Summary

At its 2019 resumed session, held on 16 May, from 20 to 24 May and on 4 June 2019, the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations had before it 508 applications for consultative status, including 265 applications deferred from earlier sessions. Of the non-governmental organizations submitting those applications, the Committee recommended 219 for consultative status, deferred 268 for further consideration at its regular session in 2020 and closed without prejudice consideration of 21 applications of organizations that had failed to respond to queries over two consecutive sessions of the Committee. The Committee also had before it five requests for reclassification of consultative status, including three requests deferred from previous sessions; it recommended granting one of the requests and deferred consideration of four. The Committee further deferred consideration of one request for a merger deferred from previous sessions. The Committee considered nine requests for a change of name, including one deferred request, took note of eight of those requests and deferred one. It also had before it 190 new quadrennial reports, of which it took note of 187. The Committee heard 15 representatives of the non-governmental organizations that attended the session.

The present report contains seven draft decisions on matters calling for action by the Economic and Social Council.

B. Review of quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council

16. At its 27th meeting, on 24 May, the Committee considered agenda item 4 (b), Review of quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Council. It had before it notes by the Secretary-General containing 190 new quadrennial reports (E/C.2/2019/2/Add.3, E/C.2/2019/2/Add.4, E/C.2/2019/2/Add.5 and E/C.2/2019/2/CRP.44–55). The Committee took note of 187 of those reports (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (d)). The Committee decided to defer consideration of the reports of the following organizations:

Association internationale des droits de l’homme (2014–2017)

International PEN (2014–2017)

Jesuit Refugee Service (JRS) (2014–2017)

C. Other related matters

Requests for a change of name

17. At its 27th meeting, on 24 May, the Committee considered eight new requests for a change of name by organizations in consultative status, as contained in document E/C.2/2019/CRP.38, and one request for a change of name deferred from previous sessions, as contained in document E/C.2/2019/CRP.39. It decided to take note of the change of name of eight organizations (see chap. I, draft decision I, subpara. (c)) and to further defer its consideration of the request for a change of name by the following organization, pending the receipt of responses to questions posed by the Committee:

Initiative féministe européenne (special, 2016) to Initiative féministe euroméditerranéenne (IFE-EFI)

Request for withdrawal of consultative status

18. At its 28th meeting, on 24 May, the Committee took note of the request for withdrawal of consultative status of the NGO Global Spatial Data Infrastructure, owing to the dissolution of the organization (see chap. I, draft decision II).

IV. Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat

19. At its 17th meeting, on 16 May, the Committee jointly considered agenda item 5, Strengthening of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat, agenda item 6, Review of the Methods of Work of the Committee: implementation of Economic and Social Council resolution 1996/31, including the process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, and Council decision 1995/304, and agenda item 8, General voluntary trust fund in support of the United Nations Non-Governmental Organizations Informal Regional Network, and heard oral reports made by the Secretariat.

20. The Acting Chief of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch said that there had been a steady and unabated increase in the number of applications for consultative status received by the Branch over the years, with 820 applications received in 2018, compared with 774 in 2017 and 630 in 2016. Consequently, the workload of the Branch in processing new applications and quadrennial reports had been affected, leading to a backlog in the submission of applications to the Committee. He added that the increase also had implications on the work of the Committee, given that, since 2018, the number of applications submitted to the Committee had exceeded 500 per year, compared with the average of 350 applications submitted per year prior to 2015. He recalled that the General Assembly, in its resolution 72/305 on the review of the implementation of Assembly resolution 68/1 on the strengthening of the Economic and Social Council, had invited the Committee to examine in a timely manner how it could effectively accommodate the growing number of applications of NGOs for consultative status, and he affirmed the Secretariat's willingness to support the Committee in that regard. He informed the Committee that the Secretariat was exploring opportunities for further streamlining the documentation submitted to the Committee, with a view to reducing the overall volume of work, translation and related processes, and that the Secretariat would share proposals for the Committee's consideration in that regard.

V. Review of the methods of work of the Committee: implementation of Council resolution 1996/31, including the process of accreditation of representatives of non-governmental organizations, and Council decision 1995/304

21. At the 17th meeting, on 16 May, the representative of India recalled that the Committee had been considering a proposal to screen applications for consultative status against the Consolidated United Nations Security Council Sanctions List and that the Committee had convened several informal meetings to consider proposals for implementing such screening. She inquired whether there had been further progress on taking the matter forward.

22. The Chair recalled that the Committee had held an informal meeting on 27 March 2019, at which it had received a briefing from the Department of Political and Peacebuilding Affairs regarding the Sanctions List. He proposed the establishment of an informal working group to consider proposals regarding the screening of applications.

23. The representative of Mexico welcomed the establishment of the informal working group and sought clarification from the Chair regarding the precise purpose and scope of the work of the proposed working group. He inquired as to whether there was any precedent in the Committee's work on the establishment of informal groups.

24. The Chair confirmed that there was precedent for the establishment of an informal working group by the Committee and stated that the purpose of the proposed working group would be to make specific proposals to the Committee in consultation with the Secretariat, for the implementation of the screening of applications for consultative status against the Sanctions List. He added that, once approved, the Committee's proposals would be submitted to the Council for endorsement.

25. The Secretariat further confirmed that the Committee had established an informal working group in 2000 to revise and update the application questionnaire. The Secretariat added that informal meetings of the working group would present an opportunity to discuss the considerable implications of the proposed screening on the workload of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch. The Secretariat further pointed out that the proposed screening would also have implications on the working methods of the Committee, notably regarding the action or actions that would be taken if an organization was found to be on the Consolidated Sanctions List.

26. The Chair explained that the establishment of the working group would provide an opportunity for in-depth discussions on the various proposals before the Committee and the elaboration of concrete proposals for the Committee's consideration.

27. The observer for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland cautioned that adding another layer of scrutiny of applications by the Committee would delay the processing of NGO applications and proposed that the Committee consider, instead, requesting NGOs to declare whether their organization was included on the Sanctions List.

28. The Chair clarified that the working group would examine all viable proposals, including the proposal suggested by the United Kingdom, and that informal consultations were necessary to examine all the options. In the absence of any objection, the Chair announced the establishment of an open informal working group to consider proposals for implementing the screening of NGO applications for consultative status against the Consolidated Sanctions List, for consideration by the Committee.

VI. Consideration of special reports and complaints by Member States

30. At its 17th meeting, on 16 May, the Committee considered agenda item 7, Consideration of special reports. The representative of China informed the Committee that, on 5 March 2019, the NGO, Coordination des associations et des particuliers pour la liberté de conscience (CAP pour la liberté de conscience), an organization in special consultative status with the Council since 2016, had organized a side event at the Palais des Nations in Geneva, at which it made reference to “East Turkestan”. He added that the same reference was reflected on the organization’s website and was also included in leaflets distributed by the organization during the side event. He stressed that the use of the term “East Turkestan” was a political concept that jeopardized the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China and was therefore a serious violation of the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations, as well as of paragraph 57 (a) of resolution 1996/31.

31. The representative of China recalled that paragraph 57 of resolution 1996/31 stipulated actions to be taken against an organization that, either directly or through its affiliates or representatives acting on its behalf, clearly abused its status by engaging in a pattern of acts contrary to the purposes and principles of the Charter, including unsubstantiated or politically motivated acts against States Members of the United Nations incompatible with those purposes and principles. He therefore requested that the organization in question immediately amend the incorrect statements on its website, that it abide by the purposes and principles of the United Nations and resolution 1996/31 in its future activities, including respecting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China, and that it refrain from making similar mistakes.

VII. Provisional agenda and documentation of the 2020 session of the Committee

32. At its 28th meeting, on 24 May, the Committee considered agenda item 9, Provisional agenda and documentation for the 2020 session of the Committee, and had before it the draft provisional agenda for its 2020 session (E/C.2/2019/L.1).

33. At the same meeting, the Committee decided to recommend to the Council the following dates for the sessions in 2020: from 20 to 29 January and on 7 February 2020 for its 2020 regular session and from 18 to 28 May and on 5 June 2020 for its 2020 resumed session.

VIII. Organization of the session

A. Opening and duration of the session

34. The Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations held its 2019 resumed session on 16 May, from 20 to 24 May and on 4 June. The Committee held 13 meetings.

35. At the 17th meeting, on 16 May, the Chair of the 2019 session of the Committee made opening remarks, followed by an introductory statement by the Acting Chief of the Non-Governmental Organizations Branch of the Office of Intergovernmental Support and Coordination for Sustainable Development of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs (see paras. 19–20 above).

36. At the same meeting, the representative of the United States of America made a general statement affirming his delegation's commitment to enhancing the access of civil society organizations to the United Nations. He welcomed the consultations held on 22 June 2018 between the Committee and NGOs in consultative status, as mandated under resolution 1996/31, and expressed the hope that similar consultations would be held in 2019. He stressed the importance of ensuring that the Committee's work was open, transparent and available to civil society around the globe. He welcomed the increase in the number of NGOs applying for consultative status with the Council, which he stated was an indication of the significance and impact of consultative status for NGOs worldwide.

37. Recalling that, in paragraph 22 of General Assembly resolution 72/305 on the review of the implementation of Assembly resolution 68/1 on the strengthening of the Economic and Social Council, the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations was invited to examine in a timely manner how it could effectively accommodate the growing number of applications of NGOs for consultative status, in line with Council resolution 1996/31, the representative of the United States encouraged the Committee to act in that regard. He urged the Committee to expedite the review of applications and welcomed the application of strict time limits as a means of ensuring that all applications were given due consideration. He expressed concern regarding the Committee's practice of deferring consideration of quadrennial reports submitted by NGOs, noting that the reports of several NGOs, in particular those focused on human rights and humanitarian issues, had been pending before the Committee for multiple years, and stated that the practice politicized the work of the Committee. He called upon the Committee to uphold and to conduct its work under the framework of resolution 1996/31.

38. The representative of Brazil stressed his delegation's support for open and transparent dialogue with civil society. He welcomed the growing interest of NGOs to contribute to the system and to share their unique views on various topics on the economic and social agenda. He affirmed his delegation's support for the Committee's work on the basis of resolution 1996/31, by which the Council established both the criteria for granting consultative status and the obligations of NGOs under the Charter. He welcomed efforts made to promote the participation of NGOs in the work of the United Nations and to improve the working methods of the Committee, notably the webcasting of the Committee's sessions, which allowed NGOs around the world to follow the discussions. He further affirmed his delegation's commitment to civil society participation in the United Nations as a means of promoting dialogue and understanding among different cultures and its support for an efficient and participatory multilateral agenda.

39. The representative of Estonia stressed that the involvement of civil society and non-governmental organizations was a crucial aspect of the work of the United Nations. Noting that the number of NGO applications was increasing every year, she stated that the Committee had to adapt in order to efficiently manage its growing workload and effectively handle NGO application processes and proposed a more balanced use of time by the Committee in the consideration of deferred applications. She also stated that, in order to prevent the unnecessary accumulation of NGO applications, the Committee should avoid the prolonged deferral of applications. She added that time should be allocated after a question is asked by a member of the Committee to ensure that it had not already been addressed through the NGO's previous answers or in the application documents. She further noted that advance preparation of questions by the Committee would significantly reduce the time spent formulating questions during the Committee sessions. She expressed strong support for NGOs that were dedicated to achieving the goals of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. She underlined the contributions made by NGOs to policymaking processes, by offering data and insights that could otherwise be overlooked, and noted that it was important for the Committee to be effective, quick and responsive in making its decisions. She further noted that the effective management of the Committee's increasing workload would reflect its commitment to the spirit, principles and aspirations of the Charter and of resolution 1996/31.

40. The observer for the United Kingdom underlined the crucial role of civil society in advancing human rights and democracy. He noted that civil society organizations provided the channel for communication, innovation and ideas between the individuals they represented and the governments they worked with, adding that such organizations represented voices in societies where individuals were unable to voice their own concerns or challenge their governments. He urged the Committee to ensure that the accreditation of NGOs was as transparent and efficient as possible. He further stressed that working with NGOs should be central to the United Nations and that opportunities for working with them should be expanded rather than closed. He expressed concern about the large number of deferred applications and urged the Committee to address the backlog and to provide NGOs with information and adequate time to respond to its questions.

41. The observer for the United Kingdom called upon countries to lead by example at the national level by constructively consulting with civil society, noting that the approach had contributed to a robust relationship between civil society and the State in his country. He further expressed concern regarding reports of intimidation and reprisals, including harassment, of NGOs that participated in the work of the United Nations and strongly condemned all forms of intimidation and reprisal of NGOs in that regard. He called upon the United Nations to send a strong and clear message that it valued the work of civil society by allowing people to discuss, debate and challenge, both offline and online, noting the important role of the media in that regard. He highlighted his delegation's efforts to promote free and independent media and encouraged the Committee to give NGOs, including those who worked in the media sphere, the spotlight they deserved.

42. At the 28th meeting, on 24 May, the representative of United States made a statement expressing concern that some of the questions posed by some delegations to NGOs during the session did not fall within the scope of resolution 1996/31 or promote the fundamental freedoms enshrined in the Universal Declaration on Human Rights. She stressed that the Committee had a duty to promote the rights enshrined in the Declaration, including protecting freedom of expression for all. She urged the Committee to end the practice of making demands of organizations, including censorship of organizations' online presence, which had the effect of restricting freedom of expression or stifling the voices of civil society in the United Nations. She recalled that, in its resolution 1996/31, the Council had affirmed the importance of civil society in the work of the United Nations. She stated that decisions to grant consultative status should be made with the purpose of ensuring that NGOs expressing important elements of public opinion had a voice at the United Nations and reiterated her delegation's call to Committee members to recommit to making the Committee and the United Nations more accessible for civil society organizations.

43. At the same meeting, the representative of China affirmed his delegation's support for the constructive participation of NGOs in the work of the United Nations. He stated that his delegation was of the view that all NGOs with consultative status, when participating in United Nations activities, must strictly abide by relevant United Nations rules, noting that that was the consensus of all Member States. He stressed that all NGOs applying for consultative status with the Council should adhere equally to the purposes and principles of the Charter and act in accordance with the spirit of resolution 1996/31.

44. The representative of Cuba said that the statement made by United States was pernicious and gave a misleading idea of the Committee's work. He stressed that all members of the Committee had the right to ask questions and express their views, in accordance with resolution 1996/31. He called for the United States to avoid making ambiguous assertions, in particular with regard to an alleged restriction on freedom of expression or, failing that, to refer to specific cases where such a restriction had occurred. He argued that the statement by the United States was intended to have the effect of tarnishing the Committee's report and that comments on the Committee's work should be made in concrete and responsible terms.

45. In his closing remarks, the Chair recalled that the General Assembly, in its resolution 72/305, had invited the Committee to examine how it could effectively accommodate the growing number of NGO applications for consultative status. He proposed to convene informal meetings to address that request before the regular session of the Committee in January 2020.

B. Attendance

46. The session was attended by all 19 members of the Committee. Observers for other States Members of the United Nations and for non-member States and representatives of organizations of the United Nations system and NGOs also attended. The list of participants will be issued in document E/C.2/2019/INF/2.

47. At its 2019 resumed session, the Committee heard 15 representatives of NGOs, who were given the opportunity to respond to questions raised by the Committee. The additional information provided by the representatives facilitated the debate and the work of the Committee in taking its decisions.
