Letter dated 22 December 2000 from the President of the Security Council addressed to the Secretary-General

The members of the Security Council have carefully reviewed your report of 4 October 2000 on the establishment of a Special Court for Sierra Leone (S/2000/915). The Council members wish to convey their deep appreciation for the observations and recommendations set forth in your report.

The members of the Security Council reaffirm their support for resolution 1315 (2000) and its reiteration that the situation in Sierra Leone constitutes a threat to international peace and security. With the objective of conforming to resolution 1315 (2000) and related concerns, and subject to the agreement of the Government of Sierra Leone as necessary and appropriate, the members of the Council suggest that the draft Agreement between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone and the proposed Statute of the Court be amended to incorporate the views set forth below.

1. Personal jurisdiction. The members of the Security Council continue to hold the view, as expressed in resolution 1315 (2000), that the Special Court for Sierra Leone should have personal jurisdiction over persons who bear the greatest responsibility for the commission of crimes, including crimes against humanity, war crimes and other serious violations of international humanitarian law, as well as crimes under relevant Sierra Leonean law committed within the territory of Sierra Leone. The members of the Security Council believe that, by thus limiting the focus of the Special Court to those who played a leadership role, the simpler and more general formulations suggested in the appended draft will be appropriate. It is the view of the members of the Council that the Truth and Reconciliation Commission will have a major role to play in the case of juvenile offenders, and the members of the Security Council encourage the Government of Sierra Leone and the United Nations to develop suitable institutions, including specific provisions related to children, to this end. The members of the Security Council believe that it is the responsibility of Member States who have sent peacekeepers to Sierra Leone to investigate and prosecute any crimes they may have allegedly committed. Given the circumstances of the situation in Sierra Leone, the Special Court would have jurisdiction over those crimes only if the Security Council considers that the Member State is not discharging that responsibility. Therefore, Council members propose the inclusion of language in the Agreement to be concluded between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone and in the Statute of the Special Court to that effect.

2. Funding. Pursuant to resolution 1315 (2000), members of the Security Council support the creation of a Special Court for Sierra Leone funded through voluntary contributions. Such contributions shall take the form of funds, equipment and services, including the offer of expert personnel that may be needed from States, intergovernmental organizations and non-governmental organizations. It is understood that you cannot be expected to create any institution for which you do not have adequate funds in hand for at least 12 months and pledges to cover anticipated expenses for a second year of the Court's operation.

In order to assist the Court on questions of funding and administration, it is suggested that the arrangements between the Government of Sierra Leone and the United Nations provide for a management or oversight committee which could include representatives of Sierra Leone, the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the Court and interested voluntary contributors. The management committee would assist the court in obtaining adequate funding, provide advice on matters of Court administration and be available as appropriate to consult on other non-judicial matters.

3. Court size. The members of the Security Council do not believe the creation of two Trial Chambers and the use of alternate judges as proposed in your report is necessary, at least not from the very outset. The Special Court should begin its work with a single Trial Chamber, with the possibility of adding a second Chamber should the developing caseload warrant its creation. Council members also question the provision in the draft Agreement and Statute calling for alternate judges. It should be noted in this connection that neither the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia nor the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda employs alternate judges.

The members suggest the following further adjustments of a technical or drafting nature to the Agreement: Add an express provision to article 13 as a new subparagraph (d) under paragraph 2, concerning immigration restrictions; to article 14 concerning witnesses and experts; and to article 4 (c) of the Statute of the Court, modifying it so as to conform it to the statement of the law existing in 1996 and as currently accepted by the international community.

The members of the Security Council express their hope that you will concur with the proposals outlined above and adjust the draft Agreement between the United Nations and the Government of Sierra Leone and the Statute of the Court as expeditiously as possible, along the above lines and as indicated in the attached annex.

(Signed) Sergey Lavrov
President of the Security Council
