during the resumed twenty-fourth session, from 7 to 11 December 2009, and during the twenty-fifth session, from 15 to 19 March 2010.

13. At the resumed twenty-fourth session, the Subcommission examined additional information provided by the United Kingdom during the intersessional period and held three meetings with the delegation, providing clarifications to the delegation in response to certain questions. In the light of the request by the delegation to have the opportunity to provide further information, the Subcommission agreed that the delegation would submit such information during the intersessional period. It was also agreed that, at the twenty-fifth session, the Subcommission would consider that information and present to the delegation its final views and a summary of recommendations which would take that information into account.

14. Having received the information during the intersessional period, the Subcommission examined it during the twenty-fifth session. Consideration of recommendations

15. On 1 April 2010, the Subcommission submitted to the Commission the "Recommendations of the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf in regard to the submission made by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland in respect of Ascension Island on 9 May 2008". On 8 April 2010, the Chairperson of the Subcommission, together with Mr. Brekke, Vice-Chairperson, and Mr. Tamaki, introduced the recommendations by delivering a presentation to the plenary of the Commission.

17. The presentations of the United Kingdom were made by Katharine Shepherd, Assistant Legal Adviser, Foreign and Commonwealth Office, head of the delegation, and Lindsay Parson, head of the Law of the Sea Group at the National Oceanography Centre in Southampton. The delegation also included a number of advisers. In her presentation, Ms. Shepherd, inter alia, stated that while the United Kingdom recognized that the Commission needed to be able to apply the provisions of article 76 to fulfil its mandate as set out in article 3 of annex II to the Convention, where there are fundamental questions over the interpretation of the Convention the rights of State Parties have to be borne in mind, to ensure that the role of the Commission in applying its technical expertise is carried out within a proper legal framework. She then elucidated the United Kingdom's interpretation of article 76 in connection with the establishment of extended continental margins on the basis of an association between a landmass and a ridge.

18. The Commission took note of the following notes verbales transmitted in relation to note verbale No. 168/08, dated 9 May 2008, that accompanied the submission: note verbale No. NYV/2009/2184, dated 28 August 2009, from the Permanent Mission of the Netherlands to the United Nations, and note verbale No. SC/09/391, dated 19 November 2009, from the Permanent Mission of Japan to the United Nations.⁸

19. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. Following a thorough consideration of the recommendations prepared by the Subcommission and of the presentations made on 12 April 2010 by the delegation, on 15 April 2010, the Commission adopted by consensus the “Recommendations of the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf in regard to the submission made by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland in respect of Ascension Island on 9 May 2008”, with amendments. 19 March 2010, Japan submitted corrections to the main body of the submission, which did not affect the proposed outer limits. The Subcommission met from 22 March to 1 April 2010. During those two weeks, the Subcommission continued its initial examination of the two first regions and addressed two communications to the delegation with a view to seeking comments and clarifications.

25. The Chairman of the Subcommission, Mr. Tamaki, informed the Commission that the Subcommission met during the last week of the twenty-fifth session from 21 to 23 April 2010, commencing its consideration of the joint submission made by Mauritius and Seychelles. Pursuant to section III of annex III to the rules of procedure, the Subcommission verified the format and completeness of the joint submission and then proceeded to undertake a preliminary analysis of it. The Subcommission concluded that it did not require the advice of specialists nor the cooperation of relevant international organizations and that further time would be required to examine all the data and prepare its recommendations for transmittal to the Commission, noting that this would also depend on the timing and content of the responses of the delegations of Mauritius and Seychelles to its questions.

¹⁰ Submission made on 1 December 2008; see www.un.org/depts/los/clcs_new/submissions_files/submission_musc.htm.

¹¹ On the decision to examine this submission by means of a Subcommission, see CLCS/62, para. 66 and CLCS/64, para. 30.

32. In addition to elaborating on substantive points of the submission, Mr. Jarmache stated that no member of the Commission had assisted France by providing scientific or technical advice.

33. He noted that the submission of France was a partial submission composed of two sections that contained data and information concerning the outer limits in the areas of the French Antilles and Kerguelen Islands.

34. In respect of disputes related to the submission, Mr. Jarmache stated that for each section of the partial submission that was presented, there was no territorial dispute with neighbouring States nor had any objections been expressed against the examination of the submission by the Commission. With regard to the section of the French Antilles and the submission previously made by Barbados, Mr. Jarmache informed the Commission that in an agreement on delimitation of the maritime spaces under their respective national jurisdictions, which had entered into force at the beginning of 2010, the two States had agreed on a method for the future delimitation of their continental shelves in case of overlap beyond 200 nautical miles.

35. In response to a question from a member of the Commission with respect to the note verbale of transmission of the submission, dated 5 February 2009, and the notes verbales from the Netherlands, dated 28 August 2009, and from Japan, dated 19 November 2009, Mr. Jarmache stated that in respect of Antarctica, France reserved its right to make a submission at a later stage.

36. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. Addressing the modalities for the consideration of the submission, the Commission decided that, as provided for in article 5 of annex II to the Convention and in rule 42 of the rules of procedure, the submission would be addressed by a subcommission to be established in accordance with rule 51, paragraph 4 ter, of the rules of procedure, at a future session. The Commission decided to revert to the consideration of the submission at the plenary level when the submission was next in line for consideration as queued in the order in which it was received.

¹⁶ Submission made on 4 May 2009; see www.un.org/Depts/los/clcs_new/submissions_files/submission_nor_30_2009.htm.

40. Mr. Myklebust noted that there were no notes verbales by States with respect to the part of the submission relating to Bouvetøya and that there were no neighbouring States near Bouvetøya. He also noted that Norway had requested the Commission, by note verbale dated 4 May 2009, consistent with particular circumstances concerning the area south of 60 degrees south, not to take any action for the time being with regard to information in the submission relating to the continental shelf appurtenant to Dronning Maud Land.

41. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. The Commission took note of the note verbale from Norway dated 4 May 2009 on the issue of Antarctica. The Commission also took note of the communications addressed to the Secretary-General in connection with it, namely the notes verbales from the United States of America, dated 4 June 2009; the Russian Federation, dated 15 June 2009; India, dated 31 August 2009; the Netherlands, dated 30 September 2009; and Japan, dated 19 November 2009. In view of all these communications, the Commission decided not to consider and qualify the part of the submission relating to the continental shelf appurtenant to Dronning Maud Land.

42. Addressing the modalities for the consideration of the submission, the Commission decided that, as provided for in article 5 of annex II to the Convention and in rule 42 of the rules of procedure, the submission would be addressed by way of a subcommission to be established in accordance with rule 51, paragraph 4 ter, of the rules of procedure, at a future session. The Commission decided to revert to the consideration of the submission at the plenary level when the submission was next in line for consideration as queued in the order in which it was received. The Commission decided that it would instruct the Subcommission to be established to examine the information submitted in respect of Bouvetøya not to consider the part of the submission relating to the continental shelf appurtenant to Dronning Maud Land.

Item 12

Aisi, Permanent Representative of Papua New Guinea to the United Nations; Steven Woods, Deputy Solicitor-General, Ministry of Justice and Legal Affairs of Solomon Islands; Russell Perembo, Lecturer at the Geology Department, University of Papua New Guinea; Scott Sweet, Technical Adviser, Federated States of Micronesia; and Jeem Lippwe, Deputy Permanent Representative of the Federated States of Micronesia to the United Nations. The delegations of the Federated States of Micronesia, Papua New Guinea and Solomon Islands also included Collin D. Beck, Permanent Representative of Solomon Islands to the United Nations, and a number of advisers.

44. In addition to elaborating on substantive points of the submission, Mr. Woods stated that a member of the Commission, Mr. Symonds, had assisted the Federated States of Micronesia, Papua New Guinea and Solomon Islands by providing scientific and technical advice.

45. Mr. Woods stated that no disputes existed in relation to the areas that are the subject of the submission. He indicated that, in accordance with paragraph 4 of annex I to the rules of procedure of the Commission and the memorandum of understanding concluded by the three States on 6 March 2009, the submission constituted a joint submission. The consideration of the submission would not prejudice matters relating to the delimitation of boundaries between the three States and/or any other States.

46. In addition, Mr. Woods indicated that, in accordance with paragraph 3 of annex I to the rules of procedure, the submission was a partial one and the three States might submit other partial submissions in the future. In that connection he recalled that, pursuant to the decision taken by the eighteenth Meeting of States Parties to the Convention contained in document SPLOS/183, the three States had separately submitted preliminary information concerning other areas of the continental shelf.¹⁸

47. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. Addressing the modalities for the consideration of the joint submission, the Commission decided that, as provided for in article 5 of annex II to the Convention and in rule 42 of the rules of procedure, the submission would be addressed by way of a subcommission to be established in accordance with rule 51, paragraph 4 ter, of the rules of procedure, at a future session. The Commission decided to revert to the consideration of the submission at the plenary level when the submission was next in line for consideration as queued in the order in which it was received.

Item 13 Submission made by Kenya¹⁹

48. The Commission took note of the letter from the Prime Minister of the Transitional Federal Government of Somalia addressed to the Secretary-General, dated 10 October 2009.

Item 14 Submission made by Portugal²⁰

49. The presentation of the submission to the Commission was made on 13 April 2010 by Manuel Pinto de Abreu, head of the Task Group for the Extension of the Continental Shelf, head of delegation. The delegation of Portugal also included a number of advisers.

²⁰ Submission made on 11 May 2009; see www.un.org/Depts/los/clcs_new/submissions_files/submissionprt_44_2009.htm.

50. In addition to elaborating on substantive points of the submission, Mr. Abreu stated that a member of the Commission, Mr. Pimentel, had assisted Portugal by providing scientific and technical advice.

51. Mr. Abreu stated that the lack of agreed continental shelf boundaries between Portugal and Spain and between Portugal and Morocco was not considered by any of the States concerned as reflecting the existence of a dispute in the sense of rule 46 and annexes I and III to the rules of procedure. In that connection, he pointed out that the absence of delimitation agreements with the two neighbouring States had no effects on the consideration of the submission by the Commission.

52. With respect to the note verbale from Morocco dated 16 May 2009, Mr. Abreu observed that Portugal had indicated in its submission that its consideration on the part of the Commission would be without prejudice to future negotiations concerning areas where other coastal States might be entitled to establish the outer limits of their extended continental shelf in accordance with international law. He added that negotiations would proceed in a manner which was consistent with the relevant provisions of the Convention and that favourable recommendations would represent a fundamental step that should precede any negotiation leading to a delimitation agreement that would contribute to an equitable delimitation solution.

53. Mr. Abreu made identical observations with respect to the notes verbales from Spain dated 28 May and 10 June 2009, and informed the Commission that Portugal and Spain, which had made a submission in respect of Galicia, had agreed to make separate but coordinated submissions in respect of the Galicia Bank Region.

54. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. Addressing the modalities for the consideration of the submission, the Commission decided that, as provided for in article 5 of annex II to the Convention and in rule 42 of the rules of procedure, the submission would be addressed by way of a subcommission to be established in accordance with rule 51, paragraph 4 ter, of the rules of procedure, at a future session. The Commission decided to revert to the consideration of the submission at the plenary level when the submission was next in line for consideration as queued in the order in which it was received.

²³ Submission made on 11 May 2009; see www.un.org/depts/los/clcs_new/submissions_files/submission_gbr_45_2009.htm.

56. In addition to elaborating on substantive points of the submission, Mr. Whomersley stated that no member of the Commission had assisted the United Kingdom by providing scientific or technical advice.

57. In accordance with paragraph 2 (a) of annex I to the rules of procedure of the Commission, Mr. Whomersley informed the Commission that the subject of the partial submission was also the subject of a submission by Argentina.

58. With respect to the note verbale from Argentina dated 20 August 2009, Mr. Whomersley stated that the United Kingdom firmly rejected the claim of Argentina to sovereignty over the Falkland Islands²² and over South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands. He emphasized that the United Kingdom had no doubt about its sovereignty over the Falkland Islands²² and the surrounding maritime areas and firmly rejected any Argentine claim to sovereignty over those areas. He also stated that the United Kingdom had no doubt about its sovereignty over South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands and the surrounding maritime areas, and firmly rejected any Argentine claim to sovereignty over those areas. That had been made clear in the United Kingdom's note verbale of 6 August 2009 in response to the Argentine submission.

59. Mr. Whomersley stated that in accordance with paragraph 2 (b) of annex I to the rules of procedure of the Commission, the United Kingdom wished to inform the Commission that, in its view, the consideration of the partial submission by the Commission would not prejudice matters relating to the delimitation of boundaries between the United Kingdom and other States.

60. The Commission then continued its meeting in private. Addressing the modalities for the consideration of the submission, the Commission took note of the note verbale from Argentina dated 20 August 2009. The Commission also took note of the views expressed in connection with that note verbale in the presentation made by the delegation of the United Kingdom. Taking into consideration that note verbale and the presentation made by the delegation, the Commission decided that, in accordance with its rules of procedure, it was not in a position to consider and qualify the submission.

Mr. Tuita also made reference to the current workload of the Commission and the impact that it had on the projected timeline for the examination of submissions in the order in which they were received, including that of Tonga.
