Updated terms of reference for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee

I. Introduction

1. The General Assembly, in its resolution 60/1 of 16 September 2005, requested the Secretary-General to submit detailed proposals on the creation of an independent oversight advisory committee, including its mandate, composition, selection process and qualification of experts (para. 164 (c)). In a report issued in response to that request, the Secretary-General set out proposed terms of reference for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee (A/60/568, annex III).

2. In its resolution 60/248 of 23 December 2005, the General Assembly decided to establish the Independent Audit Advisory Committee to assist the Assembly in discharging its oversight responsibilities, and requested the Secretary-General to propose its terms of reference, ensure coherence with the outcome of the ongoing review of oversight and report to the Assembly at the second part of its resumed sixtieth session on related resource requirements.

3. The present report updates the proposed terms of reference for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee, arising from the independent external review of governance and oversight, whose findings are also before the General Assembly for consideration (see A/60/883), as well as the results of further consultations. The operation of the new Committee will greatly strengthen the United Nations system of accountability, which has already been addressed in document A/60/846/Add.6.

II. Review of the proposed terms of reference for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee within the comprehensive review of governance and oversight

4. The provisional terms of reference and proposed arrangements for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee, as set out in document A/60/568, were reviewed by the independent Steering Committee and its technical review team within the above-mentioned comprehensive review of governance arrangements, including the independent external evaluation of the auditing and oversight system. Within this process the provisional terms of reference were compared against a broad assessment of audit committee best practice, further reviewed to ensure their coherence with the review of oversight, and updated accordingly.

5. The report on the comprehensive review of governance and oversight (A/60/883) fully endorses the decision made by the General Assembly to establish the Independent Audit Advisory Committee, as an essential component in ensuring the independence and effectiveness of internal and external audit. The report recommends further clarification of the provisional terms of reference in a number of areas, specifically with respect to the number, appointment criteria, terms and compensation of members of the Committee and other operational matters, including the provision of information to the Committee and responding to exceptional requests from the General Assembly. Updated terms of reference are set out in the annex to the present report, reflecting the clarifications and improvements recommended within the review as well as the results of further consultations. Further explanatory details of the main changes to the provisional terms of reference are set out below.

III. Appointment criteria, terms and compensation

6. The composition of the Committee is raised from “five or seven” to 10 members. The rationale for this increase is to enable the Committee to fully address the anticipated volume of work, to facilitate the rotation of an appropriate number of members within the Committee while maintaining continuity of the remaining Committee members, and to facilitate geographic representation. The Committee’s members should have contracts of appointment of three years’ duration. After the first three years, one half of the members should be replaced. Such a rotation policy is best practice, and with appropriate transition measures enables continuity of membership while providing for the appointment of new members to the Committee. Appointments may be renewable once, providing a maximum duration of six years. In subsequent reviews of the terms of reference for the Committee, the General Assembly may also consider revising the number of members on the basis of the workloads prevailing at the time (see annex, paras. 2 and 3).

7. Transitional arrangements shall apply for the initial appointments to the Committee. To enable continuity, 5 of the 10 members should be provided with initial non-renewable contracts of six years' duration, and 5 should be provided with initial non-renewable contracts of three years' duration.

8. To ensure coherence with the conclusions of the oversight review, the nomination process for candidates for the Committee will be as transparent as practicable, and all such nominations shall relate the background and experience of candidates to the requirements and criteria set out in the terms of reference. The process of identifying suitable candidates needs to begin very shortly, subject to the decision of the General Assembly.

9. In keeping with the unique international character of the United Nations, the terms of reference have been further clarified to improve the criteria for independence and qualification of nominee to the Committee. Within the independence criteria, as set out in appendix A to the annex, the exclusion clause with respect to the candidature of employees of the Office of Internal Oversight Services and the Board of Auditors has been improved in paragraph 2 (b). Consistent with the other exclusion clauses in appendix A, the text has been amended to restrict on grounds of independence candidates who are employees of any United Nations system oversight body. Employees of the Office of Internal Oversight Services are addressed by the existing clause set out in paragraph 2 (a) of appendix A.

10. The financial thresholds within the criteria for independence have also been updated in response to concerns that the thresholds were too high when applied globally. Accordingly, the threshold for the receipt of compensation from the United Nations by a family member has been reduced from "more than $100,000" to "zero" (appendix A, para. 2 (f)); and the threshold of payments to or receipt of payments from the United Nations in any of the last three fiscal years has been reduced from "the greater of $1 million or 2 per cent" to "the lesser of $1 million or 2 per cent" of the consolidated expenditures or revenues of the company (appendix A, paras. 2 (h) and 2 (i)).

11. The report also identified a weakness in clarity of the experience criteria, as set out in appendix B to annex III to document A/60/568, in particular with respect to the global interpretation of the term "relevant financial experience". A more precise statement of requirements is now set out in appendix B to this report. In paragraph 1, a provision has been added to state that "At least one member should be a professional qualified accountant or auditor". Paragraph 3 now begins: "All candidates for Committee membership must have integrity, objectivity and discipline and have held senior positions in the areas covered by the criteria set out below. The Secretary-General will nominate such individuals who have expertise in at least three of the following criteria." The previous terms of reference required only one of the stated criteria. The criteria themselves have also been improved, with a new criterion added to better reflect the level of experience required to act efficiently within the United Nations, as follows: “Experience in preparing, auditing, analysing or evaluating financial statements that present a breadth and level of complexity of accounting issues that are generally comparable to the breadth and complexity of issues within United Nation financial statements.”

12. While the earlier terms of reference proposed compensation in line with that currently provided to regular members of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, formal compensation is now proposed for all members of the Independent Audit Advisory Committee (the comprehensive review of governance and oversight proposes that the regular members of the Advisory Committee would also receive compensation in future). This is required to attract suitably qualified candidates who comply with the independence criteria as set out in appendix A.

IV. Other operational clarifications

13. Other changes to the terms of reference have been made that are operational in nature and help to further hone the Committee’s practices with respect to its interactions with internal and external audit, management and the General Assembly. New provisions have been introduced to maintain free access to the chair of the Committee for the heads of external and internal audit (see annex, para. 9 (d)); to respond to requests from the General Assembly to convene to discuss particular matters (para. 9 (e)); to facilitate inputs from other United Nations organizations, with respect to the coordination of internal audit services for cross-agency activities involving funds for which the Secretary-General is responsible (para. 9 (n)); to review financial system contingency plans for failure, fraud or misuse (para. 9 (r)); to modify the task of reviewing financial statements to facilitate annual or biennial financial statements (para. 9 (s)); to facilitate the provision of information by management to the Committee (para. 9 (u)); and to publish the modified terms of reference for the Committee (para. 9 (y)). Some provisions were also rationalized to avoid unnecessary detail or repetition. The specific provisions of paragraph 9 (i) as presented in document A/60/568 do not appear in the new paragraph 9 (k), as they are covered elsewhere in the updated text, namely in paragraph 8 (f). Furthermore, the activities as set out in paragraph 9 do not include the new activity proposed within the comprehensive review of oversight (A/60/883) to put in place a framework and monitor engagements for the provision of non-audit services by the external auditor, including seeking an annual independence confirmation from the auditor, for both audit and non-audit related work. While this provision may be useful for other United Nations entities that appoint their own external auditors, the Board of Auditors is prohibited from providing additional non-audit services.

V. Resource requirements

14. The comprehensive review of oversight recommends that the members of the Independent Audit Advisory Committee be compensated. The report also recommends that the Committee have a small full-time secretarial support unit. The resource requirements described below are based on the assumption that the Committee will become operational in January 2007.

Resource requirements

Category	Resources (thousands of United States dollars)			Posts
	2006-2007 estimate	Change	Total	2006-2007 estimate	Change	Total
Regular budget
Post	—	271.9	271.9	—	3	3
Non-post	—	684.7	684.7	—	—	—
Total	—	956.6	956.6	—	3	3

15. The amount of $271,900 would provide for three posts (one D-1, one P-3 and one General Service (Other level)) to provide administrative and logistical support for the work of the Committee. In particular, the secretariat support unit would assist in the preparation of the Committee's quarterly meetings and provide support during and after the meetings. The support unit would also play a logistical liaison role between the Committee, the Office of Internal Oversight Services, the Board of Auditors, management, other oversight bodies and the General Assembly.

16. The estimated requirements under non-post in the amount of $684,700 would provide for (a) non-staff compensation for members of the Independent Audit Advisory Committee for twelve weeks per annum (at $2,044 per week for the Chairman and $1,607 per week for other members) ($198,200); (b) consultancy fees for independent investigations of matters brought to the attention of the committee, and for the assistance of an executive search firm ($170,000); (c) travel and subsistence allowance of expert members of the Committee for the Committee's quarterly meetings ($297,400); and (d) general operating expenses ($19,100), including communications ($4,700); maintenance of office automation equipment (centrally provided network and software support) and other equipment ($9,300); supplies and materials ($400); and the acquisition by the office of automation equipment ($4,700).

VI. Conclusion and recommendations

17. The General Assembly may wish to take note of the present report and its annex, and to:

(a) Approve the terms of reference for the Independent Audit Advisory Committee, as set out in the annex to the present report, including its mandate, composition, selection process and qualification of experts, as explained above, and the associated resource requirements;

(b) Appropriate $917,800 under section 1, Overall policymaking, direction and coordination, and $38,800 under section 35, Staff assessment, to be offset by a corresponding amount under income section 1, Income from staff assessment, of the programme budget for the biennium 2006-2007.
