Overall orientation

21.1 The overall objective of the programme is to ensure international protection to refugees and others of concern to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and to seek permanent solutions to their problems in cooperation with States and other organizations, including through the provision of humanitarian assistance.

21.2 The mandate for the programme is contained in General Assembly resolution 319 A (IV), by which the Assembly established UNHCR as from 1 January 1951, and resolution 428 (V), which sets out the statute of the Office. The Assembly has also called upon the High Commissioner to ensure that refugees returning voluntarily to their countries of origin (“returnees”) receive assistance to help in their sustainable reintegration, as well as to monitor their safety and well-being upon return. UNHCR has also been mandated to address the situation of stateless persons in accordance with the Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons (1954) and the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness (1961). In addition, on the basis of specific requests from the Secretary-General or the competent principal organs of the United Nations and with the consent of the State concerned, UNHCR provides humanitarian assistance and protection to internally displaced persons, working in cooperation with the United Nations Emergency Relief Coordinator. In its work for internally displaced persons and as part of the collaborative response of the United Nations system to internal displacement, UNHCR has been given special lead or co-lead responsibility for the following three cluster areas: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination. Addressing the protection needs of these various categories of persons “of concern” to UNHCR, although some may not or may no longer be refugees, also forms an integral part of the programme.

21.3 With regard to the assistance activities of UNHCR, the basic provisions of its statute were built upon by the Assembly in its resolution 832 (IX). Through the adoption by the Assembly of its resolution 58/153 on implementing actions proposed by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to strengthen the capacity of the Office to carry out its mandate, UNHCR was given a renewed mandate to address the challenge of forced displacement through a mission based on a spirit of solidarity, responsibility and burden-sharing, with an abiding commitment to make the Office a truly multilateral institution.

21.4 The international legal basis for the protection of refugees finds its principal expression in the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees. There are a number of regional instruments of relevance, such as the Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa of the Organization of African Unity (now the African Union), the Cartagena Declaration on Refugees, adopted by the Colloquium on the International Protection of Refugees in Central America, Mexico and Panama and the San José Declaration on Refugees and Displaced Persons. The 2009 African Union Convention for the Protection of and Assistance to Internally Displaced Persons in Africa sets out a regional legal regime regarding internally displaced persons. The international legal basis for addressing the situation of stateless persons stems from the 1954 and 1961 Conventions. In addition, other international human rights instruments, such as the 1989 Convention on the Rights of the Child, are relevant in providing international protection to refugees, stateless persons, internally displaced persons, returnees and others of concern.

21.5 The overall strategy for the period 2014-2015 will cover a range of activities to be undertaken in cooperation with States and various organizations. It will be guided by the UNHCR global strategic priorities and incorporate concerted responses to the challenges it met in the previous biennium, including an increasingly urban-based population of concern, the growing complexity of the asylum-migration nexus and the expanded UNHCR activities for internally displaced persons. It will also be guided by pledges to improve the protection of refugees and stateless persons by the 155 States that participated in the 2011 intergovernmental ministerial-level event commemorating the anniversaries of the Convention relating to the Status of Refugees (1951) and the Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness (1961).

21.6 Notable among the activities to be implemented for the period 2014-2015 are the following:

(a) Pursuing comprehensive strategies, in cooperation with States and organizations, for achieving durable solutions for refugees and others of concern, notably through voluntary return, and, where appropriate and feasible, through local integration and resettlement, while promoting effective protection in displacement;

(b) Strengthening the legal regime for international protection, including through the promotion of accessions to international and regional instruments relating to the status of refugees or otherwise benefiting refugees, the effective implementation of refugee rights and the promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles;

(c) Enhancing and reinforcing host country capacities to provide asylum and protection;

(d) Ensuring that UNHCR fully participates in and supports the strengthened collaborative response of the United Nations to situations of internal displacement through its leadership and coordination of areas for which the Office has been given special responsibility under the “cluster approach”: protection, emergency shelter and camp management/coordination;

(e) Further developing contingency planning, emergency preparedness and response capabilities, in coordination with other organizations, so as to respond effectively and efficiently to situations of forced displacement;

(f) Promoting gender equality and ensuring that UNHCR and its partners mainstream into all aspects of programme delivery full consideration of the rights of persons of concern, as well as the particular needs and capacities, ascertained through participatory assessments, of refugee women and children, elderly refugees, refugees with disabilities and other persons with specific needs;

(g) Further developing, in consultation with concerned parties, options to ensure the security of refugee camps, settlements and areas of return, as well as their civilian and humanitarian character, and exploring further concrete ways of enhancing the safety and security of UNHCR staff and other humanitarian workers working with refugees and returnees. In this regard, due consideration should be given to the obligation of United Nations officials to observe fully both the laws and regulations of Member States and their duties and responsibilities to the Organization;

(h) Systematically following up on relevant recommendations in the plans of action emanating from recent international conferences, especially the plan of action related to the Millennium Development Goals, and involving other humanitarian and development organizations, both national and international, in the provision of assistance to refugees, returnees, stateless persons, internally displaced persons and host communities, as well as in the search for durable solutions;

(i) Advocating for the prevention and reduction of statelessness as well as the protection of stateless persons by promoting the accession by States to the relevant international instruments and working with States to facilitate the acquisition, reacquisition or confirmation of nationality of stateless persons.

21.7 The programme is under the intergovernmental guidance of the Executive Committee of the Programme of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, in accordance with its terms of reference, as adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 1166 (XII). Pursuant to the request of the General Assembly in that resolution, the Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 672 (XXV), established the Executive Committee of the High Commissioner's Programme, which came into existence on 1 January 1959. Reaffirming the terms of reference laid down by the General Assembly, the Council decided that the Executive Committee, being entrusted with the terms of reference set forth in General Assembly resolution 1166 (XII), should: (a) determine the general policies under which the High Commissioner should plan, develop and administer the programmes and projects required to help solve the problems referred to in its resolution 1166 (XII); (b) review at least annually the use of funds made available to the High Commissioner and the programmes and projects being proposed or carried out by the Office of the High Commissioner; and (c) have authority to make changes in and give final approval for the use of funds and the programmes and projects referred to in subparagraphs (a) and (b) above. In subsequent resolutions, the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the Executive Committee of the Programme of the High Commissioner have called upon the Office, in the context of its basic mandate, to assist other groups of persons regarded as falling under the competence of the High Commissioner. Although established by the Economic and Social Council, which elects its members, the Executive Committee functions as a subsidiary organ of the General Assembly and is the key governing body of UNHCR. The annual cycle of meetings of the Executive Committee consists of one annual plenary session and a number of intersessional meetings of the Standing Committee. Reports on the sessions of the Executive Committee are submitted to the General Assembly as addenda to the reports of the High Commissioner. Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 66/134 on the enlargement of the Executive Committee, the membership of the Committee may be increased from 85 to 87 States.

21.8 The High Commissioner, who is elected by the General Assembly on the nomination of the Secretary-General, provides the overall direction, supervision and management of the activities under this programme. The functions of the High Commissioner are set out in the annex to the statute of UNHCR. The High Commissioner is assisted by a Deputy High Commissioner and by two Assistant High Commissioners, for Protection and for Operations, respectively.

Objective of the Organization: To ensure international protection to refugees and other persons of concern to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and to achieve permanent solutions to their problems in cooperation with States and other organizations, including through the provision of humanitarian assistance

Strategy

21.9 The implementation of the programme falls under the overall responsibility of the regional bureaux of UNHCR; the Division of International Protection Services; the Division of Programme Support and Management; the Division of Emergency, Security and Supply and the Division of Financial and Administrative Management. In pursuing expected accomplishments for 2014-2015, the Office will strive to improve accountability, financial and programme control as well as risk management. The Office will continue to mainstream the International Public Sector Accounting Standards (IPSAS) reforms across its operations and systematically promote innovation in programme design, delivery and management.

21.10 Further accessions to the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol relating to the Status of Refugees as well as to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness will be promoted. Monitoring of the observance by States of international legal standards for the treatment of refugees, especially the fundamental principles of access to asylum and non-refoulement, will contribute to ensuring the effective implementation of refugee rights by the States concerned. This will involve ensuring that States have established fair and efficient procedures for the determination of refugee status and to ensure that all persons seeking international protection are granted access to those procedures and mechanisms. Renewed efforts are being made by UNHCR and its partners to provide protection and operational services in States that have not yet established protection frameworks. Attention will be given to specifically address age, gender and diversity sensitivities in State asylum systems and procedures. The Office will deliver appropriate training and capacity-building services and enhance expertise in refugee status determination. UNHCR will work with Governments to raise awareness that gender-related forms of persecution may be grounds for refugee status.

21.11 The Office will continue to encourage States to ensure the protection of refugees and others of concern within broader migration movements. The frame of reference for UNHCR activities in this regard is its 10-point plan of action for refugee protection and mixed migration, which provides a framework of protection tools which could be built into broad migration strategies that take into account international protection needs while creating solutions tailored to the various categories of people in mixed migration movements. Similarly, with much international migration taking place by sea, UNHCR will continue to be involved in issues related to the disembarkation of mixed-migration groups and the search for solutions for those rescued at sea or found as stowaways and who are in need of international protection.

21.12 To ensure a more effective response to the protection needs of refugee women, children and adolescents, a more concerted effort will be made to mainstream policies and guidelines relating to those groups of refugees through the work of specially trained interdisciplinary UNHCR country teams. The Office will reinforce efforts to ensure that refugee children can access appropriate educational opportunities.

21.13 The promotion and dissemination of refugee law and protection principles, particularly through training, in cooperation with non-governmental organizations, academic institutions and other relevant organizations of governmental and non-governmental officials, will be another means of achieving the stated objective. In addition, when UNHCR provides protection to internally displaced persons, it will do so on the basis of criteria enumerated in the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly and in close collaboration with other concerned entities and agencies. To revitalize old partnerships and build new ones in support of the international refugee protection system, efforts to promote collaboration on refugee protection with a wide range of actors, including the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, will be continued.

21.14 UNHCR will strive to ensure the optimal alignment of its operational objectives and resources with the needs of refugees and others of concern. The Office will build upon the positive results of comprehensive and participatory approaches to planning to ensure that the needs and capacities of men, women and children of concern form the foundation of programme design. This will include the use of standards and indicators across the full spectrum of the work of the Office as a means of identifying protection and assistance gaps and channelling resources to ensure that acceptable standards are met in critical situations. Tools for recording operational data, including demographic, registration and profiling information; situational analysis and planning will be further systematized. Business intelligence capacities will be strengthened to improve global analysis and evaluation of results.

21.15 UNHCR will strengthen strategies to address urban displacement, by improving data on displaced populations in urban areas, expanding partnerships and reinforcing operating principles for protection and solutions. The Office will work to strengthen socio-economic assessments, build entrepreneurship and expand access to community technology in urban areas. It will partner with Governments to enhance access of urban refugees to health care, health insurance and adequate shelter.

21.16 The Office will build upon the outcomes of its strategic plans for 2008-2012 in the areas of HIV and AIDS, malaria control, nutrition and food security, reproductive health and water and sanitation to ensure that prevention, care and treatment policies and programmes meet international standards during all phases of the displacement cycle. It will strengthen the means of monitoring standards in other key areas, including through the introduction of a water, sanitation and hygiene monitoring system. The UNHCR shelter strategy will be rolled out to raise the quality of emergency and transitional shelter, including through the development of innovative, cost-effective, light and manageable alternatives to tents. UNHCR will continue to give priority to environmental conservation and sustainable resource management in its programmes.

21.17 Finding durable solutions for millions of refugees and internally displaced persons will be central to the programme of work. The Office will seek opportunities to resolve complex and protracted displacement situations that require comprehensive, and often regional, approaches encompassing voluntary repatriation, local integration and, where appropriate, resettlement. UNHCR will also work with partners to ensure that durable solutions to displacement form part of broader development and peacebuilding agendas. To foster the self-reliance of populations pending solutions, UNHCR will increase livelihoods interventions, including vocational and skills training; support for agriculture, livestock and fisheries; and access to financial services or microfinance.

21.18 Effective operational and strategic partnerships will remain a priority for the Office, as a means of enhancing protection, increasing efficiency and strengthening local capacities for response. The Office will further enhance its Implementing Partnership framework and promote implementation of its programmes through partners, with special emphasis on supporting national partners. It will also reinforce its information management, coordination and support capacities to facilitate a more predictable and accountable inter-agency engagement.

21.19 The Office will continue to strengthen its emergency preparedness and response capacity, including through strong emergency management and the coordination role of the Division of Emergency, Security and Supply. The overall strategy will be to support field operations through a well-established corporate approach to emergency response, drawing on the most appropriate resources from throughout the organization to meet the needs of each emergency operation and ensure predictable, effective and timely support in terms of staffing, supply chain, and security coverage. The focus for the period 2014-2015 will be to further strengthen senior leadership capacity for emergency operations, increase the speed and efficiency of UNHCR delivery of assistance, particularly during emergencies, and provide analytical security advice which enables operations even in areas where residual risks remain. UNHCR will continue to expand strategic partnerships, to broaden the capacity and networks of expertise with which to respond to emergencies. UNHCR will continue to improve its emergency and security policies, tools, and capacity-building initiatives/training to ensure that its staff and partners are as well equipped as possible.
