Seventy-seventh session

Item 75 of the provisional agenda*

Criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission

Criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission

Report of the Secretary-General

Summary

The present report has been prepared pursuant to paragraphs 31 and 32 of General Assembly resolution 76/106. Section II contains a summary of information received from Governments on the extent to which jurisdiction over their nationals while serving as United Nations officials or experts on mission is established under their national laws. Section III provides a summary of the information received from Governments on the handling of credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission by States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto. Section IV provides a summary of the information on cooperation among States and with the United Nations in the exchange of information and the facilitation of investigations and prosecutions of such individuals, as well as the protection of victims and witnesses in this process. Section V contains a summary of information on vetting by Member States contributing personnel to the United Nations. Section VI provides a summary of the comments received from Governments on the report of the Group of Legal Experts on ensuring the accountability of United Nations staff and experts on mission with respect to criminal acts committed in peacekeeping operations (A/60/980), including on the question of future action. Sections VII and VIII relate to information on activities within the Secretariat.

* A/77/150.

I. Introduction

1. The present report has been prepared pursuant to General Assembly resolution 76/106, in which the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to report on the implementation of the resolution, in particular with respect to paragraphs 10, 12, 13, 15, 18, 20 and 30 thereof, as well as any practical problems in its implementation, on the basis of information received from Governments and the Secretariat. The present report contains summaries of the information received. The full texts of the information received from Governments will be made available on the website of the Sixth Committee (www.un.org/en/ga/sixth/).

2. Information was received from the following States: Burkina Faso, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Finland, Greece, Islamic Republic of Iran, Madagascar, Malaysia and United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

3. Section II concerns information received relating to the criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission, pursuant to paragraph 10 of resolution 76/106. Section III concerns information received pursuant to paragraphs 18 to 20 of the resolution, while section IV covers information received under paragraph 12. Section V provides information relating to paragraph 13 of the resolution and section VI relates to information regarding paragraph 15.

4. Sections VII and VIII relate to activities undertaken within the Secretariat in the implementation of paragraphs 6, 13, 14, 18 to 24 and 32 of the resolution.

5. The present report should be read together with previous reports of the Secretary-General under the item on criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission.¹ As noted in previous reports of the Secretary General, the report, coupled with the work of the Sixth Committee, is but one aspect of the work of the Organization to address issues of accountability within the United Nations. Different reporting mechanisms apply with respect to questions of accountability within the Organization which might bear on questions of criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission. As noted in previous reports (see, for example, A/76/208), other reports prepared pursuant to other mandates may be relevant to the present item.²

II. Establishment of jurisdiction over crimes of a serious nature

Burkina Faso

6. Burkina Faso reported that the criminal liability of United Nations officials and experts on mission was governed by Act No. 025-2018/AN of 31 May 2018 (the Criminal Code) and Act No. 040-2019/AN of 29 May 2019 (the Code of Criminal Procedure).

7. Article 113-1, paragraph 2, of the Criminal Code provided that offences committed outside the national territory by a national of Burkina Faso or a foreign national were punishable under the criminal law of Burkina Faso, provided that the acts were punishable under the laws of the country in which they were committed. The courts of Burkina Faso had jurisdiction to hear and make a determination on such offences committed outside the national territory. However, the prosecution before those courts must have been preceded by either a complaint from the victim or an official complaint from the authorities of the country in which the act was committed.

8. These legislative provisions, which predated resolution 76/106, had allowed Burkina Faso to implement the resolution fully, as they addressed offences committed by both nationals of Burkina Faso and foreign nationals, including United Nations officials and experts on mission.

Ecuador

9. Ecuador provided information further to that previous reported (see A/76/208) concerning relevant provisions of its Comprehensive Organic Criminal Code.

10. Ecuador provided the texts of the articles of the Code entitled: “Aggravating circumstances of the offence”; “Aggravating circumstances for offences against sexual and reproductive integrity, and personal freedom and integrity”; “Crimes against humanity”; “Trafficking in persons”; “Penalty for the crime of trafficking in persons”; “Sexual harassment”; “Sexual intercourse with a minor”; “Corruption of children and adolescents”; “Sexual abuse”; “Rape”; “Use of persons for public exhibition for sexual purposes; Sexual extortion”; “Sexual contact with minors under 18 years of age by electronic means”; “Offer of sexual services with a minor under 18 years of age by electronic means”; and “Provisions common to crimes and sexual and reproductive integrity”.

Egypt

11. Egypt reiterated (see A/75/217) that its military personnel at all grades serving in United Nations missions, whatever the nature of their work, were subject to criminal accountability for acts performed outside Egyptian territory and criminalized under Egyptian criminal law.

El Salvador

12. El Salvador reiterated information previously reported (see A/65/185, A/67/213, A/69/210, A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208). In addition, it expressed the view that universality constituted a principle of international law that played a role in combatting impunity and ensuring access to justice, truth and full reparation for victims. It added that, as a country that safeguards constitutional processes, it had a framework of laws, decrees and regulations for the prosecution of offences which, inter alia, enabled investigative purposes to be fulfilled, in both criminal and administrative cases (Police Discipline Act and Code of Conduct). In that respect, national institutions worked jointly with the Office of the Attorney General of the Republic, for which they required the report or complaint, together with the evidence or proof to be presented under the legal system of the host country where the act occurred or the country of origin of the alleged offender, in cases where the legal conditions so permitted. In addition, all action had to be taken in full respect for the fundamental rights of the alleged perpetrators, including due process, legal security and the presumption of innocence.

Greece

13. Greece referred to information previously reported (see A/75/217) and stated that, by Law No. 4855/2021, published 12 November 2021, the term “perjury” had been replaced by “false testimony” in article 8 (e) of the Greek Penal Code.

Iran (Islamic Republic of)

14. The Islamic Republic of Iran reported that it had taken legislative measures to give effect to its obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and other relevant instruments, including the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, and was committed not only to the preparation of a tranquil environment for the work of United Nations officials in Iran but also to bringing to justice those who violated the laws against them. It expressed the expectation that United Nations officials and experts on mission in the Islamic Republic of Iran fully adhere to the rules and regulations of the country.

15. The Islamic Republic of Iran indicated that it considered the State of nationality the appropriate forum for the prosecution of alleged crimes. It reported that its Penal Code and its Law of Criminal Procedure provided the legal bases necessary for the effective prosecution of crimes committed by Iranian nationals wherever they had committed such crimes, including those serving as United Nations officials or experts on mission. Its criminal system was committed to ensuring that Iranian nationals were not able to escape from justice under the pretext of immunity for crimes they had committed. The Islamic Republic of Iran asserted extraterritorial jurisdiction over crimes committed abroad by its nationals based on the principle of nationality if that offence had been recognized by Iranian Penal Code.

Madagascar

16. Madagascar reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217 and A/76/208).

Malaysia

17. Malaysia reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217). It added that, under its laws, extraterritorial jurisdiction was applicable to some offences under the Penal Code (Act 574) and any offences under any of the written laws specified in the Schedule to the Extra-Territorial Offences Act 1976 (Act 163). In other words, Malaysia would only be able to establish jurisdiction on offences where its domestic laws allowed it to claim extraterritorial criminal jurisdiction, such as for offences of terrorism, offences against the State, corruption, money laundering, trafficking of dangerous drugs, trafficking in persons and smuggling of migrants.

III. Handling of credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission by States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto

18. Egypt reported that it had adopted a specific procedural mechanism to address any violations entailing criminal accountability that could have been committed by Egyptian military personnel serving in United Nations missions. First, the Egyptian official or mission leader, or any other competent person, would notify the Egyptian military judicial authorities by means of a detailed memorandum concerning the commission by Egyptian military personnel of any violation entailing criminal responsibility. The Ministry of Defence would then take the necessary measures to send commissions of inquiry to the place of the incident. The suspect would be summoned or transferred to Egypt, and the specialized investigating authorities would undertake an investigation, which would lead ultimately to a judicial decision providing for either a disciplinary sanction or military prosecution. It would impose penalties sufficient to act as a deterrent, and the facts and the measures taken would be published for awareness-raising purposes. The concerned parties at the United Nations would be notified of the actions taken in respect of the perpetrators as soon as the investigation and trial were complete.

El Salvador

19. El Salvador reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217 and A/76/208).

Finland

20. Finland reiterated its previous comments (see A/71/167, A/72/205, A/73/129, A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208) and reported that no crimes of a serious nature committed by Finnish nationals while serving as United Nations officials or experts on mission had been brought to the attention of the Finnish authorities. Should such allegations be made, all appropriate measures would be taken to investigate the allegations and prosecute crimes in accordance with Finnish law.

21. Finland added that its Regulation of the Defence Forces on military superiors entitled to exercise disciplinary powers (HQ1033/16 December 2020) laid down provisions on disciplinary powers in crisis management. A disciplinary superior would decide whether a criminal investigation is to be initiated and whether it is to be transferred to the Defence Command or the police. If necessary, the disciplinary superior could also report the suspected offence to the police in those cases in which the Defence Forces themselves could not conduct a criminal investigation. Under the law, the police or an official of the Defence Command acting as the lead investigator could also decide to initiate a criminal investigation. Under Finnish law, a criminal investigation must be initiated if there were reason to suspect an offence occurred, and criminal investigation authorities must investigate all suspected offences unless otherwise provided by law. The Finnish Defence Forces considered it important to investigate all suspected offences committed by soldiers deployed in operations.

IV. Cooperation between States and with the United Nations in the exchange of information and the facilitation of investigations and prosecutions, and protection of victims and witnesses in this process

Burkina Faso

22. Burkina Faso reported that its criminal law provided for cooperation between States through requests for information, letters rogatory and bilateral agreements on extradition and/or mutual legal assistance in criminal matters that had been or might be signed. Although Burkina Faso did not, in principle, extradite its citizens, it might, at its discretion, examine extradition requests, determining whether the accused was a national at the time the act was committed.

23. While such cooperation was possible on the basis of treaties, bilateral or multilateral agreements, reciprocity or international comity, the following conditions and principles must be respected: the principle of dual criminality, the proportionality of the penalty, the principle of non bis in idem, a commitment to respect the rule of specialty, the non-application of the death penalty and the absence of the risk of torture.

24. Burkina Faso considered its criminal law adequate to enable it to cooperate in this matter with other subjects of international law, as a requested State or requesting State, in order to ensure the effective and efficient punishment of offences committed outside its national territory by either nationals of Burkina Faso or foreign nationals, including United Nations officials and experts on mission.

El Salvador

25. El Salvador reiterated information previously reported (see A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208).

Iran (Islamic Republic of)

26. The Islamic Republic of Iran reported that criminal judicial assistance and extradition were permitted by its criminal law on the basis of both bilateral and multilateral treaties, and the principle of reciprocity in the absence of such agreements on a case-by-case basis. It added that its Law of Criminal Procedure predicted effective protection for witnesses and victims who provided information in relation to crime.

Madagascar

27. Madagascar reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217 and A/76/208) and added that, concerning the fight against corruption, Act No. 2016-020 of 22 August 2016 contained provisions on the protection of whistle-blowers, witnesses, victims and anti-corruption officers.

Malaysia

28. Malaysia reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217). It further noted that practical issues might arise concerning cooperation between a State and the United Nations in the provision of evidence, such as the need to determine the central authority within the United Nations that would act as the conduit in channelling information and evidence.

29. Malaysia also raised the issue of practicality with regards to paragraph 12 of resolution 76/106, which focused on States' responsibility to provide each other assistance in connection with criminal investigations or criminal or extradition proceedings, in accordance with their national law, treaties or other arrangements on extradition and mutual legal assistance that could exist between them. In this regard, States could need to invoke the due process of mutual legal assistance to obtain or provide evidence at their disposal.

United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

30. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland reported that it had developed a sexual and gender-based violence investigations course for police deploying to United Nations and African Union peacekeeping missions. The course introduced the concept of trauma-informed, victim-centred investigation, delivering specialist knowledge and skills for dealing with complex and traumatic investigations, enabling police officers to support the most vulnerable victims and bring more perpetrators to justice. In the past year, the United Kingdom had delivered this training in Ghana and Zambia and to the Eastern African Standby Force in Kenya.

31. The United Kingdom recalled information previously provided relating to its Domestic Abuse Act 2021 (see A/76/208) and reported that it had provided assistance on developing similar legal measures by sharing information about the Act with Member States at the Action for Peacekeeping event on strengthening the conduct of peacekeeping personnel, organized by the Department of Management Strategy, Policy, and Compliance and the Department of Peace Operations, and highlighting the importance of such legislation as a valuable tool to bring to justice any United Kingdom national or resident who committed relevant offences while serving or on mission for the United Nations.

V. Vetting by Member States contributing personnel to the United Nations

Egypt

32. Egypt reported that its defence ministry ensured that its personnel underwent training and preparation courses before deployment on mission.

El Salvador

33. El Salvador reiterated information previously reported (see A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208).

Finland

34. Finland reported that its military training included training on international humanitarian law, war crimes and crimes against humanity, and on how to intervene in such crimes. Training on these subjects was also included in the training of military personnel preceding their missions abroad. In addition, before military personnel were posted to the receiving country, they were given training on such subjects as legislation applicable to them, the legal accountability of soldiers under national and international law, and gender equality and gender issues. The Defence Forces had also issued regulations on that subject that were binding on all soldiers. The purpose of the training and regulations was to prevent and counter unwanted behaviour and crime.

Madagascar

35. Madagascar reiterated information previously reported (see A/76/208).

United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland

36. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland reported that, in February 2022, the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL) had publicly announced that the 10 million pound United Kingdom-funded safeguarding project, Project Soteria, was operational. Project Soteria established an advanced level of global collaboration between law enforcement agencies and aid sector organizations to prevent sexual offenders from working undetected in the aid sector and to take action if they did. Project Soteria's focus was on the humanitarian and development sectors, but strengthening the capacity of law enforcement to investigate, prosecute and arrest perpetrators of sexual exploitation and abuse would have a positive impact in other areas as well, including greater accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission who had committed crimes of that nature. In support of paragraph 12, sub-paragraph (d), of resolution 76/106, Project Soteria would assist host States in enhancing their capacity to conduct effective investigations in respect of crimes of a serious nature. After a period of detailed consultation and design, Project Soteria would run until 2025 in selected countries in Eastern Europe, Africa and Asia. Project Soteria was exploring how to build synergies with the United Nations Clear Check system and the Misconduct Disclosure Scheme.

VI. Report of the Group of Legal Experts, including on the question of future action

Malaysia

37. Malaysia reiterated information previously reported (see A/75/217).

El Salvador

38. El Salvador reiterated information previously reported (see A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208). It also stated that, with regard to future action, it considered that personnel serving in peacekeeping missions should receive ongoing training, before and during missions, with regard to the types of misconduct that, if carried out in the host States, might constitute a crime and should also be aware of the essential aspects of the crimes under the law of the host countries that cooperate with such missions.

Finland

39. Finland reiterated (see A/73/129, A/74/145, A/75/217 and A/76/208) that it remained ready to consider a proposal for a comprehensive international legal framework to ensure that the criminal conduct of United Nations officials and experts on mission was addressed.

VII. Bringing credible allegations that reveal that a crime may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission to the attention of the States against whose nationals such allegations are made, and matters relating thereto

40. In paragraphs 18 to 24 and 28 to 32 of resolution 76/106, the General Assembly urged Member States to provide information to the Secretary-General, requested the Secretary-General to provide certain information to the Assembly and requested the United Nations to take certain measures concerning the issue of the criminal accountability of officials and experts on mission.

Criminal conduct of personnel deployed in field missions

41. The Secretary-General refers credible allegations of criminal conduct by United Nations officials and experts on mission to the respective States of nationality of those individuals. In addition, and in accordance with guidance issued in 2018, field missions are expected to cooperate with host States in investigations and prosecutions that may be initiated by host States in such instances. For military personnel deployed in United Nations field missions, immune from prosecutions in host States, the Secretariat continues to follow up with troop-contributing countries on accountability measures taken for substantiated allegations of misconduct, including criminal prosecutions, where applicable.

42. During the reporting period, the Office of Legal Affairs referred 18 cases of credible allegations of criminal conduct involving field personnel, to the States of nationality of the individuals concerned (see annex I to the present report).

Referrals in relation to officials or experts on mission during the period from 1 July 2021 to 30 June 2022

43. The request in paragraph 18 of resolution 76/106 is similar those made by the General Assembly in paragraph 18 of resolutions 75/132 (see A/76/208 covering the 2020/21 period), 74/181 (see A/75/217 covering the 2019/20 period), 73/196 (see

A/74/145 covering the 2018/19 period) and 72/112 (see A/73/129 covering the 2017/18 period), paragraph 17 of resolution 71/134 (see A/72/205 covering the 2016/17 period), paragraph 15 of resolution 70/114 (see A/71/167, covering the 2015/16 period), and paragraph 9 of resolutions 69/114 (see A/70/208, covering the 2014/15 period), 68/105 (see A/69/210, covering the 2013/14 period), 67/88 (see A/68/173, covering the 2012/13 period), 66/93 (see A/67/213, covering the 2011/12 period), 65/20 (see A/66/174, covering the 2010/11 period), 64/110 (see A/65/185, covering the 2009/10 period), 63/119 (see A/64/183, covering the 2008/09 period) and 62/63 (see A/63/260, covering the 2007/08 period).

44. During the period from 1 July 2021 to 30 June 2022, the Office of Legal Affairs referred to States of nationality, through the permanent missions concerned, 45 cases involving 45 United Nations officials and experts on mission for investigation and possible prosecution. Of those cases, 8 concerned allegations of corruption and fraud, of which 1 also involved allegations of theft; 8 concerned allegations of fraud; 3 concerned allegations of corruption; 3 concerned allegations of theft of which 1 also concerned allegations of corruption and fraud; 22 concerned allegations of entitlement fraud; and 2 concerned allegations of sexual exploitation and/or abuse, of which 1 also involved allegations of physical assault. Additional details regarding those cases, as requested in paragraph 32 of resolution 76/106, are contained in annex I to the present report.

Updates from States on the status of their efforts to investigate and, as appropriate, prosecute cases, as well as assistance requested from the Secretariat

45. In accordance with paragraph 20 of resolution 76/106, the Secretariat requested the States to which cases were referred to keep the United Nations informed of any action taken by national authorities in relation to such cases, and followed up on cases for which it did not receive a response from the Member State concerned. As of the date of preparation of the present report, the Secretariat has been informed in 2 cases of actions taken in relation to referrals made during the reporting period. Annex I also reflects the responses received from States during the reporting period in relation to referrals made in previous reporting periods.

Information on the nature of the allegations and information received from States on all referrals since 1 July 2007

46. Annex I to the present report contains information on referrals of credible allegations to States of nationality pursuant to resolution 62/63 and subsequent resolutions on the criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission. It also contains information and updates received from States in response to such referrals since 1 July 2007, and specific categories of information relating to the credible allegations referred. In addition, annex I contains the dates of follow-up requests sent by the Secretariat to such States, as requested by the General Assembly in paragraph 32 of resolution 76/106.

Notifications received from States with respect to investigations or prosecutions of crimes allegedly committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission

47. In paragraph 19 of resolution 76/106, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to seek, from all States that had notified the United Nations with respect to investigations or prosecutions of crimes allegedly committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission, updates on the status of their investigations or prosecutions, provided that such updates would not prejudice national investigations or national proceedings. In accordance with paragraphs 19 and 32 of resolution 76/106, annex II to the present report provides information on investigations or prosecutions concerning United Nations officials or experts on mission of which the Organization was notified during the reporting period, and as to which the State concerned did not object to their inclusion in the present report.

Possible use by States exercising jurisdiction of information from United Nations investigations

48. In paragraph 22 of resolution 76/106, the General Assembly requested the United Nations, when its investigations into allegations suggested that crimes of a serious nature may have been committed by United Nations officials or experts on mission, to consider any appropriate measures that may facilitate the possible use of information and material for purposes of criminal proceedings initiated by States, bearing in mind due process considerations. In the same vein, in paragraph 24 of resolution 76/106, the Assembly urged the United Nations to continue to cooperate with States exercising jurisdiction in order to provide them, within the framework of the relevant rules of international law and agreements governing activities of the United Nations, with information and material for purposes of criminal proceedings initiated by States.

49. In that regard, it is important to recall that the legal framework within which the referrals are made by the United Nations and the role of the Secretary-General have been outlined in a previous report of the Secretary-General on criminal accountability of United Nations officials and experts on mission (see A/63/260, sect. IV).

50. The United Nations cooperates with law enforcement and judicial authorities of relevant Member States in accordance with its rights and obligations under the Charter of the United Nations and the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations, adopted by the General Assembly on 13 February 1946, as well as other relevant international agreements and applicable legal principles. Accordingly, the Organization will disclose documents and/or information and waive immunity on a case-by-case basis where, in the opinion of the Secretary-General, immunity would impede the course of justice and can be waived without prejudice to the interests of the United Nations. Consequently, information obtained by the United Nations may be provided to the relevant authorities and documents may be shared, subject to considerations of confidentiality and privileges and immunities. Documents may be redacted where necessary. It should be noted that, since the United Nations does not have any criminal investigative or prosecutorial jurisdiction, the use of any documents of information provided by the United Nations, including their admissibility in any legal proceedings, is a matter for determination by the relevant judicial authorities to whom such documents or information have been provided.

Protection of United Nations officials and experts on mission from retaliation

51. For information responding to paragraphs 23 and 25 of resolution 76/106, the situation remains the same as reported in previous reports of the Secretary-General (see, for example, A/70/208, paras. 34–35). In addition, a revised Secretary-General's bulletin on protection against retaliation for reporting misconduct and for cooperating with duly authorized audits or investigations (ST/SGB/2017/2/Rev.1) was issued on 28 November 2017.

VIII. Practical measures to strengthen existing predeployment training and vetting measures

52. All United Nations civilian and uniformed personnel are expected maintain the highest standards of integrity. Current staff members are required to inform the Organization when convicted of a criminal offence. External applicants for staff member positions are required to provide information in their application on any criminal record. Failure to comply with these requirements would amount to misconduct and may result in termination. For uniformed personnel, the Organization continues to request that Member States providing personnel for United Nations field missions certify that those personnel have no criminal records or records of past misconduct. Upon being selected for a position or for deployment with the United Nations, both staff members and uniformed personnel will be vetted against the Organization's own records for instances of misconduct during prior assignments with the United Nations. For field missions, this has been gradually implemented starting in 2007, and all personnel, whether civilian, military or police, are subject to this vetting. Technical enhancements are being completed to expand the capability to similarly conduct this vetting on prior misconduct for all personnel across the Secretariat. Information available to the Secretariat related to records of substantiated allegations of sexual exploitation and abuse, as well as sexual harassment, continues to be entered in the Clear Check database, with information from the database shared with other participating United Nations entities. Those vetting processes form part of the preventive aspect of managing the risks of misconduct in peace operations.

53. The Organization continues to ensure that staff members joining the United Nations and police and military personnel being deployed in field missions are made fully aware of the Organization's expectations that they maintain the highest standards of integrity and abide by the United Nations standards of conduct, including the obligation to respect host countries' laws. Related mandatory trainings on the United Nations standards of conduct must be completed by staff members, while similar training material, including specific information on the need to comply with national laws and the possible consequences of the failure to do so, continues to be made available for predeployment training of police and military personnel by contributing countries. This material is available in different formats, including a mandatory e-learning course on sexual exploitation and abuse, currently being revised, with the updated English version to be released in August 2022, followed by versions in other official United Nations languages. Field missions continue to deliver induction training to arriving civilian, police and military personnel and refresher training, and to otherwise raise awareness among personnel regarding the United Nations standards of conduct through various communication methods. A reinforcement training package is under development, as part of the learning programme entitled "Pipeline to peacekeeping command". The training package will be used in predeployment training conducted by contributing countries to provide military and police commanders with the desired attitudes, knowledge and skills to prevent all forms of misconduct, including sexual exploitation and abuse, report allegations of misconduct and cooperate effectively with investigations. The training package will be made available in all official United Nations languages.
