Report on the twenty-seventh Meeting of States Parties to the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea

78. The former Chair of the Commission, Mr. Awosika, provided an overview of the proceedings of the twenty-seventh Meeting of States Parties, held in June 2017, which were deemed of relevance to the Commission (SPLOS/316, paras. 50-64). In particular, he informed the members of the Commission of the concerns expressed by some submitting States. He also provided an overview of the work carried out by the Working Group of the Meeting of States Parties on the Conditions of Service of the Members of the Commission.

79. The Commission took note of the information reported by the Chair and expressed its appreciation to the States parties for their attention to the work of the Commission. The Commission also expressed appreciation for the decision of the Meeting of States Parties, based on a proposal of the Working Group, to conduct a new survey in order to assess the needs and views of the newly elected members of the Commission after the forty-fifth session.

80. Members exchanged views on the way to address the concerns raised by some submitting States in order to ensure transparency and consistency in the proceedings. In respect of its practice relating to the adoption of recommendations, the Commission recalled that, in accordance with rule 35, paragraph 2, of its rules of procedure, it had always made every effort to reach agreement on substantive matters by way of consensus and that there had been no voting on such matters until all efforts to achieve consensus had been exhausted. Consequently, recommendations approved by the Commission by consensus were reported, in the statements of the Chair on the progress of work in the Commission, as having been approved “without a vote”, in keeping with the above-mentioned rule.

81. To address the other concerns expressed by some submitting States, the Commission revisited its internal working methods. It decided, among other things, that the Chairs of the subcommissions, when reporting to the Commission, would provide a more comprehensive and substantive account of their progress in the consideration of the submissions, highlighting areas that would benefit from guidance by the Commission, as needed. This would allow for timely feedback from other members of the Commission, which could be taken into account by the subcommissions and conveyed, as appropriate, to the delegations of submitting States. The Commission concluded that proceeding thus might reduce or eliminate instances in which recommendations amended and approved by the Commission departed substantially from the drafts prepared by the subcommissions.

82. The Commission also decided to establish a working group to further consider the issues raised during the twenty-seventh Meeting of States Parties and formulate additional proposals. The working group, composed of Messrs. Awosika (Coordinator), Glumov, Heinesen, Madon, Marques, Mosher and Njuguna, met and subsequently reported to the Commission that more time would be required for the completion of its work and that the working group would present the outcome of its work at the forty-sixth session.

As requested by the Commission at its forty-third session (see CLCS/98, para. 80), the former Chair of the Commission, Mr. Awosika, reported his findings concerning access by some members during that session to data and information classified by submitting States as confidential, pursuant to annex II to the rules of procedure. The Commission decided that the matter should be referred to the Committee on Confidentiality.

85. The Chair of the Committee, Mr. Mahanjane, reported that the Committee had held one organizational meeting thereon and that it would consider the matter at the forty-fifth session and report at the forty-sixth session.

Report of the Committee

87. The Chair of the Committee reported that no additional meeting of the Committee had been required during the current session.

Item 24

Other matters

Attendance of members

88. The Commission addressed the issue of the attendance of its members and re-emphasized that it was important for all members to attend all its meetings on time and in full. The Chair stated that he would continue the practice of bringing to the attention of permanent missions, as necessary, the absence of members nominated by their Governments and the repercussions of those members' absence on the work of the Commission.

Future sessions of the Commission

89. The Commission recalled its decision to hold its forty-fifth session from 16 October to 1 December 2017, with no plenary meetings (see CLCS/95, para. 113), and adopted the following programme of work for that session:

1. Consideration of the partial revised submission made by the Russian Federation in respect of the Arctic Ocean.
2. Consideration of the partial revised submission made by Brazil in respect of the Brazilian Southern Region.
3. Consideration of the joint submission made by France and South Africa in respect of the area of the Crozet Archipelago and the Prince Edward Islands.
4. Consideration of the submission made by Kenya.
5. Consideration of the submission made by Nigeria.
6. Consideration of the submission made by France in respect of Reunion and the Saint-Paul and Amsterdam islands.
7. Consideration of the submission made by Côte d'Ivoire.
8. Consideration of the submission made by Sri Lanka.
9. Consideration of the submission made by Portugal.
10. Other matters.

90. The Commission also decided that, during the forty-fifth session, it would hold a meeting of all its members to discuss the application of various elements of the Statement of Understanding Concerning a Specific Method to be Used in Establishing the Outer Edge of the Continental Margin annexed to the Final Act of the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea.

91. In keeping with the decision to continue to meet, during its five-year term of office, for a total of 21 weeks per year, including four weeks of plenary meetings, by holding three sessions per year of seven weeks each (see para. 14), the Commission decided that, in 2018, it would hold the following sessions:

(a) The forty-sixth session, from 29 January to 16 March. The plenary parts of the session would be held, subject to the approval of the General Assembly, from 5 to 9 February and from 5 to 9 March;

(b) The forty-seventh session, from 23 July to 7 September. The plenary parts of the session would be held, subject to the approval of the General Assembly, from 6 to 10 August and from 27 to 31 August;

(c) The forty-eighth session, from 15 October to 30 November, with no plans for plenary meetings.

Trust funds

92. The Commission was informed by the secretariat about the status of the voluntary trust fund for the purpose of defraying the cost of the participation of the members of the Commission from developing States in its meetings. Since the forty-third session, contributions had been received from China, Iceland and Portugal. As at 31 July 2017, the trust fund had a balance of some $580,000.

93. For the current session, financial assistance had been provided to seven members of the Commission from developing States, for an estimated total of $150,000. The funding requirements for the forty-fifth session were estimated at $150,000.

94. The secretariat also noted that, pursuant to paragraph 96 of General Assembly resolution 71/257, following the allocation of the required funds to cover the costs of travel and daily subsistence allowance of the members of the Commission from developing States for the sessions of the Commission in 2017, the Secretary-General had been able to reimburse those members for the costs of medical travel insurance from the trust fund on a session-by-session basis. The secretariat also noted that, should that level of coverage be the same for the forty-fifth session, the current balance might not be sufficient to cover the sessions of the Commission in 2018 unless further contributions were received. The secretariat stressed that the continued contributions to the trust fund were of critical importance to facilitate the participation of members from developing countries in the work of the Commission, and indicated that it would continue to bring the need for additional contributions to the attention of Member States.

95. The Commission reiterated its concern regarding the ongoing inadequate financial situation of the voluntary trust fund and expressed the hope that a more durable solution could be found, as reliance on the fund might not represent a sustainable way to defray the expenses of the members while in performance of Commission duties.

96. With regard to the voluntary trust fund for the purpose of facilitating the preparation of submissions to the Commission of developing States, in particular the least developed countries and small-island developing States, and in compliance with article 76 of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, the secretariat reported that, as at 31 July 2017, the trust fund had a balance of some $1.18 million. It was recalled that the General Assembly, in the annex to its resolution 70/235, had amended the terms of reference of the trust fund to allow for the provision of assistance to developing States in order to cover the travel and daily subsistence allowance costs associated with meeting with the Commission when their submissions were being examined and upon the invitation of the Commission. Four States had received assistance from the trust fund to participate in meetings held during the current session of the Commission.

Presentations

97. In view of the election of members of the Commission in June 2017 and for the benefit, in particular, of the newly elected members, the secretariat made presentations on 25 and 26 July and during the plenary parts of the session. Through those presentations, the secretariat addressed the status of the members of the Commission as experts on mission, the rules of procedure and code of conduct, the modus operandi, matters relating to the use of the facilities of the Division for Ocean Affairs and the Law of the Sea and the United Nations, software licences, health and safety issues, fire and emergency preparedness and means available for intersessional communication. Mr. Awosika made a presentation on the Scientific and Technical Guidelines of the Commission. A welcome package, consisting of basic documents, was also made available by the secretariat to the members.

Acknowledgements

98. The Commission noted with appreciation and gratitude the high standard of secretariat services rendered to it by the Division for Ocean Affairs and the Law of the Sea.

99. The Commission expressed its appreciation to other members of the secretariat for the assistance that they had provided to the Commission and noted, in particular, the high professional standard of interpretation in the official languages of the United Nations and the assistance provided by the conference officers.
