I. Introduction

No evidence of activity by Usama Bin Laden, Al-Qaida, the Taliban and/or their associates has been detected in Iceland.

No specific threats to Iceland have been identified. It should be noted, however, that Iceland considers that terrorism constitutes a great threat to international peace and security.

II. Consolidated List

2. How has the 1267 Committee's List been incorporated within your legal system and your administrative structure, including financial supervision, police, immigration control, customs and consular authorities?

Act No. 5/1969 regarding the implementation of Security Council Resolutions grants the Icelandic Government the authority to implement Security Council Resolutions by Public Announcements, when the Government deems it necessary, in order to make the measures of the resolutions binding within Icelandic territory and jurisdiction. The Act was enacted in order to facilitate Iceland's fulfilment of its obligations as a Member State of the United Nations.

The Act makes it subject to penalty to disregard or act against the provisions of such Public Announcement. The maximum penalty is two years imprisonment. The Government of Iceland has made use of Act No. 5/1969 on several occasions but hitherto nobody has been sentenced under the Act.

By Public Announcements Nos. 776/2001 and 349/2002 the List was enacted by prohibiting all kinds of financial services described in the Resolution to those individuals and entities identified on the List.

According to Amendment No 50/2003 to Act No 87/1998 on Official Supervision of Financial Operation, which was enacted on 7 April 2003, the Financial Supervisory Authority [Fjármálaeftirlitið - <http://www.fme.is>] now has the task to implement international obligations by which Iceland is bound, including the resolutions of the Security Council, concerning financial assets and money transactions. The Financial Supervisory Authority instructs those financial institutions and individuals, subject to the above-mentioned Act, not to engage in business with listed persons and/or entities and furthermore, they are obliged to prevent by any means such individuals and/or entities from receiving any kind of financial assets.

The Financial Supervisory Authority controls that these instructions are followed. If it is discovered that instructions are disregarded, the Financial Supervisory Authority will inform the National Commissioner of the Icelandic Police, who has the duty to take necessary actions to freeze these assets.

3. Have you encountered any problems with implementation with regard to the ames and identifying information as currently included in the List? If so, please describe these problems.
