1. CONFERENCE OF NGOS IN CONSULTATIVE RELATIONSHIP WITH THE UNITED NATIONS (CONGO)

(General Consultative Status granted in 2002)

PART I. Introduction

i. Aims and purposes of the organization

CONGO was founded in 1948 to safeguard the rights of Non Governmental Organizations (NGOs) in consultative status, based on article 71 of the United Nations Charter and currently on Economic and Social Council Resolution 1996/31. For over 50 years, CONGO has actively promoted the participation of civil society organizations in the work of the United Nations and its agencies. More recently, CONGO has made a major push to influence and democratize global decision-making processes. With about 500 members representing all categories of NGOs (many of which are umbrella organizations themselves), at all levels (locally, nationally and internationally) and dealing with all major issues, CONGO is a global organization and a recognized interface between the United Nations and NGOs.

PART II. Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

i) Participation in the work of the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies and/or major conferences and other United Nations meetings

1. 58th – 61st sessions of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR), Geneva, 2002 – 2005: CONGO participated every year to the Commission and organized orientation sessions for newcomers; regular briefings for NGOs; consultations and parallel events (such as the much noted one on Human Rights and the Millennium Development Goals on 5 April, 2005). For the years 2003 – 2005 CONGO co-produced a website (first www.room17.org and then www.ngochr.org) featuring articles and reports on plenary meetings, NGOs parallel events, interviews with NGOs representatives and analyses. At the 59th session (17 March-25 April 2003), the President delivered a statement on regional mechanisms. CONGO actively accompanied the transition from the Commission to the Human Rights Council and the President wrote a letter to the President of the General Assembly (26 January, 2006) on the need to safeguard the rights of NGOs to fully participate in the new Council. The President also delivered a statement (12 April 2005), co-signed by 18 NGOs, during the first Informal Session on the subject of reform and a second statement in form of recommendations to the High Commissioner for Human Rights as input for her Plan of Action (29 April 2005)
2. Sub-Commission on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights, Social Forum and Working Group on Indigenous Populations. CONGO produced newsletters and a website (www.ngochr.org) covering the events and organized an introductory meeting to the Social Forum in 2004.

3. 2nd World Assembly on Ageing, Madrid, 7-10 April 2002: CONGO participated throughout; the President addressed the closing session of the NGO Forum and was a panellist on a round-table.

In cooperation with the NGO Section, Department of Economic and Social Affairs (DESA) and other partners, CONGO organized every year an NGO Forum (as for example on rural development on 27 June 2003 in Geneva) on the HLS' theme with the aim of impacting on the ministerial declaration adopted by the HLS. The President presented key recommendations from the Geneva Forum to the HLS on 30 June 2003 and again, after another Forum process in New York, key recommendations to the HLS on 30 June 2005. 2. ECOPEACE MIDDLE EAST ENVIRONMENTAL NGO FORUM

(Special Consultative Status granted in 1998)

I. Introduction

i. Aims and purposes of the organization and its main course of action

Eco Peace Middle East Environmental NGO Forum, commonly known as Friends of the Earth Middle East (FoEME) is an organization that brings together Jordanian, Palestinian, and Israeli environmentalists. Our primary objective is the promotion of cooperative efforts to protect our shared environmental heritage. In so doing, we seek to advance both sustainable regional development and the creation of necessary conditions for lasting peace in our region. FoEME has offices in Amman, Bethlehem, and Tel-Aviv.

The people and wildlife of our region are dependent on many of the same natural resources. Shared surface and sub-surface freshwater basins, shared seas, common flora and fauna species and a shared airshed are some of the characteristics that necessitate regional cooperation.

The Jordan River Basin, a major source of freshwater in a water scarce region, the Gulf of Aqaba, a highly sensitive eco-system giving life to arguably the world's most beautiful coral reef, and the Dead Sea, the lowest point on earth and the world's saltiest non-shallow body of water, are all examples of unique shared eco-systems in the region which necessitate regional cooperation if they are to be preserved.

women and women's non governmental organizations (NGOs) to influence policy regarding women's lives. NEWW supports and promotes projects and activism inspired by NEWW Statement of Principles: women's full and equal participation in the creation of a just and inclusive civil society; women's and men's right to be free of discrimination of any kind --structural or legal in employment in both the public and the private sector; women's (and men's) right to economic justice, including an adequate and accessible safety-net for vulnerable members of society; women's (and men's) right to be free of violence in the private and the public sphere, to be free of war, state violence and domination in all its forms; women's (and men's) right to be free of racial and ethnic hatred. In 2004 NEWW moved its headquarters from the United States of America to the region of CEE. It has been an important step towards strengthening the role of the regional voice in the organization. Now, the International Secretariat of NEWW is run by NEWW-Polska in Gdansk.

Part 2 (activities undertaken during the ongoing period)

From the beginning of 2002 NEWW in cooperation with UNIFEM and Karat Coalition ran two years project "Gender and Economic Justice in European Accession and Integration". The vision of the project was to use forthcoming integration with the European Union (EU) to strengthen women's economic rights and gender equality. The development objectives for the project included: promoting gender and economic justice for women in CEE and fostering a better understanding and cooperation between the EU and other countries of Europe, towards a vision for Europe where all citizens are equal, whether from the EU or CEE, regardless of their gender. Project objectives were: women from CEE benefited from the EU integration process, women from CEE supported their own governments and national negotiating teams in the preparations for EU integration; EU standards regarding gender equality promoted better respect for women's rights in CEE countries and gave them adequate protection. NEWW was responsible for the informational and communicational part of project including a website, production of information packages about the EU and women, publications (including a bi-weekly news update), research and electronic communication sessions in the workshops. The project was addressed to NGOs and individuals from CEE and CIS, from candidate and non-candidate countries. It used the process of European Union Accession to advance women's rights and gender equality.

During 2002 and 2003 project Women's Economic Justice Network: Strengthening Feminist Economic Expertise in Central and Eastern Europe / Newly Independent States CEE/NIS was ran in cooperation with UNIFEM. The project was a direct result of the 2001 Gender Policy Conference, organized by NEWW in July 2001 in Krakow. All participants at that conference agreed that the lack of economic information and information regarding the pace and processes of market reform and globalization kept women and women's NGOs from engaging in these issues. Women in CEE/CIS needed information and regional networks to educate themselves and one another, and to undertake collaborative advocacy initiatives. The project made available the following types of information: economic literacy (What, for example, was structural adjustment, and how were stabilization packages formulated?); economic transactions (How, for example, could women's NGOs monitor economic policies and transactions from a gender perspective?); points of policy intervention (How could women's NGOs shape and participate in economic decision-making processes at the local, national, regional and international levels.) The project collected, analyzed, translated and disseminated documents and information through the website in 3 languages: Russian, English and Polish.

In 24 – 27 April 2003 in Gdansk, Poland NEWW in cooperation with UNIFEM held their second Gender Policy Conference, "Women and Economy". Over 60 women from 18 countries in CEE, CIS, RF, the United States of America and EU participated in the conference. This Conference focused on three areas of economic policymaking: European Structural Funds (ESF), Gender Budgeting (GB) and Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). The Conference ran in three concurrent training sessions. Mainstreaming Gender into the ESF - the main aim of this workshop was to gain greater expertise about ESF. The introduction of gender mainstreaming of ESF and advocacy initiatives on gender budget analysis in CEE/NIS made a critical contribution to addressing the widespread discrimination and inequalities in the use of public resources in the region. Gender Responsive Budgeting - the session introduced to the idea of gender budgeting (GB) and asked the following questions: What were the methods of GB, how can GB be introduced in the countries of CEE/NIS, what the good practices in the field of gender budgeting. Foreign Direct Investment - a gender analysis of foreign direct investment in CEE/NIS was another tool that women's NGOs could use to engage in economic and social policy decision making. The Conference session on FDI helped to create a roadmap of FDI in countries; create/examine "women friendly investment" standards and codes as well as identify the points of intervention for women's NGOs; and methods of attracting "good investments".

In 14th and 18th of April 2004 (Sopot, Poland) NEWW in cooperation with UNIFEM organized Gender Budgeting Initiative (GBI) in CEE/NIS region - planning meeting. It brought together women's NGOs from the region with a commitment to carry out gender budget projects to coordinate and support the development and implementation of these projects along with resulting advocacy initiatives. The meeting aimed to build network of cooperation within the CEE/NIS between women's NGOs in order to disseminate information about gender budgeting and develop the project of implementation GB in the region. This project based on information sharing, dissemination of research and partnership building and enabled NEWW-Polska and other organizations from the region to work on further advancing of the first gender budget analysis in CEE/NIS.

In 10-12 December 2003 (Geneva) our representative Malgorzata Tarasiewicz participated in The World Summit on the Information Society which was held in Geneva, Switzerland. She was a member of the editorial team of "Digital Futures" magazine on women and Information and Communication Technologies.

In 9 – 11 December 2004 (Geneva) NEWW Executive Director Malgorzata Tarasiewicz participated in Beijing+10 Geneva PrepCom meeting which was held in Geneva, Switzerland. She participated in the regional CEE/CIS Caucus working to formulate concerns of women from CEE/CIS and evaluate the way Beijing Platform for Action (BFA) was implemented in the countries in CEE/CIS region.

In 28 February-11 March 2005 (New York) NEWW was represented by Malgorzata Tarasiewicz on Beijing +10 Conference: Forty-Ninth Session of the Commission of the Status of Women, New York, United Nations Headquarters. NEWW coordinated the work of Polish women NGOs on a shadow report on the implementation of BFA Report concentrated on economic justice issues including the issue of women's empowerment through the use of Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) and gender budget. The reports were published in Polish and English, also on NEWW website.

In 12th-15th June 2005 (Brussels) NEWW representatives Malgorzata Tarasiewicz and Zofia Lapniewska were invited by United Nations Development Fund for Women to Brussels to join other Gender Equality advocates in CEE and the Commonwealth of Independent States in raising concern over the apparent gap between the European Union's commitment to advance gender equality and its translation into policy, action, and allocation of resources as reflected in EU assistance to countries of the region. NEWW was invited to learn more about the new financial instruments, which were guide EU support to the CEE/CIS between 2007 and 2013. The visit provided an opportunity to meet with Brussels-based NGOs, as well as with the European Parliament and European Commission officials, to share and discuss specific concerns related to the Instrument for Pre-Accession Assistance, the European Neighborhood and Partnership Instrument and the Stability Instrument.

In 8-9 December 2005 (Geneva) NEWW was invited to Geneva by UN Special Programme for Central Asia (SPECA) to share the experiences of Gender Budgeting on local level as well as the idea of the Women's Economy Institute that was going to start in spring in CEE/CIS countries and could be duplicated in Asia. The main purpose of the two days meeting that took place in Geneva was to stimulate a discussion on the mandate and work programme. It looked at gender "links" to core areas of SPECA activities in the context of current situation and policy challenges creating pro-poor growth strategy, addressing problems of rural population, mobilizing human capital, and argued that that taking a gender perspective in addressing these challenges made good economic sense.
