Programme budget for the biennium 2004-2005

Estimates in respect of special political missions, good offices and other political initiatives authorized by the General Assembly and/or the Security Council

United Nations Office in Timor-Leste

Eleventh report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

Expenditure from 21 May to 31 August 2005	$7,023,800
Projected requirements from 1 September to 31 December 2005	$15,003,900
Total requirements from 21 May to 31 December 2005	$22,027,700
Recommendation of the Advisory Committee	$21,939,900

Introduction

1. The recommendations of the Advisory Committee would entail a reduction of $108,100 gross ($87,800 net) to the proposed budget of the United Nations Office in Timor-Leste (UNOTIL) for the period from 21 May to 31 December 2005 (A/60/425).

2. The Advisory Committee has considered the report of the Secretary-General on estimates in respect of special political missions, good offices and other political initiatives authorized by the General Assembly and/or the Security Council (A/60/425), which contains the proposed resource requirements for UNOTIL for the period from 21 May to 31 December 2005. During its consideration of the budget proposals of UNOTIL, the Advisory Committee met with representatives of the Secretary-General who provided additional information and clarification. The documents used by the Advisory Committee during its consideration of budget proposals for UNOTIL are listed at the end of the present report.

3. The Advisory Committee notes that the requirements for the period beyond December 2005 will be presented in a consolidated report containing the budget proposals for all special political missions.

Mandate and planned results

4. UNOTIL was established by the Security Council through its resolution 1599 (2005) of 28 April 2005 as a one-year follow-on special political mission to the United Nations Mission of Support in East Timor (UNMISSET), to remain in Timor-Leste until 20 May 2006. The Council mandated UNOTIL to support the development of critical State institutions, to support further development of the police and the Border Patrol Unit and to provide training in observance of democratic governance and human rights. It requested UNOTIL to emphasize the proper transfer of skills and knowledge in order to build the capacity of the public institutions of Timor-Leste when implementing its mandate. The Council underlined the need to coordinate United Nations assistance to Timor-Leste with the efforts of bilateral and multilateral donors and other actors from the international community and encouraged the establishment of a consultative group made up of stakeholders, chaired by the Special Representative of the Secretary-General. The Council also encouraged the Government of Timor-Leste, UNOTIL, the United Nations Secretariat, United Nations development and humanitarian agencies and multilateral financial institutions to start immediately planning for a smooth and rapid transition from a special political mission to a sustainable development assistance framework.

5. The Advisory Committee observes that the results-based budgeting framework developed for UNOTIL, as presented in the budget document (A/60/425), is lacking in many respects (see paras. 9 and 10 below). It lacks clarity in defining the role of UNOTIL and its partners in the implementation of the mandate set out by the Security Council (see above), including such central tasks as capacity-building, coordination between the implementing partners and the transition towards a sustainable development framework. The budget proposal appears to be presented much in the same manner as would be consistent with a new mission, rather than being tailored to the particular context and circumstances of UNOTIL as a follow-on mission whose main purpose is to ensure a smooth transition. In the view of the Advisory Committee it would have been helpful if the budget document had set out clearly the accomplishments and status at the time of the closure of UNMISSET, the objectives to be attained by UNOTIL during the transition phase, the roles and responsibilities of UNOTIL and other implementing partners during this phase and, finally, the tasks and posts to be taken over by other partners after May 2006.

6. In this connection, the Advisory Committee recalls that in its authorization for the Secretary-General to enter into commitment authority (see A/60/425, para. 2, and annex I to the present report) it had requested that the budget submission include “information on the rationale for the structure of the Office, especially as concerns the placement of the human rights unit vis-à-vis the Civilian Support Group; on how the special political mission, in particular, the Civilian Support Group, is expected to interact with the United Nations Development Programme; on how the Office plans to use national capacity resulting from the services of UNMISSET, especially in the area of human rights; and on the requirements for the gender-related function, taking into account their importance and the presence of related international entities and national capacity". The Advisory Committee had also recommended that "a leaner administrative and support structure be considered, including maximum use of national staff".

7. The Advisory Committee is of the opinion that the overall presentation of the logical framework is non-specific, with little or no quantitative data on the outputs to be produced. For example, a number of these outputs relate to training, but little or no information is provided on the nature of the training-related activities, the number of persons to be trained, or the time frames for such training.

8. The Advisory Committee stresses the importance of using precise terms that accurately reflect the true nature of activities to be undertaken. For example, under expected accomplishment "Progress towards a functioning judicial system in Timor-Leste", one of the outputs is "Training to national trainee judges, prosecutors and public defenders". However, from the discussions with the representatives of the Secretary-General, it appeared that in certain cases the activities envisaged were closer to mentoring than to traditional training.

9. The Advisory Committee requested that UNOTIL provide additional information, including quantified targets for outputs. In the view of the Advisory Committee the accomplishments achieved and data gathered by UNMISSET could have been used as a baseline for setting specific targets. The Advisory Committee was initially informed that quantitative measures could not be provided at that stage, but would be available in the performance report. The Advisory Committee points out that the consideration of the results-based budget, which includes an analysis of the activities planned and their correlation to the resources requested, would be meaningless without specific targets being set at the outset. Similarly, it would be futile to attempt to measure the progress made towards the achievement of the expected accomplishments when evaluating actual performance if targets were not set at the start of the budgetary process.

10. The Advisory Committee was subsequently provided with a modified version of the results-based framework with quantified outputs, which is set out in annex II to the present report. The modified results-based budgeting framework, along with the additional information provided on the activities of the other partners present in Timor-Leste (see annex III) demonstrates far more clearly how the activities envisaged would contribute to the achievement of the Mission's central objectives of supporting the development of critical State institutions and providing training in observance of democratic governance and human rights.

11. The Advisory Committee requested and received additional information on the activities of other United Nations agencies working with and supporting the Government of Timor-Leste in a variety of substantive areas (see annexes III and IV), including: development of the justice sector (United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF)); development of institutional capacity (World Bank, UNDP, International Labour Organization (ILO)); strengthening of the agricultural sector (Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), World Food Programme (WFP), UNDP, United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS)); improvement of health services (World Health Organization (WHO), United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), UNICEF, UNDP); education and literacy (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), UNICEF, WHO, WFP, Economic Commission for Europe (ECE)); support to vulnerable groups including women, gender mainstreaming and child protection (United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM), UNICEF, UNFPA, UNDP, local and national non-governmental organizations); protection of refugees and national reconciliation (Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR)); and development of the infrastructure (Asian Development Bank, World Bank, UNDP, UNOPS, International Organization for Migration (IOM)).

12. The Advisory Committee notes from the additional information provided that the United Nations agencies present in Timor-Leste have programmed resources amounting to $34,152,900 in 2005 and $28,852,700 in 2006. A breakdown of the contribution by agency is also provided (see annex III). The additional information also provides some details on the role of UNOTIL in the coordination of these activities and the handover of responsibilities to other United Nations entities. The Advisory Committee notes that the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General leads an inter-agency task force which is planning for the smooth handover of 45 civilian advisers' positions for the post-UNOTIL arrangement and that at the present stage UNICEF, UNDP, the World Bank, as well as some bilateral partners have indicated possible takeover or funding for some positions (see annex IV).

13. The Advisory Committee is concerned with the incompleteness of the published budget proposals of UNOTIL even though it eventually received most of the information sought (see annexes II-IV). The Advisory Committee once again stresses the need for adequate guidance and support to be provided by the relevant Headquarters offices in the departments of Management and Peacekeeping Operations. The Advisory Committee points out that the role of these departments is to provide leadership and coordination, to define the standards, methods and procedures to be applied throughout the budgetary process and to ensure that these standards are complied with, as well as to scrutinize the proposals submitted by the missions for accuracy and completeness. In this connection, the Advisory Committee requests that the Office of Programme Planning, Budgets and Accounts define a framework for the results-based budgets of special political missions, which will be integrated in the budget proposals in Section 3, Political affairs, from 2006, and to report comprehensively on the measures adopted in the next budget proposals.

Resource requirements

Recommendations on posts

14. The Advisory Committee points out that the proposal under consideration constitutes the first budget submission of UNOTIL. In its authorization for the Secretary-General to enter into commitment authority (see annex I) the Advisory Committee did not specifically approve any posts or positions. Instead, it indicated that it would consider all relevant details, including staffing structure, when it took up the full budget proposal. Under the circumstances, the Advisory Committee considers all references to “existing positions” to be, in fact, proposals for those positions; similarly, the Advisory Committee did not consider proposals for reclassifications since there were never positions at approved levels. Rather, the Advisory Committee views these requests as proposals to create a position at the requested level.

15. Additional information on incumbency levels was provided to the Advisory Committee on request. A summary of posts, incumbency levels and vacancy rates as at 30 September 2005 is provided in the table below. An organization chart for UNOTIL was included in the supplementary information provided to the Advisory Committee, and is set out in annex V to the present report. The Advisory Committee requests that the organization chart for UNOTIL be included in any future proposals, as is the case for peacekeeping missions.

Human resources

	Initial staffing proposed	Encumbered, 30 September 2005	Vacancy rate, 30 September 2005 (percentage)
Military advisers	15	15	—
Civilian police	60	47	22
International staff	100	92	8
National officers	21	15	29
National General Service staff	212	209	1
United Nations Volunteers	37	36	3
Total	370	352	5

16. The Advisory Committee recommends approval of all positions requested by the Secretary-General, with the exception of those stated in paragraphs 17 to 21 below.

17. Reclassification of the P-5 position of Chief of Staff to the D-1 level. The Advisory Committee notes that the “reclassification” is requested owing to the complexities of responsibilities of the Chief of Staff (see para. 12 of the budget document). For the reasons given in paragraph 14 above, the Advisory Committee considers this a request for a new position. The Advisory Committee discussed this request extensively with the representatives of the Secretary-General and was provided, upon request, with additional details on the functions of this position and clarifications on the division of labour between the Chief of Staff and the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General. The Advisory Committee notes that under the new proposal, the Chief of Staff would be in charge of substantive programmes, including support to critical State institutions and that he/she would coordinate and oversee the work of the 45 civilian advisers covering such sectors as rule of law, justice, human rights, democratic governance, legislation development, transparency and accountability, and financial and economic development. He/she would also carry out the duties of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General during his absence. At the same time he/she would function as the Executive Officer of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General and be in charge of certain internal management issues, supervise the work of the civilian support group, the Gender Adviser and the Public Information Office. The Advisory Committee notes that in other integrated missions, the Gender Adviser and units such as the Public Information Unit usually report to the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General.

18. The Advisory Committee points out that it is somewhat unusual for substantive programmes to be attached to an executive office. Such programmes should, logically, be placed under the direct responsibility of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General or the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General. It is not clear whether there would be some degree of overlapping between the responsibilities of the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General who oversees human rights, political affairs and the legal affairs sections and the Chief of Staff who supervises and coordinates the work of the civilian advisers assigned to various organizational components and undertakes the coordination and integration of the substantive parts of the mission. Furthermore, the Advisory Committee notes that UNOTIL also has a post of Chief Administrative Officer at the D-1 level. The information provided to the Advisory Committee indicates that the duties of both the Executive Officer and the Chief Administrative Officer include responsibility for certain “internal management issues”; their respective roles and responsibilities should be clarified so as to avoid any duplication.

19. It does not appear to the Advisory Committee that the organizational structure reflects a clear delineation of responsibilities and a balanced distribution of the workload between the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General and the proposed Chief of Staff. The Advisory Committee is of the opinion that the Mission has a sufficient number of senior-level posts to carry out its mandate and that any additional needs could be addressed through a re-examination of the organizational structure with a view to avoiding duplication, a clarification of the responsibilities for substantive areas and the reallocation of existing resources. It is the view of the Advisory Committee that the post should be approved at the P-5 level.

20. Furthermore, the Advisory Committee points out that the position of Chief Administrative Officer at the D-1 level for a downsized mission of the size and scope of UNOTIL seems to be excessive. However, the Advisory Committee will not object owing to the fact that the incumbent from UNMISSET, currently at the D-1 level, will carry over until the end of the mission in less than a year’s time.

21. Establishment of one P-4 position, Gender Adviser. It is proposed to establish this position to “assist local institutions and civil society in gender-related policies and programmes” (see para. 12 of the budget document). From the additional information provided to the Advisory Committee, which is set out in annex III, the Advisory Committee notes that a variety of gender-related activities are ongoing, undertaken by such partners as UNIFEM, UNDP, UNFPA and UNICEF, as well as national and local non-governmental organizations. Among the activities cited are, inter alia, the promotion of gender awareness, the training of potential and elected women officials, the drafting of a law on domestic violence, training and capacity-building of institutions to address gender-based violence, the dissemination of information on child protection, the establishment of systems for child protection and the development of reports on the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The Advisory Committee further notes that a consultative group on gender, chaired by UNFPA, meets regularly to coordinate gender-related issues. It appears to the Advisory Committee that a number of actions are already under way, led by other partners, essentially United Nations funds and programmes. The Advisory Committee points out that UNMISSET was set up within the general framework of an integrated peacekeeping mission, which aims to address complex transition situations requiring a United Nations system-wide response in a coherent manner with a rational use of resources. The Advisory Committee is therefore of the opinion that the leadership for this area should remain with such specialized agencies as UNIFEM and UNFPA. It does not appear to the Advisory Committee that the precise role of UNOTIL in this area is clearly explained, or that the establishment of the post of Gender Adviser is properly justified.

Operational costs

Civilian advisers (general temporary assistance)

22. The Advisory Committee notes that the Security Council authorized UNOTIL to engage up to 45 civilian advisers to carry out its substantive mandate, namely to support the development of critical State institutions. The 45 civilian advisers include 1 D-1, 4 P-5, 30 P-4 and 10 P-3. A provision of $3,050,800 has been made to cover their salaries and common staff costs, taking into account a vacancy rate of 10 per cent. Upon enquiry the Advisory Committee was informed that as at 20 September 2005, 40 of the 45 posts were encumbered, resulting in a vacancy rate of 11 per cent.

Consultants

23. The Advisory Committee notes that an overall amount of $190,400 is requested under consultants. The supplementary information provided to the Advisory Committee did not present a breakdown of costs or adequate justification for the different activities envisaged. It was not clear to the Advisory Committee why UNOTIL requires resources for consultants at this stage. The Advisory Committee recalls that considerable resources were allocated under consultants in the previous budgets of UNMISSET. Upon request the Advisory Committee was provided with a detailed breakdown of the costs for each consultancy envisaged, including the area, the number of consultants, the duration, the rate applied and the related travel costs. The Advisory Committee notes that the consultancies relate to information technology enhancements required for the preservation of serious crimes records ($22,800), an independent high-level review of transparency and accountability in the public administration ($22,800) and training-related activities for capacity development ($72,300). The Advisory Committee further notes that a considerable share of the total costs for consultants ($72,500) is requested for the provision of medical evacuation services previously provided by Australian defence personnel and for the conduct of an International Air Transport Association operational safety audit on a local airline, on the instruction of the Department of Peacekeeping Operations. The Advisory Committee requests that proper account be taken of what has been done and/or is being done by UNMISSET and partners in the mission area before committing resources to consultants.

Information technology

24. The Advisory Committee notes that a total amount of $271,600 is requested under information technology, of which $46,200 would be allocated to the replacement of obsolete information technology equipment. The Advisory Committee calls upon UNOTIL to take into account the foreseen time frame of the utilization of the equipment when replacing information technology equipment wherever possible, rather than simply applying the standard replacement cycle.

Conclusion

25. The action to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of UNOTIL for the period from 21 May to 31 December 2005 is indicated in paragraph 14 of the proposed budget (A/60/425). In view of the comments in the above paragraphs, the Advisory Committee recommends that the estimated budget requirement be reduced from $22,027,700 to $21,939,900.

Annex I

Letter dated 30 June 2005 from the Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions to the Secretary-General

The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered the letter of the Controller of 21 June 2005, which indicates that the requirements to meet the costs of the initial phase of the operations of the United Nations Office in Timor-Leste (UNOTIL) through the end of September 2005 are estimated at $13,793,300 gross ($12,701,000 net).

The Committee notes that the Security Council, in its resolution 1599 (2005) of 28 April 2005, decided, inter alia, to establish a follow-up mission to the United Nations Mission of Support in East Timor (UNMISSET), the United Nations Office in Timor-Leste (UNOTIL), which will remain in Timor-Leste until 20 May 2006 to carry out the mandate contained in paragraph 2 of the resolution. In paragraph 3 of the resolution, the Security Council requests that, in implementing its mandate, the mission emphasize the proper transfer of skills and knowledge in order to build the capacity of the public institutions; and in paragraph 4, it requests that the mission be led by a Special Representative of the Secretary-General, who would direct the operations of the mission and coordinate all United Nations activities through his office, with due attention to safety of personnel, and facilitated by appropriate levels of logistics support, including transportation assets, such as air transport when necessary.

As indicated in the Controller's letter, the resources would provide for the costs of 15 military advisers and 60 civilian police advisers ($1,207,800), for civilian personnel costs for 100 international staff, 233 national staff and 37 United Nations Volunteers ($5,148,200), as well as operational costs ($6,345,000), which include provision, under general temporary assistance, for 45 civilian advisers as mandated in paragraph 2 (i) of resolution 1599 (2005), for the period from 21 May to 30 September 2005.

The Committee further notes that it is proposed to utilize the unencumbered balance in the amount of $6,301,700, related to the United Nations Advance Mission in the Sudan (UNAMIS), resulting from the transformation of the mission into a peacekeeping mission, in order to meet part of the initial requirements of UNOTIL. The net requirements for the initial phase of UNOTIL would therefore amount to $7,491,600 gross ($6,399,300 net).

A full report, presenting the complete budget for UNOTIL, for the period up to 31 December 2005 will be presented at the beginning of the sixtieth session of the General Assembly. The Advisory Committee will consider all relevant details, including the staffing structure, when it considers the full budget proposal. However, the Committee recommends that a leaner administrative and support structure be considered, including maximum use of national staff. The estimate of operational requirements, including the use of aircraft, should take into account the potential for cooperation with United Nations funds and programmes to maximize savings.

In particular, the budget submission should include information on the rationale for the structure of the Office, especially as concerns the placement of the human rights unit vis-à-vis the Civilian Support Group; on how the special political mission, in particular the Civilian Support Group, is expected to interact with the United Nations Development Programme; on how the Office plans to utilize national capacity resulting from the services of UNMISSET, especially in the area of human rights; and on the requirements for the gender-related functions, taking into account their importance and the presence of related international entities and national capacity.

In the meantime, the Advisory Committee concurs with the request to use the unencumbered balance under UNAMIS, in the amount of $6,301,700, for UNOTIL operations. In addition, pursuant to the provisions of General Assembly resolution 58/273 of 23 December 2003 on unforeseen and extraordinary expenses, the Advisory Committee also concurs with the request for authorization to enter into commitments in an amount not to exceed $7,491,600 gross ($6,399,300 net) towards meeting the cost of the initial phase of UNOTIL. The Committee understands that these amounts will be reflected in the full budget to be presented in September 2005 for the period from 21 May to 31 December 2005. The Committee further trusts that there will be no overlap of resources and expenditures as between UNOTIL, UNMISSET and its liquidation budget.

Annex III

Information on activities of United Nations agencies in Timor-Leste

Development of the justice sector

1. In 2003, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) launched a project on strengthening the justice system in Timor-Leste, which is still in operation, intended to develop and strengthen the overall effectiveness in the constitutional justice system, including the courts, prosecution and the Ministry of Justice. Since the launch, a standardized training conducted through the activation of the Judicial Training Centre under the Ministry of Justice has been established for judges, prosecutors and public defenders.

2. In the area of juvenile justice, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) continues its support by ensuring the proper treatment of children in contact with the law in line with international human rights standards, offering community-based rehabilitation programmes for them to be successfully reintegrated into their communities. UNICEF has also provided support to the Government in the development of a legal framework for children.

Institutional capacity development

3. The World Bank continues to coordinate the Consolidation Support Programme, with a strong focus on capacity-building, providing budgetary support of $10 million to $15 million, which will be used to strengthen staff capacity at various levels in the Ministry of Planning and Finance and in-line ministries and districts through enhanced service delivery, particularly in planning and financial management.

4. UNDP has extended its project on capacity development for human resource management in the civil service for another two years, during which period over 30 senior administrators in Timor-Leste are expected to be trained in key areas through the establishment of the leadership and management programme. The Civil Service Act was passed by Parliament in 2004, and through UNDP assistance a human resource manual to guide the implementation of the Act was developed. The UNDP project on institutional capacity development support is aimed at enhancing the capacity of national civil servants to promote sustainable development and poverty eradication. Currently there are 43 advisers working in State institutions and Government.

5. The International Labour Organization (ILO) and UNDP are assisting the Ministry of Labour and Community Reinsertion to develop the competences, methodologies, and instruments necessary to deliver effective employment services, strengthen the capacity of existing rural and urban training providers and empower communities through the provision of skills and micro-enterprise development and start-up support.

Agriculture, livestock and fisheries

6. The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) continues to strengthen its efforts towards institutional capacity-building in the agricultural sector, assisting the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries to develop an agricultural statistics system with the aim of providing agricultural and National Statistics Directorate staff with efficient methodologies for the collection, processing, dissemination and analysis of agricultural sector data.

7. FAO, UNDP and the United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS) are supporting the Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries in providing technical assistance to improve food security and to increase the income of resource-poor households in an environmentally sustainable way through the Ainaro and Manatuto community activation project. Some of the activities have included the replication of rice-seed multiplication trials, which have produced over a 300 per cent yield in select districts, and reducing 95 per cent of the post-harvest losses for maize at the household levels.

8. The World Food Programme (WFP) has recently completed and published a food security and vulnerability analysis study for Timor-Leste, which highlights key aspects of food insecurity and vulnerable areas in the country. In anticipation of possible food shortages, which persist in periodic cycles, the Government has taken initiatives to lead the coordination of food aid distribution. An interministerial Commission on Food Aid, which, with the assistance of international actors, is currently drawing up a national strategy to identify and distribute food to those most vulnerable to shortages. In addition, the Government is currently drafting a national food security policy. Although the Government is making fiscal, institutional and policy measures to address both the short- and long-term challenges, they will need continued international assistance to implement these policies, if food aid is to be replaced by self-sufficiency.

Health

9. WHO, UNFPA and UNICEF are collaborating to address health issues. WHO is supporting the Ministry of Health in the development and implementation of integrated disease surveillance system and control of major communicable and other diseases. UNICEF and WHO are providing technical and financial assistance to conduct national immunization days against polio owing to the recent spread of infection in Indonesia. Likewise, UNICEF is undertaking the “immunization plus” project, ensuring that all centres have an adequate supply of vaccines and staff is able to conduct immunizations.

10. WHO, UNFPA and UNICEF are providing joint support for the development of strategies and policies for reproductive health and safe motherhood. Further assistance has been given to producing protocols for obstetrics care and training courses for midwives. Thus far six midwives have been trained outside of the country. UNFPA and UNICEF are targeting the reduction of high levels of maternal deaths through the provision of reproductive health-care services, and UNICEF is supporting training programmes for midwives, in particular in remote areas.

11. WFP is working together with WHO and UNICEF on its project on supplementary feeding to pregnant and lactating mothers and children, which aims to reduce malnutrition among children under the age of five, pregnant and lactating women, to reduce low birth weight of children and to reduce anaemia among pregnant women. UNICEF is also supporting the Ministry of Health in improving access to health services through the provision of basic equipment and essential drugs to all health centres as well as through the establishment of community volunteer networks and outreach activities.

12. UNICEF is further supporting the water and environmental sanitation project to improve capacity of key Government staff to promote hygiene behaviours and education, and sanitation.

13. Progress has been made in taking steps to address the issue of HIV/AIDS in Timor-Leste. The United Nations Theme Group on HIV/AIDS, co-chaired by UNDP and UNICEF, plays an active role in addressing HIV/AIDS and is now implementing its second project for vulnerability assessment mapping to collect critical data on risk areas currently lacking in the country. UNICEF supports this area by ensuring that young people have greater access to information and counselling for HIV/AIDS prevention. WHO is currently developing a surveillance system, and in collaboration with Family Health International, training staff from the Ministry of Health.

Education

14. UNICEF supports a number of activities that promote the enhanced capacity of teachers and principals to be able to effectively use active learning methods and materials and manage schools in more than 50 per cent of primary schools. A new national curriculum for primary education, supported by UNICEF, was adopted by the Council of Ministers earlier in 2005. Already it is being piloted and grade one modules will be implemented later in 2005. UNESCO has expanded its science mentoring programme to pre-service teacher training, also to enhance the quality and capacity of instructors. WHO and UNICEF are working together to support the Ministry of Health in developing health education materials.

15. WFP is also supporting health efforts towards education through its school feeding programme, which provides mid-morning snacks to primary school children. Thus far, 74,000 children have been fed and their nutritional status has improved.

16. New community centres, supported by UNESCO, to open initially in five districts, will offer classes in literacy, professional skills programmes. UNICEF will help the Government in developing literacy strategy for young people and support projects in five districts to pilot new functional literacy methods and materials. As part of its support, UNICEF is also designing community models for early childhood education.

Vulnerable groups, including women

17. The United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM) has been actively working with communities and the Government on promoting and enhancing gender awareness. In collaboration with UNDP, it has thus far trained 795 candidates and potential women candidates for the Suco (village) elections and is developing further training and support to elected women officials with the National Institute for Public Administration. It continues to provide support to the strengthening of the Office for the Promotion of Equality under the Prime Minister.

18. UNFPA is working with UNDP to support the drafting of a domestic violence law to protect victims, the creation of a referral service network for victims of domestic violence and training and capacity-building to key institutions to more effectively address gender-based violence, including the police force and Office for the Promotion of Equality.

19. The consultative group on gender, currently chaired by UNFPA, continues to meet regularly to coordinate gender-related issues and to encourage gender mainstreaming in development projects. In 2005, the "Gender Briefing Kit: Who's Who on Gender Mainstreaming within the United Nations Country Team in Timor-Leste" was published, bringing together the key stakeholders in the promotion of gender awareness, including activities from United Nations agencies, programmes and funds, UNOTIL, national and local women's non-governmental organizations and the Office for the Promotion of Equality.

20. UNICEF continues its work to provide access to information about child protection and to establish prevention and protection systems to ensure protection from violence, abuse, neglect and exploitation against children. UNICEF also supports the establishment of case management systems involving police, social workers, and health professionals to effectively respond to child abuse cases. They are also working closely with the Government and other United Nations agencies to finalize the initial State party report on the Convention on the Rights of the Child and other treaty reports.

Refugees and national reconciliation

21. The Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) continues to support the protection and treatment of refugees through technical assistance and capacity-building. In border areas in particular, UNHCR is working to support the Border Patrol Unit in the reception of asylum-seekers, the implementation of effective refugee status determination procedures, and the extension of protection to these groups. It maintains its support to strengthening the capacity of the Asylum Unit within the Immigration Department. At the airport, it supports the construction of a reception centre for more effective reception of asylum-seekers.

22. Political advocacy and policy support still stands as an important issue in ensuring the proper institutional mechanisms are in place to effectively address refugee needs. In addition to direct and indirect assistance to asylum-seekers and refugees, UNHCR continues to advocate for the promotion of international law, including the Convention relating to the Status of Refugees and its 1967 Protocol, and is undertaking an accession campaign with regard to the statelessness conventions. Furthermore, it encourages the development of implementing regulations for national legislation regarding refugees, and provides refugee law training to Government institutions, non-governmental organizations and the civil society.

Infrastructure

23. The Asian Development Bank resumed its support to developing capacity in infrastructure agencies, and introduced a new development grants facility from the Asian Development Fund, which the Government of Timor-Leste has favoured to finance infrastructure improvements.

24. The World Bank supports through its power sectors priority investments project the delivery of least-cost, high-quality electricity service through improvements in the Timor-Leste electricity generation capacity and distribution efficiency.

25. The International Organization for Migration (IOM) has implemented its assistance to the community stabilization in Timor-Leste project, which aims to provide technical and material support for the rehabilitation and construction of community infrastructure. To date, the majority of the requests have been for water supply systems and the provision of clean water to remote communities. Some construction of schools has been carried out, and support may extend to rehabilitation of access roads and markets.

26. UNOPS and UNDP are supporting the building of five bridges across the eastern part of the country to link two districts with the aim of opening up access to the people of both sides to facilitate economic development. This is intended to connect two agriculturally rich areas in the area.

United Nations coordination

27. UNOTIL and the United Nations agencies, funds and programmes continue to work closely in Timor-Leste. United Nations country team fortnightly meetings, consisting of heads of agencies, chaired by the United Nations Resident Coordinator, who also serves as the Special Representative of the Secretary-General, are frequently attended by senior officials of UNOTIL. Several inter-agency theme groups, including those on HIV/AIDS, gender and human rights, sexual exploitation and abuse network, and the operations management group regularly meet to enhance the coordination of the agencies of the United Nations system.

Annex IV

Information on the handing over of responsibilities to other United Nations entities, e.g., the United Nations Development Programme, the World Bank, the United Nations Development Fund for Women, etc., when the United Nations Office in Timor-Leste winds up

1. The post-United Nations Office in Timor-Leste (UNOTIL) arrangement for a smooth handover of 45 UNOTIL civilian adviser positions is being developed in collaboration with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), United Nations agencies, the World Bank and bilateral partners. The Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General leads an inter-agency task force for that purpose.
2. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has indicated that it will take over the cost of a policy adviser in the Ministry of Education.
3. UNDP has indicated a possible takeover of the following 20 positions:
 - (a) Legal adviser to the President of the National Parliament through the UNDP National Parliament Project from February 2006 onward;
 - (b) Two legal training advisers/drafters to the National Parliament through the UNDP National Parliament Project in cooperation with the Government of Brazil from April 2006 onward;
 - (c) Seventeen judicial posts under the Ministry of Justice (the Courts, Prosecutor General's Office and Public Defenders' Office), composed of the Chief Justice, 2 Appeals Court judges, 4 District Court judges, 2 court clerks, 4 prosecutors and 4 public defenders, will be financed by the UNDP justice programme from May 2006 onward.
4. The World Bank has indicated the possible funding of the following three positions:
 - (a) Training adviser on accounts and payments from January 2006 onward;
 - (b) Training adviser on debts and assets management from March 2006 onward;
 - (c) Information and communications technology training adviser from May 2006 onward.
5. In addition, the existing UNDP advisers will be able to absorb some functions that UNOTIL advisers are currently engaged in from May 2006, namely:
 - (a) Legal adviser to the Office of the President;
 - (b) Legal adviser on human rights to the Office of the Adviser on Human Rights to the Prime Minister.
6. Some development partners have pledged the funding of the following posts through a bilateral agreement:

(a) Training adviser on small and medium industry development to the Ministry of Development by the Japan International Cooperation Agency from May 2006 onward;

(b) Technical adviser for civil aviation to the Ministry of Transport and Communication by the Japan International Cooperation Agency from May 2006 onward;

(c) Training adviser for Auditors by the Japan International Cooperation Agency from May 2006 onward.

7. The Government of Portugal has expressed its willingness to support some adviser posts, in particular in the legal area.

Information on resources that will be financed by the United Nations Development Programme and the World Bank

8. Budgetary resources required for the 2006-2008 support programmes in the justice sector are estimated to a total $10 million. The recent UNDP-led justice sector review mission estimated that the requirements for international advisers from May 2006 to May 2007 would include seven judges, four prosecutors, four defence lawyers, four court clerks and two interpreters/translators. By the end of 2008, the international presence should be reduced to five judges, two prosecutors, two defence lawyers, two court clerks and two interpreters/translators.

9. On the other hand, the assessment mission to the National Parliament Project, which is scheduled to arrive in Timor-Leste in November 2005, will develop the outline of the project starting in 2006.

10. The World Bank currently has under discussion with the Government of Timor-Leste the terms of reference of the planning and financial management project. The project is estimated at a total of $30 million for a five-year period.

Information on support arrangements in various areas

11. The following functions will be transferred from UNOTIL to United Nations agencies and will be carried out under the common services agreement. These will be presented to the inter-agency operations group chaired by the Deputy Resident Representative of UNDP for further discussion, based on which the agencies and UNDP will decide on the capacity needed by them in the substantive and support areas.

Security

12. The Office of the Designated Officer will be responsible for the countrywide security system. The security unit will comprise a field security coordination officer, a deputy field security coordination officer and three national staff.

13. The field security coordination officer will be responsible for identification cards. Incident investigations, the monitoring of personnel movements, the country security plan, facilities protection, travel advisories, security clearance and security briefings for new arrivals.

Medical services

14. Arrangements for medical services will be addressed as a United Nations common system issue with WHO playing the lead role. The arrangements are expected to be in place and operational on 1 May 2006. This will be discussed by the inter-agency operations group before 15 November 2005.

15. The arrangements will include domestic arrangements for medical evacuation and treatment, international aero-medical evacuation services, and the medical clinic. The United Nations Medical Director will be requested to field a mission to Timor-Leste to advise on setting up a United Nations dispensary and other arrangements.

Logistics/communications

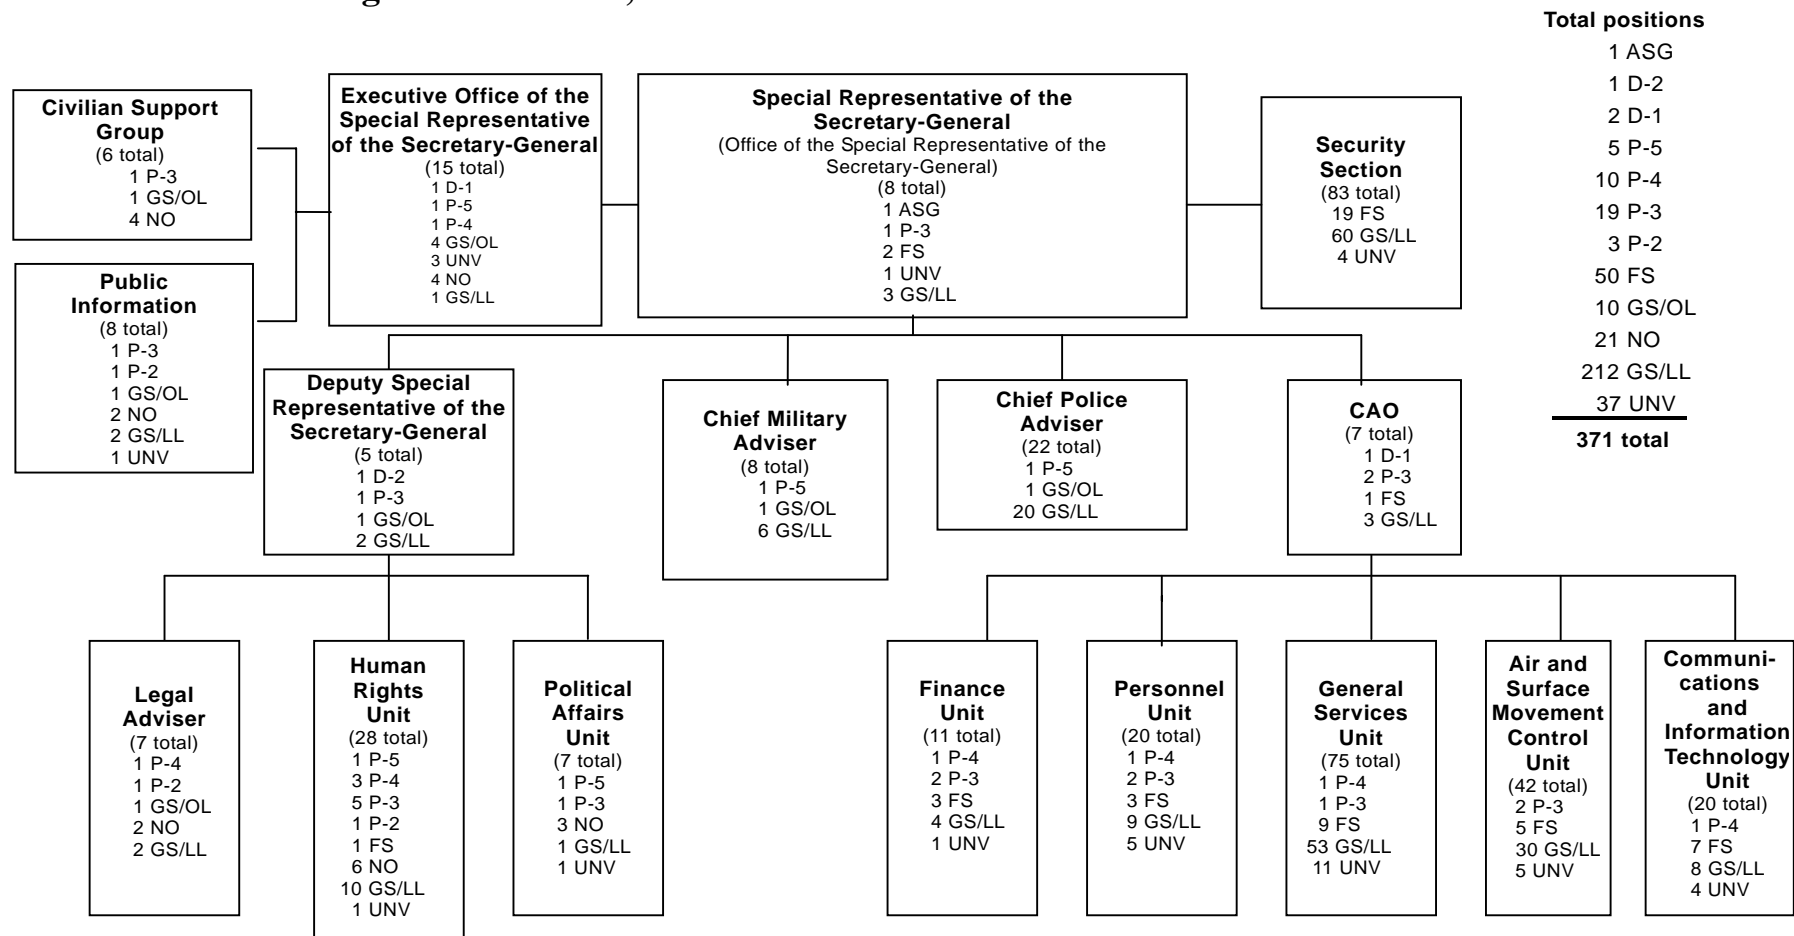

16. United Nations agencies have their own radio room as well as a telephone exchange system. The need for a high-frequency radio system for district coverage will be assessed and established by 1 June 2006 if found to be necessary.

Human resources services

17. Some issues would require attention by each agency (e.g., advisers whose contracts will be administered by agencies depending on their areas of specialization). Actual human resources needs and other administrative support will depend on the assessment of each agency's future programme expansion. Work is in progress by a task team on substantive and programmatic issues. United Nations holiday schedules, corporate issues, including local staff salary surveys, place-to-place surveys, daily subsistence allowance surveys, hardship designation and signatory responsibility for United Nations laissez-passer will be undertaken by the inter-agency operations group, with UNDP as the focal point.
