This document presents only the confirmed cases on indisputable grounds, but the staff of the Human Rights Ombudsman of Artsakh also received incomplete information on other alleged cases, which have not yet been fully verified.
In addition, at the time of publication of the report, on the basis of the Ombudsman's fact-finding activities, about 20 missing civilians have been recorded, whose fate is still unknown.

The following are the main methods of a fact-finding activity and report preparation:

- The representatives of the Ombudsman regularly receive data on deaths from the Bureau of Forensic Medical Examinations and hospitals.
- The data are also collected from law enforcement bodies, as well as from the State Emergency Service and Defense army particularly about the results of search operations.
- Verifying visits and calls are made to leadership of communities and regions to find out the circumstances of the incidents, and the data of the casualties and their relatives.
- Interviews are conducted with the relatives of the victims and possible witnesses, the personal data of the victims and the circumstances of the death are clarified, photos of the victims are taken.
- Visits are organized to and studies are conducted on the spot.

As a result of the application of the mentioned methods it was possible to collect the presented data, to prepare the public and closed versions of the report. The closed report added many photos of the killed civilians before and after their deaths. The public report was prepared without photos, not to show cruel and sensitive images.
Section 2 presents the 42 civilian casualties killed by long-range strikes by the Azerbaijani Armed Forces, including the cases of missile strikes, shelling, bombing, and gunshots of subversive groups.
Section 3 summarizes the data on 38 civilian casualties who were killed in Azerbaijani captivity, or at least under their control, through physical violence, stabbing, beheading, close-range shot, and other direct means. Given that the bodies of some of the killed were found long after the death, in some cases it became impossible to assess in detail the circumstances of the death and the traces of the crimes. However, in some cases, brief information from the preliminary findings of forensic examinations is also provided.
