Ad Hoc Committee on the Elaboration of a Convention against Transnational Organized Crime

Sixth session

Vienna, 6-17 December 1999

Item 4 of the provisional agenda*

Consideration of the revised draft United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime, with particular emphasis on articles 4 ter, 17 bis and 20-30

Revised draft United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime¹

Article 1² Statement of objectives

The purpose of this Convention is to promote cooperation to prevent and combat transnational organized crime more effectively.

* A/AC.254/20.

² Several delegations proposed the following order for the first four articles in both the Convention and the optional Protocols: article 1 (Purpose), article 2 (Definitions), article 3 (Scope of application) and article 4 (Criminalization).

Article 2
*Scope of application*³

1. The Convention shall, except as otherwise provided herein,⁴ apply to the prevention,⁵ investigation and prosecution of serious crime involving a [transnational] organized criminal group as defined in article 2 bis and the offences established in articles 3 and 4.⁶

[2. This Convention shall not apply where the offence is committed within a single State, all members of the criminal group are nationals of that State and the victims are nationals or entities of that State, except that the provisions of articles concerning judicial assistance may, as appropriate, apply where the offence is serious and of an organized nature.]⁷

3. States Parties shall carry out their obligations under this Convention in a manner consistent with the principles of sovereign equality and territorial integrity of States and that of non-intervention in the domestic affairs of other States.

³ At its second session, the Ad Hoc Committee decided to continue its work on the basis of the revised text of article 2 (see A/AC.254/4/Rev.1). The Ad Hoc Committee decided that a provision originally to be found in this article on criteria for deciding whether or not an offence was committed by an organized criminal group could be used as a point of reference in reviewing, for example, article 14 (Mutual legal assistance). The Ad Hoc Committee also accepted a compromise proposal by its Chairman that a list of offences, which could be either indicative or exhaustive, such as the list originally contained in this article (provided in the attachment), could be included either in an annex to the Convention or in the travaux préparatoires. That list would, however, need to be supplemented with proposals from States (for details, see the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on its second session (A/AC.254/11)).

⁴ One delegation noted that, in certain cases, owing to the fact that an investigation was at a preliminary stage, it might not be possible for a requested State to establish with certainty that a particular offence was connected to organized crime. That should be taken into consideration in determining the scope of application of the various articles dealing with international cooperation, such as mutual legal assistance.

⁶ The delegation of the Philippines proposed the following rewording of paragraph 1 of this article:

“1. Except as otherwise provided herein, the Convention shall apply to the prevention, investigation and prosecution of transnational organized crime. For this purpose, ‘transnational organized crime’ refers to a serious crime that is committed by an organized criminal group and that has an international dimension, such as, but not limited to, the following: (a) if the offence is committed within two or more States; or (b) if the members of the criminal group are nationals of two or more States; or (c) if the offence is committed in one State but the victim is a national or entity of another State; or (d) if the offence is committed in one State but planned, directed or controlled in another State.”

The delegation of the Philippines also proposed the deletion of paragraph 2 of this article as it would be superseded by the revised paragraph 1.

The delegation of Mexico proposed the following formulation:

“2. The present Convention shall not apply if the offence is committed within a single State, if all members of the criminal group are nationals of or have substantial links with that State, if all victims are nationals or entities of that State and if the effects of the offence are produced only in that State [with the proviso that the provisions of the articles concerning judicial assistance may, as appropriate, apply where the offence is serious and of an organized nature].”

The delegation of Mexico specified that the inclusion of the part of the sentence in brackets would depend on the definition of serious crime.

The delegation of Oman suggested that the words “all members of the criminal group” should be replaced with the words “all or one of the members of the criminal group” to ensure that the presence of a foreign element in the offence would not constitute a transnational crime.

4. [Nothing in this Convention entitles a State Party to]⁸ [A State Party shall not]⁹ undertake in the territory of another State the exercise of jurisdiction and performance of functions that are reserved exclusively for the authorities of that other State by its domestic law.

[Paragraphs moved]¹⁰

Article 2 bis
*Use of terms*¹¹

For the purposes of this Convention:

(a) “Organized criminal group” means a structured¹² group [of three or more persons]¹³ existing for a period of time and having the aim of committing a serious [transnational]¹⁴ crime¹⁵ [through concerted action]¹⁶ [by using intimidation, violence,

⁹ This language is derived from the United Nations Convention against Illicit Traffic in Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances of 1988.

¹¹ It was noted that other terms used in the Convention should also be defined. In the context of the discussion on article 15, the following terms were noted by some delegations as requiring definition: “controlled delivery”, “surveillance, including electronic surveillance” and “undercover operations”. [Rapporteur’s note. The definition of “controlled delivery” used in the 1988 Convention was accepted as the basis and is included in an adapted form that was not discussed by the Ad Hoc Committee at its first session.] It was also suggested that those definitions could be inserted into the travaux préparatoires.

Two delegations proposed that the term “transnational organized crime” be defined. The delegation of India proposed the following definition: “Transnational organized crime is any serious crime that either has ramifications in more than one country or is perpetrated in any one country by an organized criminal group operating from the territory of another country.”

As mentioned in footnote 2, some delegations noted that the practice in international instruments was to place the article on definitions immediately after the first article, containing the statement of objectives.

¹³ Some delegations supported the minimum number of three persons. Other delegations proposed that the minimum number be two. Still other delegations were of the opinion that no minimum number of group members needed to be stated and that the reference should only be to a “group”.

The delegation of Croatia noted that references in the text of the Convention to “serious crime” should be amended to “serious offences”.

¹⁵ The delegation of India proposed the deletion of the phrases “existing for a period of time” and “having the aim of committing serious crime”.

¹⁶ Some delegations proposed that this phrase should further qualify “organized criminal group”.

corruption or other means]¹⁷ in order to obtain, directly or indirectly, a financial or other material benefit;¹⁸

¹⁷ The insertion of a reference to the means of commission was supported by some delegations. Other delegations noted that such an inclusion might lead to ambiguity or create loopholes that could be exploited by organized criminal groups. One delegation noted that the use of such instrumental means could be an aggravating factor in sentencing.

¹⁸ At its second session, the Ad Hoc Committee engaged in an extensive discussion on the limitation to “financial and other material benefit”. Some delegations expressly requested that the words “a financial or other material benefit” be placed in brackets. The Chairman indicated that the substance of the discussion would be provided in an explanatory note, which would become part of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee.

Some delegations noted that, in view of the mandate given to the Ad Hoc Committee by the General Assembly, a definition that referred only to “obtaining a financial and other material benefit” as a motive for criminal activity was too limited. The delegation of Turkey noted that if that reference remained in its present formulation, the Convention would be unacceptable. Some delegations proposed that the reference to the purpose of the group be deleted from the definition on the grounds that such an intention might be difficult to prove.

Some delegations noted that the reference to “other material benefit” should not exclude circumstances where the objectives of the organized criminal group were directed towards illegal personal or sexual gratification, as in the case of “paedophilic networks”.

Several other delegations supported the limitation in the provision to “obtaining a financial or other material benefit”. Those delegations noted that although organized criminal groups might commit, for example, murders, those acts could nonetheless be seen as being indirectly intended to obtain a financial or other material benefit, and would thus fall within the scope of the definition.

Specific proposals in this respect were made. Those proposals are presented below.

The delegation of Egypt proposed that the definition end with “financial or other material benefit or any other illegitimate objective using violence, intimidation or corruption”.

The delegation of Colombia had proposed the following definition at the first session (see A/AC.254/L.2): “‘Organized crime’ means illegal activity of two or more persons, with hierarchical links or personal relationships, whether or not of a permanent nature, aimed at obtaining economic advantages by means of violence, intimidation or corruption”. The delegation of Uruguay proposed that the reference to material and financial means could end with the words “also when those benefits are sought for political or other purposes”.

The delegation of Colombia subsequently submitted an oral proposal that the definition of an “organized criminal group” refer to a group of natural persons who commit serious crime covered by the present Convention (or an annex thereto) (see footnote 3 above).

The delegation of Mexico proposed the following definition (see A/AC.254/5/Add.3): “It is understood that transnational organized crime exists when three or more persons agree to organize or are organized, on a permanent or recurring basis, to commit acts that in themselves or when combined with others have as an objective or result the commission of a crime or crimes that are identified in article 2 and over which two or more States Parties have established their jurisdiction, in accordance with article 9 of this Convention.”

The delegation of Slovakia proposed the insertion of the words “infiltration into the public or economic structure” after the words “or other material benefit”.

The delegation of Belgium proposed that consideration be given to excluding from the scope of application of the Convention organizations with solely political objectives and organizations whose purpose was solely humanitarian, philosophical or religious. Several delegations expressed their support for this limitation of the scope.

(b) “Serious crime” means conduct constituting a criminal offence punishable by a maximum deprivation of liberty of at least [...] years¹⁹ or a more serious penalty;²⁰

(i) For the purpose of implementing articles [...] of this Convention [pertaining to criminalization under articles 3 and 4 and other domestic obligations], a State Party shall consider this definition to refer to a criminal offence under its laws;

(ii) For the purpose of implementing articles [...] of this Convention [pertaining to international cooperation], a State Party may deny cooperation as to conduct that would not also constitute a serious crime under its laws;²¹

(c) “Structured group” means a group that is not randomly formed for the immediate commission of a crime and that needs not have formally defined roles for its participants, the continuity of its membership or a developed structure;²²

(d) “Existing for a period of time” means being of sufficient duration for the formation of an agreement or plan to commit a criminal act;²³

(e) “Property” means assets of every kind, whether corporeal or incorporeal, movable or immovable, tangible or intangible, and legal documents or instruments evidencing title to, or interest in, such property;

(f) “Proceeds of crime” means any property derived from or obtained, directly or indirectly, through the commission of any offence established in article(s) [...] [of an offence covered by this Convention];²⁴

(g) “Freezing or seizure” means the ordering by the competent authority of the temporary prohibition of the transfer, conversion, exchange, disposal or realization of property and the temporary custody or control thereof;

¹⁹ Some delegations, while not taking a position at the second session on the number of years to be inserted here, expressed a preference for a high number of years.

Some delegations proposed that reference also be made to a minimum period of deprivation of liberty. Some other delegations noted that in their view this would be unnecessary.

²⁰ Some delegations noted that establishment of seriousness on the basis of the length of possible sentence might lead to difficulties in practice, owing to differences in penal systems. Some delegations noted that the issue of seriousness should be decided in accordance with the domestic legislation of the two States concerned in a case. Other delegations proposed that the seriousness of crime be assessed not only in view of the level of punishment, but also in view of how the offence was qualified under national law. The delegation of Croatia suggested that reference be made to the “nature of the offence” and to the “pattern of action of the organized criminal group”. In addition, some delegations noted that reference could also be made to the list of offences that, as noted above in footnote 3 to article 2, could be inserted into an annex to the Convention or in the travaux préparatoires.

²¹ Some delegations proposed the deletion of both subparagraphs (b) (i) and (ii). The delegation of Kuwait proposed this deletion, provided that the period of punishment was fixed at three years, and the addition of the following phrase: “pursuant to the provisions of domestic laws of States Parties” (see A/AC.254/L.12).

²² One delegation was of the view that one determinant of a “structured group” was that it had a hierarchy. Two delegations proposed the deletion of the words “or a developed structure”. Some delegations noted that reference could be made to the “permanent or recurring nature” of the activity of the group.

²³ The delegation of Norway noted that a reading of the definitions in subparagraphs (a)-(d) suggested that the Convention could have an excessively wide scope. The delegation proposed that subparagraph (d) be deleted and that subparagraph (c) end with the words “commission of a crime”. Another delegation proposed the deletion of both subparagraph (c) and subparagraph (d).

²⁴ The scope of this Convention is still subject to deliberation. For this reason, throughout the present text the alternatives “an offence established in article(s) [...]” (which in the current draft would be article 3 (Participation in a criminal organization), and article 4 (Money-laundering)) and “an offence covered by this Convention” (which would have a broader scope, as established by article 2) are provided, as appropriate.

(h) “Confiscation”, which includes forfeiture where applicable, means the permanent deprivation of property, proceeds or instrumentalities of an offence by order of a court or other competent authority;]²⁵

(i) “Predicate offence” means any crime or offence as a result of which proceeds have been generated that may become the subject of an offence as defined in article 4 of this Convention;

(j) “Controlled delivery” means the technique of allowing illicit or suspect consignments [of ...] to pass out of, through or into the territory of one or more countries, with the knowledge and under the supervision of their competent authorities, with a view to identifying persons involved in the commission of an offence established in article(s) [...] [of an offence covered by this Convention];

(k) “Financial institution” means any credit establishment, insurance and bonding company, general bonded warehouse, financial leasing company, savings and loan institution, finance company with limited objectives, credit union, financial factoring company, stockbroking firm or other securities dealer, currency exchange bureau, pension fund administrator or other financial or currency broker.]²⁶

Article 3²⁷

[Criminalization of] participation in an [organized criminal group]²⁸

1. Each State Party shall²⁹ establish as criminal offences³⁰ the following conduct:

The delegation of Colombia submitted the following proposal for the contents of this article:

“1. Each State Party shall establish as a crime or, if already established, shall punish with a more severe penalty the organizing, directing, aiding, abetting, facilitating, counselling or instigating the commission of a serious crime in which an organized group with a transnational character participates.

“2. States Parties shall make punishable all forms of participation and criminal association for the crimes covered by this Convention.

“3. States Parties shall make punishable acts committed intentionally and acts that by their nature lend themselves to serious negligence.”

²⁸ Some delegations proposed the insertion of “transnational” into the title of this article.

³⁰ Some delegations proposed that this criminalization obligation extend to the setting of a punishment latitude that took into consideration the seriousness of the offence.

(a) Organizing, directing, aiding, abetting, facilitating or counselling the commission of serious crime³¹ involving an organized criminal group,³² and [, subject to the fundamental principles of its domestic legal system,]³³

(b) Either or both of the following as criminal offences distinct from those involving the attempt or completion of the criminal activity:

(i) Agreeing with one or more other persons to commit³⁴ a serious crime [involving an organized criminal group]³⁵ for any purpose relating directly or indirectly to the obtaining of a financial or other material benefit³⁶ and, where required by domestic law, involving an act undertaken by one of the participants in furtherance of the agreement;

(ii) Conduct by a person who intentionally, and with knowledge of either the aim and general criminal activity of an organized criminal group or its intention to commit³⁷ the crimes in question, takes active part in:

a. Criminal activities of an organized criminal group referred to in article 2 bis of this Convention;³⁸

b. Other activities of the group in the knowledge that the person's participation will contribute to the achievement of the above-described criminal aim;

[(iii) Participation in acts of an organized criminal group that has the aim of committing a serious crime, in the knowledge that the person's participation will contribute to the achievement of the crime.]³⁹

2. The knowledge, intent, aim, purpose or agreement referred to in paragraph 1 of this article may be inferred from objective factual circumstances.⁴⁰

Article 4 *Laundering offences*⁴¹

1. Each State Party shall adopt, in conformity with its constitutional principles, such legislative and other measures as may be necessary to establish as offences under its domestic law, when committed intentionally.⁴²

³² One delegation noted that organizing, abetting and so on were forms of participation in an offence and were generally not regarded as criminal offences in themselves.

³³ Proposal of the delegation of Japan (A/AC.254/5/Add.4).

³⁴ One delegation proposed that the word "commit" be replaced with "plan or commit".

³⁵ Proposal of the delegation of Japan (A/AC.254/5/Add.4).

³⁶ Some delegations noted also in this connection that the phrase "financial or other material benefit" was too limited. Two delegations proposed to insert the words "or to any other purpose".

³⁷ One delegation proposed that the word "commit" be replaced with "plan or commit".

³⁹ Proposal of the delegation of Japan (A/AC.254/5/Add.4).

⁴⁰ One delegation proposed that this paragraph be deleted, on the ground that its substance fell within the purview of the courts. Another delegation proposed that this paragraph be moved to article 6.

⁴¹ The delegation of China indicated that it had difficulties of a linguistic nature with this title.

⁴² At the third session, the delegation of Mexico had provided a definition of money-laundering (A/AC.254/L.23). At its fifth session, the Ad Hoc Committee accepted the proposal of its Chairman that some of the elements in that definition could be usefully included either in the travaux préparatoires or the

(a) The conversion or transfer of property, knowing that such property is the proceeds of crime, for the purpose of concealing or disguising [or preventing the discovery of]⁴³ the illicit origin of the property or of helping any person who is involved in the commission of the predicate offence to evade the legal consequences of his or her action;

(b) The concealment or disguise [or prevention of the discovery]⁴⁴ of the true nature, source, location, disposition, movement or ownership of or rights with respect to property, knowing that such property is the proceeds of crime;

And, subject to the basic concepts of its legal system:

(c) The acquisition, possession or use [disposal, administration, safe keeping, exchange, guaranteeing, investment, transfer or transport]⁴⁵ of property, knowing, at the time of receipt [or subsequently],⁴⁶ that such property is the proceeds of crime;

(d) Participation in, association with or conspiracy to commit, attempts to commit and aiding, abetting, facilitating and counselling the commission of any of the offences established in accordance with this article.⁴⁷

[1 bis. States Parties shall ensure that their domestic laws on implementing this article apply to the proceeds of those crimes associated with organized criminal groups and also to the proceeds of other serious crimes.⁴⁸ States Parties shall, at the time of signature or when depositing their instruments of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession, by declaration addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, specify the scope of the crimes covered. States Parties shall periodically review their domestic laws on implementing this article to ensure that they apply to an appropriately broad range of offences and shall, if appropriate, subsequently revise their declaration.]⁴⁹

2. For the purposes of implementing or applying paragraph 1 of this article:

(a) It shall not matter whether the predicate offence was subject to the criminal jurisdiction of the State Party, provided that it is punishable under the domestic law of the State where the offence was committed;

commentary to the Convention.

⁴³ Addition proposed by the delegation of India at the third session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

⁴⁴ Addition proposed by the delegation of India at the third session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

⁴⁵ Addition proposed by the delegation of India at the third session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

⁴⁶ The words “or subsequently” raise the issue of the right of persons who acquired such property in good faith and the provision should be revised to protect the legitimate rights of such bona fide persons. One delegation proposed that this be amended to read “or subsequently, after it has been established whether or not such persons acted bona fide”.

⁴⁸ An alternative formulation could be “crimes covered by this Convention”.

(b) Knowledge, intent or purpose required as an element of an offence set forth in that paragraph may be inferred from objective factual circumstances.⁵⁰

3. Each State Party may adopt such measures as it considers necessary to establish also as offences under its domestic law all or some of the acts referred to in paragraph 1 of this article, in any or all of the following cases where the offender:

- (a) Ought to have assumed that the property was the proceeds of crime;⁵¹
- (b) Acted for the purpose of making a profit; or
- (c) Acted for the purpose of promoting the perpetration of further criminal activity.

[3 bis. Where a law enforcement official or a person acting at his or her direction, in accordance with article 15 of this Convention, has represented property to be the proceeds of crime, the fact that the property did not actually constitute the proceeds of crime shall not be a defence to the offences described in paragraph 1 of this article.]⁵²

4. Nothing contained in this article shall affect the principle that the description of the offences to which it refers and of legal defences thereto is reserved to the domestic law of a State Party and that such offences shall be prosecuted and punished in conformity with that law.

Article 4 bis
Measures to combat money-laundering

Option 1⁵³

1. Each State Party shall institute a domestic regulatory regime for financial institutions⁵⁴ doing business within its jurisdiction to deter and detect money-laundering. Such regimes shall include the following minimum requirements:

- (a) The licensing and periodic examination of such institutions;
- (b) The lifting of bank secrecy in cases involving measures for the prevention and investigation of the crime of money-laundering, in accordance with the precepts laid down in the domestic legislation of each State Party;
- (c) The making and retaining by such institutions of clear and complete records of accounts and transactions at, by or through the institution for at least five years and ensuring that those records are available to appropriate authorities for use in criminal investigations, prosecutions and regulatory or administrative investigations and proceedings;
- (d) Ensuring the availability to law enforcement, regulatory and administrative authorities of information held by such institutions on the identity of

⁵¹ The delegation of Japan proposed the deletion of this subparagraph.

⁵⁴ The term "financial institutions" includes, at a minimum, banks, other depository institutions and appropriate non-bank providers of financial services (such as securities dealers or brokers, commodity or futures dealers or brokers, currency dealers or exchangers, fund transmitters and casinos).

clients and beneficial owners of accounts; to this end, States Parties shall prohibit financial institutions from offering accounts identified only by number, anonymous accounts or accounts in false names; and

(e) Requiring such institutions to report suspicious or unusual transactions.

[1 bis. States Parties shall adopt appropriate measures to apply instruments with regard to money-laundering to banking and non-banking financial institutions, and financial markets, including stock exchanges, bureaux de change, etc.]⁵⁵

2. States Parties shall examine their domestic regimes relating to the establishment of business organizations and shall consider whether additional measures are required to prevent the use of such entities to facilitate money-laundering activities.

3. States Parties shall consider implementing feasible measures to detect and monitor the movement of cash and appropriate negotiable instruments across their borders, subject to safeguards to ensure proper use of information and without impeding in any way the freedom of legitimate capital movements. The measures may include a requirement that individuals and businesses report cross-border transfers of substantial quantities of cash and appropriate negotiable instruments.

4. States Parties shall enhance their ability to exchange information collected pursuant to this article. This shall, where possible, include measures to enhance domestic and international exchange of information between law enforcement and regulatory authorities. To this end, States Parties shall consider the establishment of financial intelligence units to serve as national centres for the collection, analysis and dissemination of information regarding potential money-laundering and other financial crimes.

5. In establishing regimes to combat money-laundering, States Parties should consider, in particular, the forty recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering, as well as other relevant initiatives against money-laundering endorsed by the Organization of American States, the European Union, the Council of Europe and the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force.

6. States Parties shall endeavour to develop and promote global, regional, subregional and bilateral cooperation among judicial, law enforcement and financial regulatory authorities in order to combat money-laundering.

Option 2⁵⁶

1. Each State Party shall:

(a) Institute a comprehensive domestic regulatory and supervisory regime for banks and non-bank financial institutions, and other bodies particularly susceptible to money-laundering, within its competence, in order to deter and detect all forms of money-laundering, which regime shall emphasize requirements for customer identification, record-keeping and the reporting of suspicious transactions;

⁵⁵ Paragraph 1 bis was submitted by the delegation of India as a reformulation of both options of old paragraph 5 of article 4.

⁵⁶ Option 2 is a proposal submitted by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland at the third session of the Ad Hoc Committee (A/AC.254/5/Add.6). The proposal was preliminarily discussed at the third session and received widespread support as the basis for further work on this article. The delegation of Cuba indicated that this option would not be acceptable.

(b) Without prejudice to articles [14 and 19] of this Convention, ensure that administrative, regulatory, law enforcement and other authorities dedicated to combating money-laundering (including, where appropriate under domestic law, judicial authorities) have the ability to cooperate and exchange information at the national and international levels [within the conditions prescribed by its domestic legislation⁵⁷].

2. For the purposes of implementing and applying the provisions of this article [and article 4 bis], States Parties shall adopt and adhere to the international standards set by the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering, as set out for reference in annex [...] to this Convention and as endorsed by the General Assembly in its resolution S-20/4 of 10 June 1998 on countering money-laundering.⁵⁸

[3. With respect to the monitoring of implementation by States Parties of the obligations set forth in this article [and article 4 bis], and without prejudice to the application of article [23] to other provisions of this Convention, a State Party shall be deemed to be in compliance with article [23] if that State Party is subject to and participates in a regular process of peer review conducted by the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering or other comparable regional body that assesses implementation of regimes against money-laundering as set forth in this article.]⁵⁹

Option 3⁶⁰

1. Each State Party:

(a) Shall institute a comprehensive domestic regulatory and supervisory regime for banks and non-bank financial institutions, and other bodies particularly susceptible to money-laundering, within its competence, in order to deter and detect all forms of money-laundering, which regime shall emphasize requirements for customer identification, record-keeping and the reporting of suspicious transactions;

(b) Shall, without prejudice to articles [14 and 19] of this Convention, ensure that administrative, regulatory, law enforcement and other authorities dedicated to combating money-laundering (including, where appropriate under domestic law, judicial authorities) have the ability to cooperate and exchange information at the national and international levels within the conditions prescribed by its domestic legislation and, to this end, shall consider the establishment of a financial intelligence

⁵⁷ The delegation of the United Kingdom noted that this phrase might accommodate the concerns of delegations that might have a preference for references to domestic legislation in this subparagraph (as in articles 14 and 19), but the delegation itself did not wish to see these included in the final version of the article.

⁵⁸ Some delegations expressed concern about the appropriateness of incorporating in a global instrument standards set by a group of States with limited membership. Furthermore, discussion revolved around the inherently optional nature of these recommendations and whether it was compatible with the obligatory language of this paragraph. While it was recognized that the international community should seek to set high standards for measures to combat money-laundering, or at least benefit from already existing standards that had received broad recognition, the matter required further discussion. Some delegations indicated their opposition to the inclusion of the forty recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering.

⁵⁹ Depending upon the outcome of negotiations on article 23, this paragraph may require modification. Some delegations expressed serious concerns about the implications and feasibility of the paragraph. Other delegations indicated that they could not accept the procedure that the paragraph would foresee.

unit to serve as a national centre for the collection, analysis and dissemination of information regarding potential money-laundering and other financial crimes.

2. States Parties shall consider implementing feasible measures to detect and monitor the movement of cash and appropriate negotiable instruments across their borders, subject to safeguards to ensure proper use of information and without impeding in any way the freedom of legitimate capital movements. The measures may include a requirement that individuals and businesses report cross-border transfers of substantial quantities of cash and appropriate negotiable instruments.⁶¹

3. In establishing a domestic regulatory and supervisory regime in accordance with the terms of this article and without prejudice to any other article of this Convention, States Parties:

(a) [Should consider implementing the forty recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering, dated ...] [Shall ensure that their implementation and application of this article are consistent with the forty recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force on Money Laundering, dated ... and contained in annex ... to this Convention]; and

(b) [Shall] [May], where appropriate, [implement] [take account of] other relevant initiatives against money-laundering endorsed by the Organization of American States, the European Union, the Council of Europe and the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force.⁶²

4. States Parties shall endeavour to develop and promote global, regional, subregional and bilateral cooperation among judicial, law enforcement and financial regulatory authorities in order to combat money-laundering.

Article 4 ter
Measures against corruption

1. This Convention shall apply to the offences of corruption [described in this article], when involving an organized criminal group.⁶³

2. Each State Party shall adopt such legislative and other measures as may be necessary to establish as criminal offences the following conduct, when committed intentionally⁶⁴ [and involving an organized criminal group]:⁶⁵

⁶¹ One delegation indicated that it did not support the inclusion of this paragraph in this proposed alternative text.

⁶³ Some delegations wished to ensure that the obligations in this article were subject to the fundamental principles of their legal systems, as set forth in article 6, paragraph 2, of document A/AC.254/4/Rev.3. A number of delegations suggested that this paragraph should be deleted.

⁶⁴ One delegation wished to delete the mental element.

⁶⁵ Some delegations felt that a transnational aspect could be included. Others felt that this might restrict the scope of the obligation so as to make it of more limited value in fighting organized crime.

(a) The [promise,] offering or giving to a public official,⁶⁶ directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage,⁶⁷ for the official himself or another person or entity, in exchange for acting or refraining from acting in the exercise of his official duties;

(b) The solicitation or acceptance by a public official, directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage, for the official himself or another person or entity, in exchange for acting or refraining from acting in the exercise of his official duties.⁶⁸

[3. Any State Party that has not yet done so shall, in conformity with its international obligations, take measures to make punishable conduct referred to in paragraph 2 of this article involving:

- (a) A foreign public official;
- (b) An international civil servant;
- (c) A judge or official of an international court.]⁶⁹

4. Each State Party shall also take such measures as may be necessary to establish as criminal offences the participation as an accomplice⁷⁰ in an offence established in accordance with this article [and conspiracy to commit or criminal association with respect to such offence].⁷¹

4 bis. Each State Party shall consider adopting such legislative and other measures as may be necessary to establish as criminal offences other forms of corruption, when committed intentionally [and involving an organized criminal group].⁷²

⁶⁶ See the footnote to paragraph 6.

⁶⁸ The delegation of Uruguay proposed the reinsertion of the following text from document A/AC.254/4/Rev.3:

"An act of corruption in the public sphere committed within the framework of organized crime in order to facilitate such criminal activities shall be considered an aggravating factor.

"A State Party that has not yet adopted the legal measures necessary for consideration in its domestic law of an act of corruption as an aggravating factor, as referred to in paragraph [...], shall do so."

⁶⁹ Some delegations felt that the conduct described in this paragraph should not be included in this article, in particular in view of the possibility of including such offences in a future instrument on corruption. Other delegations felt that this paragraph raised concerns about privileges and immunities accorded by international instruments to some of the officials described in this paragraph. Some delegations, including Belgium, considered this paragraph essential for the fight against corruption, in particular in the context of the fight against transnational organized crime.

Some delegations proposed the deletion of this paragraph.

⁷¹ Further consideration could be given to including the concept described in the bracketed text (and the corresponding provision in article 4) in article 3 rather than in this article.

⁷² This paragraph would not be precluded. The potential additional instrument on corruption could also regulate this area more precisely.

5. Each State Party shall:

(a) To the extent appropriate and consistent with its legal system, adopt legislative, administrative or other effective measures to promote integrity⁷³ and to prevent and detect corruption of public officials⁷⁴ [; and]

[(b) If it has not already done so, establish and maintain domestic authorities [with sufficient independence and appropriate resources] for the purpose of ensuring effective prevention and detection of corruption among public officials.]^{75, 76}

6. For the purposes of this article, a public official is [insert definition].⁷⁷

*Article 5*⁷⁸
Liability of legal persons

1. Each State Party shall take such measures as may be necessary, consistent with its legal principles,⁷⁹ to establish the liability of legal persons for participation in serious crimes involving an organized criminal group and for the offences established in articles 3 and 4 of this Convention.⁸⁰

2. Subject to the legal principles of the State Party, the liability of legal persons may be criminal, civil or administrative.

3. Such liability shall be incurred without prejudice to the criminal liability of the natural persons who have committed the offences.

⁷³ This phrase was inserted in order to refer to preventive measures contained in regional anti-corruption instruments.

“States Parties shall, as appropriate, establish and maintain domestic authorities in order to ensure the effective prevention and detection of corruption among public officials and shall adopt effective legislative, administrative or other measures in order to promote integrity and in order to prevent and detect corruption among public officials.”

Some delegations noted that, if the words “with sufficient independence and appropriate resources” were deleted, then the word “independent” should be inserted before the words “domestic authorities”.

⁷⁷ A number of delegations felt that, in any case, the definition should include the list contained in paragraph 4 of document A/AC.254/L.29, that is, “judicial official, juror or lay judge, police official, border control and customs official, investigator, prosecutor or other official with criminal law enforcement responsibilities in the State Party concerned”. Other delegations supported the inclusion of other persons acting in an official capacity.

The delegation of India proposed the definition “any person in the service or pay of the Government or remunerated by the Government by fees or commission for the performance of any public duty”.

⁷⁸ The formulation of this article, subject to the footnotes to paragraph 1, received broad support at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

⁷⁹ Consistency in the wording of clauses referring to legal principles throughout the Convention will need to be addressed at a later stage.

⁸⁰ The formulation in this paragraph should be consistent with the scope described in article 2, paragraph 1.

4. Each State Party shall, in particular, ensure that legal persons held liable in accordance with this article are subject to effective, proportionate and dissuasive criminal or non-criminal sanctions, including monetary sanctions.

Article 6

Prosecution, adjudication and sanctions^{81, 82, 83}

1. Each State Party shall make the commission of an offence covered by this Convention⁸⁴ liable to sanctions that take into account the grave nature of those offences.

2. Each State Party shall endeavour to ensure that any discretionary legal powers under its domestic law relating to the prosecution of persons for offences that are covered by this Convention are exercised to maximize the effectiveness of law enforcement measures in respect of those offences and with due regard to the need to deter the commission of such offences.

[3. Each State Party shall ensure that its courts or other competent authorities bear in mind the grave nature of the offences that are covered by this Convention when considering the [eventuality] [possibility] of early release or parole of persons convicted of such offences.]⁸⁵

4. Each State Party shall, where appropriate, establish under its domestic law a long statute of limitations period in which to commence proceedings for any offence

⁸¹ One delegation emphasized the need for provisions on procedural safeguards.

⁸² Paragraphs 1-3 of this article, as they appeared in document A/AC.254/4/Rev.3, have been combined as follows and are to be moved to a new article 23 ter:

“1. Each State Party shall take the necessary measures, including legislative and administrative measures, in accordance with the fundamental principles of its domestic legal system, to ensure the implementation of its obligations under this Convention.

“2. Each State Party may adopt more strict or severe measures than those provided for by the Convention for the prevention and control of transnational organized crime.”

⁸³ Many delegations expressed concerns about the following text, which was paragraph 4 of article 6 (see A/AC.254/4/Rev.3):

“Each State Party shall take effective measures to ensure that its territory, or any facility therein, is not allowed to be used by an organized criminal group, or a member thereof, to plan or perpetrate any crime covered by this Convention in any other country.”

The Chairman suggested that the text be either clarified and redrafted or deleted.

The delegation of India supported the retention of the paragraph and proposed the following formulation:

“Each State Party shall adopt legislative and other measures, as may be necessary, to establish as criminal offences the conduct constituting the perpetration of any crime covered by this Convention from its own territory in the territory of any other State by an organized criminal group or a member thereof.”

This formulation was supported by some other delegations. Some other delegations wished to discuss further the proposal and its placement in the draft Convention.

⁸⁴ The use of the phrase “an offence covered by this Convention” should be reviewed once the scope of the Convention has been determined.

⁸⁵ Several delegations expressed concern about this paragraph because, under their legal systems, early release on parole might depend on factors other than the seriousness of the offence. Other delegations noted that their legal systems did not foresee the possibility of early release. It was suggested that this paragraph might have to be redrafted in less obligatory terms.

covered by this Convention and a longer period where the alleged offender has evaded the administration of justice.⁸⁶

[5. In the case of offences established in accordance with articles [...] of this Convention, each State Party shall take appropriate measures, [consistent with its legal system,] with due regard to the rights of the defence, to seek to ensure that conditions imposed in connection with decisions on release pending trial or appeal take into consideration the need to ensure the presence of the defendant at subsequent criminal proceedings.]⁸⁷

Article 7 Confiscation

1. States Parties shall adopt such measures as may be necessary to enable confiscation of:

(a) Proceeds of crime⁸⁸ or property the value of which corresponds⁸⁹ to that of such proceeds;

(b) Property, equipment or other instrumentalities used in [or intended for use in]⁹⁰ offences covered by this Convention.⁹¹

2. States Parties shall adopt such measures as may be necessary to enable the identification, tracing, freezing or seizure of any item referred to in paragraph 1 of this article for the purpose of eventual confiscation.⁹²

3. For the purposes of this article and article 7 bis, each State Party shall empower its courts or other competent authorities to order that bank, financial or commercial records be made available or be seized. A State Party shall not decline to act under the provisions of this paragraph on the ground of bank secrecy.⁹³

⁸⁶ This paragraph is based on article 3, paragraph 8, of the 1988 Convention. Some delegations proposed its deletion. Several other delegations supported its retention. In addition, one delegation proposed the deletion of the words “where appropriate” on the ground that the draft Convention applied only to serious crime and the words would unnecessarily weaken the obligation. Another delegation proposed that the paragraph end with the words “this Convention”, with the subsequent text deleted.

⁸⁸ The scope of this article is under debate. It was suggested that because of variations in domestic legal systems in this area, it might be difficult for some countries to conform to an overly broad obligation. It was emphasized, however, that there would be a need for flexibility in finalizing this article.

⁸⁹ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, several delegations noted that their legal systems did not provide for the confiscation of the value that corresponded to the proceeds of crime. Several other delegations supported the retention of this possibility, noting that it was also envisaged under the 1988 Convention.

⁹² The delegation of Cyprus noted that this article and paragraph should also cover provisional measures even in cases where no confiscation took place.

⁹³ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Colombia expressed its view that this paragraph, on the seizure of records, was out of place in an article dealing with confiscation.

4. If proceeds of crime have been transformed or converted into other property, such property shall be liable to the measures referred to in this article instead of the proceeds.

5. If proceeds of crime have been intermingled with property acquired from legitimate sources, such property shall, without prejudice to any powers relating to seizure or freezing, be liable to confiscation up to the assessed value of the intermingled proceeds.

6. Income or other benefits derived from proceeds of crime, from property into which proceeds of crime have been transformed or converted or from property with which proceeds of crime have been intermingled shall also be liable to the measures referred to in this article, in the same manner and to the same extent as proceeds of crime.

7. Each State Party may consider the possibility of requiring that an offender demonstrate the lawful origin of alleged proceeds of crime or other property liable to confiscation, to the extent that such a requirement is consistent with the principles of its domestic law and with the nature of the judicial and other proceedings.

8. The provisions of this article shall not be construed to prejudice the rights of bona fide third parties.

9. Nothing contained in this article shall affect the principle that the measures to which it refers shall be defined and implemented in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the domestic law of a State Party.⁹⁴

Article 7 bis

*International cooperation for purposes of confiscation*⁹⁵

1. Following a request made pursuant to article 7 by another State Party having jurisdiction over an offence established in article(s) [...] of this Convention [alternatively: an offence covered by this Convention], the State Party in whose territory proceeds of crime, property, instrumentalities or any other things referred to in paragraph 1 of article 7 are situated shall:

(a) Submit the request to its competent authorities for the purpose of obtaining an order of confiscation and, if such order is granted, give effect to it; or

(b) Submit to its competent authorities, with a view to giving effect to it to the extent requested, an order of confiscation issued by a court in the requesting Party in accordance with paragraph 1 of article 7, in so far as it relates to proceeds of crime, property, instrumentalities or any other things referred to in paragraph 1 of article 7 situated in the territory of the requested Party.

2. Following a request made pursuant to this article by another State Party having jurisdiction over an offence established in article(s) [...] of this Convention [alternatively: an offence covered by this Convention], the requested State Party shall take measures to identify, trace⁹⁶ and freeze or seize proceeds of crime, property, instrumentalities or any other things referred to in paragraph 1 of article 7 for the purpose of eventual confiscation to be ordered either by the requesting State Party or, pursuant to a request under paragraph 1 of this article, by the requested State Party.

⁹⁵ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Cyprus proposed that the title be amended to read “International cooperation for the purposes of provisional measures and confiscation”.

⁹⁶ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Cyprus proposed the deletion of the words “identify, trace and”.

3. The decisions or actions provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article shall be taken by the requested State Party, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of its domestic law and its procedural rules or any bilateral or multilateral treaty, agreement or arrangement to which it may be bound in relation to the requesting State Party.

4. The provisions of article 14 are applicable mutatis mutandis. In addition to the information specified in paragraph 10 of article 14, requests made pursuant to this article shall contain the following:

(a) In the case of a request pertaining to subparagraph 1 (a) of this article, a description of the property to be confiscated and a statement of the facts relied upon by the requesting State Party sufficient to enable the requested State Party to seek the order under its domestic law;

(b) In the case of a request pertaining to subparagraph 1 (b) of this article, a legally admissible copy of an order of confiscation issued by the requesting State Party upon which the request is based, a statement of the facts and information as to the extent to which the execution of the order is requested;

(c) In the case of a request pertaining to paragraph 2 of this article, a statement of the facts relied upon by the requesting State Party and a description of the actions requested.

5. Each State Party shall furnish the Secretary-General of the United Nations with the text of any of its laws and regulations that give effect to this article and the text of any subsequent changes to such laws and regulations.

6. If a State Party elects to make the taking of the measures referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article conditional on the existence of a relevant treaty, that Party shall consider this Convention the necessary and sufficient treaty basis.

7. States Parties shall seek to conclude bilateral and multilateral treaties, agreements or arrangements to enhance the effectiveness of international cooperation pursuant to this article.

8. Cooperation under this article may be refused by a State Party if the offence to which the request relates would not be an offence [covered by this Convention].⁹⁷

9. The provisions of this article shall not be construed to prejudice the rights of bona fide third parties.

Article 7 ter
Disposal of confiscated assets

1. Proceeds of crime or property confiscated by a State Party pursuant to paragraph 1 of article 7 or paragraph 1 of article 7 bis shall be disposed of by that State Party in accordance with its domestic law and administrative procedures.

⁹⁷ The text of this paragraph as it appeared in document A/AC.254/4/Rev.4 referred to “an offence in the context of a criminal organization if committed within its jurisdiction”. At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the text was amended on the basis of a proposal by the delegation of France, as indicated in brackets.

[1 bis. When acting on the request made by another State Party in accordance with article 7 bis of this Convention, States Parties shall, if so requested, give priority consideration to returning the confiscated assets to the requesting State Party so that it can give compensation to the victims of the crime or return such assets to their legitimate owners, in accordance with its domestic law.]⁹⁸

2. When acting on the request of another State Party in accordance with articles 7 and 7 bis, a State Party may give special consideration to concluding agreements on:

(a) Contributing the value of such proceeds and property, or funds derived from the sale of such proceeds or property or a substantial part thereof to intergovernmental bodies specializing in the fight against organized crime;

(b) Sharing with other States Parties, on a regular or case-by-case basis, such proceeds or property, or funds derived from the sale of such proceeds or property, in accordance with its domestic law, administrative procedures or bilateral or multilateral agreements entered into for this purpose.

[Article 8 was deleted.]

Article 9⁹⁹
Jurisdiction

1. Each State Party shall take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences established in article(s) [...] ¹⁰⁰ of this Convention when:

(a) The offence is committed in the territory of that State; or

(b) The offence is committed on board a vessel that is flying the flag of that State or an aircraft that is registered under the laws of that State at the time the offence is committed.

2. A State Party may also establish its jurisdiction over any such offence when:

(a) The offence is committed against a national or a habitual resident of that State;¹⁰¹

(b) The offence is committed by a national or a habitual resident of that State; or

⁹⁸ Paragraph 1 bis was proposed by the delegation of China at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee (A/AC.254/L.79) and received wide support. The delegation of Japan proposed the addition of the phrase “to the extent permitted by domestic law” at the end of the paragraph. Some delegations proposed inserting the text of this paragraph as subparagraph 2 (c). The delegation of the Netherlands suggested that the purpose of returning the assets should be more general and not necessarily limited to those included in the proposal. The delegation of China undertook to consider the various comments made on the proposal with a view to reformulating it. The delegation of Cuba suggested that this paragraph be drafted in a non-mandatory fashion to accommodate countries whose legislation did not permit use of confiscated assets for compensation to victims.

⁹⁹ The text of this article is based on a proposal submitted by Poland at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee (see A/AC.254/5/Add.7).

¹⁰⁰ Reference would be made here to all the articles of the Convention containing an obligation to criminalize certain conduct.

(c) The offence is committed outside its territory with a view to the commission, within its territory, of an offence established in accordance with articles [...] of this Convention; or

[(d) The offence has substantial effects in that State.]¹⁰²

[3. Each State Party shall take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences it has established in accordance with articles [...] of this Convention when the alleged offender is present in its territory and it does not extradite him or her to another State Party on the ground:

(a) That the offence has been committed in its territory or on board a vessel that was flying its flag or an aircraft that was registered under its law at the time the offence was committed; or

(b) That the offence has been committed by one of its nationals.]¹⁰³

[4. Each State Party may also take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences it has established in accordance with articles [...] when the alleged offender is present in its territory and it does not extradite him or her.]¹⁰⁴

5. If the State exercising its jurisdiction under paragraph 1 or 2 of this article has been notified, or has otherwise learned, that one or more other States are conducting an investigation or carrying out criminal proceedings in respect of the same conduct, the competent authorities of those States shall, as appropriate, consult one another with a view to resolving the matter and coordinating their actions. [Until a solution has been reached, each State Party shall take care, as far as possible, not to jeopardize the investigations conducted by one or more States.]¹⁰⁵

6. This Convention does not exclude the exercise of any criminal jurisdiction established by a State Party in accordance with its domestic law.¹⁰⁶

¹⁰² This subparagraph was included in the previous version of this article (see A/AC.254/4/Rev.3) and was retained at the request of some delegations.

¹⁰³ The text of this paragraph will need to be reviewed in the light of agreement on the formulation of article 10, on extradition.

¹⁰⁴ The text of this paragraph will need to be reviewed in the light of agreement on the formulation of article 10, on extradition.

¹⁰⁵ It was agreed to review this sentence in the light of article 14, on mutual legal assistance, to be agreed upon. The Islamic Republic of Iran proposed that a compromise solution might be the following: "with a view to coordinating their investigative actions, so as not to lose time-sensitive evidence". Some delegations expressed their preference for the previous formulation of this paragraph, as contained in document A/AC.254/4/Rev.3.

¹⁰⁶ In the extensive discussion on this paragraph at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, several delegations noted that this paragraph could be understood to allow States Parties to apply their domestic laws to the territory of other States, for example, to carry out investigative measures abroad. Mexico, supported by several delegations, therefore proposed that the paragraph be clarified by adding the following sentence: "This Convention does not allow extraterritorial application of domestic legislation." Mexico also referred to the text of article 2, paragraph 4, of the present draft, which would prohibit States Parties from undertaking in the territory of another State the exercise of jurisdiction and the performance of functions reserved exclusively for the authorities of that other State by its domestic law.

Several other delegations pointed out that the paragraph was identical to article 4, paragraph 3, of the 1988 Convention. Its purpose was understood by those delegations to allow States Parties to establish jurisdiction, on which basis they could, for example, then proceed to request mutual legal assistance under article 14, which is in accordance with international law and practice. Those delegations suggested that the proposal of Mexico could itself be misunderstood as prohibiting, in contradiction to the provision in paragraph 2 of the present draft, States Parties from applying domestic law to offences committed abroad by,

7. The provisions of this article shall not affect the obligations with regard to the establishment of jurisdiction over offences pursuant to any other international treaty.

Article 10
Extradition^{107, 108, 109, 110}

1. This article shall apply to the offences covered by this Convention.¹¹¹ for example, their own nationals. It was also pointed out that article 2, paragraph 3, of the present draft emphasized the principles of sovereign equality, territorial integrity and non-intervention in the domestic affairs of other States and that those principles applied also to any exercise of jurisdiction. The Netherlands pointed out that the issue was explicitly addressed in the comments on article 4, paragraph 3, of the 1988 Convention contained in the commentary on that convention (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.98.XI.5).

Three proposals were made to address the concerns of the first group of countries.

Norway proposed amending the end of paragraph 6 to read “in accordance with its domestic law and with international law”.

Finland proposed amending paragraph 6 to read:

“6. This Convention does not exclude the establishment of any criminal jurisdiction by a State Party in accordance with its domestic law.”

Venezuela proposed that a cross-reference be inserted in paragraph 6 of article 9 to paragraphs 3 and 4 of article 2 of the present draft.

The Chairman noted that at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee none of the proposals had sufficiently broad support to serve as the basis for consensus and that the issue should be kept under review.

¹⁰⁷ One delegation noted that this article did not sufficiently take into account the principle of aut dedere aut judicare, in particular in respect of the establishment of jurisdiction.

One delegation emphasized the importance of ensuring procedural safeguards and suggested that either a separate paragraph should deal with that issue or all relevant paragraphs should refer to “fundamental legal principles”.

¹⁰⁹ The delegation of Italy had proposed (A/AC.254/5/Add.8) the insertion of a new paragraph after paragraph 6 of this article to deal with the extradition of persons sentenced in absentia. Following the discussion at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Italy indicated that it would present a revised version of its proposal at a subsequent session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

¹¹⁰ The delegation of Poland had proposed (A/AC.254/5/Add.7) the insertion of two new paragraphs at the end of this article to deal with jurisdictional issues and the exception of fiscal and political offences. Following the discussion at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Poland stated that it would take into account the observations and comments of delegations, especially regarding the deletion of references to political offences, and present a reformulated version of its proposal.

¹¹¹ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, additional paragraphs proposed by the delegation of the Netherlands were supported by several delegations. Some other delegations suggested that the provisions of those paragraphs should be clarified. The delegation of the Netherlands stated that it would present reformulated versions of the paragraphs at a subsequent session. The paragraphs read as follows:

“1 bis. State Parties shall apply this article also if the request for extradition includes several serious offences, punishable under the laws of the requesting and the requested States Parties by deprivation of liberty for at least [...] years, although some of the offences are other than those envisaged in paragraph 1 of this article.

“1 ter. Notwithstanding paragraphs 1 and [1 bis] of this article, States Parties may apply this article also to serious offences punishable under the laws of the requesting and the requested States Parties by deprivation of liberty for a maximum period of at least [...] years or by a more severe penalty.”

2. Each of the offences to which this article applies shall be deemed to be included as an extraditable offence in any extradition treaty existing between States Parties. The Parties undertake to include such offences as extraditable offences in every extradition treaty to be concluded between them.¹¹²

3. If a State Party that makes extradition conditional on the existence of a treaty receives a request for extradition from another Party with which it has no extradition treaty, it may¹¹³ consider this Convention as the legal basis for extradition in respect of any offence to which this article applies. Parties that require detailed legislation in order to use this Convention as a legal basis for extradition shall consider enacting such legislation as may be necessary. [States Parties shall declare whether they intend to apply this paragraph.]

4. States Parties that do not make extradition conditional on the existence of a treaty shall recognize offences to which this article applies as extraditable offences between themselves.

5. Extradition shall be subject to the conditions provided for by the law of the requested State Party or by applicable extradition treaties, including the grounds upon which the requested Party may refuse extradition.

6. In considering requests pursuant to this article, the requested State may refuse to comply with such requests if it has substantial grounds for believing that the request has been made for the purpose of prosecuting or punishing a person on account of that person's [gender,]¹¹⁴ race, religion, nationality, ethnic origin or political opinions or that compliance with the request would cause prejudice to that person's position for any of these reasons.¹¹⁵

¹¹² One delegation noted the need for a paragraph on the application of the principle of double criminality to extradition cases.

¹¹³ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, some delegations stated their preference for the more mandatory wording "shall" over the more discretionary wording "may".

¹¹⁴ Several delegations noted that it was their understanding that the term "gender" referred to men and women. The inclusion of this term as a possible basis for discrimination might therefore depend on its clarification.

¹¹⁵ Some delegations suggested that a request for extradition could be refused if the offence in question was punishable by capital punishment in the requesting State. One delegation opposed such a provision and noted that paragraph 5, on the statutory conditions for extradition, would be sufficient.

UNHCR further requested that a paragraph be incorporated into the draft Convention that would prohibit extradition for the purposes of the Convention in cases of "political offences". UNHCR suggested the following wording: "Extradition shall not be granted if the offence in respect of which it is requested is regarded by the requested Party as a political offence, an offence related thereto or an ordinary criminal offence prosecuted for political reasons."

One delegation noted that it was prepared to allow such an exception, but not in the case of heinous offences.

At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of China proposed the insertion of the following provision: "Before refusing extradition pursuant to this paragraph, the requested State Party shall consult with the requesting State Party to provide it with ample opportunity to present its opinions and to provide information relevant to its allegation."

At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of the United States stated that this provision should be formulated in such a way as not to create additional grounds for refusal that would apply to extradition treaties already in force that would permit extradition for the offence in question. The drafting would need to be considered further.

7. States Parties shall endeavour to expedite extradition procedures and to simplify evidentiary requirements relating thereto in respect of any offence to which this article applies.¹¹⁶

7 bis. States Parties shall consider surrendering to each other, subject to their domestic law, under speedy and simplified procedures, any person sought for the purpose of extradition, subject to the agreement of the requested State and the consent of that person, provided that the consent has been expressed voluntarily and in full awareness of the consequences. The requested State shall afford that person the right to legal counsel.¹¹⁷

8. Subject to the provisions of its domestic law and its extradition treaties, the requested State Party may, upon being satisfied that the circumstances so warrant and are urgent and at the request of the requesting Party, take a person whose extradition is sought and who is present in its territory into custody or take other appropriate measures to ensure his or her presence at extradition proceedings.

9. (a) The State Party in the territory of which the offender or the alleged offender is found shall, in cases where this [Convention] [article] applies, if it does not extradite that person [for the purpose of prosecution],¹¹⁸ be obliged, at the request of the State Party seeking extradition, whether or not the offence was committed in its territory, to submit the case without undue delay to its competent authorities for the purpose of prosecution, [provided that it has established jurisdiction over such offence under article 9 of this Convention]¹¹⁹ [subject to the condition of double criminality,] through proceedings in accordance with the laws of that State;¹²⁰

[(a bis) Notwithstanding subparagraph (a) of this paragraph, if a State Party considers the offence for which the extradition is sought to be not generally associated with

¹¹⁶ Some delegations expressed their concern that this paragraph might lead to violations of the fundamental legal rights of the defendant.

¹¹⁷ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, this paragraph, originally proposed by the delegations of Australia, France and Sweden (A/AC.254/L.72), was inserted on the understanding that its drafting should be improved. For example, the delegation of Ireland proposed the inclusion of a reference to giving consent before a judicial authority, while several other delegations suggested that it should be made clear that consent would refer to the simplified procedures and not to the principle of extradition.

The delegation of China indicated that it had legal difficulties in accepting the inclusion of the paragraph. The delegation of the Syrian Arab Republic proposed its deletion.

¹¹⁸ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, three options were presented with regard to this point. In option 1, the phrase “solely on the basis of his or her nationality” would be inserted here. According to option 2, the phrase “on the grounds that the person whose extradition is sought is its own national or that a type of punishment that does not exist in the requested Party may be imposed on that person in the requesting Party” would be inserted here (A/AC.254/L.75). According to option 3, neither of the above phrases would be inserted here (A/AC.254/L.34 and A/AC.254/L.64).

¹¹⁹ Proposal submitted by the delegation of China at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee (A/AC.254/L.64).

¹²⁰ The text of paragraph 9 (a) was drafted by an informal working group established at the request of the Chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee at its fifth session and chaired by the delegation of Finland (A/AC.254/L.82). The redrafted text was not discussed in detail at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee. Three options were presented with regard to this point. According to option 1, the following sentence would be inserted here (see A/AC.254/4/Rev.4, A/AC.254/L.72 and A/AC.254/L.75): “Those authorities shall take their decision in the same manner as in the case of any other offence of a grave nature under the law of that State.” According to option 2, the following sentence would be inserted here (see A/AC.254/L.64): “Those authorities shall take their decision taking into account the serious nature of the offence.” According to option 3, neither of the above sentences would be inserted here (see A/AC.254/L.34).

the activities of an organized criminal group, the State Party shall not be required to take measures provided in that subparagraph;]¹²¹

Option 1

[a ter) The States Parties concerned shall cooperate with each other, in particular on procedural and evidentiary aspects, to ensure the efficiency of such prosecution;]¹²²

Option 2

[a ter) A State Party that submits a case for prosecution following the denial of extradition on grounds of nationality shall treat the investigation and prosecution with diligence, shall devote sufficient resources to conduct the matter effectively and shall coordinate the matter with the requesting State. It shall ensure that its mutual assistance, procedural and evidentiary laws enable effective action to be taken on the basis of evidence obtained from another State;]¹²³

(b) Whenever a State Party is permitted under its domestic law to extradite or otherwise surrender one of its nationals only upon the condition that the person will be returned to that State to serve the sentence imposed as a result of the trial or proceedings for which the extradition or surrender of the person was sought and this State and the State seeking the extradition of the person agree with this option and other terms that they may deem appropriate, such a conditional extradition or surrender shall be sufficient to discharge the obligation set forth in subparagraph (a) of this paragraph.

10. If extradition, sought for purposes of enforcing a sentence, is refused because the person sought is a national of the requested State Party, the requested Party shall, if its law so permits and if it is in conformity with the requirement of such law, upon application of the requesting Party, consider the enforcement of the sentence that has been imposed under the law of the requesting Party or the remainder thereof.

11. Any person regarding whom proceedings are being carried out in connection with any of the offences covered by this Convention shall be guaranteed fair treatment at all stages of the proceedings, including enjoyment of all the rights and guarantees provided by the law of the State in the territory of which that person is present.

12. States Parties shall seek to conclude bilateral and multilateral agreements to carry out or to enhance the effectiveness of extradition.

Article 10 bis
Transfer of sentenced persons

States Parties may consider entering into bilateral or multilateral agreements, either ad hoc or general, on the transfer to their territory of persons sentenced to imprisonment or other forms of deprivation of liberty for offences to which this article applies, in order that they may complete their sentences there.

Article 14
*Mutual legal assistance*¹²⁴

1. States Parties shall afford one another the widest measure of mutual legal assistance [, within the conditions prescribed by the domestic legislation]¹²⁵ in investigations,¹²⁶ prosecutions and judicial proceedings in relation to the crimes or offences covered by this Convention, as provided for in article 2, paragraph 1.¹²⁷

[1 bis. Without prejudice to the other limitations to the obligation to assist set forth in this article, mutual legal assistance also shall be afforded where the requesting State Party is investigating a serious crime and suspects the involvement of an organized criminal group.]¹²⁸

[1 ter. Each State Party shall, to the fullest extent possible under its relevant laws, treaties and arrangements, provide prompt and effective cooperation to another Party for proceedings brought by a State Party against a legal person under article 5 of this Convention.]¹²⁹

[1 quater. No State Party shall be entitled to undertake, in the territorial jurisdiction of any other State Party, the performance or discharge of any functions for which the jurisdiction or competence is reserved exclusively for the authorities of that other Party under its domestic laws or regulations.]¹³⁰

2. Mutual assistance to be afforded in accordance with this article may be requested for any of the following purposes:¹³¹

- (a) Taking evidence or statements from persons;
- (b) Effecting service of judicial documents;

¹²⁴ Several delegations proposed that the Model Treaty on Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters (General Assembly resolution 45/117, annex) be used as the basis for the drafting of this article.

One delegation suggested that the corresponding provisions in the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings (General Assembly resolution 52/164, annex) should be taken as the basis for this article.

¹²⁵ Several delegations suggested that this phrase should be deleted, on the ground that the concern was adequately dealt with in paragraph 12. One delegation disagreed, noting that paragraph 12 related to a question of procedure.

¹²⁶ Some delegations were of the view that, since the concept of “investigations” in paragraph 1 assumed the suspicion of involvement in crime, paragraph 1 bis was redundant.

¹²⁷ Some delegations preferred a more descriptive formulation of the scope of this paragraph.

¹²⁸ See footnote 126 above. One delegation noted that in view of the operational and financial resources to be expended by the requested State, a proper basis must exist before assistance commenced.

¹²⁹ This paragraph was inserted on the ground that, according to the laws of some States, legal persons as such could not be suspects or defendants in a criminal case and thus would not otherwise be covered by the present article. Delegations generally supported the idea contained in this paragraph, although some were of the view that it was already covered by paragraph 1. A number of delegations favoured the following alternative formulation:

“Mutual legal assistance shall be afforded with respect to investigations, prosecutions and judicial proceedings relating to offences for which a legal person may be held liable in the requesting State Party.”

¹³⁰ This paragraph was proposed by Mexico at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee (see A/AC.254/L.44). The Chairman indicated that it required further consideration.

¹³¹ The delegation of Belgium suggested that this paragraph should be reformulated in order to ensure that it did not imply that the list of measures was exhaustive. Other delegations supported that suggestion.

- (c) Executing searches, [freezing]¹³² and seizures;
[(c bis) The seizure, confiscation and surrender of property;]¹³³
- (d) Examining objects and sites;
- (e) Providing information, evidentiary items [and expert evaluations];¹³⁴
- (f) Providing originals or certified copies of relevant documents and records, including government, bank, financial, corporate or business records;¹³⁵
- (g) Identifying or tracing proceeds, property, instrumentalities or other things for evidentiary purposes;
- (h) Facilitating the appearance of persons in the requesting State Party;
[(h bis) Locating or identifying persons or objects;]¹³⁶
- (i) Any other type of assistance allowed by the law of the requested [or requesting]¹³⁷ State Party.

2 bis. Without prejudice to national law, the competent authorities of a State Party may, without prior request, transmit information relating to criminal matters to a competent authority in another State where they believe that such information could assist the authority in undertaking or successfully concluding inquiries and criminal proceedings or could result in a request formulated by that authority pursuant to this Convention.

2 ter. The transmission of such information shall be without prejudice to inquiries and criminal proceedings in the State of the competent authorities providing the information. The competent authorities receiving the information shall comply with a request that said information remain confidential, even temporarily, or with restrictions on its use.¹³⁸

3. The provisions of this article shall not affect the obligations under any other treaty, bilateral or multilateral, that governs or will govern, in whole or in part, mutual legal assistance.¹³⁹

4. Paragraphs 6 to 21 of this article shall apply to requests made pursuant to this article if the States Parties in question are not bound by a treaty of mutual legal assistance. If those States Parties are bound by such a treaty, the corresponding provisions of that treaty shall apply unless the Parties agree to apply paragraphs 6 to 21 in lieu thereof.

¹³² Proposal of the delegation of China.

¹³³ Proposal of the delegation of Mexico.

¹³⁴ The text in brackets is a proposal of the delegation of China.

¹³⁵ Some delegations pointed out that the issues of money-laundering and bank secrecy were still under consideration. This subparagraph would therefore need to be reviewed in the light of agreement on article 4 bis.

¹³⁶ Proposal of the delegation of China.

¹³⁷ Proposal of the delegation of Finland.

¹³⁸ Paragraphs 2 bis and 2 ter were proposed by the delegation of Italy (see A/AC.254/5/Add.8) and received wide support. There were suggestions for refinement of the text, also in order to avoid overlap with the provisions of article 19, on law enforcement cooperation. According to some delegations, a possible model for a more streamlined text might be found in article 28 of the 1999 Council of Europe Criminal Law Convention on Corruption. One delegation suggested that the two paragraphs could be placed in a separate article entitled "Spontaneous communication of information".

¹³⁹ It was suggested at the informal preparatory meeting held in Buenos Aires in 1998 that the substance of this paragraph could be integrated into a more general article on the relationship of the Convention to other bilateral or multilateral treaties.

5. States Parties shall not decline to render mutual legal assistance under this article on the ground of bank secrecy.¹⁴⁰

6. States Parties may not decline to render mutual legal assistance under this article on the ground of absence of dual criminality, unless the assistance required involves the application of coercive measures.¹⁴¹

7. States Parties shall¹⁴² [, where not contrary to fundamental legal principles,] adopt measures sufficient to enable a person in the custody of one State Party whose presence in another State Party is requested to give evidence or to assist in the investigations to be transferred if the person consents and if the competent authorities of both States agree.¹⁴³ Transfer under this paragraph shall not be for the purpose of standing trial. For the purposes of this paragraph:¹⁴⁴

(a) The State to which the person is transferred shall have the authority and obligation to keep the person transferred in custody, unless otherwise authorized by the State from which the person was transferred;

¹⁴⁰ This paragraph received broad support. However, some delegations expressed reservations about it.

¹⁴¹ This paragraph received considerable support. However, several delegations expressed reservations on the ground that, in view of the broad scope of the Convention, the principle of dual criminality had to apply to mutual legal assistance. In an effort to find a compromise solution, the delegation of China proposed the formulation below. Several delegations supported the proposal of China.

“The requested State Party shall be obliged to provide assistance only if the conduct in relation to which the request was made would constitute an offence under its domestic law. However, the requested State Party may, when it deems appropriate, provide assistance, to the extent it may decide at its discretion, irrespective of whether the conduct would constitute an offence under the laws of both the requesting and requested States Parties.”

The United Kingdom proposed as a compromise formulation that the original paragraph be made applicable only to offences established by the Convention.

Some delegations noted that the connection between this paragraph and paragraph 16 should be reviewed.

The delegation of Singapore pointed out that the 1986 Commonwealth Scheme for Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters provided for dual criminality as a ground for refusal.

Some delegations pointed out that the term “coercive measures” might have a different meaning in different jurisdictions.

¹⁴² Although some delegations deemed it important that this provision be mandatory, some other delegations proposed that “shall” be changed to “may”. The delegation of Germany proposed the formulation “States shall endeavour to adopt”. Some delegations noted that alternative formulations were contained in article 13 of the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and article 93 of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (A/CONF.183/9).

The delegation of Singapore proposed the formulation of article 13, paragraph 1, of the Model Treaty on Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters, which reads as follows:

“Upon the request of the requesting State, and if the requested State agrees and its law so permits, a person in custody in the latter State may, subject to his or her consent, be temporarily transferred to the requesting State to give evidence or to assist in the investigations.”

One delegation noted the operational and security implications and suggested the possibility of alternative methods of obtaining the assistance or testimony of the person in custody, which would obviate the need for his or her physical transfer, such as the use of video link facilities.

¹⁴³ One delegation proposed that paragraph 20 immediately follow this paragraph.

¹⁴⁴ Some delegations proposed that this paragraph be made into a separate article. Belgium suggested that this paragraph should be supplemented with the following text: “If the transferred person flees, the State to which that person was transferred shall take every possible measure to ensure his or her apprehension.”

(b) The State to which the person is transferred shall return the person to the custody of the State from which the person was transferred [as soon as circumstances permit]¹⁴⁵ or as otherwise agreed by the competent authorities of both States;

(c) The State to which the person is transferred shall not require the State from which the person was transferred to initiate extradition¹⁴⁶ proceedings for the return of the person;

(d) The person transferred shall receive credit for service of the sentence imposed in the State from which he or she was transferred for time served in the custody of the State to which he or she was transferred.¹⁴⁷

8. States Parties shall designate a central authority or, when necessary, central authorities¹⁴⁸ that shall have the responsibility and power to execute requests for mutual legal assistance or to transmit them to the competent authorities for execution. Central authorities shall play an active role in ensuring the speedy execution of requests [, controlling quality and setting priorities].¹⁴⁹ The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall be notified of the authority or authorities designated for this purpose. Transmission of requests for mutual legal assistance and any communication related thereto shall be effected between the authorities designated by the States Parties. This requirement shall be without prejudice to the right of a State Party to require that such requests and communications be addressed to it through diplomatic channels and, in urgent circumstances, where the Parties agree, through the International Criminal Police Organization, if possible.¹⁵⁰

¹⁴⁵ Several delegations proposed the deletion of the words “as soon as circumstances permit”. The delegation of China proposed that the phrase be replaced with the words “as soon as the person has finished giving evidence or assisting in the investigations”.

¹⁴⁶ The delegation of France proposed that the words “extradition proceedings” be replaced with the words “extradition or other proceedings”.

¹⁴⁷ The delegation of Mexico proposed the insertion of the following subparagraph: “The authorities of the requested State Party may be present at proceedings conducted in the requesting State Party.”

¹⁴⁸ Some delegations proposed the deletion of the words “or, when necessary, central authorities”. Some other delegations were in favour of retaining this reference. Several delegations emphasized that a distinction was necessary between the authorities responsible for receiving or forwarding requests and those competent to execute requests. The delegation of Australia proposed to make this distinction by referring to “central offices” for authorities only receiving or forwarding requests and to “competent authority” for authorities executing requests.

The delegation of China proposed the deletion of the word “central” from this paragraph, or the insertion of the following sentence after the first sentence of this paragraph: “States Parties may also designate other authorities for the same purpose for its special regions or territories that have separate systems of mutual legal assistance.” The delegation of Canada referred to a proposal it had made on this matter in document A/AC.254/L.42 and indicated that it would continue consultations with other interested delegations with a view to formulating a text that would attract consensus.

¹⁴⁹ Some delegations proposed the deletion of this phrase in brackets, inter alia, on the ground that it could be seen to be in contradiction to the principle of the independence of the judiciary. One delegation recalled that the phrase had been taken from the amendments to the Model Treaty on Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters.

¹⁵⁰ Some delegations were of the view that this paragraph, together with the corresponding provision on central authorities in article 10 (Extradition), should be placed in a separate article entitled “Transmission of requests for extradition and mutual assistance”, to precede the articles on those issues. It was also proposed that such a separate article should more generally include provisions on channels of communication in connection with different forms of international cooperation in criminal matters.

9. Requests shall be made in writing or, where possible,¹⁵¹ by any means capable of producing a written record in a language acceptable to the requested State Party, under conditions allowing that Party to establish authenticity.¹⁵² The Secretary-General shall be notified of the language or languages acceptable to each Party. In urgent circumstances and where agreed by the States Parties, requests may be made orally, but shall be confirmed in writing forthwith.

10. A request for mutual legal assistance shall contain:

(a) The identity of the authority making the request;

(b) The subject matter and nature of the investigation, prosecution or proceeding to which the request relates and the name and the functions of the authority conducting the investigation prosecution or proceeding;

(c) A summary of the relevant facts, except in relation to requests for the purpose of service of judicial documents;

(d) A description of the assistance sought and details of any particular procedure that the requesting State Party wishes to be followed;

(e) Where possible, the identity, location and nationality of any person concerned;

(f) The purpose for which the evidence, information or action is sought.¹⁵³

11. The requested State Party may request additional information when it appears necessary for the execution of the request in accordance with its domestic law or when it can facilitate such execution.

12. A request shall be executed in accordance with the domestic law of the requested State Party and, to the extent not contrary to the domestic law of the requested Party and where possible, in accordance with the procedures specified in the request.¹⁵⁴

13. Wherever possible and consistent with fundamental principles of domestic law, a State Party shall permit [encourage] testimony, statements or other forms of assistance to be given via video link or other modern means of communication and, subject to ¹⁵¹ It was agreed at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee to include this clause in order to take into account the limited capabilities of many countries, especially developing countries, and in order to emphasize that modern means of communication were useful for the transmission of urgent requests. One delegation noted that the provision sought to balance the competing interests of the requesting State to obtain speedy execution of requests and of the requested State to ensure that action was only taken on the basis of credible and substantial information.

¹⁵² The last phrase of this sentence was previously contained in a footnote and was moved into the body of the text pursuant to a proposal by the delegation of France that received wide support at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

¹⁵³ At the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, it was pointed out that the source of this paragraph was the 1988 Convention. The delegation of Colombia expressed its preference for a simplified version of the text.

¹⁵⁴ One delegation noted that this paragraph and paragraph 1 overlapped in part.

The delegation of Canada submitted a proposal for reformulation of the text of this paragraph (see A/AC.254/L.42), which received limited support. The delegation of Italy submitted a proposal for reformulation of this paragraph and the addition of another paragraph (see A/AC.254/5/Add.8). The Ad Hoc Committee was of the view that the ideas contained in that proposal merited further consideration. In particular, the second paragraph of that proposal might be considered further in conjunction with paragraph 19 of this article.

domestic law, shall ensure that perjury committed under such circumstances is a criminal offence.^{155, 156}

14. The requesting State Party, if so requested by the requested State, shall not transmit or use information or evidence furnished by the requested Party for investigations, prosecutions or proceedings other than those stated in the request without the prior consent of the requested Party. Nothing in this paragraph shall preclude the requesting Party from, in its proceedings, disclosing information or evidence that is exculpatory to an accused person.¹⁵⁷

15. The requesting State Party may require that the requested Party keep confidential the fact and substance of the request, except to the extent necessary to execute the request. If the requested Party cannot comply with the requirement of confidentiality, it shall promptly inform the requesting Party.

16. Mutual legal assistance may be refused:

(a) If the request is not made in conformity with the provisions of this article;

(b) If the requested State Party considers that execution of the request is likely to prejudice its sovereignty, security, ordre public or other essential interests;

(c) If the authorities of the requested State Party would be prohibited by its domestic law from carrying out the action requested with regard to any similar offence, had it been subject to investigation, prosecution or proceedings under their own jurisdiction;¹⁵⁸

(d) If it would be contrary to the fundamental principles of the legal system of the requested State Party relating to mutual legal assistance for the request to be granted;

¹⁵⁵ Several delegations expressed concern about the criminalization of perjury in this paragraph. The clause on domestic law was inserted to make such criminalization optional and thus meet those concerns. Nevertheless, several delegations expressed their preference for the deletion of the provision.

¹⁵⁶ The delegation of Japan suggested that the adoption of the necessary measures enabling testimony via video link should be optional. The delegation of Italy proposed the insertion of several new paragraphs after paragraph 13 (see A/AC.254/5/Add.8). The first paragraph of that proposal was favourably received at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee as a potential alternative to paragraph 13. The first paragraph of the Italian proposal reads as follows:

“Where an individual is in the territory of a State Party and has to be heard as a witness or expert by the judicial authorities of another State Party, the first State Party may, at the request of the other, permit the hearing to take place by video conference if the criminal proceedings for which the hearing was requested provide appropriate guarantees of conformity with its fundamental principles of law and where it is not possible or desirable for the individual in question to appear in person in the territory of the requesting State.”

The rest of the proposal made by Italy was found to contain many useful concepts and ideas, but was deemed too lengthy and detailed for an international legal instrument. At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, Italy undertook to submit a redraft of its proposal at a subsequent session.

¹⁵⁸ Many delegations expressed the view that subparagraphs (c) and (d), contained in document A/AC.254/4/Rev.4, should be deleted.

(e) If the requested State Party has substantial grounds for believing that the request has been made for the purpose of prosecuting or punishing a person on account of that person's gender, race, religion, nationality or political opinions;¹⁵⁹

(f) If the request relates to an offence that is considered by the requested State Party to be a political offence;

(g) If the request falls under subparagraph [1 bis] of this article and the requested State Party considers, based on the information provided by the requesting State Party, [that there is no basis for the suspicion of the involvement of an organized criminal group in the offence] [that the suspicion is unreasonable].¹⁶⁰

17. For the purpose of cooperation under this article, the offences established in articles [...] of this Convention shall not be considered fiscal [or customs] offences, without prejudice to the constitutional limitations and the fundamental domestic law of the States Parties.¹⁶¹

18. Reasons shall be given for any refusal of mutual legal assistance.

[18 bis. If, within six months of the submission of its request, the requesting State Party has not received any information on action taken pursuant to that request, the requesting Party may petition the requested State Party in this regard. The requested Party shall inform the requesting Party about the reason for the lack of any communication regarding the request.]¹⁶²

19. Mutual legal assistance may be postponed by the requested State Party on the ground that it interferes with an ongoing investigation, prosecution or proceeding.

19 bis. Before refusing a request pursuant to paragraph 16 of this article or postponing its execution pursuant to paragraph 19, the requested State Party shall consult with the requesting State Party to consider whether assistance may be granted subject to such terms and conditions as it deems necessary. If the requesting Party accepts assistance subject to those conditions, it shall comply with the conditions.

20. A witness, expert or other person who, at the request of the requesting State Party, consents to give evidence in a proceeding or to assist in an investigation, prosecution or judicial proceeding in the territory of the requesting Party shall not be prosecuted, detained, punished or subjected to any other restriction of his or her personal liberty in that territory in respect of acts, omissions or convictions prior to his or her departure from the territory of the requested State Party. Such safe conduct shall cease when the witness, expert or other person having had, for a period of fifteen consecutive days, or for any period agreed upon by the Parties, from the date on which he or she has been officially informed that his or her presence is no longer required by the judicial authorities, an ¹⁵⁹ A number of delegations were of the view that subparagraphs (e) and (f), proposed by the delegation of the United States (A/AC.254/L.33), were already covered by the concept of "essential interests" in subparagraph (b). It was noted that the inclusion of these subparagraphs might imply that subparagraph (b) had a more limited scope than would otherwise be understood. Accordingly, a number of delegations considered that retaining these subparagraphs would require the inclusion of other express grounds for refusal, such as the possible imposition of the death penalty, double jeopardy and lapse of time.

¹⁶⁰ Subparagraph (g) was proposed by the delegation of Canada at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee. It replaced subparagraph (e) as presented in document A/AC.254/4/Rev.4.

¹⁶¹ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegations of Canada, Finland, the Netherlands and Switzerland undertook to submit a redrafted version of this paragraph.

¹⁶² This paragraph was submitted by the delegation of France at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

opportunity of leaving, has nevertheless remained voluntarily in the territory of the requesting Party or, having left it, has returned of his or her own free will.

20 bis. The authorities of the requested State Party may request to be present in proceedings conducted in the territory of the requesting State Party.¹⁶³

21. The ordinary costs of executing a request shall be borne by the requested State Party, unless otherwise agreed by the Parties concerned. If expenses of a substantial or extraordinary nature are or will be required to fulfil the request, the Parties shall consult to determine the terms and conditions under which the request will be executed, as well as the manner in which the costs shall be borne.¹⁶⁴

21 bis. (a) The requested State Party shall provide copies of government records, documents or information in its possession that, under its laws, are available to the general public;

(b) The requested State Party may, at its discretion, provide in whole, in part or subject to such conditions as it deems appropriate, copies of any government records, documents or information in its possession that under its laws are not available to the general public.¹⁶⁵

22. States Parties shall consider, as may be necessary, the possibility of concluding bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements that would serve the purposes of, give practical effect to or enhance the provisions of this article.¹⁶⁶

*Joint investigations*¹⁶⁷

On a reciprocal basis, States Parties shall consider concluding bilateral or multilateral agreements or understandings whereby, in relation to matters that are the subject of criminal proceedings in one or more States, the judicial authorities concerned may, where necessary together with police authorities, after informing the central authority or authorities referred to in paragraph 8 of article 14, act together within joint investigative bodies. In the absence of such agreements or understandings, such joint investigations may be undertaken by agreement on a case-by-case basis.

¹⁶³ This paragraph was proposed by the delegation of Mexico. It was originally contained in document A/AC.254/L.44 and is presented here as further amended by the delegation of Mexico at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

¹⁶⁴ One delegation noted that the wording of this paragraph required clarification. The delegation of Bangladesh suggested that the modalities for sharing ordinary costs of executing the request should be decided through mutual consultation between the requesting State Party and the requested State Party.

¹⁶⁵ This provision was redrafted following a preliminary discussion at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee. It will require further examination.

¹⁶⁶ One delegation noted that the wording of this paragraph required clarification. Another delegation proposed that the paragraph be deleted.

¹⁶⁷ The placement of this paragraph in the present article, in connection with article 19, paragraph 2 (c), or in a separate article on joint investigative teams is to be considered. At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of Italy undertook to consider the presentation of a possible reformulation of this paragraph at a subsequent session. The reformulation could include the following sentence: "The States Parties involved shall ensure that the sovereignty of the State Party in whose territory the investigation is to take place is fully respected."

Article 15

Special investigative techniques

1. Each State Party shall, within its possibilities and under the conditions prescribed by its domestic law, take the necessary measures to allow for the appropriate use of special investigative techniques, in particular controlled delivery, electronic or other forms of surveillance, and undercover operations, [by its competent authorities in its territory] for the purpose of effectively combating organized crime.¹⁶⁸

2. For the purpose of investigating the crimes [covered by this Convention] [established in articles [...] of this Convention], States Parties are encouraged to make, when necessary, appropriate bilateral or multilateral arrangements for using such special investigative techniques in the context of cooperation at the international level. Such arrangements shall be agreed upon and implemented in full compliance with the principle of sovereign equality of States and shall be carried out strictly in accordance with the agreed terms of those arrangements.¹⁶⁹

3. Decisions to use such special investigative techniques at the international level shall be made on a case-by-case basis and may, when necessary, take into consideration financial arrangements and understandings with respect to the exercise of jurisdiction by the States Parties concerned.

4. Decisions to use controlled delivery at the international level may [, with the consent of the States Parties concerned,]¹⁷⁰ include methods such as intercepting and allowing the goods to continue intact or removed or replaced in whole or in part.

Article 16

Transfer of proceedings

States Parties shall give consideration to the possibility of transferring to one another proceedings for the criminal prosecution of an offence established in article(s) [...] of [alternatively: an offence covered by] this Convention in cases where such transfer is considered to be in the interests of the proper administration of justice, in particular in cases where more jurisdictions are involved, with a view to concentrating the prosecution.

¹⁶⁸ The text of this paragraph was proposed by an informal group convened at the request of the Chairman at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee. One delegation noted that the proposal should be flexible, permit States to take the measures necessary for the use of such techniques and encourage States to implement them without placing them under an obligation to do so. One delegation was of the view that if this provision were to impose an obligation, the words “in particular” should be deleted, so that the obligation would not be left undefined or open-ended. Some delegations were of the view that the formulation could be more binding and/or compelling. One delegation suggested reverting to the original proposal (A/AC.254/4/Rev.4) and retaining the phrase “for the purpose of gathering evidence and taking legal action against persons involved”.

At the second session of the Ad Hoc Committee, several delegations noted the need to define these concepts. It was also suggested by some delegations that, since the list of measures in this paragraph was not exhaustive and new investigative measures might be developed in response to the evolution of organized crime and of technology, the definitions might also be inserted into the travaux préparatoires.

Consideration should be given to eliminating specific references throughout the text to “sovereign equality”, which duplicate the provision on this subject contained in article 2, paragraph 3, and apply generally to obligations under the Convention.

¹⁷⁰ The words in brackets, used in the corresponding article in the 1988 Convention (article 11, paragraph 3), had been inadvertently deleted from the text.

Article 17
Establishment of criminal record

Each State Party may take such legislative or other measures as may be necessary to take into consideration, under such terms as it deems appropriate, the previous foreign conviction of an alleged offender in another country for the purpose of using such information in criminal proceedings relating to an offence covered by this Convention to seek enhanced punishment or to establish the criminal history of such offender or for any other purpose that the State Party deems appropriate.

[Article 17 bis
Bribery of witnesses and intimidation of witnesses and officials

Each State Party shall adopt such legislative and other measures as may be necessary to establish as criminal offences the following conduct, when committed intentionally [and involving an organized criminal group]:

(a) The offering or giving to a person of an undue advantage in order to interfere with the giving of testimony or production of evidence in relation to the commission of a serious crime;

(b) The use of physical force, threats or intimidation to interfere with the exercise of official duties by a justice or security official¹⁷¹ or with the giving of testimony or production of evidence in relation to the commission of a serious crime.]¹⁷²

*Protection of witnesses and victims*¹⁷³

1. Each State Party shall adopt appropriate measures [within its means] to provide effective protection from potential retaliation or intimidation for witnesses in its criminal proceedings¹⁷⁴ who agree to give testimony concerning the crimes covered by this Convention and, as appropriate, for their relatives and other persons close to them.¹⁷⁵

2. The measures envisaged in paragraph 1 of this article may include, among other things, without prejudice to the rights of the defendant, including the right to due process:

(a) Establishing procedures for the physical protection of such persons, such as, to the extent necessary and feasible, relocating them, and permitting, where appropriate,

¹⁷¹ For the discussion on the definition of these terms, see footnote 77.

¹⁷² This text was produced at the fourth session of the Ad Hoc Committee (see A/AC.254/L.40) as the result of a consolidation of the text contained in documents A/AC.254/L.28 and A/AC.254/L.29, in connection with the discussion on article 4 ter, on measures against corruption. The text of the present article was not discussed in detail at that session.

¹⁷³ The drafting of this article requires further consideration.

¹⁷⁴ Several delegations noted that protection should be provided before, during and after the criminal proceedings. One delegation noted that protection should be extended to victims and witnesses involved in proceedings in other States.

¹⁷⁵ This term is intended to cover persons who may be subject to danger by virtue of a particularly close relationship with the witness, but who are not relatives.

One delegation noted that the term required clarification.

Several delegations proposed that the scope of this article be expanded to include not only all persons assisting the authorities in investigation, prosecution and adjudication, but also criminal justice personnel and, for example, the representatives and legal counsel of the victim.

non-disclosure or limitations on the disclosure of information concerning the identity and whereabouts of such persons;¹⁷⁶

(b) Providing evidentiary rules to permit witness testimony to be given in a manner that ensures the safety of the witness, such as permitting testimony to be given through the use of communications technology such as video links or other adequate means.

3. States Parties shall consider entering into arrangements with other States for the relocation of persons described in paragraph 1 of this article.

Article 18 bis
*Protection of victims*¹⁷⁷

1. States Parties shall take [appropriate] measures [within their means] to provide assistance to victims of offences covered by this Convention.

2. States Parties shall establish procedures to provide access to appropriate compensation for victims of offences covered by this Convention.

3. States Parties shall, subject to their domestic laws, enable views and concerns of victims to be presented and considered at appropriate stages of the criminal proceedings against the offenders in a manner not prejudicial to the rights of the defence.

4. The provisions of article 18 of this Convention shall apply also to victims in so far as they are witnesses.

Article 18 ter
Measures to enhance cooperation with law enforcement authorities

1. States Parties shall encourage [shall take appropriate measures to encourage] persons who participate or who have participated in criminal organizations covered by this Convention:

(a) To supply information useful to competent authorities for investigative and evidentiary purposes on:

- (i) The composition, structure or activities of criminal organizations;
- (ii) Links, including international links, with other criminal organizations;
- (iii) Offences that criminal organizations have committed or might commit;

(b) To provide factual, concrete help to competent authorities that may contribute to depriving criminal organizations of their resources or of the proceeds of crime.¹⁷⁸

2. Each State Party shall provide for the possibility of, in appropriate cases, mitigating punishment¹⁷⁹ of an accused person who provides substantial cooperation in the investigation or prosecution of [an offence established in article [...] of [any of the offences covered by] this Convention.

¹⁷⁶ Some delegations noted that this might run counter to legal safeguards enjoyed by the defendant.

¹⁷⁷ The text of this article, which replaces former paragraph 4 of article 18, was proposed by the Chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee at its fifth session and was accepted as the basis for further work.

¹⁷⁸ Proposal submitted by Germany at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, at the request of the Chairman, to replace former paragraph 1 of this article.

¹⁷⁹ The delegation of the United States indicated that this phrase might include not only prescribed but also de facto mitigation of punishment. This view was supported by many delegations.

2 bis. Each State Party shall give consideration to providing, in accordance with its fundamental legal principles, the possibility of granting immunity from prosecution to a person who provides substantial cooperation in the investigation or prosecution of [any of the offences established in articles [...] of this Convention] [an offence covered by this Convention].¹⁸⁰

3. Protection of such persons shall be as provided for in article 18 of this Convention.

4. Where a person referred to in paragraph 1 of this article can provide substantial cooperation to the competent authorities of another State, the States Parties concerned may consider entering into arrangements, in accordance with domestic law, concerning the potential provision by the other State of the treatment described in paragraph 2 of this article.

Article 19

*Law enforcement cooperation*¹⁸¹

1. States Parties shall consider entering into bilateral and multilateral agreements or arrangements on direct cooperation between their law enforcement agencies and, where such agreements or arrangements already exist, amending them with a view to giving effect to this Convention. In the absence of such agreements or arrangements between the States Parties concerned, the Parties may consider this Convention as the basis for mutual law enforcement cooperation in respect of any offence covered by this Convention. Whenever appropriate, States Parties shall make full use of agreements or arrangements, including international or regional organizations, to enhance the cooperation between their law enforcement agencies.

2. States Parties shall cooperate closely with one another, consistent with their respective domestic legal and administrative systems, to enhance the effectiveness of law enforcement action to combat the offences established in article(s) [...] of this Convention [alternatively: the offences covered by this Convention]. Each State Party shall, in particular, adopt effective measures:

(a) To enhance and, where necessary, to establish channels of communication between their competent authorities, agencies and services, including the designation, where appropriate, of [a central authority or authorities],¹⁸² to facilitate the secure and rapid exchange of information concerning all aspects of the offences established in this

¹⁸⁰ Paragraphs 2 and 2 bis constitute a reformulation of former paragraph 2 that reflects the concerns expressed at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

¹⁸¹ This article, amended at the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, would appear to cover the method relating to law enforcement cooperation referred to in the three draft protocols. It was suggested that it might not be necessary to have separate provisions on matters relating to law enforcement cooperation in each of the draft protocols.

¹⁸² Many delegations were of the view that the reference to central authorities should be deleted or placed in brackets, as the concept more properly belonged under mutual legal assistance (article 14). In this connection, it was noted that the provision of the 1988 Convention, on which article 19 was based, did not include a reference to central authorities. At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the proposal to replace this phrase with “points of contact among such authorities, agencies and services” received widespread support. The delegation of Spain stated that the deletion of the reference to central authorities and its replacement with reference to the establishment of contact points needed further study by the Ad Hoc Committee.

Convention, including, if the States Parties concerned deem it appropriate, links with other criminal activities;¹⁸³

(b) To cooperate with other State Parties in conducting inquiries, with respect to offences established in this Convention, concerning:

(i) The identity, whereabouts and activities of persons suspected of involvement in the offences established in this Convention;

(ii) The movement of proceeds or property derived from the commission of such offences;

(iii) The movement of instrumentalities¹⁸⁴ used or intended for use in the commission of such offences;¹⁸⁵

(c) In appropriate cases and if not contrary to domestic law, to establish joint teams, taking into account the need to protect the security of persons and operations, in order to carry out the provisions of this paragraph. Officials of any State Party participating in such teams shall act as authorized by the appropriate¹⁸⁶ authorities of the Party in whose territory the operation is to take place; in all such cases, the States Parties involved shall ensure that the sovereignty of the Party in whose territory the operation is to take place is fully respected;¹⁸⁷

(d) To provide, when appropriate, necessary items or quantities of substances for analytical or investigative purposes;

(e) To facilitate effective coordination between their competent agencies and services and to promote the exchange of personnel and other experts, including, subject to bilateral arrangements or agreements between the States Parties concerned, the posting of liaison officers;¹⁸⁸

(f) To exchange information with other States Parties on specific means and methods used by organized criminal groups, including, where applicable, routes and conveyances and the use of false identities, altered or false documents or other means of concealing their activities.

3. States Parties shall cooperate closely in preventing and controlling the offences established in article(s) [...] of this Convention [alternatively: the offences covered by this Convention]. In particular, they shall, in accordance with their domestic laws or pursuant to bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements.¹⁸⁹

¹⁸⁴ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegation of the Syrian Arab Republic questioned the use of the term “instrumentalities” in this connection.

¹⁸⁵ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, the delegations of the Comoros, Mali and Senegal questioned the accuracy of the French version of this paragraph.

¹⁸⁶ One delegation proposed the insertion of the word “central”. Another delegation opposed it and noted the need to take into consideration the administrative structure of the State when deciding which authority should be charged with the responsibility referred to in the present paragraph.

¹⁸⁷ One delegation expressed concern regarding this paragraph. Some other delegations emphasized in this connection the importance of respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of States.

¹⁸⁸ One delegation suggested that the concept and role of “liaison officers” should be clarified. Another State proposed adding to the end of this paragraph the words “as well as, where appropriate, the extension and expansion of the competence of existing liaison officers”.

¹⁸⁹ Two delegations proposed that paragraph 3 be transferred to article 22 (Prevention at the national level).

(a) Take all appropriate measures to prevent preparation in their respective territories for the commission of those offences within or outside their territories;

(b) Exchange information in accordance with their national law and coordinate administrative and other measures taken as appropriate to prevent the commission of offences established in article(s) [...] of this Convention [alternatively: of offences covered by this Convention].¹⁹⁰

[4. States Parties shall:¹⁹¹

(a) Designate knowledgeable law enforcement personnel to be available [on a 24-hour basis]¹⁹² to respond to transnational organized crime committed through the use of computers, telecommunications networks and other forms of modern technology;¹⁹³ and

(b) Review their domestic legislation to ensure that such abuses are adequately addressed.]¹⁹⁴

Article 20

*Collection and [exchange] of information on organized crime*¹⁹⁵

1. States Parties shall consider developing and sharing analytical expertise concerning organized crime activities. In this connection, common definitions, standards and methodologies shall be applied as appropriate.

2. Each of the States Parties shall consider [, with the support of the scientific community,]¹⁹⁶ analysing trends in organized crime in its territory, as well as the circumstances in which organized crime can operate, the professional groups involved and the communications technologies.

¹⁹⁰ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, discussion on this paragraph was deferred until article 22 could be considered.

At the second session of the Ad Hoc Committee, one delegation noted the need to ensure the confidentiality of any information exchanged on the basis of this subparagraph.

¹⁹¹ Some delegations stressed the need for further consideration of this paragraph and one delegation proposed its deletion on the grounds that it would impose significant financial obligations on States Parties. It was suggested that the paragraph should be reformulated so that the measures envisaged would be discretionary.

¹⁹² One delegation proposed the deletion of the words appearing in brackets.

¹⁹³ One delegation noted that these measures should also be considered in connection with other types of offences.

¹⁹⁴ At the fifth session of the Ad Hoc Committee, it was indicated that this paragraph required substantial reformulation.

¹⁹⁵ Some delegations proposed that this article should deal also with the establishment of international data banks and with the work of the International Criminal Police Organization and corresponding regional arrangements in this connection. One delegation, speaking on behalf of a regional group, stressed the need to establish international data banks that would respond to the needs of developing countries, since the establishment of national data banks would impose a financial obligation on States Parties. The same delegation noted the need to have a linkage with national financial investigative units established to investigate money-laundering.

One delegation noted the need to redraft this article to specify both the objectives and the mechanisms to be used. It was also noted that this article dealt with analytical data, not operational data.

¹⁹⁶ One delegation questioned the inclusion of the phrase appearing in brackets. It was noted in response that the phrase was intended to emphasize the importance of utilizing academic research to improve the quality and effectiveness of the response to organized crime.

3. States Parties shall consider monitoring their policies and actual measures to prevent and combat organized crime and shall make assessments of their effectiveness and efficiency.¹⁹⁷

4. The Secretary-General, with the assistance of the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute and the other institutes in the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme network, shall undertake to collect and analyse public information and research findings concerning organized crime, prepare overviews of global trends in organized crime and prepare inventories of policies and measures to prevent and control organized crime.¹⁹⁸

*Training and technical assistance*¹⁹⁹

1. Each State Party shall, to the extent necessary, initiate, develop or improve a specific training programme for its law enforcement personnel, including prosecutors, investigating magistrates and customs personnel, and other personnel charged with the prevention and control of the offences covered by this Convention. Such programmes may include secondments and exchanges. Such programmes shall deal, in particular, with the following:²⁰⁰

(a) Methods used in the prevention, detection and control²⁰¹ of the offences established in this Convention;

(b) Routes and techniques used by persons suspected of involvement in offences established in this Convention, including in transit States, and appropriate counter-measures;

(c) Monitoring of import and export of contraband;

¹⁹⁷ One delegation proposed that paragraphs 3 and 4 be transferred to article 23.

¹⁹⁸ The possibility of transferring this paragraph to article 23 was to be considered. One delegation proposed the insertion of the words "and other scientific and specialized bodies, as well as regional bodies," after the words "Programme network".

One delegation drew attention to the financial implications of this paragraph and noted that the style of the paragraph would be more appropriate in a resolution than in a Convention.

Two delegations proposed the inclusion of a paragraph on the responsibility of States Parties to provide the Secretary-General with the information referred to in this paragraph.

¹⁹⁹ One delegation noted that this article should also contain a paragraph on the role of the United Nations in the provision of training and technical assistance.

One delegation, speaking on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are members of the Group of 77 and China, stressed the need for an article on the provision of financial assistance to developing countries and undertook to provide a text for the second session of the Ad Hoc Committee. The delegation also stressed the need to include in the Convention an article on international development cooperation.

One delegation noted that, although the wording of this paragraph was based on the 1988 Convention, the scope of that Convention was more limited. Therefore, consideration should be given to the appropriateness of this wording in a convention on transnational organized crime, which would have a considerably broader scope.

One delegation noted the need to draw the attention of Governments and regional cooperation agencies to the importance of the issues dealt with in this article.

²⁰⁰ It was suggested that the Ad Hoc Committee might wish to consider the establishment, subject to the availability of extrabudgetary resources, of a database that would include training materials as well as information concerning available training programmes. It was also noted that this task could be carried out by an institute in the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme network.

²⁰¹ One delegation expressed concern about the appropriateness of this term in this context.

(d) Detection and monitoring of the movements of proceeds and property derived from offences covered by this Convention, instrumentalities used in the commission of such offences and methods used for the transfer, concealment or disguise of such proceeds, property and instrumentalities, and other methods used in combating money-laundering and other financial crimes;

(e) Collection of evidence;

(f) Control techniques in free trade zones and free ports;

(g) Modern law enforcement equipment and techniques, including electronic surveillance, controlled deliveries and undercover operations;

(h) Methods used in combating transnational organized crime committed through the use of computers, telecommunications networks or other forms of modern technology [; and

(i) Methods used in the protection of victims and witnesses].

2. States Parties shall assist one another in planning and implementing research and training programmes designed to share expertise in the areas referred to in paragraph 1 of this article and, to this end, shall also, when appropriate, use regional and international conferences and seminars to promote cooperation and to stimulate discussion on problems of mutual concern, including the special problems and needs of transit States.

3. States Parties shall promote other techniques for mutual education that will facilitate extradition and mutual legal assistance. Such techniques may include language training, secondments and exchanges between personnel in central authorities or agencies with relevant responsibilities.

4. States Parties may conclude bilateral or multilateral agreements on material and logistical assistance, taking into consideration the financial arrangements necessary for the means of international cooperation provided for by the present Convention to be effective and for the prevention and control of transnational organized crime.

5. In the case of existing bilateral and multilateral agreements, States Parties shall strengthen [, to the extent necessary,] efforts to maximize operational and training activities within the International Criminal Police Organization [and the Customs Cooperation Council] and within other relevant bilateral and multilateral agreements or arrangements.

Article 22²⁰²
Prevention at the national level

1. With a view to reducing existing or future opportunities for criminal organizations to participate in legal markets while acquiring illegal gains through activities such as illegal trafficking in motor vehicles, firearms, women and children and immigrants, States Parties shall take appropriate legislative and administrative measures, in particular.²⁰³

²⁰² Proposed by the delegation of the Netherlands at the first session of the Ad Hoc Committee (A/AC.254/L.3).

²⁰³ Many delegations were of the view that the language of this paragraph is too mandatory. Those delegations also expressed concern about the limited scope of the provision, especially with regard to the specific reference to offences, in view of the ongoing consideration of the scope of the Convention and the additional

- (a) To prevent the misuse of legal persons by organized crime through:
- (i) The collection and storage of information on legal persons and natural persons involved in their establishment, management and funding;²⁰⁴
 - (ii) The deprivation of the right of persons convicted for organized criminal activities to act as directors of legal persons incorporated in their jurisdiction;²⁰⁵
 - (iii) The establishment of national registers of persons disqualified as directors of legal persons; and
 - (iv) The exchange of the types of information referred to under subparagraphs (a) (i) and (iii) of this paragraph with competent authorities of other States Parties;
- (b) To strengthen cooperation between public and relevant private organizations, including industries;²⁰⁶
- (c) To promote the development of standards and procedures designed to safeguard the integrity of public and private organizations, as well as codes of conduct for relevant professions, in particular lawyers, notaries public, tax consultants and accountants; and
- (d) To exclude from participation in tender procedures conducted by public authorities applicants²⁰⁷ who have been convicted for offences connected with organized crime and to deny subsidies or licences to such applicants.
2. With a view to reducing existing or future opportunities for criminal organizations to recruit new members from vulnerable groups of the population,²⁰⁸ States Parties shall establish adequate prevention programmes.²⁰⁹
3. With a view to reducing recidivism, States Parties shall assist in reintegrating into society, for example through vocational and educational training, persons convicted of having engaged in organized criminal activities.²¹⁰ international legal instruments.

One delegation was of the opinion that the first paragraph of the original text should be retained. That paragraph was as follows: “1. States Parties shall consider taking steps to reduce to the extent possible existing social, legal, [cultural,] administrative, technical [or any other] opportunities for criminal organizations to commit [profitable crimes] [any punishable offence] and to alleviate the circumstances that make socially marginalized groups vulnerable to the prospect of a criminal career.” The words “or any other” and “any punishable offence” were suggested by that delegation. Other delegations recommended the addition of the word “cultural”.

One delegation was of the view that the article should cover not only illegal markets, but also the risk posed by organized criminal groups to legal markets by virtue of their efforts to infiltrate them.

²⁰⁴ One delegation expressed concern about the protection of personal data and information.

²⁰⁵ Many delegations thought that the provisions of this and the subsequent subparagraphs were too far-reaching. Several delegations expressed the view that measures such as these should be linked with the gravity of the offence and the size of the legal person and that the exclusion should be limited in time. Other delegations advocated the retention of these measures, supplemented perhaps with the necessary safeguard clauses.

²⁰⁶ For example, cooperation between a law enforcement agency and the car industry and insurance companies to prevent the theft of motor vehicles.

²⁰⁷ Natural persons as well as legal persons.

²⁰⁸ Several delegations were of the view that caution was required in dealing with the issue of vulnerable groups.

²⁰⁹ Several delegations were of the view that this paragraph should be more specific with regard to the measures to be taken, especially in view of its mandatory nature. One delegation noted that the measures should include cultural programmes and the use of the media, including the cinema.

²¹⁰ In particular, young or low-ranking participants in criminal organizations.

4. Each of the States Parties shall consider:

- (a) Undertaking an analysis of patterns of and trends in transnational organized crime by systematically gathering information on organized crime within its territory;
- (b) Developing national projects²¹¹ aimed at the prevention of transnational organized crime; and
- (c) Establishing and promoting best practices to prevent transnational organized crime.

[5. States Parties shall undertake to ensure that their organs and services, in particular their security services, under no circumstances cooperate with criminal organizations in any way other than using individual informers to fight the types of crime in which such organizations engage.]²¹²

*Article 22 bis*²¹³

Prevention at the international level

States Parties shall collaborate with each other and relevant international organizations in promoting and developing the measures referred to in article 22 of this Convention, in particular through:

- (a) The nomination of a focal point;
- (b) The exchange of information on patterns of and trends in transnational organized crime and on best practices for the prevention of transnational organized crime; and
- (c) The participation in international projects²¹⁴ aimed at the prevention of transnational organized crime.

*Article 22 ter*²¹⁵

Communications from States Parties

In order to promote progress in the implementation of the Convention, each of the States Parties shall communicate, within [...] months of the entry into force of the Convention and periodically thereafter, information on its policies and measures to implement the Convention. This information shall be reviewed by the Conference of the Parties to the Convention at its first session and periodically thereafter, in accordance with article 23 of this Convention.

²¹¹ Either pilot or field projects.

²¹² At the first meeting of the Ad Hoc Committee, most delegations were of the view that this paragraph should be deleted. Two delegations expressed the wish to retain this paragraph.

²¹³ A number of delegations were of the view that this provision required clarification and that it was too obligatory in nature.

²¹⁴ Either pilot or field projects.

²¹⁵ Proposed by the delegation of Austria at the first session of the Ad Hoc Committee (for an explanatory note, see the non-paper submitted by the delegation of Austria (A/AC.254/5/Add.3); see also footnotes 219 and 220 below).

Option 1

*Article 23Role of the United Nations and other relevant organizations*²¹⁶

1. For the purpose of examining the progress made by States Parties in achieving the fulfilment of the obligations undertaken in the present Convention, these States will provide periodic reports to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, which will carry out the functions hereinafter provided.

2. States Parties undertake to provide such reports within two years of the entry into force of the Convention for the State concerned, and thereafter every five years.

3. Reports made under the present article shall indicate factors and difficulties, if any, affecting the degree of fulfilment of the obligations under the present Convention. Reports shall also contain sufficient information to provide the Commission with a comprehensive understanding of the implementation of the Convention in the States concerned.

4. A State Party that has submitted a comprehensive initial report to the Commission need not, in its subsequent reports submitted in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article, repeat basic information previously provided.

5. The Commission may request from the States Parties further information relevant to the implementation of the Convention.

6. States Parties shall provide, as appropriate, reports to the Secretary-General on current and emerging organized crime activities within their territory,²¹⁷ as well as on their experience with preventive measures and control measures.²¹⁸

7. The Commission shall make its recommendations and submit reports on its activities to the Economic and Social Council, in accordance with existing provisions.

8. States Parties shall make their reports widely available to the public within their own territory.²¹⁹

9. In order to foster the effective implementation of the Convention and to encourage international cooperation in the field covered by the Convention:

(a) Intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council and other invited multilateral organizations shall be entitled to be represented at the consideration of the ²¹⁶ A number of delegations were of the view that option 1 would not provide for an effective monitoring mechanism. Some delegations also questioned the appropriateness of reporting to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, whose membership might not coincide with the signatories to the Convention. Furthermore, it was suggested that a monitoring or follow-up mechanism would require a thorough discussion of issues such as confidentiality in respect of any reports containing sensitive operational information and involvement of non-governmental organizations.

²¹⁷ Some delegations felt that it might be difficult for States Parties to provide reports on sensitive ongoing investigations.

²¹⁸ It was suggested that provisions might be inserted in this article on the possible role of the United Nations in preparing reports on current and emerging organized criminal activities, as well as on national experience with preventive measures and countermeasures, and in collecting and analysing information and research findings.

²¹⁹ A number of delegations thought that public dissemination of reports might not be advisable.

implementation of provisions of the present Convention that fall within the scope of their mandate. The Commission may invite the specialized agencies and other United Nations entities to submit reports on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their activities;

(b) The Commission shall transmit, as it may consider appropriate, to the intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, other multilateral organizations and the specialized agencies any reports from the States Parties that contain a request, or indicate a need, for technical advice or assistance, along with the Commission's observations and suggestions, if any, on those requests or indications;

(c) The Commission may recommend to the Economic and Social Council that it request the Secretary-General to undertake on its behalf studies on specific issues relating to the control and prevention of organized crime;

(d) The Commission may make suggestions and general recommendations based on information received pursuant to article(s) [...] of the present Convention. Such suggestions and general recommendations shall be transmitted to any State Party concerned and reported to the Economic and Social Council, together with comments, if any, from the States Parties.

Option 2

Article 23

Monitoring of implementation

1. States Parties shall cooperate in carrying out a programme of systematic monitoring of the implementation of the measures provided for by this Convention to combat organized crime.

2. A committee of the States Parties shall be established for the purpose of carrying out monitoring functions under this article. The Committee shall:

(a) Adopt periodic reports evaluating implementation by States Parties and adopt and issue reports on its own activities;

(b) Promulgate procedures for assessing the level of implementation by States Parties (including with respect to submission of information by the Party being evaluated, the formation of evaluation teams made up of experts from States Parties to visit that Party and preparation of a preliminary evaluation for consideration by the Committee, and the discussion and adoption of the final evaluation report) and for carrying out its other functions.

3. Meetings of the Committee shall be held in [insert location] once a year or, where circumstances require, in special session. They shall be held in camera.

4. Every effort shall be made to reach decisions by consensus in the Committee. If consensus cannot be reached, decisions on substantive matters must be approved by a two-thirds majority of those States Parties present and voting, an absolute majority of States Parties constituting a quorum, while decisions on procedural matters shall be taken by a simple majority of those States Parties present and voting.

5. Expenses incurred in conjunction with the work of the Committee shall be paid from assessed contributions made by States Parties and voluntary contributions from Governments, international organizations, individuals, corporations and other entities, in accordance with relevant criteria adopted by the Committee.

Option 3²²⁰

Article 23

Conference of the Parties to the Convention

1. A Conference of the Parties to this Convention is hereby established.
2. The Conference, as the supreme body of this Convention, shall keep under regular review the implementation of the Convention and any legal instruments related to the Convention and shall make, within its mandate, the decisions necessary to promote the effective monitoring and implementation of the Convention. To this end, the Conference shall:
 - (a) Periodically examine the obligations of the Parties and the institutional arrangements under the Convention, in the light of the objectives of the Convention, the experience gained in its implementation and the evolution of scientific and technological knowledge;
 - (b) Promote and facilitate the exchange of information on measures adopted by the Parties to counter transnational organized crime;
 - (c) Assess, on the basis of all information made available to it in accordance with the provisions of the Convention, the implementation of the Convention by the States Parties, the overall effect of the measures taken pursuant to the Convention and the extent to which progress is being made towards the achievement of the objectives of the Convention;²²¹
 - (d) Consider and adopt regular reports on the implementation of the Convention;
 - (e) Make recommendations on any matters necessary for the implementation of the Convention;
 - (f) Seek to mobilize financial resources pursuant to articles 21 and 22 of the Convention;
 - (g) Agree upon and adopt, by consensus, its own rules of procedure and financial rules;
 - (h) Seek and utilize, where appropriate, the services and cooperation of and information provided by competent international organizations and inter-governmental and non-governmental bodies.
3. The Conference shall adopt its rules of procedure at its first session.
4. The first session of the Conference shall be convened by the Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Secretariat of the United Nations and shall take ²²⁰ Option 3 is a proposal of the delegation of Austria, intended to replace options 1 and 2 on article 23. It was submitted during the first session of the Ad Hoc Committee and preliminarily discussed. The delegation of Austria also submitted explanatory notes on option 3 in a non-paper (A/AC.254/5/Add.3). The proposal consists of new articles 22 ter, 23 and 23 bis of the Convention.

²²¹ There is a need for an article on the provision of information by States Parties for the evaluation of the progress made in the implementation of the Convention (see article 22 ter).

[Article 23 ter

Implementation of the Convention

1. Each State Party shall take the necessary measures, including legislative and administrative measures, in accordance with the fundamental principles of its domestic legal system, to ensure the implementation of its obligations under this Convention.

2. Each State Party may adopt more strict or severe measures than those provided for by this Convention for the prevention and control of transnational organized crime.]²²⁴

²²² It was noted that the role proposed for the Centre for International Crime Prevention would have significant budgetary implications and would require careful consideration.

²²³ Subparagraphs 2 (f)-(j) of this article are based on the version of article 22 proposed by the delegation of the Netherlands (A/AC.254/L.3).

²²⁴ The text of this article is a reformulation of paragraphs 1-3 of article 6 (A/AC.254/4/Rev.3).

Article 24
*Relation with other conventions*²²⁵

Option 1

This Convention shall not prejudice the application of other United Nations conventions on criminal matters.

Option 2

The provisions of the present Convention shall prevail over those of other United Nations conventions dealing with the same matters.²²⁶

Option 3

No provision of this Convention shall be construed as preventing the States Parties from engaging in mutual cooperation within the framework of other international agreements, whether bilateral or multilateral, currently in force or concluded in the future, or pursuant to any other applicable arrangement or practice.

Option 4

1. The provisions of this Convention that relate to international cooperation will in no way affect the application of broader provisions of bilateral or multilateral agreements in force between States Parties. The other provisions of this Convention shall prevail over those provisions which deal with the same questions in other conventions already concluded under the auspices of the United Nations.

2. States Parties may apply article(s) [...] of this Convention to other multilateral conventions to the extent agreed to by States Parties.²²⁷

²²⁵ The discussion on article 24 at the second session of the Ad Hoc Committee focused on options 1 and 2 of the article as presented in the revised draft Convention (A/AC.254/4/Rev.1). Some delegations suggested that the article should deal not only with the relation between the present Convention and other United Nations conventions, but also with its relation to bilateral and multilateral treaties and arrangements in general. It was also suggested that the article should specify the relation between Protocols to the present Convention and other international treaties and arrangements.

A number of delegations expressed a preference for option 1 on the grounds that States Parties to existing bilateral and multilateral instruments often assumed obligations that went beyond those to be contained in the present Convention and that States Parties should continue to respect those obligations. Other delegations expressed a preference for option 2 on the grounds that applying a number of agreements and conventions could lead to conflict. It was also suggested by one delegation that the issue of which convention would prevail could depend on the individual issue at hand. Other delegations suggested that any option under this article would have to be enriched and a differentiation would have to be made between the measures addressed.

The Ad Hoc Committee agreed that the exchange of views on the article at its second session was only preliminary, since no decision should be made on the contents of the article until the earlier, substantive articles of the Convention had been discussed. A number of additional proposals were made for the formulation of article 24, and the Ad Hoc Committee decided that those proposals should be included as new options 3 and 4.

²²⁶ One delegation noted that it could accept option 2 as the working text if the words “the same matters” were to be replaced with the words “organized crime”.

²²⁷ This paragraph was originally paragraph 10 of article 2 and was moved to article 24 pursuant to a proposal by some delegations at the second session of the Ad Hoc Committee.

3. States Parties may conclude bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements with a view to facilitating the application of the principles and procedures of this Convention.

4. States Parties may conclude bilateral or multilateral agreements or arrangements for the application of one or more provisions of this Convention to other forms of criminal behaviour.

Article 25

*Settlement of disputes*²²⁸

1. Any dispute between two or more States Parties concerning the interpretation or application of this Convention [and its Protocols] that cannot be settled through negotiation within a reasonable time²²⁹ shall, at the request of one of those Parties, be submitted to arbitration. If, six months after the date of the request for arbitration, those States Parties are unable to agree on the organization of the arbitration, any one of those Parties may refer the dispute to the International Court of Justice by request in conformity with the Statute of the Court.

2. Each State Party may, at the time of [signature,] ratification [, acceptance] or [approval] of this Convention, declare that it does not consider itself bound by paragraph 1 of this article. The other States Parties shall not be bound by paragraph 1 of this article with respect to any State Party that has made such a reservation.²³⁰

3. Any State Party that has made a reservation²³¹ in accordance with paragraph 2 of this article may at any time withdraw that reservation by notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 26

Signature, ratification, acceptance, approval, accession and reservations

1. This Convention shall be open to all States for signature from [...] to [...] and thereafter at United Nations Headquarters in New York until [...].

2. The present Convention is subject to ratification, acceptance or approval. Instruments of ratification, acceptance or approval shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

²²⁸ Some delegations proposed that article 32 of the 1988 Convention would be a more appropriate model for this paragraph, in that it referred not simply to negotiation and arbitration, but in greater detail to “negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, recourse to regional bodies, judicial process or other peaceful means of their [the Parties’] own choice”. Other delegations, however, essentially supported the present formulation, since it was based on the 1997 International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings, which was more recent than the 1988 Convention.

²²⁹ Some delegations were of the view that the term “reasonable time” was ambiguous.

²³⁰ One delegation noted that the issue of a declaration would apply only to cases involving the compulsory settlement of disputes. Some delegations proposed that paragraphs 2 and 3 of article 25, together with the appropriate paragraphs from article 26, should be placed in a separate article on reservations. Other delegations, however, noted that reservations in respect of the resolution of conflicts were an issue that should be kept in article 25, separate from the issue of reservations in general.

²³¹ One delegation proposed that the word “reservation” be replaced with the word “declaration”.

[3. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall receive and circulate to all States the text of reservations made by States Parties at the time of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession.]²³²

[4. A reservation incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Convention shall not be permitted.]

[5. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time by notification to that effect addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall then inform all States. Such notification shall take effect on the date on which it is received by the Secretary-General.]

6. This Convention is subject to accession by any State. The instruments of accession shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

[Article 26 bis
*Relation with Protocols*²³³

1. This Convention may be supplemented by one or more Protocols.

2. In order to become a Party to a Protocol, a State must also be a Party to the Convention.

3. A State Party to the Convention is not bound by a Protocol unless it has expressly accepted the Protocol.

4. Any Protocol by which a State Party is bound shall, for that State Party, form an integral part of this Convention.]

²³² Some delegations were of the view that paragraphs 3-5 were not appropriate. The observation was also made that in order to ensure that reservations could not be made, an express provision to that effect was required. Otherwise, general international law on treaties (and in particular the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties) would nonetheless allow reservations to be made. Other delegations expressed their preference for an article that would specifically allow for reservations and some delegations proposed that these three paragraphs be placed in a separate article. One delegation proposed for consideration the possibility that only some provisions of the Convention would be subject to reservations. Finally, some delegations noted that the issue of reservations could not be decided until the contents of the Convention had been decided. It was therefore decided to place paragraphs 3-5 in brackets for the time being.

²³³ Paragraphs 1-3 of article 26 bis were based on a proposal by the delegation of Australia (A/AC.254/L.13) and paragraph 4 was proposed by the delegation of Poland (A/AC.254/5/Add.3). Several delegations noted their support for the proposal. However, several delegations recalled that in paragraph 18 of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on its first session (A/AC.254/9) it had been noted that, as the additional international legal instruments might require a broad scope, the possibility could not be excluded that they might be independent from the Convention.

Article 27
Entry into force

1. The present Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day following the date of deposit with the Secretary-General of the United Nations of the [...] ²³⁴ instrument of ratification, acceptance, approval or accession.
2. For each State Party ratifying, accepting, approving or acceding to the Convention after the deposit of the twentieth instrument of such action, the Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit by such State of that relevant instrument.

Article 28
Amendment

1. A State Party may propose an amendment and file it with the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall thereupon communicate the proposed amendment to the States Parties, with a request that they indicate whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and voting upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of States Parties present and voting at the conference shall be submitted to the General Assembly of the United Nations for approval.
2. An amendment adopted in accordance with paragraph 1 of the present article shall enter into force when it has been approved by the General Assembly of the United Nations and accepted by a two-thirds majority of the States Parties.
3. When an amendment enters into force, it shall be binding on those States Parties which have accepted it, other States Parties still being bound by the provisions of the present Convention and any earlier amendments that they have accepted.

Article 29
Denunciation

A State Party may denounce the present Convention by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. Denunciation becomes effective one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

Article 30
Languages and depositary

1. The Secretary-General of the United Nations is designated depositary of the present Convention.

²³⁴ Some delegations proposed 20 as the appropriate number of ratifications, since this would make it possible for the Convention to enter into force in a relatively brief period. Other delegations proposed that the number of ratifications required should be higher (for example, 40-60) in order to emphasize the global nature of the Convention. One delegation noted that a low number of ratifications would be appropriate should it be possible to make reservations to the Convention.

2. The original of the present Convention, of which the Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts are equally authentic, shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned plenipotentiaries, being duly authorized thereto by their respective Governments, have signed the present Convention.

Attachment

1. As noted in footnote 3 to article 2 of the revised draft Convention (see above), the Ad Hoc Committee at its second session accepted a compromise proposal by its Chairman that a list of offences, which could be either indicative or exhaustive, could be included either in an annex to the Convention or in the travaux préparatoires. This list would, however, need to be supplemented with proposals from States. (For details see the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on its second session (A/AC.254/11).)

2. The following list was taken from former paragraph 3 of article 2 (see A/AC.254/4/Rev.1):

“[3. For the purposes of the application of paragraph 1 above, ‘serious crime’ shall be deemed to include, among others, acts such as the following:

“(a) Illicit traffic in narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances and money-laundering, as defined in the United Nations Convention against Illicit Traffic in Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances of 1988;^a

“(b) Traffic in persons, as defined in the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others of 1949;^b

“(c) Counterfeiting currency, as defined in the International Convention for the Suppression of Counterfeiting Currency of 1929;^c

“(d) Illicit traffic in or stealing of cultural objects, as defined by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Convention on the Means of Prohibiting and Preventing the Illicit Import, Export and Transfer of Ownership of Cultural Property of 1970,^d and the International Institute for the Unification of Private Law Convention on Stolen or Illegally Exported Cultural Objects of 1995;

“(e) Stealing of nuclear material, its misuse or threats to misuse or harm the public, as defined by the Convention on the Physical Protection of Nuclear Material of 1980;^e

“(f) Acts contained in the United Nations conventions against terrorism;^f

“(g) Illicit manufacture of and traffic in firearms, their parts and components, ammunition, or explosive materials or devices;^g

^b Resolution 317 (IV), annex. The delegation of the Philippines proposed that the definition be expanded, as the 1949 Convention did not address new contemporary forms of trafficking. That delegation proposed that the definition of “traffic in persons” be elaborated and made clearer, using the international standards formulated in the Slavery Convention signed at Geneva on 25 September 1926 and the 1953 Protocol Amending the Slavery Convention and the Platform for Action of the Fourth World Conference on Women (Report of the Fourth World Conference on Women, Beijing, 4-15 September 1995 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.96.IV.13), resolution 1, annex II).

^d United Nations, Treaty Series, vol. 823, No. 11806.

^e United Nations, Treaty Series, vol. 1456, No. 24631.

^f Some delegations proposed that reference be made to the 1998 Arab Convention on Combating Terrorism. Some delegations were of the view that the Convention, while not intended as an instrument against terrorism, should endeavour to cover the emerging links between terrorist acts and organized crime.

^g One delegation proposed that the definition used in the Inter-American Convention against the Illicit Manufacturing of and Trafficking in Firearms, Ammunition, Explosives and Other Related Materials should be used.

- (f) Illicit traffic in or stealing of nuclear material, its use or threatening to misuse it;
- (g) Acts of terrorism as defined in the pertinent international conventions;

^h Individual delegations proposed the inclusion of illicit traffic in women and children under subparagraph 3 (b), as well as the inclusion of the following as additional subparagraphs: illicit traffic in migrants; illicit traffic in endangered animals; illicit traffic in human body parts; illicit access to computer systems and equipment; piracy; kidnapping for ransom; and murder and other grave offences against persons.
