The initial budget for the maintenance of the United Nations Organization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC) for the period from 1 July 2004 to 30 June 2005 was set out in the report of the Secretary-General of 3 February 2004 (A/58/701) and subsequently revised in his report of 22 February 2005 (A/59/707). The budget amounted to $962,012,400 gross ($944,489,100 net), exclusive of the budgeted voluntary contributions in kind in the amount of $3,067,100, and provided for a total of 760 military observers, 15,714 military contingent personnel, 268 civilian police officers, 1,162 international staff, 1,747 national staff, including 36 national officers, and 605 United Nations Volunteers.
- 2. Based on the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, contained in paragraphs 53 and 50 (a) of its reports of 8 April 2004 (A/58/759/Add.10) and 11 March 2005 (A/59/735), respectively, the General Assembly, in its resolutions 58/259 B of 18 June 2004 and 59/285 A of 13 April 2005, appropriated a total amount of $954,766,100 gross ($937,242,800 net) for the maintenance of the Mission for the period from 1 July 2004 to 30 June 2005. The approved budget provided for 760 military observers, 15,714 military contingent personnel, 268 civilian police officers, 975 international staff, 1,355 national staff, including 25 national officers, and 491 United Nations Volunteers, as well as for personnel (on temporary contracts up to one year) deemed essential to deal with the expansion of the Mission pending consideration by the General Assembly of the proposed budget for the maintenance of the Mission for the period from 1 July 2005 to 30 June 2006. The appropriated amount of $954,766,100 gross ($937,242,800 net) has been assessed on Member States.

II. Mandate performance

- 3. The mandate of MONUC was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1291 (2000) of 24 February 2000. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 1493 (2003) of 28 July 2003, 1533 (2004) of 12 March 2004, 1565 (2004) of 1 October 2004 and 1592 (2005) of 30 March 2005. In its resolution 1565 (2004), the Security Council authorized the increase of the Mission's strength by 5,900 personnel, including up to 341 civilian police personnel, as well as the deployment of appropriate civilian personnel, appropriate and proportionate air mobility assets and other force enablers, and decided that MONUC would have the mandate set out in paragraphs 4, 5 and 7 of the resolution.
- 4. The Mission is mandated to help the Security Council achieve an overall objective, namely, to maintain international peace and security in the region.
- 5. Within this overall objective, the Mission has, during the reporting period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below. These frameworks are grouped by components: peace and security in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Transitional Government and elections, rule of law, the human dimension of sustainable peace and support.

6. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based frameworks set out in the 2004/05 budget. In particular, the performance report compares the actual indicators of achievement, i.e., the extent to which progress has been made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement and compares the completed outputs with the planned outputs.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

	Variance
Military observers	($172.9)	(0.4%)

7. The variance of $172,900 under this heading is primarily attributable to the increase in the daily mission subsistence allowance rates for the first 30-day period from $179 to $205 per person per day effective 1 June 2004, offset in part by the delayed deployment of military observers (while the budgeted provisions reflected the application of a 3 per cent turnover factor to the computation of mission subsistence allowance costs, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 4.6 per cent) and lower actual average travel costs ($2,592 per person one way, compared with the budgeted $2,750). During the period, an average of 725 military observers were deployed, compared with the planned average of 760.

¹ Resource variance amounts are expressed in thousands of United States dollars.

	Variance
Military contingents	$3 779.2	1.1%

8. The variance of $3,779,200 under this heading is attributable primarily to the slower than planned deployment of troops (while the budgeted provisions reflected a 3 per cent turnover factor applied to the computation of troop costs in respect of 10,040 contingent personnel, with no turnover factor applied to the additional 5,674 personnel, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 5.5 per cent), and the consequential reduced requirements for standard troop costs, as well as lower actual average cost of travel on emplacement, rotation and repatriation ($611 per contingent personnel one way, compared with the budgeted average of $750). The savings were offset in part by actual higher costs of transportation by air of contingent-owned equipment of troops deployed in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo, as well as the cost of an airlift from the eastern part of the country to Kinshasa of equipment of one battalion redeployed to the capital of the Democratic Republic of the Congo to reinforce the Western Brigade. During the period, an average of 12,683 military contingent personnel were deployed, compared with the planned average of 13,425.

	Variance
Civilian police	$450.5	4.8%

9. The variance of $450,500 under this heading is attributable primarily to the slower than planned deployment of civilian police officers (while the budgeted provisions in respect of the previously authorized strength of 182 civilian police officers reflected a 10 per cent delayed deployment factor, with no provisions for the deployment of the additional 86 police officers owing to the prevailing vacancy rates at the time of the preparation of the revised budget, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 29.8 per cent), and the resulting decreased travel and clothing allowance costs. The savings were offset in part by an increase in the daily mission subsistence allowance rates for the first 30-day period from $179 to $205 per person per day effective 1 June 2004. During the period, an average of 158 civilian police personnel were deployed, compared with the planned average of 225.

	Variance
International staff	$9 486.2 8.29	%

10. The variance of $9,486,200 under this heading is attributable to the slower than planned recruitment of international staff (while the budgeted provisions reflected the application of a 15 per cent delayed recruitment factor to the computation of staff costs, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 26.5 per cent), and the consequential decreased requirements for the mission subsistence allowance, salary costs and staff assessment. The savings were offset in part by increased requirements for common staff costs owing to a higher percentage of international staff holding appointments under the 100 series of Staff Regulations and Rules, compared with the budgeted 10 per cent, as well as the high turnover rate (during the reporting period 157 staff left the Mission) resulting in increased requirements related to the separation and appointment costs.

	Variance
National staff	$375.4	4 2.4%

11. The variance of $375,400 under this heading is attributable primarily to the reduced requirements for national staff salaries owing to the slower than planned recruitment of national staff (while the budgeted provisions reflected the application of a 5 per cent delayed recruitment factor to the computation of salary costs, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 16 per cent), offset in part by the introduction with effect from 1 May 2004 of a revised national staff salary scale and by increased requirements for common staff costs, as well as higher actual expenditures for hazardous duty station allowance and overtime. While the computation of common staff costs for national staff, inclusive of hazard pay, was based on 35 per cent of the net salary at the G-3, step IV, level of the national salary scale in effect from 1 May 2003, the actual expenditure amounted to approximately 40 per cent of net salaries. The higher overtime expenditure was attributable to payments made for overtime worked in 2003/04. During the reporting period an average of 1,137 national staff, including 10 national officers, were on board, compared with the planned average of 1,354 national staff, including 25 national officers.

	Variance
United Nations Volunteers	($1 487.9)	(8.2%)

12. The variance of $1,487,900 under this heading is attributable to the high United Nations Volunteers turnover rate (during the period 171 Volunteers left the Mission), resulting in increased requirements related to the separation and deployment costs. During the period an average of 425 United Nations Volunteers were on board, compared with the planned average of 473.

	Variance
General temporary assistance	($9.0)	-%

13. The variance of $9,000 under this heading is attributable to requirements in respect of six national General Service staff recruited at the end of the financial period and deployed in the eastern part of the country.

	V	Variance
Official travel	($1.10	04.5) (22.5%)

14. The variance of $1,104,500 under this heading is attributable to increased requirements for official travel and training-related travel. The additional requirements for official travel relate to increased logistical, administrative and substantive support to the sectors and team sites in connection with the mission expansion in the east of the country and support to voter registration, travel in connection with the Security Council mission to the region, the escort of the remains of military and police personnel as well as of personnel requiring medical treatment outside of the mission area. In respect of training-related travel, additional requirements are attributable to security skills upgrading, including firearms training and close protection in high-risk areas, as well as additional communications and information technology training courses arranged at the United Nations Logistics Base at Brindisi, Italy.

	Variance
Facilities and infrastructure	$1 992.5	2.2%

15. The variance of $1,992,500 under this heading is attributable primarily to the non-acquisition of digital photocopiers, provision for which was made under the office equipment budget line item, owing to delays in the procurement process; reduced self-sustainment requirements for contingent personnel owing to the slower deployment of troops; lower actual expenditures for the rental of premises and maintenance services owing to changes in operational requirements and delays in the finalization of contracts for the rental of office, accommodation and port facilities as well as of a helicopter landing pad in Kinshasa, and lower related requirements for alterations and renovation services. The savings were offset in part by increases in the market price of diesel fuel from the average of $0.58 to $0.75 per litre; the recording in the 2004/05 accounts of charges related to the International Civil Aviation Organization airport upgrading project (funding for which was provided in 2002/03) owing to delayed receipt of invoices; additional requirements for stationery, office supplies and office furniture in anticipation of the recruitment of additional staff in support of the expansion of the Mission and electoral process owing to long delivery times, as well as the acquisition of 12 sets of aviation fuel equipment to support air operations in the east of the country.

	Variance
Ground transportation	$3 173.6	9.6%

16. The variance of $3,173,600 under this heading is primarily attributable to the non-acquisition of specialized fire-fighting vehicles, owing to difficulties encountered with vehicle specifications and absence of a systems contract, delivery from the United Nations Logistics Base of an aircraft main deck loader and in-house modifications to aircraft towing equipment; lower actual expenditures on the rental of vehicles (transportation of repatriated ex-combatants was provided by military contingents), as well as lower liability insurance costs owing to the delayed deployment of contingent-owned vehicles. The savings were offset in part by increases in the market price of diesel fuel from the average of $0.58 to $0.75 per litre.

	Variance	Variance
Air transportation	$31 864.3	16.3%

17. The variance of $31,864,300 under this heading is primarily attributable to the delayed deployment of 14 military helicopters, the review of air transportation requirements resulting in the non-deployment of seven aircraft (3 fixed-wing cargo, including 2 under letter-of-assist arrangements, and 4 helicopters) and the early termination of a commercial contract for 1 passenger fixed-wing aircraft, with related lower expenditure on aviation fuel; lower actual expenditure on landing fees and ground handling; the reduction of the Mission's share of air travel and third-party liability insurance costs owing to the increased number of aircraft deployed to all peacekeeping operations, as well as lower requirements for aircrew subsistence allowance payments as a result of fewer than planned days spent by the aircrews away from main base of operations. The reduced requirements were offset in part by the obligation of funds in connection with the proposed increase from 1 October 2004 of the cost of airfield services which had been under dispute by the Mission. In view of the subsequent settlement of the dispute, the obligated funds have been liquidated and the resulting savings will be reflected in the Mission's financial performance report for 2005/06 as savings on cancellation of prior-period obligations.

	Variance
Naval transportation	$742.9	19.7%

18. The variance of $742,900 under this heading is attributable to the rental of six pushers and seven speedboats, compared with the budgeted provision for nine pushers and nine speedboats owing to the decreased demand for the transportation of cargo by river following the deployment of military contingents to the eastern part of the country not accessible by river.

	Variance
Communications	$2 741.4	5.8%

19. The variance of $2,741,400 under this heading is attributable primarily to the reduced share of the Mission's transponder lease costs and lower tariffs levied by providers of local and international communications services, offset in part by the acquisition of additional public information equipment (audio systems, a portable radio station, transmitters, a wireless reportage system, studio equipment, computers, software and accessories) as well as photographic/video equipment to support expansion of public information programmes.

	Variance
Information technology	$809.7	5.8%

20. The variance of $809,700 under this heading is attributable primarily to the lower unit costs of equipment acquired through systems contracts, delays in the procurement of spare parts and supplies, as well as lower actual expenditures for software licences due to the introduction of more cost-efficient global licensing arrangements. The savings were offset in part by the engagement of additional specialized contractual personnel in connection with the expansion of the mission.

	Va	Variance
Medical	($1 983	.0) (25.8%)

21. The variance of $1,983,000 under this heading is attributable to the increased self-sustainment requirements owing to expansion of services provided by two level

2 military hospitals to cover additional military personnel and the deployment in January 2005 of a new level 3 military hospital. The additional requirements were offset in part by the lower actual expenditures for medical services owing to delays in invoicing by the level 4 military hospital in Pretoria, as well as lower actual requirements for blood supplies.

	Variance
Special equipment	$870.2	15.5%

22. The variance of $870,200 under this heading is attributable to the decreased self-sustainment requirements owing to the slower deployment of military contingent personnel and non-acquisition of binoculars and observation equipment due to their availability in stock.

	Variance
Other supplies, services and equipment	$2 352.0	13.4%

23. The variance of $2,352,000 under this heading is attributable primarily to decreased requirements for the rental of barges for the transportation of cargo by river and across lakes Kivu, Tanganyika and Albert as surface transportation from Bujumbura, Burundi, and Entebbe, Uganda, has proven to be more cost-efficient, lower actual expenditures on mine detection and mine clearance services owing to delays in the deployment by the United Nations Office for Project Services of contractual personnel, as well as reduced requirements for the provision of food to foreign ex-combatants owing to their faster repatriation to countries of origin. The decreased requirements were offset in part by the recording in the mission's accounts of a loss on currency exchange.

V. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

- 24. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of MONUC are:
- (a) To decide that Member States shall waive their respective shares in other income for the period ended 30 June 2005 amounting to $14,887,900, and their respective shares in the amount of $13,011,900 from the unencumbered balance of $53,881,600 for the period ended 30 June 2005, to be applied to meeting the current and future after-service health insurance liabilities of the United Nations;
- (b) To decide on the treatment of the remaining unencumbered balance of $40,869,700 with respect to the period from 1 July 2004 to 30 June 2005.
