On 16 December, the Council unanimously adopted resolution 1959 (2010), by which it established the United Nations Office in Burundi (BNUB) as the successor mission to BINUB. The resolution provides for a six-month transition period to draw down BINUB staff to the much smaller staffing level for BNUB. Council deliberations centred on Burundi's successful work to consolidate peace, while also highlighting concerns over human rights and corruption.

Central African Republic

On 8 December, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General and Head of the United Nations Integrated Peacebuilding Office in the Central African Republic, Sahle-Work Zewde, and the Chair of the Central African Republic configuration of the Peacebuilding Commission and Permanent Representative of Belgium, Jan Grauls, briefed the Council on the situation in the Central African Republic. On 14 December, the Council unanimously approved a presidential statement (S/PRST/2010/26), by which it renewed the mandate of the United Nations Integrated Peacebuilding Office in the Central African Republic (BINUCA) until 31 December 2011. Chad, the Central African Republic and the subregion

On 14 December, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General and Head of MINURCAT, Youssef Mahmoud, briefed the Council, as requested in its resolution 1923 (2010), on the situation in eastern Chad and the north-eastern Central African Republic, on the progress towards the fulfilment by the Government of Chad of the tasks and benchmarks set out in that resolution, and on the progress towards the complete withdrawal of all uniformed and civilian MINURCAT components. The Special Representative reported that MINURCAT responsibilities had been transferred to the Détachement intégré de sécurité (DIS) and that a “basket fund” managed by the United Nations Development Programme had been created to help the Government of Chad sustain DIS. He encouraged the international community to provide assistance to sustain DIS during the post-MINURCAT period. He said the situation for refugees and internally displaced persons was relatively calm, but that humanitarian assistance needs remained immense. He reported that MINURCAT would complete its final withdrawal by 31 December 2010 and had begun the process of liquidation. He also expressed concern about the situation in the north-eastern Central African Republic, and said sustained attention would be required in the light of the need for regional stability.

On 20 December, the President of the Council read out a presidential statement (S/PRST/2010/29) on behalf of the Security Council, by which the Council, inter alia, welcomed the Government of Chad’s commitment to ensure the future sustainability of DIS and called on donors to assist the Governments of the Central African Republic and Chad to fulfil their responsibility to protect civilians.

On 16 December, the Council issued a statement to the press warning all stakeholders that they would be held accountable for attacks against civilians and urging all Ivorian stakeholders to exercise maximum restraint, refrain from violence, and work together to restore sustainable peace. On 20 December, by resolution 1962 (2010), the Council, inter alia, extended the mandate of UNOCI until 30 June 2011 and urged all the stakeholders to respect the outcome of the election in view of the recognition by ECOWAS and the African Union of Alassane Dramane Ouattara as President-elect of Côte d’Ivoire. He said that he had stressed to his Nepalese interlocutors that UNMIN would leave when its mandate ended and urged them to make best use of the remaining time to implement the peace agreement fully.
