Overall orientation

16.1 The mandate of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), which is derived from Economic and Social Council resolutions 37 (IV) and 414 (XIII) by which the Commission was established, is to promote regional cooperation for inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in Asia and the Pacific, a dynamic region characterized by growing wealth, diversity and change, but also challenged with persistent poverty, environmental degradation, inequality and insecurity. The role of the Commission was subsequently elaborated upon in various resolutions adopted by the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the Commission itself.

16.2 Home to nearly two thirds of the world's population, the Asia-Pacific region has emerged as the fastest growing region in the world, and a hub for international trade, investment and technology transfer. The developing economies in the region have doubled in size in the last decade and managed to lift millions of people out of poverty. Considerable progress has been made towards achieving several of the Millennium Development Goals, especially those that relate to poverty, education, communicable diseases and access to safe water and sanitation. However, serious threats remain to the development gains made in the region and concerns have been raised about the ability of the region to withstand the threats to the progress already achieved. First, while the Asia-Pacific region managed to weather the global economic crisis in 2009, that crisis and continuing global economic uncertainties have exposed the region's vulnerability to external shocks. Furthermore, the ongoing volatility in the food, energy and financial markets show the complex and interrelated nature of modern-day economic crises. Second, the region's immense prosperity has not been shared equitably, and development gaps have steadily widened over time, while various countries of the region continue to face obstacles to strengthening the productive business capacities and competitive advantages that they need to effectively integrate themselves into the global and regional economy. Inequities, both within countries and among countries, are on the rise, exacerbated by changing population dynamics, growing urbanization and unabated migration. Third, with the ever increasing pressures on the Earth's carrying capacity, questions have been raised about the sustainability of the region's growth paradigm. Moreover, the increased frequency and virulence of natural disasters and their deep socio-economic impact have added to the concerns about the region's resilience and its capacity to protect its development gains.

16.3 These economic, social and environmental insecurities, which are occurring simultaneously, have a mutually reinforcing effect on the economic and social development of the region. Unless promptly addressed, they may not only derail decades of socio-economic progress in Asia and the Pacific, but could also lead to social and political unrest. The ability of the region to address these challenges through an inclusive and sustainable economic and social development approach will determine the nature, speed and sustainability of its development for decades to come. Furthermore, recent developments suggest that a regionally coordinated approach will be critical to increasing the region's resilience to external shocks. Given a rather uncertain and subdued medium-term economic outlook for the advanced economies in North America and in the States of the Eurozone, the Asia-Pacific region will have to rely more on domestic and regional sources to sustain its dynamism in the future. Hence, harnessing the potential of regional economic integration will be a key policy response. The region faces shared risks and vulnerabilities to economic shocks, such as the volatility of commodities and financial markets, as well as natural disasters that tend to affect countries across borders, be it severe acute respiratory syndrome, avian flu or tsunamis. The social and economic effects of such disasters are felt beyond the countries immediately affected due to regionally integrated production networks and supply chains, as demonstrated by the recent tsunami in Japan and the floods in South-East Asia.

16.4 With such challenges ahead, Asia and the Pacific needs a strong regional platform to debate and formulate development strategies and policies. In concert with its member States, ESCAP will facilitate the provision of development advice and collective policy leadership required by countries in the region. As the regional arm of the United Nations, ESCAP is a platform for each member State, acting as a United Nations regional assembly for all. Promoting regional cooperation will be at the core of its efforts.

16.5 ESCAP will support its member States by providing sound strategic analysis, policy options and capacity development to address key development challenges and implement innovative solutions for region-wide economic prosperity, social progress, environmental sustainability and resilience to external shocks. In this, the final biennium for the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, ESCAP will deepen its assistance to countries in Asia and the Pacific in stepping up their efforts in areas where progress is slow.

16.6 ESCAP will continue to pursue the key objectives shared by all of the regional commissions, namely to (a) foster economic integration at the subregional and regional levels; (b) promote the regional implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals; and (c) support regional sustainable development by helping to bridge economic, social and environmental gaps among member States and between subregions, through, among other things, trade and transport. In order to achieve those objectives, all of the regional commissions will continue to generate multilateral dialogue, knowledge sharing and networking, working together to promote intraregional and interregional cooperation, both among themselves and through collaboration with other relevant organizations.

16.7 Recognizing the complex interrelationships between economic, social and environmental issues, ESCAP, when required, with due consideration to the outcome of the final review of the conference structure of the Commission, will deepen its multisectoral and multidisciplinary approach to development, decision-making and agenda-setting. ESCAP will advocate and, upon request, assist member States in developing and in complying with a common set of internationally or regionally agreed standards, norms, conventions and development approaches, while simultaneously mobilizing the regional voice in promoting multilateral approaches to solve global problems. The Commission's advocacy work will be underpinned by evidence-based analysis to capture differences and disparities among and within countries, including between men and women, according priority to ensuring that the concerns of countries with special needs are addressed, particularly those of the least developed, landlocked developing and small island developing States. During the period 2014-2015, efforts will be intensified to effectively mainstream gender dimensions across all subprogrammes and to promote gender equality and the concerns of vulnerable groups as central to poverty reduction efforts as well as to inclusive and sustainable development.

16.8 The proposed strategic framework comprises an integrated set of eight mutually supportive and interconnected subprogrammes based on the priorities of member States. The subprogrammes of the strategic framework for the period 2014-2015 reflect continuity in the direction of work already undertaken by ESCAP during the period 2012-2013, reflecting the mandate contained in Commission resolution 67/15, the commitment of ESCAP to the development pillar of the United Nations and the Secretariat's continuing efforts to enhance organizational and development effectiveness.

16.9 With the overall goals of addressing development threats and taking note of the development priorities of the Secretary-General, the subprogrammes aim to achieve the following development results: (a) Governments of member States have more effective, inclusive and sustainable development policies to address development from a multidisciplinary perspective, narrow development gaps and build resiliency; (b) global processes are shaped by a stronger coordinated regional voice and countries are supported in implementing international commitments; and (c) regional cooperation mechanisms and institutional frameworks are in place, supported and implemented so as to promote regional integration and inclusive development.

16.10 Central to the strategy of the ESCAP programme of work is to foster regional and subregional cooperation, including South-South cooperation. The subregional offices for East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia and South and South-West Asia, and the office for the Pacific subregion, will provide better-targeted and in-depth technical assistance to address the priorities of member States in the respective subregions in a more balanced manner.

16.11 Partnerships with multilateral entities and subregional organizations will continue to be strengthened in order to ensure an inclusive and coherent approach to addressing the concerns of the region, avoiding the duplication of efforts while building on the strengths and comparative advantages of ESCAP and complementarities with its partners. To that end, ESCAP will reinforce its leading role as the convener of the regional coordination mechanism of all the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system in the region and its active participation in the United Nations Development Group.

16.12 Overall, ESCAP will use its multidisciplinary capabilities, its strengthened regional and subregional presence, its extensive network with relevant subregional, regional and international organizations and its position as the regional arm of the United Nations to provide leadership and solutions to the critical regional and global development challenges of the twenty-first century.

Macroeconomic policy and inclusive development

Objective of the Organization: To foster a sound macroeconomic policy environment and enhance regional economic cooperation for inclusive and sustainable development in the Asia-Pacific region, especially in support of poverty reduction and other internationally agreed development goals, particularly among countries with special needs

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced understanding among policymakers and other target groups of development trends, emerging issues, macroeconomic challenges and evidence-based policy options that promote economic growth, reduce poverty and narrow the development gaps	(a) Increased number of references to ESCAP publications and other activities on macroeconomic policy, finance and development in policy documents, academic literature and key media outlets
(b) Enhanced regional voice in global development forums and strengthened regional economic and financial cooperation to exploit synergies for mutual benefit towards inclusive and sustainable development, including through South-South cooperation	(b) Increased number of outcome documents and resolutions reflecting consensus on regional economic and financial cooperation that feed into global development forums
(c) Improved capacity of member States, particularly countries with special needs, to design and implement development policies for achieving the Millennium Development Goals and implementing the Istanbul Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries and internationally agreed development goals	(c) (i) Increased percentage of participants in ESCAP activities indicating that they are better able to design and implement sound economic development policies in support of the regional implementation of the Istanbul Programme of Action, the Millennium Development Goals and other internationally agreed development goals (ii) Increased number of government policies, programmes and initiatives that reflect principles or recommendations advanced by ESCAP to achieve the Millennium Development Goals and other internationally agreed targets
(d) Improved capacity of member States to formulate and implement rural development policies that promote sustainable agriculture and food security	(d) Increased percentage of participants in the work of the Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Sustainable Agriculture indicating that they are better able to formulate and implement rural development policies that promote sustainable agriculture and food security

Strategy

16.13 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Macroeconomic Policy and Development Division, with support from the Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Sustainable Agriculture. Under the subprogramme, the secretariat will be responsible for mainstreaming the development needs of the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States into the work of ESCAP, particularly its work in reducing poverty, eliminating disparities and fostering greater integration into the regional economic growth process. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is imbedded in the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the Doha Declaration on Financing for Development, the Outcome of the Conference on the World Financial and Economic Crisis and Its Impact on Development, the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2011-2020 adopted at the Fourth United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries and the resolutions contained in the list of mandates.

16.14 With its substantive emphasis on strengthening the capacities of countries to formulate and implement inclusive and sustainable development policies in support of the internationally agreed development goals, the subprogramme will monitor macroeconomic trends and prospects towards reducing poverty and narrowing development gaps, promote capacity development in the countries with special needs in achieving the Millennium Development Goals, assist in the graduation process of the least developed countries, strengthen regional cooperation in addressing medium- to long-term development challenges and support sustainable agriculture and food security in the region aimed at reducing poverty in rural communities. The efforts will be further augmented by the regional advisory services provided to member States through the Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Sustainable Agriculture on the alleviation of poverty, food security and sustainable agriculture. Special emphasis will be placed on efforts to promote greater regional integration and resiliency through increased economic growth, to achieve the Millennium Development Goals in ways that reduce economic and social disparities within as well as across countries, with due attention to the gender dimension, to foster a regional coordinated voice on various global processes on development issues and challenges and on financial issues, including the outcomes of the summits of the Group of Twenty (G-20), and to explore innovations in strengthening collaboration and identifying regional synergies/complementarities in promoting sustainable agriculture and food security.

16.15 A specific set of key modalities will be followed in implementing the programme of work. Regional cooperation as well as South-South cooperation, which will continue to be the key modalities in bringing countries together, will include policy dialogues and policy advocacy to address common development issues and fill development gaps, particularly those of countries with special needs. The Asia-Pacific Regional Coordination Mechanism will be utilized to achieve greater coherence and effectiveness with other United Nations organizations and the specialized agencies in delivering a common set of services to member States. The Centre for Alleviation of Poverty through Sustainable Agriculture will provide a regional platform to promote synergy and complementarities in research and capacity-building on sustainable agriculture and food security across member States, thus further extending the outreach of the subprogramme.

16.16 The subprogramme will work closely with other subprogrammes, and with a targeted subregional focus, to: incorporate multisectoral and subregional perspectives into its activities addressing policy issues and challenges in order to enhance regional financial and economic cooperation to assist the Asia-Pacific region through increased capital availability for the development of an economically viable and socially inclusive infrastructure based on public-private partnership; address the challenges of countries with special needs; promote activities to improve the food security of and nutrition for the poorest and most vulnerable people in the region; and support the annual publication of the Economic and Social Survey of Asia and the Pacific.

Trade and investment

Objective of the Organization: To enhance trade, investment, enterprise development and technology transfer for inclusive and sustainable development in the Asia-Pacific region

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced knowledge of trends, emerging issues, and evidence-based policy options in the areas of trade, investment, enterprise development and technology transfer in support of inclusive and sustainable development by ESCAP member States	(a) (i) Increased number of references to ESCAP publications, related materials and activities in the area of trade and investment, in the policy-related literature and key media outlets (ii) Increased number of references to ESCAP publications, related materials and activities on technology transfer and agricultural mechanization in the policy-related literature and key media outlets
(b) Strengthened regional cooperation in trade, investment, enterprise development, innovation and the development and transfer of technology in support of inclusive and sustainable development	(b) (i) Number of ESCAP member States participating in or indicating that they find regional cooperation mechanisms in trade and investment fostered by ESCAP useful for their country (ii) Number of ESCAP member States participating in or indicating that they find regional cooperation mechanisms promoted by the Asian and Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology and the United Nations Asian and Pacific Centre for Agricultural Engineering and Machinery to foster innovation and develop and transfer technology, including in the area of agricultural mechanization, useful for their country (iii) Increased coverage and depth of commitment under the Asia-Pacific Trade Agreement and/or the expansion of membership in the Agreement

(c) Increased capacity of ESCAP member States to formulate and implement more effective and coherent policies on trade, investment, enterprise development and technology transfer in support of inclusive and sustainable development

(c) (i) Percentage of participants in ESCAP activities and initiatives indicating that they have increased their capacity to formulate or implement more effective and coherent policies on trade, investment and enterprise development

(ii) Percentage of participants in activities of the Asian and Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology and the United Nations Asian and Pacific Centre for Agricultural Engineering and Machinery indicating that they have increased their capacity to formulate or implement more effective and coherent policies to foster innovation and develop and transfer technology, including in the area of agricultural mechanization

Strategy

16.17 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Trade and Investment Division, with support from the Asian and Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology and the United Nations Asian and Pacific Centre for Agricultural Engineering and Machinery. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is derived mainly from the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the 2005 World Summit Outcome, the Almaty Programme of Action and the resolutions contained in the list of mandates.

16.18 To meet its objectives, the subprogramme will be implemented through a combination of analytical and capacity-building work on trade, investment, enterprise development, sustainable agricultural innovation and mechanization and technology transfer, with a particular view to enhancing the contribution of trade and investment to meet the Millennium Development Goals, in particular Goal 8, to develop a global partnership for development. The focus of the analytical work is to provide inputs for evidence-based policymaking and the sharing of experience on related policy reforms. With regard to capacity-building efforts, special attention will be accorded to: (a) strengthening the capacity of policymakers and practitioners in trade, investment, enterprise development and technology transfer, particularly their ability to effectively negotiate, conclude and implement multilateral and other trade and investment agreements; (b) formulation and implementation of coherent policies in support of enhanced intraregional and interregional trade and investment; (c) design and implementation of appropriate trade facilitation and trade finance policies and measures; (d) formulation and implementation of effective policy measures to strengthen corporate sustainability and responsibility with a view to enhancing the contribution of the private sector, particularly small and medium-sized enterprises and agro-based enterprises, to inclusive and sustainable development; and (e) establishment and strengthening of common frameworks and mechanisms that advance regional integration in trade, investment, technology transfer and the development of small and medium-sized enterprises, including agricultural enterprises, in support of the multilateral trading system and other relevant multilateral agreements. The deepening, expansion and strengthening of the Asia-Pacific Trade Agreement will form a key pillar of the work of the subprogramme. In addition, regional cooperation among research institutions and think tanks will be deepened through the Asia-Pacific Research and Training Network on Trade, which will operate as a regional knowledge platform for trade and investment reform, while the United Nations Network of Experts for Paperless Trade in Asia and the Pacific will be an important regional cooperation mechanism for trade facilitation. The proposed Asia-Pacific network for the testing of agricultural machines would play an important role in promoting and facilitating trade of sustainable and safe agricultural machinery. The Asia-Pacific Business Forum will be the principal mechanism for engaging the private sector and exploring the establishment of public-private partnerships to pursue inclusive and sustainable development. Synergy between this subprogramme and other subprogrammes of the Commission will be maximized, in particular with subprogramme 3, Transport, in order to facilitate trade and transit in the region.

16.19 The Commission will collaborate at the regional, subregional and national levels with the agencies of the United Nations system and with other bilateral and multilateral agencies. In particular, in the area of trade and trade-related policies, partnerships will be strengthened with the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), the World Trade Organization (WTO), the Asian Development Bank Institute, the World Bank, the World Intellectual Property Organization and the International Trade Centre. In the area of trade facilitation, stronger collaboration will be established with the regional commissions, UNCTAD, WTO, the Asian Development Bank, the World Bank and the World Customs Organization; and in the areas of investment, technology transfer and enterprise development, partnerships will be strengthened with UNCTAD, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the Global Compact Office, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the Asian Development Bank.

Subprogramme 3 Transport

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen regional cooperation and integration in transport for inclusive and sustainable development in the ESCAP region

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced knowledge and increased capacity of ESCAP member States to develop and implement transport policies and programmes	(a) Increased number of government policies, programmes and initiatives that reflect transport-related principles or recommendations promoted by ESCAP
(b) Increased capacity of ESCAP member States and the private sector to plan and develop international intermodal transport linkages, including the Asian Highway network, the Trans-Asian Railway network and dry ports of international importance	(b) (i) Number of national projects and programmes to upgrade regional transport infrastructure, including the Asian Highway network, the Trans-Asian Railway network and dry ports of international importance (ii) Increased number of accessions by ESCAP member States to global, regional and subregional agreements

(c) Increased capacity of ESCAP member States and the private sector to implement measures to improve the efficiency of international transport operations and logistics

(c) (i) Increased number of initiatives to remove non-physical bottlenecks and facilitate the efficient movement of people, goods and vehicles along transport routes and at border crossings

(ii) Increased number of countries with training programmes on freight forwarding, multimodal transport and logistics

Strategy

16.20 The substantive responsibility for this subprogramme will lie with the Transport Division. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is derived from the resolutions contained in the list of mandates. Direction would also be derived from meetings of ministers of transport convened by ESCAP.

16.21 The subprogramme will support member States in working towards the vision of an efficient international, integrated, intermodal transport and logistics system connecting the Asia-Pacific region. In particular, it will aim to support the efforts of the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States in addressing the special transport challenges they face. In this regard, the Transport Division will strengthen cooperation with subregional offices to foster transport cooperation at that level and with other Divisions and Offices, in particular with the Trade and Investment Division, to improve coordination on trade and transport facilitation measures; with the Information and Communications Technology and Disaster Risk Reduction Division to promote the use of information and communications technology (ICT) applications for transport operations; with the Environment and Development Division to raise awareness and build capacity in environmentally sustainable transport; with the Macroeconomic Policy and Development Division to study and promote new approaches to financing transport infrastructure; with the subregional office for North and Central Asia to support the activities of the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia working group on transport and border crossing; and with the ESCAP office for the Pacific to analyse and identify policy options for inter-island shipping. The secretariat will also continue to cooperate with other organizations that are active in the development of the region's transport systems.

16.22 During the biennium 2014-2015, the subprogramme will focus on enhancing knowledge and providing policy guidance on transport policies and programmes in various areas of transport development. In particular, it will support member States in their efforts to use the Asian Highway network, the Trans-Asian Railway network and internationally recognized dry ports as the basis for planning transport development and promoting trade, including along the Euro-Asian transport linkages. This will involve, inter alia, continuing to act as secretariat for the intergovernmental agreements on the Asian Highway and Trans-Asian Railway networks. The subprogramme will also support cooperation between member States to identify and address non-physical bottlenecks, improve the efficiency of transport logistics and related activities in the region and promote improved connectivity between regions and subregions. In order to maximize the impact of its activities, and taking into account the findings of the independent evaluation of the Regional Action

Programme for Transport Development in Asia and the Pacific, phase I (2007-2011), the secretariat will apply a “holistic approach” to its subprogramme so that various activities contribute to sustainable and inclusive transport development in the region.

Environment and development

Objective of the Organization: To improve the sustainability, resilience and inclusiveness of societies in Asia and the Pacific, including through promoting quality of growth

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced understanding by local and national Governments of environmental, energy and water and urban policies and strategies for poverty reduction and inclusive and sustainable development	(a) Number of references to ESCAP publications, policy briefs, projects and related activities in policy documents, declarations and statements and in key media outlets showing an increased understanding of environmental, energy and water and urban policies and strategies for inclusive and sustainable development
(b) Improved capacity of Governments and other stakeholders in developing and implementing environmental, energy and water and urban policies and strategies for inclusive and sustainable development	(b) Number of policies, strategies and initiatives developed by Governments and other stakeholders reasonably attributable to ESCAP interventions in the areas of environment, energy and water and urban policies and strategies for inclusive and sustainable development
(c) Strengthened regional cooperation and networking on environmental, energy and water and urban policies and strategies for inclusive and sustainable development	(c) Number of outcome documents, recommendations and initiatives from ESCAP member States and other key actors on regional cooperation issues related to environment, energy security, water resources management and urban development

16.23 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Environment and Development Division. The strategic direction of the subprogramme is mainly derived from the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the outcomes of other relevant United Nations conferences. The outcome of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development, which will be held from 20 to 22 June 2012, will also be taken into account in determining the future direction of the subprogramme.

16.24 The subprogramme will build on the previous achievements of ESCAP in supporting countries of the region in their efforts to integrate the three pillars of sustainable development. The subprogramme will facilitate the exchange of information among members and associate members regarding national strategies and best practices in support of green growth and, if requested, will further assist in developing national strategies in this regard. It will also undertake related policy initiatives through strengthened regional cooperation for widening access to basic services to all, enhanced energy security, efficient management of energy and water resources and sustainable urban development. The subprogramme will take a balanced approach to the three areas of energy security and water resources; environment and development policy; and sustainable urban development.

16.25 The subprogramme will focus on improving the integration of all pillars of sustainable development, economic, social and environmental, and to increase quantity and improve quality of growth in order to reduce the impact of external economic and financial shocks, resource crises characterized by the commodity price volatility and ecological crises.

16.26 In this regard, in order to enhance understanding and improve national capacities, regional cooperation among countries and member States efforts to achieve the Millennium Development Goals, ESCAP, through the dissemination of analytical studies, policy advocacy and capacity development and regional policy dialogues will facilitate:

- (a) The process of increasing the growth and the quality of the growth, of Asian and Pacific economies;
- (b) Investing in the protection of a natural resources base of economic and social significance, which is critical for food security, environment and sustainable development;
- (c) Promoting sustainable urban development and infrastructure.

16.27 The subprogramme will help member countries fulfil their national and regional sustainable development goals by addressing these multiple environmental and socio-economic challenges in an integrated, holistic and inclusive manner. It will target policymakers at all levels and the operational staff of national and local Governments. It will also advocate for the active and meaningful involvement of other stakeholders, including civil society.

16.28 The subprogramme will focus on developing innovative strategies and documenting, analysing and disseminating policy options and good practices, taking into account gender-specific considerations. The efforts will be further augmented by the provision of capacity development support to member States, including through training, publications and online learning facilities. The subprogramme will use innovative and pragmatic approaches to promote more efficient use of resources, including energy and water, increased investment in natural and human capital and decoupling economic and social development from environmental degradation, such as regional and local pollution and greenhouse gas emissions. The strategy will contribute to reducing poverty and gender inequality and advocate enhanced access to basic infrastructure and services for all. It will also support the efforts of urban and rural communities to increase their resilience to climate change.

16.29 To achieve the above strategies, ESCAP will collaborate with other United Nations agencies (including through the regional cooperation mechanism), intergovernmental organizations, public-private partnerships, community-based organizations, research institutes and external support agencies. The subprogramme will undertake multisectoral work jointly with other subprogrammes to promote the quality of growth, enhance disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation, strategies and mechanisms, develop and support measures to increase and focus finance for inclusive and sustainable development, and strengthen data collection and analysis. The subprogramme will also assist the subregional offices with the subregional initiatives of the North East Asian Subregional Programme for Environmental Cooperation and of the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia to strengthen subregional cooperation in these fields.

Information and communications technology and disaster risk reduction

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen ICT connectivity and enhance regional cooperation and capacity for improved disaster risk reduction and management and associated socio-economic risks towards an inclusive and sustainable development in Asia and the Pacific

(a) Improved capacity of member States to measure and analyse progress towards an inclusive and resilient information society	(a) (i) Increased percentage of policymakers who indicated enhanced knowledge and skills to formulate policies and strategies in the field of ICT and disaster risk reduction, including gender dimensions (ii) Increased number of government policies, strategies, programmes, projects and initiatives that reflect ESCAP-promoted principles and recommendations in the area of ICT and disaster risk reduction
(b) Strengthened regional cooperation in ICT connectivity for the promotion of inclusive and sustainable development	(b) Increased number of ESCAP member States deriving benefits from ESCAP-promoted regional cooperation mechanisms devoted to ICT connectivity, including space applications and disaster risk reduction
(c) Improved knowledge and awareness of member States of effective policies and strategies in disaster risk reduction in the region	(c) Increased percentage of ESCAP member States participating in ESCAP activities indicating that they are better able to assess, prepare for and manage disaster risks
(d) Strengthened capacity of member States to apply ICT for inclusive and sustainable socio-economic development policies and programmes	(d) (i) Percentage of participants in activities of the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development who indicated that they are better able to apply ICT for socio-economic development

- (ii) Increased number of national training initiatives that reflect or incorporate training modules developed by the Training Centre

Strategy

16.30 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Information and Communications Technology and Disaster Risk Reduction Division, with support from the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development. The strategic direction for the subprogramme derives from the resolutions contained in the list of mandates. The subprogramme will support and strengthen the subsidiary Committee on Information and Communications Technology and Committee on Disaster Risk Reduction of the Commission as the basis for regional consensus building for action and an effective mechanism to contribute to the global mandates.

16.31 The subprogramme will continue to promote regional cooperation in ICT connectivity for the creation of an inclusive, knowledge-based society that is resilient to the multiple, complex and interrelated threats posed by disasters. The subprogramme will promote integrated and people-centred approaches by providing member States with socio-economic analysis on rapid advances in ICT, emerging trends, new forms of social networking and communication and new digital divides, especially between rapidly developing economies and the least developed countries and other countries with special needs. The subprogramme will provide policy options and recommendations on digital inclusion and on fostering an inclusive and resilient knowledge society in Asia and the Pacific. These efforts will be further augmented by ICT capacity-building activities conducted by the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communication Technology for Development.

16.32 The subprogramme will improve the capabilities of member States to create more disaster resilient societies. The emphasis will be on enhancing regional knowledge and knowledge-sharing, strengthening capacities to manage risks and vulnerabilities and reducing the socio-economic impacts of disasters. The subprogramme would provide member States with analysis, strategies and policy options in the area of disaster risk reduction, including climate change adaptation, while promoting inclusive and sustainable development. The efforts will be further augmented by the regional advisory services on disaster risk reduction policies provided to member States, the development of an integrated regional early warning system by the ESCAP Multi-Donor Trust Fund for Tsunami, Disaster and Climate Preparedness in Indian Ocean and Southeast Asian Countries and capacity-building activities of the established regional mechanisms in the area of ICT, including space-based applications, in support of inclusive and sustainable development.

16.33 As a strategy, the subprogramme will build on the comparative advantages and multisectoral strengths of ESCAP in promoting cooperation among member States towards inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in Asia and the Pacific. In this regard, the subprogramme will collaborate with other subprogrammes, including: statistics for monitoring of regional ICT trends, risks and vulnerabilities; trade and investment and transport, to address ICT for trade and transport facilitation; environment and development, to address disaster risk reduction and related climate change adaptation, sustainable urban development and water resources management; social development with regard to social issues related to disasters, including the integration of gender and disability dimensions; and macroeconomic policy and inclusive development concerning disaster risks and the effects of disasters on socio-economic development in order to provide comprehensive regional disaster risk reduction policy options that empower member States to increase efforts towards disaster resiliency. The subprogramme will link with the subregional offices, in particular the subregional offices for East and North-east Asia and for North and Central Asia, for analysis of disaster risk reduction and development issues specific to the subregions.

16.34 Strategic partnerships will be built with the International Telecommunication Union, the Asia-Pacific Telecommunity, the International Strategy for Disaster Reduction, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs and other relevant United Nations system entities to enhance coherence across the United Nations system, as well as with regional and subregional organizations, civil society and the private sector to support the above initiatives.

Social development

Objective of the Organization: To strengthen regional cooperation in building a socially inclusive society that protects, empowers and ensures equality for all social groups in Asia and the Pacific

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Increased knowledge and awareness of social development and population trends and policies in the region, including their gender dimensions, as a basis for effective decision-making by ESCAP member States	(a) (i) Number of references made by member States to the usefulness of social development and population policy options, strategies and good practices promoted by ESCAP as a basis for policymaking and programming (ii) Percentage of recipients of ESCAP publications and reports who indicate that their knowledge and awareness of social development and population trends, policies and good practices have been enhanced (iii) Percentage of recipients of relevant ESCAP publications and reports who indicate that their knowledge and awareness of the gender dimensions of social development and population trends, policies and good practices have been enhanced

Strategy

16.35 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme will lie with the Social Development Division. The strategic direction of the subprogramme derives mainly from the commitments agreed upon as part of relevant United Nations intergovernmental processes, including the World Summit for Social Development, the International Conference on Population and Development, the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, the Convention on the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families, the 2002 Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing, the World Programme of Action on Youth, the United Nations Millennium Declaration and the commitments adopted in 2010 by the General Assembly in its outcome document “Keeping the promise: united to achieve the Millennium Development Goals” and the “Political Declaration on HIV and AIDS: Intensifying our Efforts to Eliminate HIV and AIDS”. Regional mandates that guide the subprogramme include the outcome document of the High-level Intergovernmental Meeting on the Final Review of the Implementation of the Asian and Pacific Decade of Disabled Persons, 2003-2012 and the Bangkok Declaration on the 15-year review of the Fourth World Conference on Women. The outcomes of the Sixth Asian and Pacific Population Conference and the Asia-Pacific High-level Intergovernmental Meeting on the Assessment of Progress against Commitments in the Political Declaration on HIV/AIDS and the Millennium Development Goals and the Asia-Pacific Intergovernmental Meeting on the Second Regional Review and Appraisal of the Madrid International Plan of Action on Ageing will also provide direction to the subprogramme.

16.36 The subprogramme will aim to promote change at the policy and institutional levels. The main target group of the subprogramme will be Government officials and institutions, particularly those involved in the formulation, implementation and management of social development policies and programmes. The strategy will focus on the conduct of applied research, analysis and dissemination of results on social policy options, strategies and programmes as a basis for decision-making by Governments. Good practices on social protection systems, particularly for the most vulnerable groups in society, will be analysed and documented for the purpose of adaptation and wider replication in the region. The Commission’s convening role, particularly with regard to promoting regional cooperation and consensus building on accelerating the implementation of international commitments to promote gender equality and social integration of vulnerable groups, will be emphasized. Technical assistance to developing countries, including those in special situations, will be intensified to build national capacity through the transfer of knowledge and skills on a range of social development issues. The subprogramme will adopt a multipronged strategy that incorporates cross-cutting issues, including gender-responsiveness and a rights-based approach, into policies and programmes. Partnerships will be strengthened with a range of stakeholders, including civil society organizations and research institutes. The subprogramme will coordinate closely with other United Nations entities and international organizations to achieve synergy and ensure greater impact in the region.

16.37 Within the overall ESCAP programme of work, given the cross-cutting nature of social development work, the subprogramme will also link its work closely with other subprogrammes, including: statistics to support evidence-based policies; environment to support the social pillar of sustainable development; disaster risk reduction to integrate the gender and disability dimensions; and macroeconomic policy and development to strengthen the social dimensions of the annual publication of the Economic and Social Survey of Asia and the Pacific. To extend outreach, and to ensure greater depth of the Commission's work, the subprogramme will work with the subregional offices, particularly in analysing subregional perspectives on social issues of particular significance to each subregion within a regional framework.

Subprogramme 7 Statistics

Objective of the Organization: To improve the use of statistics for evidence-based decision-making and to develop and disseminate quality statistics for inclusive, sustainable and resilient societies in the ESCAP region

Expected accomplishments of the Secretariat	Indicators of achievement
(a) Enhanced understanding among decision makers and members of the public of development trends and emerging issues to promote inclusive, sustainable and resilient societies	(a) (i) Percentage of national decision makers and members of the public who indicate that they found ESCAP analytical outputs relevant and useful in monitoring and understanding key development trends and emerging issues and deciding on related policies (ii) Increased number of downloads of online statistical products provided by ESCAP
(b) Increased capacity of ESCAP member States to produce, disseminate and use statistics in accordance with internationally agreed standards and good practices in support of progress towards inclusive, sustainable and resilient societies	(b) (i) Percentage of participants in relevant ESCAP activities who indicate that they were able to apply the knowledge gained for the better provision and use of comparable data (ii) Percentage of official statisticians from national statistical systems trained by the Statistical Institute for Asia and the Pacific who indicate that they are better able to produce timely and high-quality data and services

16.38 The substantive responsibility for the subprogramme lies with the Statistics Division, with support from the Statistical Institute for Asia and the Pacific. The strategic direction of the subprogramme derives from the resolutions contained in the list of mandates.

16.39 Through a balanced combination of normative, analytical and technical cooperation activities, the subprogramme will support national statistical systems in the Asia and Pacific region to improve the production and dissemination of key demographic, social, economic and environmental statistics, including the Millennium Development Goal indicators, in accordance with internationally agreed standards and good practices, and will promote the effective use of statistics by policymakers and members of the public in pursuing inclusive and sustainable development. Given that the priorities of the subprogramme are closely linked to those of other subprogrammes, it will collaborate with the Social Development Division in promoting the collection of data on disabilities in support of rights-based and barrier-free societies and gender equality and social integration through the use of gender statistics and in strengthening civil registration and vital statistics systems in the region. The subprogramme, in collaboration with the Macroeconomic Policy and Development Division and Trade and Investment Division, will promote the availability and use of economic and agriculture statistics for evidence-based policymaking. Together with the Information and Communications Technology and Disaster Risk Reduction Division, the subprogramme will strengthen societies' resilience through the collection and improvement of disaster risk data. Moreover, the subprogramme will support efforts to enhance the sustainability of development by working with the Environment and Development Division on improving the availability and use of urban and environmental statistics. The subregional offices will be engaged in the development and implementation of statistics-related activities of particular interest to their respective subregions.

16.40 During the biennium 2014-2015, the subprogramme will continue to: (a) promote the use of statistics for evidence-based decision-making; (b) support the development of demographic, economic, social and environmental statistics; (c) facilitate the implementation of existing and new international standards, including the new economic and social classifications and the revised system of national accounts; and (d) support the development of the capacity of national statistical systems to collect, produce, disseminate and use statistics in accordance with internationally agreed standards and good practices; and (e) strengthen statistical cooperation and information exchange at the regional and interregional levels. In particular, the subprogramme will focus on improving the availability and quality of data for measuring progress in areas such as social inclusion and gender equality. The subprogramme will also increase its collaboration with other subprogrammes with the aim of improving the quality and impact of the secretariat's analytical outputs and products.

16.41 To enhance coherence across the United Nations system and coordination among international agencies, the subprogramme will cooperate closely with the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat and other relevant United Nations entities, development banks and funds, regional and subregional organizations and other statistics development partners and networks, in particular through the newly established Partners for Statistics Development in Asia-Pacific.

Subregional activities for development

Component 1

Subregional activities for development in the Pacific

(b) Strengthened partnerships and knowledge-sharing among member States, regional organizations, civil society and other relevant development partners in addressing key priority areas in South-East Asia in support of the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals

(b) Increased number of collaborative initiatives involving member States, civil society or other key development partners from South-East Asia facilitated by ESCAP

Strategy

16.42 The overall responsibility for coordinating the work of the subprogramme will lie with the Office of the Executive Secretary. Activities will be implemented by the ESCAP subregional offices for the Pacific, East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia, South and South-West Asia and, for activities for the South-East Asian subregion, by the concerned substantive divisions at ESCAP headquarters in Bangkok. Internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the Istanbul Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2011-2020, the Almaty Programme of Action and the Mauritius Strategy for the Further Implementation of the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States provide the mandates and strategic direction for the subprogramme. In determining its direction for the period 2014-2015, the subprogramme will also take into account the outcome of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development, which will be held in June 2012. The subprogramme will also coordinate closely with the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia.

16.43 Given the vast coverage and diversity of the Asian and Pacific region, the subprogramme would strengthen the Commission's presence and strategic position at the subregional level, enabling better targeting and delivery of programmes that address specific key priorities of member States in the five subregions.

16.44 Each component of the subprogramme reflects the specific needs of the relevant subregion within the context of existing subregional cooperation frameworks and the institutional landscape. In support of the implementation of the work of the subprogramme, ESCAP will further operationalize its analytical and normative work, supporting capacity development through technical cooperation, including South-South and triangular cooperation, among ESCAP member States, and through the provision, on request, of advisory services. Emphasis will be placed on knowledge-sharing and networking, including the dissemination of good practices for adaptation, experience sharing and replication. The subprogramme will collect data and produce subregional analysis on identified priority areas in order to ensure greater depth and coverage of the secretariat's knowledge products.

16.45 The subregional office for the Pacific will assist member States in the following priority areas, which are guided by the United Nations Pacific agenda, which was agreed upon at the meeting between the Secretary-General and the Pacific Islands Forum leaders on 7 September 2011, the Mauritius Strategy and through joint programming with other ESCAP subprogrammes:

(a) National planning for sustainable development, including the implementation of the Mauritius Strategy and the Plan of Implementation of the World Summit on Sustainable Development outcomes;

(b) Supporting resilience to climate change, natural disasters and ocean acidification;

(c) Capacity development of national statistical systems, with a focus on gender statistics;

(d) Infrastructure, trade and transport facilitation, including connectivity.

16.46 The Commission's work in the Pacific will be implemented through a multidisciplinary and normative approach. To enhance coherence, coordination and responsiveness, the subregional office for the Pacific will prioritize joint planning and collaboration with the Bangkok-based subprogrammes and will cooperate closely with other subregional offices and regional institutes. The office will actively participate in the United Nations Development Assistance Framework (UNDAF) processes and build synergy with the operations of other United Nations agencies while fostering closer cooperation with Pacific intergovernmental bodies, non-governmental organizations, the private sector and other stakeholders. The subregional office for the Pacific will work closely with the Council of Regional Organizations of the Pacific, in particular the Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat, the South Pacific Regional Environment Programme and the Secretariat of the Pacific Community through the Sustainable Development Working Group.

16.47 The subregional office for East and North-East Asia will assist member States in the following priority areas identified by the ad hoc intergovernmental meeting on the new ESCAP subregional offices:

(a) Sustainable development, taking into account the green growth approach, and energy efficiency, including the North-East Asian Subregional Programme for Environmental Cooperation;

(b) ICT, disaster risk reduction and disaster risk management;

(c) Poverty reduction, including food security;

(d) Infrastructure, trade and transport facilitation, including connectivity.

16.48 The office will work closely with the Bangkok-based subprogrammes on the above priority areas and will build synergy with the three ESCAP regional institutions in the region — the Asian and Pacific Training Centre for Information and Communications Technology for Development, the Statistical Institute for Asia and the Pacific and the United Nations Asian and Pacific Centre for Agricultural Engineering and Machinery. The office will actively participate in the UNDAF processes for countries in the subregion in order to build synergy with relevant United Nations agencies, intergovernmental bodies, non-governmental organizations, the private sector and other stakeholders.

16.49 The subregional office for North and Central Asia will assist member States in the following priority areas:

(a) Bridging the gaps in the Millennium Development Goals (environmental sustainability);

(b) Transport and trade facilitation: developing better transport links, including Euro-Asian transport corridors; transit transport cooperation, including improved border crossing; the introduction of trade facilitation measures; and the reduction of trade barriers;

(c) Water, energy and environment: management of water and energy resources, protection of the environment and climate change adaptation;

(d) Activities of the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia aimed at strengthening subregional cooperation in the areas of transport, water and energy, trade, statistics, knowledge-based development and gender and economy.

16.50 The subregional office for South and South-West Asia will assist member States in the following priority areas:

(a) Bridging the gaps in the Millennium Development Goals (poverty and related areas) with inclusive growth;

(b) Infrastructure development with a focus on transport, trade and transport facilitation, including connectivity and regional economic integration;

(c) Disaster risk reduction, including drought and earthquakes;

(d) Energy and food security.

16.51 The activities for South-East Asia are undertaken by the Bangkok-based substantive divisions aiming to increase resilience to the financial crises and natural disasters that have severely affected the subregion. The subprogramme will continue to strengthen regional cooperation, working closely together with subregional organizations, in particular ASEAN, and with other United Nations funds, agencies and programmes to bridge development gaps and to enhance regional-level coherence of policies and programmes to benefit member States.

16.52 ESCAP will build strategic partnerships with other key intergovernmental institutions and development actors in the subregions, such as ASEAN, the Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation, the Council of Regional Organizations of the Pacific, the Economic Cooperation Organization, the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation and the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, and will develop and implement programmes in a coherent and coordinated manner, utilizing the full assets of the United Nations development system at the subregional and national levels to bridge key development gaps.
