12 visits to key troop- and police-contributing countries and other Member States to develop strategic partnerships and build common approaches to support United Nations peacekeeping	19	Visits made to key troop- and police-contributing countries to develop strategic partnerships. Increased output was due to operational requirements, including with respect to the crisis in Haiti; discussions with host Governments about the configuration of future peacekeeping presences; and discussions on the New Horizon agenda

Public Affairs Unit

Outreach activities targeting key policymakers, academics, military, civil society and non-governmental organizations	160	Outreach activities/public briefings targeting policymakers, experts, academics, military personnel, civil society and non-governmental organizations
Multimedia exhibition of peacekeeping operations at United Nations information centres in 3 major troop-contributing countries	No	A multimedia exhibit on peacekeeping operations was presented in China during the Shanghai World Expo 2010. Lower output was due to the shift in resources in response to the crisis in Haiti following the earthquake in January 2010, and the related need to respond to increased press requests and prioritized media relations. A multimedia exhibit with the theme "Haiti standing" was launched at Headquarters for the International Day of United Nations Peacekeepers in May 2010. In addition, a multimedia archive was developed on the earthquake in Haiti, capturing the events that occurred at the time of the earthquake and in the months that followed. The archive, which is accessible to the public, includes approximately 700 photos, 500 videos and more than 150 transcripts
2 documentaries on peacekeeping, including briefings to film-makers and logistical arrangements for travel to field missions	3	Documentary projects: (a) in collaboration with the Department of Public Information and peacekeeping missions, the Culture Project's short film The War against War, on United Nations peacekeeping; (b) a television programme produced by Defence TV of the South African Department of Defence, on the involvement of South Africa in United Nations peacekeeping in Africa; (c) the FireAnts Productions web/television documentary series We are going to the World Cup, showcasing how peacekeepers use sports to engage with local communities. Increased output was due to the demand for coverage of peacekeeping stories and the prioritization given to media relations
Opinion editorials and letters to the editor in response to key articles on mission-critical issues	No	Opinion editorials were not prepared during the reporting period, owing to the need to respond to the increased number of press requests and the prioritization given to media relations, particularly during the crisis in Haiti

Quarterly briefings to the United Nations press corps on progress and developments on major peacekeeping issues by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support senior management	30	Quarterly press briefings (4 each by the Under-Secretaries-General of the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support) were given to the media on recent developments in peacekeeping missions. In addition, 1 press briefing was given following the release of the Board of Inquiry report on the bombing of the United Nations guesthouse in Kabul, 1 press briefing was given following the earthquake in Haiti, and 20 press briefings were given during a video teleconference with MINUSTAH senior leadership following the earthquake in Haiti
6 media interviews organized on evolving areas of peacekeeping activity, including conduct and discipline, military, police, rule of law, security sector reform and protection of civilians	200	50 media interviews were organized during the reporting period, on issues such as the elections in the Sudan and Afghanistan; the protection of civilians in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the Sudan and Somalia; police training in Haiti and Liberia; the strengthening of the prison system in Liberia; and conduct and discipline cases and safety and security in missions (including carjackings, abductions and the ambush of peacekeepers in Darfur, and the bombing of the United Nations guesthouse in Kabul). Increased output was due to ongoing proactive media relations and the need to respond to high-profile news events that occurred in mission areas during the reporting period. In addition, more than 150 interviews and background briefings were given by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support following the earthquake in Haiti
Survey report on the views and opinions of target audiences in 3 troop-contributing countries, and 2 host countries to assist in the development of communications objectives and priority needs for the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support	No	The first phase of the survey, targeting 3 troop-contributing countries, was completed in May 2010. | In collaboration with the Department of Public Information and the Department of Field Support, outreach strategy and implementation plan for the creation of new candidate pools for specialized public information functions in missions | No | Because of the ongoing human resource reforms, in particular new policies affecting recruitment for field missions, an outreach strategy and an implementation plan were not developed, owing to the priority placed on updating the current rosters on Galaxy. This process was completed in July 2010. Testing, expert panel interviews and a final evaluation of the first group of 339 candidates who had applied for public information posts on Galaxy was undertaken as part of the exercise. The selected candidates were reviewed by the Field Central Review Board, and public information rosters were created. As a result, approximately 45 candidates for public information posts have been placed on the roster. An outreach effort to expand the pool of qualified public information candidates, in collaboration with the Department of Public Information and the Department of Field Support, is planned for completion during the 2011/12 period |

Situation Centre

| Technical assessment missions, predeployment missions and/or mission start-up field visits to assess security conditions in 6 Department of Peacekeeping Operations-led field missions | Yes | Lower output was due to the requirement for only 1 technical assessment visit to UNMIS, to conduct a pilot test of the United Nations security level system. The test supported the full development of the system, as well as its approval by the Chief Executives Board |

Expected accomplishment 3.1: increased efficiency and effectiveness of peacekeeping operations

Planned outputs	Completed (number or yes/no)	Remarks

Front Office of the Under-Secretary-General

| 10 visits to peacekeeping missions to review progress and provide direction to mission leadership on issues related to the implementation of mission mandates | 10 | MINURCAT, MINUSTAH (3), MONUC (3), UNFICYP, UNIFIL and UNMIS |

		Lower output was due to the temporary suspension of the joint business process improvement initiative by the Department of Peacekeeping Operations, the Department of Field Support and the Department of Management, following the decision to focus on the enterprise resource planning initiative. Additionally, priority was placed on other improvement initiatives and projects, such as the global field support strategy, the talent management initiative in the context of greater human resource reforms, the introduction of IPSAS and the senior management compact
Web-based training course developed and in-person training and outreach to all records management officers, assistants and focal points in all peacekeeping missions in the application and implementation of peacekeeping-specific records management tools and guidelines	Yes	Training materials on records management and information sensitivity were developed and made available to all records management officers, assistants and focal points through the peacekeeping records management community of practice

Collaboration sites for document and task management developed and launched for 7 organizational units, giving priority to areas responsible for the integration of core peacekeeping activities	11	Organizational units including 7 integrated operational teams. To date, the system is actively used in only 2 of those organizational units, owing to technical problems relating to system performance, which were resolved in December 2010. Increased output was due to the request by other organizational units to use the collaboration site
Information management governance guidelines developed for field missions, including information management responsibilities within peacekeeping operations and compliance with organizational information management standards and policies	Yes	The following guidance was developed during the period 2009/10: standard operating procedures on access to and the declassification of archives and non-current records, revised and expanded to include field missions (April 2010), and an information sensitivity toolkit for field missions, jointly published by the Department of Management and the Department of Peacekeeping Operations (February 2010)

In collaboration with the Department of Public Information and the Department of Field Support, review of communications responsibilities for supporting peacekeeping operations, including technical clearances for public information officers, asset procurement and the technical review and oversight of public information-related procurement contracts	Yes	A review was undertaken through the Inter-departmental Working Group on Public Information Activities (including the Department of Public Information, the Department of Political Affairs, the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Field Support), which meets monthly. In addition, the Group met regularly to explore ways to facilitate the transition from United Nations peacekeeping radio stations to public service broadcasters
		From July 2009 to April 2010, approximately 190 candidates received technical clearance. As a result of the new human resources management reforms, the technical clearance requirement for recruitment is no longer relevant. However, the Department of Peacekeeping Operations worked closely with the Department of Public Information and the Department of Field Support to identify new candidate pools and develop public information rosters, including through participation in interview panels, as required
Communications plan to increase the media engagement of heads of peacekeeping missions and other senior mission personnel during visits to United Nations Headquarters	Yes	In collaboration with the Department of Public Information, a communications plan was developed to increase the media engagement of heads of peacekeeping missions and other senior mission personnel (such as press stakeouts following relevant Security Council briefings, as well as individual interviews with media organizations)

The conference also explored ways to facilitate the transition from peacekeeping radio stations to public service broadcasters

Accordingly, the Special Committee was briefed on occupational safety (January 2010) and security force protection (February 2010). The Department of Peacekeeping Operations also provided inputs to the Special Committee on issues related to safety and security, including the area of security risk management-force protection, in March 2010

Conduct of analysis and reviews of rations and fuel utilization, and monitoring of contract compliance	Yes	The fuel management system was implemented in 2009/10 as a pilot in UNIFIL. The rations management system has not yet been procured, and is under solicitation. However, contract performance is monitored on a monthly basis through the analysis of rations reports and follow-up on issues and solutions with the relevant mission. The following major issues were identified and rectified in the reporting period:

Wide variations in the rations ordering processes were detected across missions, resulting in inherent inefficiencies and potential wastage. The Logistics Support Division has begun to roll out a standardized rations ordering process, the recipe-card-based system that was developed in UNOCI. A related three-week workshop was completed in MONUC in June 2010. The rations-ordering system was implemented in UNOCI in June 2010 and in MONUC in August 2010, and will be implemented in UNDOF, UNFYCIP and UNIFIL by December 2010 and in UNAMID by March 2011

Inconsistent rations stock monitoring methodologies were applied across missions, resulting in incorrect reserve stock holdings in the reporting period. A new monitoring process has been implemented in UNAMID, UNMIL and UNOCI, and it will be implemented in MINUSTAH, MONUC, UNIFIL and UNMIS by April 2011. The process provides accurate information about reserve stocks of rations at the missions and will allow for reserve food levels to be verified in a transparent manner

The Division undertook an analysis of the management of fuel operations through the quarterly fact sheet submitted by the missions, which provides information about the status of and updates on fuel contracts, consumption/requirements, equipment by category and type, prices, reserves, including strategic and local reserves, budgetary allocations and staffing

Renewal of all logistics contracts managed at Headquarters that expire during the period	40	Systems contracts were renewed in the reporting period
Development and implementation of United Nations fuel quality assurance in fuel management for peacekeeping field missions	Yes	Achieved through workshops, training and work processes. All materials are listed on the fuel management community of practice, the communication point with the missions. The community of practice provided information and guidance on fuel quality assurance through the fuel manual, best practices and other technical data. Reporting on implementation of quality assurance provides feedback from missions regarding specific issues arising out of practice (for example, the issue of allowable stock adjustment raised by MINUSTAH). The quarterly reports assisted with quality assurance by providing Headquarters with regular reports on key indicators of mission fuel operations. On the basis of the reports, Headquarters fuel staff recommend corrective action, counsel mission staff or promulgate a newly identified best practices

Implementation of electronic fuel and rations management systems in 3 peacekeeping missions	No	The rations management system required the resolicitation of the contract. This will allow missions to purchase the equipment and receive necessary training. An implementation plan has been developed in coordination with the developers. Missions are purchasing the equipment from the systems contract
Development of benchmarks in property management and introduction of the "best-in-class" business model on property management practices in all peacekeeping missions	Yes	The Department of Field Support has established a property management framework and introduced a performance measurement system to monitor field mission activity. Every year, a workplan is issued which sets objectives, key actions, key performance indicators and targets in the discipline of property management. The key performance indicators are derived from an internal benchmarking exercise, which quantifies the operational performances of field missions in terms of equipment management and administration. Targets for each key performance indicator are based on the provisions of the United Nations Financial Regulations and Rules, the procedures described in the Property Management Manual, analysis by the Department of Field Support of property management trends and observations and recommendations of the Office of Internal Oversight Services and the Board of Auditors concerning management practices and procedures for control and accountability of United Nations-owned equipment. The key performance indicators are a guide for field managers in making informed asset-management decisions

In this respect, the agreed timeline to provide comments was extended, owing to the need for subsequent consultations and clarifications, requested by the missions. Furthermore, during the final revision made by Headquarters staff members, important key points on policy matters were raised and a decision was taken to discuss those key points in the upcoming workshop, held at UNLB in October 2010. The outcomes of those discussions will be incorporated into the final draft. The manual will be issued, following its review by the Office of Legal Affairs, the Best Practices Section of the Department of Peacekeeping Operations and the Department of Management, by end April 2011 The first drafts of the Guide to Strategic Movement for the use of troop-contributing countries/police-contributing countries and Headquarters Staff and the Field Movement Control Manual are due to be completed by December 2010

		Business processes for spare parts demand planning and supply network planning for the Umoja project has been developed, which, based on patterns of consumption, will automate the mechanism of forecasting the reorder levels of spare parts to enable line managers to better plan and utilize the stocks and replenishment, thus resulting in an overall reduction of inventory levels. Subject to the implementation of the new business processes, the Logistic Support Division will be able to monitor and advise missions on the usage and supply chain of spare parts, as well as provide support to enhance the procurement methodology for spare parts, to ensure appropriate inventory levels and the efficient utilization of allotted funds
		Technical guidance issued to field missions regarding budgeting and the procurement of appropriate levels of stocks of spare parts. A second version of the system, released in August 2010, has more than a dozen enhancements based on input from users at Headquarters and in field missions. During 2009/10, the development team was requested to incorporate several improvements into the next version in the 2010/11 period
