which the Committee expressed concern that safeguards against torture and ill-treatment are afforded in law to persons in custody but are not fully upheld in practice,⁴ please provide information on the measures taken during the reporting period to ensure that all persons deprived of their liberty can enjoy, in practice, fundamental legal safeguards from the moment of arrest, particularly the rights to have access to a lawyer,⁵ to notify a relative, to be examined by an independent doctor and to be presented to a judicial authority promptly, as provided for in article 49 of the Constitution,⁶ and, particularly, information on:

(a) Measures to ensure that the Persons Deprived of Liberty Bill is enacted into law, considering the State party's follow-up report to the Committee stating this was expected to occur in August 2014;⁷

(b) Measures taken to monitor compliance of police and other security officials with these legal safeguards, including data on any disciplinary or other action against police officers for refusing to provide prompt access to a lawyer, independent doctor or notification of a relative;

(c) The number of individuals detained during the reporting period pursuant to the Prevention of Terrorism Act of 2012, as amended by the Security Laws Amendment Act of 2014, and, in each case, the length of time that has elapsed since the deprivation of liberty and a court hearing. How will the State party ensure that persons detained pursuant to that law are afforded fundamental legal safeguards against torture?

(d) Information on the progress of any investigations undertaken into reports of denial by the authorities of fundamental legal safeguards of persons deprived of their

² See CAT/C/KEN/CO/2/Add.1, para. 9.

³ The issues raised under article 2 could also touch on issues raised under other articles of the Convention, including article 16. As stated in paragraph 3 of the Committee's general comment No. 2 (2007) on the implementation of article 2 by States parties, the obligation to prevent torture in article 2 is wide-ranging. The obligations to prevent torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment under article 16 (1) are indivisible, interdependent and interrelated. The obligation to prevent such ill-treatment in practice overlaps with and is largely congruent with the obligation to prevent torture. In practice, the definitional threshold between ill-treatment and torture is often not clear. See also chapter V of the same general comment.
