Agenda item 51 (a)

Globalization and interdependence: role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence

Report of the Second Committee*

Rapporteur: Mr. Awsan Al-Aud (Yemen)

I. Introduction

1. The Second Committee held a substantive debate on agenda item 51 (see A/63/416, para. 2). Action on sub-item (a) was taken at the 27th, 28th, 29th and 31st meetings, on 18, 20 and 25 November and 11 December 2008. An account of the Committee's consideration of the sub-item is contained in the relevant summary records (A/C.2/63/SR.27, 28, 29 and 31).

II. Consideration of proposals

A. Draft resolutions A/C.2/63/L.29 and A/C.2/63/L.66

2. At the 27th meeting, on 18 November, the representative of Antigua and Barbuda, on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are members of the Group of 77 and China, introduced a draft resolution entitled "Role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence" (A/C.2/63/L.29), which read:

"The General Assembly,

"Recalling its resolutions 53/169 of 15 December 1998, 54/231 of 22 December 1999, 55/212 of 20 December 2000, 56/209 of 21 December 2001, 57/274 of 20 December 2002, 58/225 of 23 December 2003, 59/240 of 22 December 2004, 60/204 of 22 December 2005, 61/207 of 20 December

* The report of the Committee on this item is being issued in five parts, under the symbol A/63/416 and Add.1-4

2006 and 62/199 of 19 December 2007 on the role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence,

“Recalling also the 2005 World Summit Outcome and all relevant General Assembly resolutions, in particular those that have built upon the 2005 World Summit Outcome, in the economic, social and related fields, including Assembly resolution 60/265 of 30 June 2006 on follow-up to the development outcome of the 2005 World Summit, including the Millennium Development Goals and the other internationally agreed development goals,

“Reaffirming that the United Nations has a central role in promoting international cooperation for development and in promoting policy coherence on global development issues, including in the context of globalization and interdependence,

“Reaffirming also the resolve expressed in the United Nations Millennium Declaration to ensure that globalization becomes a positive force for all the world’s people,

“Recognizing that globalization, driven largely by economic liberalization and technology, implies that the economic performance of a country is increasingly affected by factors outside its geographical borders and that maximizing in an equitable manner the benefits of globalization requires developing responses to globalization through a strengthened global partnership for development to achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals,

“Expressing deep concern at the current financial and economic crises, as a direct consequence of unchecked neoliberal financial deregulation and the lack of regulatory oversight, and food and energy crises and their negative impact on the realization of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, particularly for developing countries,

“Recognizing that domestic economies are now interwoven with the global economy and that globalization affects all countries in different ways, and that countries on the one hand have trade and investment opportunities to, inter alia, fight poverty, while on the other face constraints in the degree of flexibility they have in pursuing their national development strategies,

“Reaffirming its strong support for fair and inclusive globalization and the need to translate growth into reduction of poverty and, in this regard, its resolve to make the goals of full and productive employment and decent work for all, including for women and young people, a central objective of relevant national and international policies as well as national development strategies, including poverty reduction strategies, as part of efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals,

“Noting that particular attention must be given, in the context of globalization, to the objective of protecting, promoting and enhancing the rights and welfare of women and girls, as stated in the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action,

“1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General;

“2. Expresses concern that the most recent poverty estimates reveal that poverty is more widespread than previously estimated;

“3. Recognizes with serious concern the negative impacts of the current financial and economic crises, particularly on developing countries, in view of their limited capacity to facilitate export and secure access to credit as well as pursue effective counter-cyclical macroeconomic policies, and on the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals;

“4. Recognizes that the present financial crisis and the response measures adopted by the Governments of the affected countries have underlined the important role of the public sector in guaranteeing a safe and stable economic environment;

“5. Also recognizes that greater consistency is required among the macroeconomic, trade, aid, financial, environmental and gender-equality policies to support the common aim of making globalization work for all;

“6. Stresses the need for better mechanisms and institutions to address systemic weaknesses and enhance the coherence, complementarity and coordination of inclusive and transparent global economic policymaking;

“7. Underlines the fact that economies exist in a globalizing world where the emergence of rule-based regimes for international economic relations has meant that the space for national economic policy, that is, to say the scope for domestic policies, especially in the areas of trade, investment and industrial development, is now often framed by international disciplines, commitments and global market considerations, that it is for each Government to evaluate the trade-off between the benefits of accepting international rules and commitments and the constraints posed by the loss of policy space, and that it is particularly important for developing countries, bearing in mind development goals and objectives, that all countries take into account the need for appropriate balance between national policy space and international disciplines and commitments, and in this regard notes with appreciation the work of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development on the concept of policy space, as articulated in the São Paulo Consensus and the World Summit Outcome;

“8. Reaffirms the commitment to broaden and strengthen the participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in international economic decision-making and norm-setting, stresses, to that end, the importance of making urgent efforts to reform the international financial architecture, noting that enhancing the voice and participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in the Bretton Woods institutions remains a continuous concern, and calls in this regard for further and effective progress;

“9. Stresses the need for increased funding for agriculture to invigorate the agricultural sector, particularly in developing countries, so as to safeguard food security, farmers’ livelihoods and rural development;

“10. Recognizes that growth strategies and labour policies need to pursue explicit employment objectives in order to achieve reduction in poverty, and that those policies must take into account the gender disparities in women's employment;

“11. Encourages all development partners to help strengthen and support national health and education policies and plans of developing countries through providing assistance and funding in accordance with their development needs and priorities;

“12. Notes that the role of Governments is critical in establishing institutions capable of providing high-quality primary, secondary and tertiary education, including developing a clear vision for the long-term development of a comprehensive, diversified and well-articulated tertiary education system;

“13. Recognizes that efficient and equitable health systems are needed to effectively implement the disease prevention, care and control programmes required to meet the specific health goals of reducing child and maternal mortality and reducing the spread of diseases such as HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria;

“14. Notes that efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals should further include intensified control of neglected tropical diseases;

“15. Recognizes the need for policies and measures to promote sustainable production and consumption patterns, with the developed countries taking the lead;

“16. Stresses the need for strengthening technology transfer commitments and providing more favourable terms for technology transfer under multilateral trading agreements and for taking concrete actions to facilitate technology transfer to developing countries in support of the implementation of their sustainable development strategies;

“17. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the General Assembly at its sixty-fourth session a report on globalization and interdependence on the theme ‘Globalization and development: the role of the United Nations and international financial institutions in the context of the current financial and economic crisis’, under the agenda item entitled ‘Globalization and interdependence’;

“18. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its sixty-fourth session, under the item entitled ‘Globalization and interdependence’, the sub-item entitled ‘Role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence’.”

3. At its 31st meeting, on 11 December, the Committee had before it a draft resolution entitled “Role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence” (A/C.2/63/L.66), submitted by the Vice-Chairman of the Committee, Troy Torrington (Guyana), on the basis of informal consultations held on draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.29.

4. At the same meeting, the Committee was informed that the draft resolution had no programme budget implications.

5. Also at the same meeting, following a statement by the Vice-Chairman (Guyana), the representative of the Netherlands, in her capacity as facilitator, orally corrected the draft resolution (see A/C.2/63/SR.31).

6. Also at its 31st meeting, the Committee adopted draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.66, as orally corrected (see para. 20, draft resolution I).

7. In the light of the adoption of draft resolution A/C.2/62/L.66, draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.29 was withdrawn by its sponsors.

B. Draft resolutions A/C.2/63/L.33 and A/C.2/63/L.47

8. At the 27th meeting, on 18 November, the representative of Antigua and Barbuda, on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are members of the Group of 77 and China, introduced a draft resolution entitled “Development cooperation with middle-income countries”.

“The General Assembly,

“Recalling the relevant provisions supporting the development efforts of middle-income countries and their development needs reflected in the outcomes of the United Nations major international conferences and summits, including the Millennium Declaration and the 2005 World Summit Outcome, as well as the relevant provisions of General Assembly resolutions,

“Reaffirming its resolution 62/208 of 19 December 2007, entitled ‘Triennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system’, in which the Assembly recognized that middle-income countries still face significant challenges in the area of poverty eradication and that efforts to address those challenges should be supported in order to ensure that achievements made to date are sustained, including through support to the effective development of comprehensive cooperation policies,

“Underlining the need to address the development needs of middle-income countries, including those contained in the outcomes of the international economic development processes,

“Recognizing that middle-income countries still face significant challenges and obstacles that are preventing them from achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and the need to strengthen international support of the development efforts of middle-income countries, taking into account their economic and social characteristics and circumstances, as well as their specific needs and priorities,

“Noting that the categorization of middle-income countries, particularly averages based on criteria such as per capita income, does not always reflect the actual particularities and development needs of those countries,

“Taking note of the outcomes of the international conferences on development cooperation with middle-income countries held in Madrid, El Salvador, and Windhoek, and the regional conference on the theme ‘Increasing the competitiveness of African middle-income countries’, held in Cairo,

“1. Underlines the importance of enhanced international support for middle-income countries to address their development needs;

“2. Acknowledges the successes and efforts made by middle-income countries to eradicate poverty and implement the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, as well as their significant contribution to global development and the promotion of South-South cooperation;

“3. Recognizes the solidarity of middle-income countries with other developing countries with a view to supporting their development efforts, including in the context of South-South cooperation;

“4. Underlines the importance of enhanced international cooperation for middle-income countries in order to contribute to global and regional economic stability;

“5. Invites the United Nations development system to enhance its support to middle-income countries and to strengthen its coordination and exchange of experiences with other international organizations, international financial institutions and regional organizations in this field;

“6. Acknowledges the initiative of middle-income countries to hold follow-up conferences and other meetings regarding their development on a yearly basis, and in this regard requests the organizations of the United Nations system and other international organizations to support these endeavours;

“7. Decides that a comprehensive review should be conducted of existing practices of the international cooperation system, including the United Nations funds, programmes and agencies, the international financial institutions and other international organizations, including the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, on their development cooperation with middle-income countries, with a view to achieving more effective development cooperation and fostering international support for the development efforts of these countries;

“8. Requests the Secretary-General to submit a report on the implementation of the present resolution at its sixty-fourth session, including paragraph 7 above;

“9. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its sixty-fourth session, under the item entitled ‘Globalization and interdependence’, the sub-item entitled ‘Development cooperation with middle-income countries’.”

9. At its 29th meeting, on 25 November, the Committee had before it a draft resolution entitled “Development cooperation with middle-income countries” (A/C.2/63/L.47), submitted by the Vice-Chairman of the Committee, Troy Torrington (Guyana), on the basis of informal consultations held on draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.33.

10. At the same meeting, the Committee was informed that the draft resolution had no programme budget implications.

11. Also at its 29th meeting, the Committee adopted draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.47 (see para. 20, draft resolution II).

12. After the adoption of the draft resolution, statements were made by the Vice-Chairman (Guyana) and the representative of Spain, in her capacity as facilitator (see A/C.2/63/SR.29).

13. In the light of the adoption of draft resolution A/C.2/62/L.47, draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.33 was withdrawn by its sponsors.

C. Draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.34

14. At the 28th meeting, on 20 November, the representative of Antigua and Barbuda, on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are members of the Group of 77 and China, introduced a draft resolution entitled "Towards a new international economic order" (A/C.2/63/L.34).

15. At the 31st meeting, on 11 December, the representative of Antigua and Barbuda, on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are members of the Group of 77 and China, orally corrected the draft resolution (see A/C.2/63/SR.31).

16. At the same meeting, the Committee was informed that the draft resolution had no programme budget implications.

17. Also at the same meeting, the Committee adopted draft resolution A/C.2/63/L.34, as orally corrected, by a recorded vote of 115 to 1 with 49 abstentions (see para. 20, draft resolution III). The voting was as follows:¹

III. Recommendations of the Second Committee

20. The Second Committee recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolutions:

Draft resolution I

Role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolutions 53/169 of 15 December 1998, 54/231 of 22 December 1999, 55/212 of 20 December 2000, 56/209 of 21 December 2001, 57/274 of 20 December 2002, 58/225 of 23 December 2003, 59/240 of 22 December 2004, 60/204 of 22 December 2005, 61/207 of 20 December 2006 and 62/199 of 19 December 2007 on the role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence,

Recalling also the 2005 World Summit Outcome¹ and all relevant General Assembly resolutions, in particular those that have built upon the 2005 World Summit Outcome, in the economic, social and related fields, including resolution 60/265 of 30 June 2006 on follow-up to the development outcome of the 2005 World Summit, including the Millennium Development Goals and the other internationally agreed development goals,

Reaffirming that the United Nations has a central role in promoting international cooperation for development and in promoting policy coherence on global development issues, including in the context of globalization and interdependence,

Reaffirming also the resolve expressed in the United Nations Millennium Declaration² to ensure that globalization works as a positive force for all,

Recognizing that all human rights are universal, indivisible, interdependent and interrelated,

Recognizing also that globalization, driven largely by economic liberalization and technology, implies that the economic performance of a country is increasingly affected by factors outside its geographical borders and that maximizing in an equitable manner the benefits of globalization requires developing responses to globalization through a strengthened global partnership for development to achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals,

Expressing concern that the number of people living in poverty is higher than previously estimated,³ despite significant progress, and that the current financial and food insecurity crises and unpredictable energy prices may pose significant challenges for the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals,

³ World Bank estimates, as at August 2008, calculated using a revised poverty line.

Recognizing that domestic economies are now interwoven with the global economy and that globalization affects all countries in different ways, and that countries on the one hand have trade and investment opportunities to, inter alia, fight poverty, while on the other hand they face constraints in the degree of flexibility they have in pursuing their national development strategies,

Reaffirming its strong support for fair and inclusive globalization and the need to translate growth into reduction of poverty and, in this regard, its resolve to make the goals of full and productive employment and decent work for all, including for women and young people, a central objective of relevant national and international policies as well as national development strategies, including poverty reduction strategies, as part of efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals,

Noting that particular attention must be given, in the context of globalization, to the objective of protecting, promoting and enhancing the rights and welfare of women and girls, as stated in the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action,⁴

Reaffirming its commitment to governance, equity and transparency in the financial, monetary and trading systems and its commitment to open, equitable, rule-based, predictable and non-discriminatory multilateral trading and financial systems,

1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General;⁵

2. Expresses deep concern at the impact of the current financial crisis and global economic slowdown on the ability of developing countries to gain access to the financing necessary for their development objectives, and underlines the fact that developing countries and countries with economies in transition risk suffering very serious setbacks to their development objectives, in particular the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals;

3. Recognizes the measures adopted by Governments to address the present financial crisis and, in that regard, calls upon all countries to manage their macroeconomic and financial policies in ways that contribute to global stability and sustained economic growth and sustainable development;

4. Also recognizes that greater coherence is required among the macroeconomic, trade, aid, financial, environmental and gender-equality policies to support the common aim of ensuring that globalization works as a positive force for all;

5. Further recognizes that new and highly globalized financial instruments continue to change the nature of risks in the world economy, requiring continuing enhancement of market oversight and regulation, and underlines the fact that, to strengthen the resilience of the international financial system, reforms will need to be implemented that will strengthen the regulatory and supervisory frameworks of financial markets;

6. Underlines the fact that economies exist in a globalizing world where the emergence of rule-based regimes for international economic relations has meant that

⁴ Report of the Fourth World Conference on Women, Beijing, 4-15 September 1995 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.96.IV.13), chap. I, resolution 1, annexes I and II.

the space for national economic policy, that is to say the scope for domestic policies, especially in the areas of trade, investment and industrial development, is now often framed by international disciplines, commitments and global market considerations, that it is for each Government to evaluate the trade-off between the benefits of accepting international rules and commitments and the constraints posed by the loss of policy space, and that it is particularly important for developing countries, bearing in mind development goals and objectives, that all countries take into account the need for appropriate balance between national policy space and international disciplines and commitments, and, in this regard, notes with appreciation the outcome of the twelfth session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, held in Accra from 20 to 25 April 2008;⁶

7. Reaffirms that good governance is essential for sustainable development, that sound economic policies, solid democratic institutions responsive to the needs of the people and improved infrastructure are the basis for sustained economic growth, poverty eradication and employment creation, and that freedom, peace and security, domestic stability, respect for human rights, including the right to development, and the rule of law, gender equality, market-oriented policies and an overall commitment to just and democratic societies are also essential and mutually reinforcing;

8. Also reaffirms that good governance at the international level is fundamental for achieving sustainable development, that, in order to ensure a dynamic and enabling international economic environment, it is important to promote global economic governance by addressing the international finance, trade, technology and investment patterns that have an impact on the development prospects of developing countries and that, to this end, the international community should take all necessary and appropriate measures, including ensuring support for structural and macroeconomic reform, a comprehensive solution to the external debt problem and increasing the market access of developing countries;

9. Further reaffirms that each country has primary responsibility for its own development, that the role of national policies and development strategies cannot be overemphasized in the achievement of sustainable development, and that national efforts should be complemented by supportive global programmes, measures and policies aimed at expanding the development opportunities of developing countries, while taking into account national conditions and ensuring respect for national ownership, strategies and sovereignty;

10. Reaffirms the commitment to broaden and strengthen the participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in international economic decision-making and norm-setting, stresses, to that end, the importance of continuing efforts to reform the international financial architecture, noting that enhancing the voice and participation of developing countries and countries with economies in transition in the Bretton Woods institutions remains a continuous concern, and calls in this regard for further and effective progress;

11. Stresses the need for increased support for investment in agricultural productivity, particularly in developing countries, in order to achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals;

12. Encourages all development partners to help to strengthen and support the national health and education policies and plans of developing countries through providing assistance and funding in accordance with their development needs and priorities;

13. Calls upon Governments to assign a high priority to education, including by establishing institutions, in particular for basic education and vocational training, and improving access to and the quality of primary, secondary and tertiary education, including by developing a clear vision for the long-term development of a comprehensive, diversified and well-articulated tertiary education system;

14. Calls upon countries to increase public expenditure and encourage greater private and community investment to achieve international goals and targets in the areas of health, nutrition and sanitation consistent with public policy objectives related to equitable access as well as meeting the specific health goals of reducing child and maternal mortality and reducing the spread of diseases such as HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria;

15. Calls upon all countries to promote sustainable consumption and production patterns, with the developed countries taking the lead and all countries benefiting from the process, taking into account the Rio principles, including, inter alia, the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities as set out in principle 7 of the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development;⁷

16. Stresses the need for all countries to harness knowledge and technology and stimulate innovation if they are to improve their competitiveness and benefit from trade and investment, and in this regard underlines the importance of concrete actions to facilitate technology transfer under fair, transparent and mutually agreed terms to developing countries in support of the implementation of their sustainable development strategies;

17. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the General Assembly at its sixty-fourth session a report on globalization and interdependence on the theme "Globalization and interdependence: the role of the United Nations in poverty reduction and sustainable development" under the item entitled "Globalization and interdependence";

18. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its sixty-fourth session, under the item entitled "Globalization and interdependence", the sub-item entitled "Role of the United Nations in promoting development in the context of globalization and interdependence".

⁷ Report of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, Rio de Janeiro, 3-14 June 1992, vol. I, Resolutions Adopted by the Conference (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.93.I.8 and corrigendum), resolution 1, annex I.

Draft resolution II

Development cooperation with middle-income countries

The General Assembly,

Recalling the outcomes of the United Nations major international conferences and summits, including the Millennium Declaration¹ and the 2005 World Summit Outcome,² as well as the relevant provisions of General Assembly resolutions,

Reaffirming its resolution 62/208 of 19 December 2007, entitled “Triennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system”, in which it recognized that middle-income developing countries still face significant challenges in the area of poverty eradication and that efforts to address those challenges should be supported in order to ensure that achievements made to date are sustained, including through support to the effective development of comprehensive cooperation policies,

Emphasizing that middle-income countries must take primary responsibility for their own development, and that their national efforts should be complemented by supportive global programmes, measures and policies aimed at expanding the development opportunities of middle-income countries, while taking into account their specific national conditions,

Noting that national averages based on criteria such as per capita income do not always reflect the actual particularities and development needs of the middle-income countries, and recognizing the significant diversity of middle-income countries,

Taking note of the outcomes of the international conferences on development cooperation with middle-income countries held in Madrid,³ El Salvador⁴ and Windhoek,⁵ and the regional conference on the theme “Increasing the competitiveness of African middle-income countries”, held in Cairo,⁶

1. Recognizes that middle-income countries still face significant challenges in their efforts to achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals and, in that regard, underlines the importance of international support, through various forms, that is well aligned with national priorities, to address the development needs of middle-income countries;

2. Acknowledges the efforts made and successes achieved by many middle-income countries to eradicate poverty and achieve the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, as well as their significant contribution to global and regional development and economic stability;

3. Recognizes the solidarity of middle-income countries with other developing countries with a view to supporting their development efforts, including in the context of South-South and triangular cooperation;

² See resolution 60/1.

³ A/62/71-E/2007/46.

⁴ A/62/483-E/2007/90.

⁵ A/C.2/63/3.

⁶ Held on 11 and 12 March 2008 to discuss how the World Bank and the African Development Bank can better align their services to the needs of the middle-income countries in Africa.

4. Invites the United Nations development system to support as appropriate middle-income countries and to improve its coordination and exchange of experiences with other international organizations, international financial institutions and regional organizations in this field;

5. Acknowledges the initiative of middle-income countries to hold follow-up conferences and other meetings regarding their development on a yearly basis and, in this regard, requests the United Nations system to continue supporting these endeavours in collaboration with other relevant international organizations;

6. Requests the Secretary-General to submit a comprehensive report on the implementation of all the elements of the present resolution to the General Assembly at its sixty-fourth session under the item entitled “Globalization and interdependence”, with a focus on existing strategies and actions of the United Nations development system on development cooperation with middle-income countries, and taking into account the work of other relevant international organizations, including international financial institutions.

Draft resolution III Towards a New International Economic Order

The General Assembly,

Bearing in mind the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations to promote the economic advancement and social progress of all peoples,

Recalling the principles of the Declaration on the Establishment of a New International Economic Order and the Programme of Action for the Establishment of a New International Economic Order, respectively, as set out in resolutions 3201 (S-VI) and 3202 (S-VI), adopted by the General Assembly at its sixth special session on 1 May 1974,

Taking into account the fact that the year 2009 marks the thirty-fifth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration and its Programme of Action,

Reaffirming the United Nations Millennium Declaration,¹

Recalling the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and summits in the economic, social and related fields, including the development goals and objectives contained therein, and recognizing the vital role played by those conferences and summits in shaping a broad development vision and in identifying commonly agreed objectives,

Concerned that the current international economic, financial, energy and food crises, as well as the challenges posed by climate change, aggravate the existing international situation and have a negative impact on the development prospects of developing countries, while threatening to further widen the gap between developed and developing countries, including the technological and income gap,

1. Reaffirms the need to continue working towards a new international economic order based on the principles of equity, sovereign equality, interdependence, common interest, cooperation and solidarity among all States;

2. Decides to consider in depth the international economic situation and its impact on development during the sixty-fourth session of the General Assembly, and in that regard requests the Secretary-General to include in his next report under the item entitled "Globalization and interdependence" an overview of the major international economic and policy challenges for equitable and inclusive sustained economic growth and sustainable development, and of the role of the United Nations in addressing these issues, in the light of the relevant principles contained in the Declaration on the Establishment of a New International Economic Order and the Programme of Action for the Establishment of a New International Economic Order.
