I. Introduction

1. By its resolution 62/228 on the administration of justice at the United Nations, the General Assembly decided, inter alia, to establish a two-tier formal system of administration of justice, comprising a first-instance United Nations Dispute Tribunal and an appellate-instance United Nations Appeals Tribunal. By the same resolution, the Assembly also decided that the judges of the Dispute Tribunal and the Appeals Tribunal should be appointed by the General Assembly on the recommendation of the Internal Justice Council. The statutes for the Dispute Tribunal and the Appeals Tribunal were adopted by the Assembly in its resolution 63/253. The two Tribunals became operational on 1 July 2009. Article 3, paragraphs 4 and 5, of the statute of the Appeals Tribunal provide as follows:

4. A judge of the Appeals Tribunal shall be appointed for one non-renewable term of seven years. As a transitional measure, three of the judges initially appointed, to be determined by drawing of lots, shall serve three years and may be reappointed to the same Appeals Tribunal for a further non-renewable term of seven years. A current or former judge of the Dispute Tribunal shall not be eligible to serve in the Appeals Tribunal.

5. A judge of the Appeals Tribunal appointed to replace a judge whose term of office has not expired shall hold office for the remainder of his or her predecessor's term and may be reappointed for one non-renewable term of seven years, provided that the unexpired term is less than three years.

2. The current judges of the Appeals Tribunal are: Sophia Adinyira, judge and First Vice-President of the Tribunal (Ghana); Rosalyn M. Chapman, judge and President of the Tribunal (United States of America); Mary Faherty, judge (Ireland); Richard Lussick, judge (Samoa); Luis María Simón, judge (Uruguay); Deborah Thomas-Felix, judge and Second Vice-President of the Tribunal (Trinidad and Tobago); and Inés Weinberg de Roca, judge (Argentina).

3. Effective 30 June 2016, the seven-year term of office of Judge Inés Weinberg de Roca, Judge Luis María Simón and Judge Sophia Adinyira will expire. Under article 3, paragraph 4, of the statute, those three judges are not eligible for reappointment.

4. Effective 30 June 2016, the term of office of Judge Mary Faherty also expires. Judge Faherty is serving out the remainder of the seven-year term of Judge Rose Boyko (Canada); however, given that she has served since 29 June 2011, she will have served more than three years by the end of her term and, under article 3, paragraph 5, of the statute, she is not eligible for reappointment.

5. Consequently, there are four vacancies on the Appeals Tribunal from 1 July 2016.

6. Article 4, paragraph 4, of the statute of the Dispute Tribunal provides as follows:

A judge of the Dispute Tribunal shall be appointed for one non-renewable term of seven years. As a transitional measure, two of the judges (one full-time judge and one half-time judge) initially appointed, to be determined by drawing of lots, shall serve three years and may be reappointed to the same Dispute Tribunal for a further non-renewable term of seven years. A current or former judge of the United Nations Appeals Tribunal shall not be eligible to serve in the Dispute Tribunal.

7. The current judges of the Dispute Tribunal are: Vinod Boolell (Mauritius), full-time judge based in Nairobi and President of the Tribunal; Rowan Downing (Australia), ad litem judge based in Geneva; Memooda Ebrahim-Carstens (Botswana), full-time judge based in New York; Alessandra Greceanu (Romania), ad litem judge based in New York; Nkemdilim Amelia Izuako (Nigeria), ad litem judge based in Nairobi; Thomas Laker (Germany), full-time judge based in Geneva; Goolam Hoosen Kader Meeran (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland), half-time judge; and Coral Shaw (New Zealand), half-time judge.

8. Effective 30 June 2016, the seven-year term of office of Judge Thomas Laker, Judge Vinod Boolell and Judge Coral Shaw (half-time) will expire. Under article 4, paragraph 4, of the statute, those three judges are not eligible for reappointment.

9. Consequently, there are three vacancies (two full-time positions and one half-time position) on the Dispute Tribunal from 1 July 2016 as follows:

- One full-time judge in Geneva
- One full-time judge in Nairobi
- One half-time judge, who would serve for six months each year in one or more of the three locations of the Dispute Tribunal, as assigned by the President of the Tribunal.

10. The present report provides the names and curricula vitae of candidates for the vacant positions for the consideration of the General Assembly, in accordance with the respective statutes of the Tribunals and previous resolutions of the Assembly. The procedure leading to the recommendations of the Internal Justice Council for each position is set out below.

II. Background

11. In paragraph 45 of resolution 65/251 the General Assembly established the procedure to be followed to identify suitable candidates for presentation to the Assembly. The exercise would enable the Council to place on an informal roster the best candidates who were not recommended by the Council to the Assembly in the current round but who could competently fill vacancies in the respective Tribunals. Candidates who were recommended to the Assembly in the present report but who were not elected would also be added to the informal roster. The roster is intended to remain in force only during the terms of office of the current members of the Council, which end on 12 November 2016. It may, however, serve the new panel of the Council as a means for rapidly identifying candidates who could be suitable for appointment, prima facie, and could be interviewed should casual vacancies arise before the end of the next scheduled term of judges (30 June 2019).

12. In mid-March 2015, the official vacancy announcement was posted on the website of the Office of Administration of Justice in both English and French, the text of which is contained in annex I to the present report.

13. Advertisements for the vacancies were placed in both online and printed editions of Le Monde, The Wall Street Journal Asia Edition, The Economist, The International New York Times and Jeune Afrique. The short advertisements referred readers to the official United Nations vacancy announcement on the Office of Administration of Justice website.

14. At the same time that it was posted on the website of the Office of Administration of Justice, the vacancy announcement was attached to a note verbale addressed to all permanent missions to the United Nations in New York, Geneva and Vienna. In the note verbale, permanent missions were invited to bring the vacancy announcement to the attention of qualified nationals of their country as well as to the chief justice or head of the judiciary in their country. The official vacancy announcement was also widely circulated, including to the United Nations information centres, resident coordinators, other international courts and tribunals, human resources entities in international organizations both within and outside the United Nations system, outreach focal points in ministries and government institutions, professional associations, United Nations managers and networks of professional women, non-governmental organizations, national and international bar associations and law societies.

15. The closing date for the applications was 30 April 2015.

16. The Council received 182 applications from 51 different countries. A total of 45 applicants were from Africa, 12 from Asia and the Pacific, 15 from Eastern Europe, 24 from Latin America and the Caribbean, and 84 from Western Europe and other States.¹ Of the applicants, 117 were male and 65 were female. The Council notes that almost half of the candidates were from Western Europe and other States, and regrets that there were not more applications from the other regions.

17. Most applicants expressed a preference or restriction with regard to the tribunal or duty station in which they were prepared to serve. Many were not able to accept half-time appointments in the Dispute Tribunal. The Council respected such limitations. A number of applicants expressed interest in being placed on the roster in the event that a vacancy should arise before the end of the next scheduled term of judges.

18. Applications that did not meet the eligibility requirements of the vacancy announcement were rejected from further consideration with no exceptions.

19. The Council discussed each application and the writing samples provided by applicants. After having reviewed all of the applications, the Council decided on 39 candidates who would be invited to take a common written assessment to test their legal expertise and drafting ability.

20. The Council agreed on the written assessment and relevant background materials (extracts from the Charter of the United Nations, the statute of the Dispute Tribunal, the Staff Regulations of the United Nations and Staff Rules and an administrative instruction) and agreed on a common marking grid to ensure that common assessment standards would be applied.

21. The written assessment and background materials were sent to the 39 candidates by e-mail on 27 May 2015. The candidates were given three hours from the time of opening the e-mail to complete the examination and submit their answers. All of the candidates responded to the invitation and submitted their answers. The Office of Administration of Justice sent the completed examinations to each member of the Council on 1 June 2015 after having eliminated all identifying elements from them so that no Council member would know the name, nationality or gender of the candidate.

22. On the basis of the written assessment, the Council selected 24 applicants to be interviewed for the four vacant positions in the Appeals Tribunal and the three vacant positions in the Dispute Tribunal (many candidates applied for both Tribunals). In order to be selected for the interview, candidates had to display in their written assessments the writing skills and power of judicial analysis necessary for them to serve as excellent judges for the Tribunals. In addition, three candidates who had taken the written assessment in 2014 and who had been interviewed and found qualified by the Council were also invited to the interview.

23. As it had done for the previous rounds of judicial appointments, and with the permission of the recommended candidates, the Council approached the relevant national bar associations for confirmation of the integrity of each candidate called to an interview. Written references were also obtained for each candidate.

24. The candidates were interviewed in The Hague on the premises of the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia between 20 and 24 July 2015.

III. Selection process

A. Mandates of the General Assembly

25. In paragraph 37 (b) of its resolution 62/228, the General Assembly decided that the Council should provide its views and recommendations to the Assembly on two or three candidates for each vacancy in the Dispute Tribunal and the Appeals Tribunal, with due regard to geographical distribution.

26. In paragraph 57 of its resolution 63/253, the General Assembly decided that for future appointments the Council should not recommend more than one candidate from any one Member State for a judgeship on the Dispute Tribunal, or more than one candidate from any one Member State for a judgeship on the Appeals Tribunal.

27. In the light of the above-mentioned mandates, the Council decided to present two qualified candidates to the General Assembly for each vacant position. No candidate is recommended who is of the same nationality as that of a sitting judge scheduled to serve from 1 July 2016 on the Tribunal concerned.

28. As noted in paragraph 11, the Council will retain a list of the best candidates who were not recommended for election in this round, but who could competently fill vacancies in the respective Tribunals, on an informal roster for each Tribunal in the event that a casual vacancy in the Tribunals should arise before 30 June 2019 (the end of the next scheduled term of judges). Candidates who were recommended to the General Assembly but were not selected will also be added to the roster, which would also be used, subject to the authorization of the Assembly, should the ad litem positions be regularized (see paragraph 35).

29. Subject to the views of the General Assembly, if a vacancy occurs during the term of office of the current panel of the Council, the Council will contact candidates who have been placed on the roster in order to ascertain if they will be available to fill that vacancy. If they are available, appropriate candidates on the roster will be recommended. The Council will only undertake a full-scale recruitment process if it is not feasible to recommend candidates from the roster.

B. Candidature of serving ad litem judges of the Dispute Tribunal

30. Two ad litem judges applied for the vacant positions that will open on 1 July 2016 and one ad litem judge asked to be placed on the roster for consideration for future vacant positions.

31. For many years, the Council has recommended that the ad litem positions be transformed into regular seven-year terms. The issue is currently before the panel established pursuant to General Assembly resolution 68/254 to conduct an interim assessment of the system of administration of justice, including an analysis of whether the aims and objectives of the system set out in resolution 61/261 were being achieved in an efficient and cost effective manner. The latest statistics published by the Office of Administration of Justice in table 1 of its eighth activity report, covering the period from 1 January to 31 December 2014, leave no doubt that such transformation into full-time positions is necessary.

32. The Council decided not to consider any of the ad litem judges for the vacancies in the Dispute Tribunal that will arise from 1 July 2016 because the General Assembly will first have to take a decision on the conditions for the eligibility of such judges, given their length of service in ad litem positions.

33. The statute of the Dispute Tribunal contains no provisions on the eligibility of ad litem judges for full-time positions if their positions are transformed into regular full-time terms of seven years. Article 4 only contains provisions for the three full-time judges and the two half-time judges. The article provides term limits for full-time judges, who in principle are appointed for one non-renewable term of seven years, although if a judge is appointed to fill the remainder of his or her predecessor's term, that judge may be reappointed for one non-renewable term of seven years, provided that the unexpired term is less than three years (article 4, paragraph 5).

34. The General Assembly will therefore have to decide on the conditions under which an ad litem judge will be eligible for consideration for an appointment to a regular position with a seven-year term, if that judge applies for such a position or if the ad litem position is transformed into a full-term position.

35. The Council recommends the following course of action to the General Assembly concerning the candidature of ad litem judges:

(a) That an ad litem judge would be eligible for consideration for full-time appointment if the total term of service as a judge would be less than 10 years;

(b) That the Council be authorized to make its recommendations to the Assembly for any newly created full-time positions, or for any vacancy caused by the departure of a judge appointed for a seven-year term, from current ad litem judges who have served no more than three years as at the date from which the new full-time position is created or as at the date of the vacancy, and from the roster of qualified candidates who have been interviewed by the Council, to avoid, if possible, the need for another costly recruitment exercise.

IV. Profiles of recommended candidates

A. Recommendations for the United Nations Appeals Tribunal

36. The Council sets out below the names of eight candidates for the four vacant posts in the Appeals Tribunal. There are two recommendations for each position. The recommended candidates are listed alphabetically by last name, accompanied by a brief summary of their careers. Their curricula vitae are set out in annex II to the present report in a standard and summarized format.²

37. Judge Joëlle Adda (France) began her judicial career in 1989 as a judge at the Versailles Administrative Court. In 1996, she became an appeal judge at the Paris Administrative Court of Appeal, a position she held until 2014, including periods as presiding judge. Since 2014, she has been President of the Lille Administrative Court.

38. Judge Constance D. Hunt (Canada) was a judge in trial and appellate courts for 23 years in Alberta, Canada, functioning in both English and French. She has extensive administrative law experience at both the trial and appellate levels. Before her judicial appointments, she was a professor and dean of a law school. She has also carried out volunteer work in judicial training in a number of countries in Africa.

39. Judge Sabine Knierim (Germany) has served as a judge in a Court of Administrative Law in Hamburg, Germany, since 1994 and has served as a judge of the Appeals Court of Administrative Law in Hamburg since 2011. She has extensive experience in the regime governing civil service employment matters and has experience in both civil law and common law systems.

40. Judge Fiona Monk (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland) has been an employment judge since 2000, initially in London and from 2007 in Birmingham, United Kingdom. She has been trained as a mediator judge and since 2011 has conducted judicial mediations in employment law. Before her judicial appointments, she worked at a law centre providing legal advice and representation to disadvantaged and minority groups.

41. Judge John Murphy (South Africa) has been a judge of the High Court of South Africa since 2006 and has been an acting judge of appeal of the Labour Appeal Court since 2011. From 2004 to 2006, he was an acting judge of the Labour Court. He was an international judge in Kosovo from June 2003 to January 2004 and has held various arbitration and mediation positions and positions in law schools. He has published in the fields of labour law and pensions law.

42. Judge Dimitrios Raikos (Greece) has been a judge in the Administrative Courts of Greece since 1985, initially at the trial level up to 1999 and at the appeal level since. He has extensive experience in the regime governing civil servants. He is also a professor of administrative law and has published extensively in the field of public administration.

43. Judge Martha Halfeld Furtado de Mendonça Schmidt (Brazil) has been a labour judge in Brazil since 1994 and, since 2013, has been replacing appeal judges on a regular basis. She has considerable experience in conciliation and has taught in the field of labour law.

44. Judge Bostjan Zalar (Slovenia) has served in various capacities in the Administrative Court of the Republic of Slovenia since 1999. The Administrative Court is the final court of review for all types of claims involving civil servants and their employers.

B. Recommendations for the United Nations Dispute Tribunal

45. The two candidates recommended by the Council for appointment to each of the vacant posts in the Dispute Tribunal in Geneva and Nairobi and the vacancy in one of the half-time posts, as described in paragraphs 8 and 9 above, are set out below. The recommended candidates are listed alphabetically by last name, accompanied by a brief summary of their careers. Their curricula vitae are set out in annex III to the present report in a standard and summarized format.²

Recommendations for the vacancy in Geneva

46. Judge Teresa Maria da Silva Bravo (Portugal) has been a judge at first instance since 2000, and since 2009 has been a judge of the Labour Court of Lisbon, dealing in both courts with employment disputes at the trial level. She has conducted research in labour law matters viewed from a comparative law point of view.

47. Judge Vincent Cador (France) served as a judge of various divisions of the Béthune Superior Court from 1995 to 2001, handling civil and criminal matters, and from 2002 to 2005 as a judge of the Strasbourg Administrative Court, handling civil service, social security and fiscal matters. He has published extensively in labour and administrative law matters viewed from a comparative law point of view.

Recommendations for the vacancy in Nairobi

48. Judge Agnieszka Klonowiecka-Milart (Poland) became a judge in civil and business law matters of the District Court in Lublin, Poland, in 1991. She also spent a year at the appellate level, from 2000 to 2008 was an international judge in the Kosovo Supreme Court and from 2006 to 2010 was an international judge, on an ad hoc basis, with the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia.

49. Judge Frederick Indran X. A. Nicholas (Malaysia) has held judicial appointments in various industrial courts (which deal with labour law matters) since 1986 and, since 2006, has been a Divisional Chair of the Industrial Court in Penang, Malaysia, and is also Chair of the Social Security Appeals Board of the North Region of Malaysia.

Recommendations for the half-time vacancy

50. Judge Alexander W. Hunter (United States of America) has served as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York since 1994. He previously served for eight years as a judge of the Criminal Court of the City of New York. He has extensive experience in most areas of civil law. He teaches trial advocacy and co-authored the chapter on evidence in a book on practice for trial judges.

51. Judge Valérie Laemmel-Juillard (Switzerland) has been a judge since 1986, both at the trial and appellate level, in a large number of matters including criminal law, intellectual property and commercial law. She also has extensive experience as a judge in labour law and in conciliation.

V. Conclusions

52. The Council expresses its gratitude to the Secretariat, in particular the Office of Administration of Justice, the Executive Office of the Secretary-General and the Office of Human Resources Management, for the outstanding support that it has provided to the Council. The Council would also like to thank the International Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia for making its facilities and administrative support available to the Council.

Annex I

Official vacancy announcement for the vacant positions in the Tribunals

United Nations

Judges of the United Nations internal justice system

The United Nations is seeking judges for its internal system for the administration of justice that addresses employment-related disputes.

The system includes a first instance United Nations Dispute Tribunal (UNDT) and an appellate instance United Nations Appeals Tribunal (UNAT). The UNDT sits in New York, Geneva and Nairobi and is comprised of three full-time judges, two half-time judges and three ad litem judges. The full-time and half-time judges serve for seven-year terms. The UNAT is comprised of seven judges, who also serve for seven-year terms. They currently sit for three sessions each year, each of two weeks' duration. The mandates of three judges of the UNDT and four judges of the UNAT will expire on 30 June 2016.

The United Nations is undertaking the present selection exercise to fill these seven vacancies. In particular, the United Nations is inviting applications for:

- One full-time judge for the UNDT in Geneva
- One full-time judge for the UNDT in Nairobi
- One half-time judge for the UNDT (who serves for six months of a year in one of the three locations of the UNDT as assigned by the President)
- Four judges for the UNAT

Persons applying to serve as judges must be of high moral character.

In the case of the UNDT, candidates must have at least 10 years of judicial experience in the field of administrative law or the equivalent within one or more national jurisdictions. In the case of the UNAT, candidates must have at least 15 years of aggregate judicial experience in the field of administrative law, employment law or the equivalent within one or more national or international jurisdictions. Relevant academic experience, when combined with practical experience in arbitration or the equivalent, may be taken into account towards 5 of the qualifying 15 years.

English and French are the working languages of the United Nations. Candidates should be able to conduct judicial proceedings in either English or French. For the vacancy for the UNDT in Geneva, fluency in both English and French is required.

The qualifications and terms of office of the judges and the articles governing the operation of the Tribunals are set out in the statutes of the UNDT and UNAT, available at www.un.org/en/oaj (in English) and www.un.org/fr/oaj (in French).

The judges shall be appointed by the General Assembly from a list of two or three candidates recommended for each vacancy by the Internal Justice Council (IJC), an independent body established by the General Assembly. The IJC will also create a roster of candidates who, while they are not submitted to the General Assembly for appointment, will be eligible for nomination in case a casual vacancy occurs (e.g., through resignation) among the full-time, half-time or ad litem judges.

Applications: Interested candidates are invited to submit a cover letter specifying, inter alia, the preferred Tribunal(s) and location(s), and curriculum vitae by e-mail to internaljusticecouncil-application@un.org or by facsimile to + 1-212-963-2525, to be received by 30 April 2015. The curriculum vitae must include: the date of birth, nationality(ies), gender, language skills and contact details, including telephone numbers and an e-mail address at which the candidate can be reached through 31 December 2015, as well as a full career and educational profile. The candidate must also provide an example of a judgement he or she delivered, or a legal opinion or other equivalent written work (translated into English or French if the original is in another language), as well as the names and e-mail addresses of two senior legal professionals able to attest to the moral character and professional standing of the candidate. If the candidate agrees, the IJC will also contact the bar association in the area where the candidate is working to attest to the professional integrity of the candidate.

Applications from women are strongly encouraged.

The UNDT judges are remunerated at a level equivalent to D-2, step IV, on the United Nations salary scale. (For indicative purposes, the annual net salary levels at D-2, step IV, single rate, including cost-of-living adjustment, in effect as from 1 January 2015 are as follows: $183,043.27 (New York), $218,509.96 (Geneva) and $153,835.40 (Nairobi)). The UNAT judges receive an honorarium of $2,400 for each case for the principal author, and $600 for each judge signatory.

More information on the system of administration of justice can be found at www.un.org/en/oaj (in English) or www.un.org/fr/oaj (in French).
