institutions, the World Trade Organization and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, held in New York on 18 April 2005,<sup>5</sup>

Welcoming the High-level Dialogue on Financing for Development which was held in New York on 27-28 June 2005 and the separate meeting on Financing for Development held within the framework of the High-level Plenary Meeting of the General Assembly on 14 September 2005,

Having also considered the summary by the President of the General Assembly of the High-level Dialogue on Financing for Development,<sup>6</sup>

Reaffirming the commitment to the global partnership for development set out in the United Nations Millennium Declaration,<sup>7</sup> the Monterrey Consensus,<sup>8</sup> the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development (“Johannesburg Plan of Implementation”)<sup>9</sup> and the 2005 World Summit Outcome,

Reaffirming that each country must take primary responsibility for its own development, and that the role of national policies and development strategies cannot be overemphasized for the achievement of sustainable development, and also recognizing that national efforts should be complemented by supportive global programmes, measures and policies aimed at expanding the development opportunities of developing countries, while taking into account national conditions and ensuring respect for national ownership strategies and sovereignty,

Recognizing the ongoing international efforts, contributions and discussions, such as the Action against Hunger and Poverty Initiative, aimed at identifying and developing possible innovative and additional sources of financing for development from all sources, public and private, domestic and external, to increase and supplement traditional sources of financing within the context of the follow-up to the International Conference on Financing for Development, recognizing that some of the sources and their use fall within the realm of sovereign action,

Underlining that the increasing interdependence of national economies in a globalizing world and the emergence of rule-based regimes for international economic relations have meant that the space for national economic policy, that is, the scope for domestic policies, especially in the areas of trade, investment and industrial development, is now often framed by international disciplines, commitments and global market considerations; that it is for each Government to evaluate the trade-off between the benefits of accepting international rules and commitments and the constraints posed by the loss of policy space; and that it is particularly important for developing countries, bearing in mind development goals and objectives, that all countries take into account the need for appropriate balance between national policy space and international disciplines and commitments,

Welcoming the recent decisions, commitments and proposals made in this regard to implement and build on the commitments made and agreements reached at the International Conference on Financing for Development,

3. Stresses the importance of a universal, rule-based, open, non-discriminatory and equitable multilateral trading system, as well as meaningful trade liberalization, that can substantially stimulate development worldwide, benefiting countries at all stages of development; in that regard, reaffirms its commitment to trade liberalization and to ensuring that trade plays its full part in promoting economic growth, employment and development for all; thus welcomes the decisions of the World Trade Organization to place the needs and interests of developing countries at the heart of its work programme, and commits itself to their implementation; and in this regard, emphasizes the importance of fulfilling the development dimension of the Doha work programme and the successful completion of the Doha round as soon as possible;

4. Notes that, while foreign direct investment is a major source of financing development, the flow of such funds to developing countries and countries with economies in transition remains uneven, and in this regard calls upon developed countries to continue to devise source-country measures to encourage and facilitate the flow of foreign direct investment inter alia through the provision of export credits and other lending instruments, risk guarantees and business development services, and calls upon developing countries and countries with economies in transition to continue their efforts to create a conducive domestic environment for attracting investments by, inter alia, achieving a transparent, stable and predictable investment climate with proper contract enforcement and respect for property rights;

5. Reaffirms paragraph 42 of the Monterrey Consensus and welcomes recent commitments and progress by those developed countries that have established timetables to achieve, or exceed, the target of 0.7 per cent of gross national product for official development assistance by 2015 and to reach at least 0.5 per cent of gross national product for official development assistance by 2010 as well as, pursuant to the Brussels Programme of Action for the least developed countries, 0.15 per cent to 0.20 per cent for the Least Developed Countries by no later than 2010, and urges those developed countries that have not yet done so to make concrete efforts in this regard in accordance with their commitments; and encourages developing countries to build on progress achieved in ensuring that official development assistance is used effectively to help achieve development goals and targets;

7. Recognizes the value of developing innovative sources of financing for development, provided that such sources do not unduly burden developing countries and in this context recognizes the progress achieved in developing and advancing implementation by some countries, utilizing their national authorities, of innovative and additional sources of financing, including the International Financial Facility and its immunization pilot and solidarity contribution on plane tickets to enable financing development projects, particularly in the health sector; and notes that other countries are considering whether and to what extent they will participate in those initiatives;

8. Decides to give further consideration to the subject of innovative development financing mechanisms and techniques from all sources public and private, domestic and external;

9. Emphasizes the importance of microcredit and microfinance in the eradication of poverty and highlights that the observance of the International Year of Microcredit 2005 has provided a significant opportunity to raise awareness, to share best practices and to further enhance financial sectors that support sustainable pro-poor financial services in all countries, and in this regard urges member countries to put best practices into action and invites the international community including the United Nations system to build on the momentum created by the Year;

10. Stresses the importance of investments in basic economic and social infrastructure, as set out in the Monterrey Consensus, and notes that scaling up investment in infrastructure, alongside strong programmes for health and education, is a key element for faster growth and progress in reducing poverty and, in this regard, calls for continued deepening and scaling up of support for infrastructure service delivery and removal of impediments, in order to respond to the needs of developing countries, consistent with national development strategies; welcomes the progress made by the Bank Group to strengthen public-private partnerships to leverage investment and maximize impact, including in the framework of the newly established Africa Infrastructure Consortium; acknowledges the work of the World Bank in this area, including plans for a progress report to the Development Committee on the impact of fiscal space on growth and the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals;

11. Emphasizes the high importance of a timely, effective, comprehensive and durable solution to the debt problems of developing countries, since debt financing and relief can be an important source of capital for economic growth and development, and emphasizes that creditors and debtors must share responsibilities for preventing unsustainable debt situations;

12. Welcomes, in this regard, the recent proposal of the Group of Eight as endorsed by the Bretton Woods institutions at their 2005 annual meetings to cancel 100 per cent of the outstanding debt of eligible heavily indebted poor countries owed to the International Monetary Fund, the International Development Association and the African Development Fund, and to provide additional resources to ensure that the financing capacity of the international financial institutions is not reduced;

13. Emphasizes that corruption at all levels is a serious barrier to development and to effective resource mobilization and allocation, reaffirms the commitment expressed in the Monterrey Consensus to make the fight against corruption at all levels a priority, and in this regard welcomes the entry into force on 14 December 2005 of the United Nations Convention against Corruption,<sup>10</sup> and reiterates its invitation to all Member States and competent regional economic integration organizations within the limits of their competence to ratify or accede to, and fully implement the Convention as soon as possible;

the Office, in collaboration with experts from the public and private sector, academia and civil society, to continue its work in this area;

16. Reiterates its request to the Secretary-General to consult with the Director-General of the World Trade Organization in order to expand existing cooperation between the two organizations on issues related to financing for development and to build on the ad hoc modalities of interaction between the United Nations and the World Trade Organization that were undertaken in the preparations for the International Conference on Financing for Development held in 2002 by making better use of the possibilities offered by the existing framework of cooperation;

17. Decides in accordance with paragraph 73 of the Monterrey Consensus to hold a follow-up international conference on Financing for Development to review the implementation of the Consensus at a time between 2008 and 2009, and in this regard welcomes the offer of the Government of Qatar to host this conference,
