NOTE

The resolutions and decisions of the Economic and Social Council are identified as follows:

Resolutions

Until 1977 (up to and including the resumed sixty-third session), the resolutions of the Economic and Social Council were numbered consecutively and were identified by an arabic numeral followed by an indication of the session in parentheses (for example: resolution 1733 (LIV), resolution 1915 (ORG-75), resolution 2046 (S-III), adopted at the fifty-fourth session, the organizational session for 1975 and the third special session, respectively). When several resolutions were adopted under the same number, each of them was identified by a capital letter (for example: resolution 1926 B (LVIII), resolutions 1954 A to D (LIX)). The last resolution so numbered is resolution 2130 (LXIII), of 14 December 1977.

Since 1978, as part of the new system adopted for symbols of Council documents, the resolutions have been numbered on a yearly basis and identified by two arabic numerals separated by an oblique stroke, the first numeral indicating the year, the second the number of the resolution in the annual series (for example: resolution 1990/47).

Decisions

Until 1973 (up to and including the resumed fifty-fifth session), the decisions of the Council were not numbered. From 1974 to 1977 (up to and including the resumed sixty-third session), the decisions were numbered consecutively and were identified by an arabic numeral followed by an indication of the session in parentheses (for example: decision 64 (ORG-75), decision 78 (LVIII), adopted at the organizational session for 1975 and the fifty-eighth session, respectively). The last decision so numbered is decision 293 (LXIII), of 2 December 1977.

Since 1978, as part of the new system adopted for symbols of Council documents, the decisions have been numbered on a yearly basis and identified by two arabic numerals separated by an oblique stroke, the first numeral indicating the year, the second the number of the decision in the annual series (for example: decision 1990/224).

In 1998, the resolutions and decisions adopted by the Council are being published in Official Records of the Economic and Social Council, 1998, Supplement No. 1.

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly decision 35/424 of 5 December 1980 and Council resolution 1980/67 of 25 July 1980,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 50/227 of 24 May 1996, in which, inter alia, the Assembly stressed, in annex I, paragraphs 66 and 67, that the primary function of the general segment should be an action-oriented review of the activities, reports and recommendations of the Council's subsidiary bodies and that the Council should regularly review the agenda of its general segment with a view to discontinuing consideration of items not relevant to the work of its subsidiary machinery or duplicative of items on the agenda of the General Assembly,

Reaffirming the importance of the guidelines for international years and anniversaries, contained in the annex to its resolution 1980/67 and adopted by the General Assembly in its decision 35/424, for the consideration of proposals for the proclamation of international years,

Recognizing the need to provide for effective arrangements for the proclamation of international years,

Recommends that the General Assembly decide that, starting from the year 1999, proposals for the proclamation of international years should be submitted directly to the Assembly for consideration and action, unless the Assembly decides to bring them to the attention of the Council for evaluation in accordance with the provisions of the above-mentioned guidelines.

SUBSTANTIVE SESSION OF 1998

1998/3. Review of the regional commissions by the Economic and Social Council

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 52/12 B of 19 December 1997, in which the Assembly requested the Economic and Social Council to conduct a review of the regional commissions,

Noting that the Economic Commission for Europe, at its fifty-third session, considered a note by the Executive Secretary on relations with other regional, subregional and global organizations and institutions⁵ and a report on operational activities and cooperation with subregional groupings, interests and initiatives,⁶

Recalling the principles governing the relationship of the Commission with other bodies as set forth in chapter IV of its Plan of Action,⁷

1. Reaffirms the need to strengthen cooperation between the Economic Commission for Europe and other bodies according to complementarities in terms of mandates, membership and approaches to issues of common concern;

⁵ E/ECE/1362.

⁶ E/ECE/1359 and Corr.1.

⁷ E/ECE/1347 and Corr.1; see also Official Records of the Economic and Social Council, 1997, Supplement No. 16 (E/1997/36), annex IV.

⁴ General Assembly resolution 34/180, annex.

2. Stresses that, in order to ensure synergies and coherence as well as to avoid duplication and inconsistencies, these relationships should be based on regular exchange of information in common areas of work and on mutual recognition and use of the expertise and experience available in each organization and should lead to joint activities, as appropriate;

3. Emphasizes the importance of dialogue among the secretariats of institutions and of consistent messages by Governments in different forums in order to maximize cooperation among institutions;

4. Recognizes that the Commission has acquired over the years considerable knowledge of countries with economies in transition and has developed long-standing working relationships with those countries in the areas of its expertise;

5. Stresses that, in responding to the specific needs of the region, the Commission has two core functions: the development and harmonization of legal instruments, norms and standards in its areas of expertise and the production of statistics and analyses in those areas;

6. Welcomes the involvement of interested non-member States in the development and adoption of norms established by the Commission as well as the interest of other regions in using these norms and in adapting them to their concerns and needs;

7. Emphasizes that the technical assistance activities of the Commission are limited in scale and are undertaken in support of the functions mentioned in paragraph 5 above, and are directed in particular towards countries with economies in transition;

8. Stresses that the Commission also has the role of bringing the contribution of the region to the global level and facilitating the implementation of international commitments in the region with respect to its areas of work;

9. Takes note of the information on the relationships that the Commission has built up with other organizations in its areas of cooperation.⁸

Welcoming the Seoul proposals for the second half of the Decade, adopted by the Meeting of Senior Officials to Mark the Mid-point of the Asian and Pacific Decade of Disabled Persons, 1993–2002, hosted by the Government of the Republic of Korea in September 1997,¹⁰

Expressing its appreciation to the Subcommittee on Disability-related Concerns of the Regional Inter-Agency Committee for Asia and the Pacific for pioneering collaborative inter-organizational action for the Decade,

Noting the need for a stronger regional impetus to support national and local endeavours in the second half of the Decade,

(d) Generating practical guidelines for advancing equal access by disabled persons to mainstream development opportunities by organizing and following up two regional meetings in 1999, in close collaboration with other members of the Subcommittee on Disability-related Concerns of the Regional Inter-Agency Committee for Asia and the Pacific, on the following topics:

- (i) Education and technology for the specific needs of disabled children and youth;

Bearing in mind General Assembly resolutions 45/177 of 19 December 1990 and 45/264 of 13 May 1991 on the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields, as well as resolution 46/235 of 13 April 1992, in the annex to which the Assembly stated that the regional commissions should be enabled fully to play their role under the authority of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council and that those located in developing countries should be strengthened in the context of the overall objectives of the restructuring and the revitalization process,

Taking into account General Assembly resolution 52/12 B of 19 December 1997 entitled "Renewing the United Nations: a programme for reform", in which the Assembly invited the Economic and Social Council, in consultation with Member States and appropriate intergovernmental regional bodies, to conduct a general review of the regional commissions at its substantive session of 1998, bearing in mind the relevant provisions of Assembly resolution 50/227 of 24 May 1996 and the individual reviews each commission had already carried out, in order to consider the competencies of the regional commissions, taking into account the competencies of global bodies and other regional and subregional intergovernmental bodies, regional commissions: relationships between the Economic Commission for Africa, United Nations agencies, regional and subregional organizations in Africa",¹⁸

2. Expresses its appreciation for the observations and analyses contained in the note;

3. Decides to adopt the following recommendations:

Recommendation 1. Reaffirm and support existing coordination mechanisms at the regional level

An important first step in enhancing collaboration between the Economic Commission for Africa and the United Nations agencies is to reaffirm and support the team leadership role assigned to the regional commissions by the General Assembly in resolution 32/197. The agencies should use the mechanism of a regional administrative committee on coordination, first suggested in 1994 by the Secretary-General. The Economic and Social Council should consider providing a legislative directive to this effect. The regional administrative committee on coordination would be a useful mechanism for addressing a number of regional issues, including follow-up to the global conferences and programmes on post-conflict reconstruction developments in Africa. In this regard, the forthcoming meeting of the Conference of Ministers, to be held in 1999, should consider in-depth coordination and collaboration among United Nations agencies operating at the subregional and regional levels in Africa;

Recommendation 2. Adopt some principles for regional coordination

The United Nations agencies in Africa should adopt some principles for regional coordination. The agencies should endeavour to foster regional coordination on the basis of promoting greater exchange of information on planned and ongoing work, improve complementarities among programmes, draw on each other's competencies and bring the pool of resources – financial and human – at their disposal to bear on policy issues of common interest;

Recommendation 3. Strengthen coordination at the subregional level

Coordination or collaboration among United Nations agencies in Africa should also be enhanced at the subregional level. This should take the form of the development of joint ventures to support the specific activities of countries in a subregional framework. In this way, the complementarities and harmony sought at the regional level will be given greater impact and impetus. The subregional development centres of the Economic Commission for Africa should be an important vehicle for coordination at the subregional level;

Recommendation 4. The role of the Economic Commission for Africa in normative and operational functions

The Economic Commission for Africa, as a United Nations regional commission and as one of the regional institutions in the service of the development of Africa, has carried out valuable normative (analysis, advocacy, norm-setting) and operational activities that have been mutually complementary and supportive to the member States of the region. The Commission should continue to undertake both categories of activities, since it has been recognized that its technical assistance plays a catalytic role in translating its normative work into concrete support for the development efforts of member States;

Recommendation 5. Enhanced cooperation among African organizations

At the regional level, there is already implicit specialization and division of labour among the three major intergovernmental organizations in Africa, namely the Organization of African Unity, the Economic Commission for Africa and the African Development Bank. There remains, however, a need to promote a more clear-cut division of responsibilities and to rationalize and strengthen complementarities among the three organizations more strictly, according to their mandates and competencies, as a means of increasing their combined effectiveness, impact and efficiency in their collective mandate, which is to oversee the overall development of Africa at the regional level. This calls for these African organizations to strengthen their joint secretariat by implementing among themselves strategies similar to those outlined above for the United Nations system. In particular, they should:

(a) Strengthen coordination, including collaboration in programme development, planning of activities, monitoring and evaluation, with a view to building upon and exploiting complementarities;

(b) Improve networking and communication at all staff levels, not only at the level of chief executive;

(c) Work to establish a common ethos among their staff, based on a common perspective of Africa's political, social and economic development challenges and opportunities and a common zeal to move Africa forward;

(d) Streamline and coordinate their intergovernmental machineries: the governing bodies of all African organizations could be required to summarize, in a joint report, their main decisions for submission to the Assembly of Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity, which is the supreme organ of the African Economic Community.

1998/6. Revision of the medium-term plan, 1998–2001, of the Economic Commission for Africa

The Economic and Social Council,

Having considered the note by the secretariat of the Economic Commission for Africa on the first revision to the medium-term plan, 1998–2001,¹⁹

Recalling Commission resolution 809 (XXXI) of 8 May 1996, in which the Commission endorsed the medium-term plan for the period 1998–2001, in the context of the new directions for the Commission,¹⁷

¹⁹ E/CA/MFC.1/3.

Recalling also Commission resolutions 810 (XXXI) of 8 May 1996¹⁷ and 828 (XXXII) of 8 May 1997,²⁰ in which the Commission called, respectively, for the strengthening of the multinational programming and operational centres and for their transformation into subregional development centres with an extended programme and policy orientation, as well as resolution 824 (XXXI) of 8 May 1996 entitled "Follow-up to the Dakar and Beijing conferences: implementation of the global and regional platforms for action for the advancement of women",¹⁷

Endorses the revision to the medium-term plan, 1998–2001, involving the establishment of two new subprogrammes: "Promoting the advancement of women" and "Supporting subregional activities for development".

1998/7. Importance of population census activities for evaluation of progress in implementing the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling its resolution 1995/7 of 19 July 1995 in which it urged Member States to carry out population and housing censuses during the period 1995–2004,

Taking into account the report of the Working Group on International Statistical Programmes and Coordination on its nineteenth session, held in New York from 10 to 12 February 1998,²¹ which, inter alia, addressed the prospects for the 2000 round of population and housing censuses,

Emphasizing the importance of up-to-date population and housing census information for the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development²² at the country level and for decision-making by Governments on a wide range of policy issues,

Mindful of the technical limitations of sample surveys as vehicles for the collection of data on adult mortality, and recognizing that methods exist for the collection of data on deaths in households in the course of a population census,

1. Invites Governments to give priority to the planning and undertaking of the next population and housing census;

2. Recommends that countries lacking adequate vital-statistics systems give due consideration to the collection and analysis of data in the 2000 round of population censuses for the estimation of levels of mortality;

3. Calls upon relevant organizations of the United Nations system, donor Governments, through multilateral and bilateral mechanisms, and non-governmental organizations to provide the necessary support to those countries in need in respect of undertaking such censuses, including the building of national capacity in this field.

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 52/188 of 18 December 1997 on population and development,

Noting the work being done by the relevant United Nations bodies and the proposed outline of the Secretariat for the comprehensive report of the Secretary-General on the quinquennial review and appraisal of progress made in achieving the goals and objectives of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development,²² while bearing in mind the views expressed by Member States at the thirty-first session of the Commission on Population and Development,

Stressing the need to ensure that the review of the outcome of the Conference will be a coordinated process which reinvigorates and strengthens efforts at the local, national and international levels to implement fully the Programme of Action,

1. Requests the Secretariat to prepare, as soon as possible and no later than the end of June 1998, and to make available to States a comprehensive plan, including a timetable, for the preparatory process of inter-agency consultations, technical meetings and round-table meetings, including those at the regional level, setting out the purpose, working methods and key anticipated outcomes of each and how they will contribute to the review and appraisal report. In preparing this plan, the Population Division of the Secretariat and the United Nations Population Fund should work closely together, as they did in the preparations for the International Conference on Population and Development, and in consultation, as appropriate, with other relevant bodies and should hold regular briefings for States;

2. Requests that the comprehensive report of the Secretary-General on the quinquennial review and appraisal of the implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development,²² to be coordinated by the Population Division, the report of the international forum on the operational review of the Programme of Action, to be coordinated by the United Nations Population Fund, and the draft report of the Secretary-General for the special session of the General Assembly on the further implementation of the Programme of Action, also to be coordinated by the United Nations Population Fund, all of which are to be prepared for the Commission on Population and Development at its thirty-second session, should focus on, inter alia:

(a) Analysis of key successes and constraints as well as lessons learned in developing effective strategies and actions in the implementation of the Programme of Action and changes in policy, programmes and resource allocations at the

5. Encourages the continuing efforts of the United Nations, international and non-governmental organizations and donors to ensure that all United Nations-assisted programmes in Afghanistan are formulated and coordinated in such a way as to promote and ensure the participation of women in those programmes and that women benefit equally with men from such programmes;

Proposes, in order to accelerate the implementation of the strategic objectives of chapter IV.D of the Platform for Action:

A. AN INTEGRATED, HOLISTIC APPROACH

Actions to be taken by Governments and the international community

- Formulate comprehensive, multidisciplinary and coordinated national plans, programmes or strategies to eliminate all forms of violence against women and girls, which will be widely disseminated and will provide for targets, timetables for implementation and effective domestic enforcement procedures through the establishment of monitoring mechanisms involving all parties concerned, including consultations with women's organizations;
- Call upon the international community to condemn and act against all forms and manifestations of terrorism, in particular those that affect women and children;
- Develop strong and effective national, regional and international cooperation to prevent and eliminate trafficking in women and girls, especially for purposes of economic and sexual exploitation, including the exploitation of the prostitution of women and girls;

- Integrate effective actions to end violence against women into all areas of public and private life, as a means of working to overcome the violence and discrimination that women face because of such factors as race, language, ethnicity, poverty, culture, religion, age, disability and socio-economic class or because they are indigenous people, migrants, including women migrant workers, displaced women or refugees;
- Ensure that comprehensive programmes for the rehabilitation of victims of rape are integrated into global programmes;

 - Encourage the participation of women in law enforcement agencies so as to achieve gender balance;
- E. RESEARCH AND GENDER-DISAGGREGATED DATA COLLECTION
- Actions to be taken by Governments*
- Promote coordinated research on violence against women to ensure that it is multidisciplinary and addresses the root factors, including external factors, that encourage trafficking in women and girls for prostitution and other forms of sexual exploitation;
 - Encourage research aimed at exploring the nature, extent and causes of violence and collect data and statistics on its economic and social costs, and its consequences, and conduct research on the impact of all laws relevant to combating all forms of violence against women;
 - Develop common definitions and guidelines and train relevant actors for the collection of data and statistics on violence against women and ensure that all cases of violence against women are recorded systematically and appropriately, whether they are first reported to the police or to health and social services;

"ANNEX II

"Elements recommended for inclusion in model legislation on mutual assistance in criminal matters

"A. General recommendation

- "1. Model legislation on mutual assistance in criminal matters should reflect in statutory terms the general provisions of the Model Treaty on Mutual Assistance in Criminal Matters, together with the recommendations contained in annex I above. To the extent possible, it should provide different options for States with different legal systems. Where relevant, it should take into account provisions of the model bill on mutual assistance in criminal matters developed in 1998 by the United Nations International Drug Control Programme.

"B. Scope

- "2. The model legislation should provide a full range of flexible options for assuming mutual assistance obligations. When there is a treaty on mutual assistance in criminal matters, the terms of that treaty should govern the relationship. The legislation should also permit mutual assistance to be provided without a treaty, with or without reciprocity.

"C. Jurisdiction

- "3. The model legislation could contain provisions to provide for jurisdiction, inter alia:

"(a) To issue judicial orders necessary for executing mutual assistance requests;

“(b) To authorize the requested State to act on behalf or for the benefit of, or to represent the interests of, the requesting State in legal proceedings necessary for executing mutual assistance requests;

“(c) To punish perjury committed during mutual assistance, in particular perjury committed during videoconferencing.

“D. Procedure

“4. The model legislation should include options for procedures dealing with both incoming and outgoing requests for assistance in criminal matters. Such procedures should be in conformity, whenever applicable, with international and regional human rights instruments. Where no treaty provision is applicable, the legislation could also contain provisions on specific forms of mutual assistance, including testimony and other forms of cooperation carried out via video link, cooperation in asset seizure and forfeiture and the temporary transfer of witnesses in custody.

“5. The model legislation could provide for the establishment of a central authority or authorities for the receipt and transmission of requests and the provision of advice and assistance to relevant authorities. The legislation could also specify the extent of the central authority’s powers.

“E. Communications

“6. Where no treaty provision is applicable, the legislation should set forth the means of communicating between the requesting State and the requested State, allowing for use of the most modern forms of communication.”

Concerned that the rapid globalization of crime will have a negative effect on the continued capacity of Governments to assess and to counteract effectively threats to public security and will weaken international efforts aimed at enhancing cooperation among police, intelligence, customs and border-control agencies,

Noting the interest shown by Member States in receiving United Nations technical assistance in the area of prevention and control of illicit trafficking in and use of firearms, explosives and their components and parts,

Recognizing that, with the increasing dimensions and scale of international transport and the growing sophistication of transnational illicit trafficking in explosives, States that have not already done so may consider reviewing their legislation and administrative regulations concerning explosives and their components and parts to make those instruments more effective in combating that crime,

Determined, therefore, to initiate measures to promote international cooperation for the prevention of the criminal misuse of and illicit trafficking in explosives and their components and parts,

1. Decides, for purposes of crime prevention and public safety, that a study should be initiated on the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in explosives by criminals and on the abuse and misuse of explosives for criminal purposes;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to prepare, as early as possible, in cooperation with relevant international and regional organizations where necessary, an action plan for collecting, reviewing and exchanging statistics, other information and policy proposals that may deal with, inter alia, the following issues:

(a) Criminal incidents in which explosive substances were involved, including the number of such incidents, the number of victims involved, the nature and extent of harm caused, the extent of damage to property and the type of explosives used;

(b) Diversion of explosives for criminal use;

(c) Status of national legislation and regulations on explosives in individual countries;

(d) Relevant initiatives for the regulation of explosives at the international and regional levels;

3. Also requests the Secretary-General to examine the possibility of convening a meeting of a group of experts to consider the question of the preparation of the action plan;⁷¹

⁷¹ For this purpose, the group of experts may consider that the word "explosive" would mean any substance or article that is made, manufactured or used to produce an explosion, detonation or propulsive or pyrotechnic effect.

4. Invites the International Criminal Police Organization to provide the Secretary-General with its views, suggestions and expertise regarding the development and implementation of the action plan with a view to making it an effective instrument for combating the criminal misuse of and illicit trafficking in explosives.

1998/18. Measures to regulate firearms for the purpose of combating illicit trafficking in firearms

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling resolution 9 of 7 May 1995, on firearms regulation for purposes of crime prevention and public safety, adopted by the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at Cairo from 29 April to 8 May 1995,⁶⁸

Recalling also section IV.A of its resolution 1995/27 of 24 July 1995 and its resolutions 1996/28 of 24 July 1996 and 1997/28 of 21 July 1997,

Bearing in mind that freedom from the fear of crime is fundamental to international cooperation and to the sustainable development of States and that international illicit trafficking in and criminal misuse of firearms have a harmful effect on the security of each State and endanger the well-being of peoples and their social and economic development,

Aware of the need for improved cooperation and exchange of data and other information for law enforcement purposes as well as for cooperative action to combat illicit trafficking in firearms,

Mindful that the suppression and prevention of international illicit trafficking in firearms can best be accomplished by the adoption of effective methods of identifying and tracing firearms and by the establishment of an import and export and in-transit licensing or similar authorization regime for the international transfer of firearms,

Aware of the importance of bilateral and multilateral instruments and arrangements in the furtherance of international cooperation, including guidelines and model regulations,

Taking note with appreciation of the work of regional organizations such as the Organization of American States, which adopted the Inter-American Convention against the Illicit Manufacturing of and Trafficking in Firearms, Ammunition, Explosives, and Other Related Materials at its twenty-fourth special session, held in Washington, D.C., on 13 and 14 November 1997,⁷⁰ the Inter-American Drug Abuse Control Commission of the Organization of American States, which adopted the Model Regulations for the Control of the International Movement of Firearms, Their Parts and Components, and Ammunition at its twenty-second regular session, held at Lima from 4 to 6 November 1997,⁷² and the Council of the European Communities, which adopted the directive on the control of the acquisition and possession of weapons on 18 June 1991,⁷³

Taking note of the relevant recommendations contained in the report of the Panel of Governmental Experts on Small Arms, in particular those related to achieving effective control of firearms in the peace-building process in order to prevent their entry into the illicit market,⁷⁴

Taking note also of the results of the United Nations International Study on Firearm Regulation,⁷⁵

Recognizing that States will benefit from sharing technical expertise and training that will enhance the capability of law enforcement and criminal justice officials to develop crime prevention policies and solutions to prevent and combat illicit trafficking in and criminal misuse of firearms,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 52/85 of 12 December 1997,

1. Welcomes the results of the United Nations International Study on Firearm Regulation,⁷⁵ and expresses its appreciation to the Member States that participated in that initiative;

2. Expresses its appreciation to the Governments of Australia, Canada and Japan, to intergovernmental organizations and to institutes of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme network for contributing financially or in kind to the development and implementation of the Study;

3. Also expresses its appreciation to the Government of Slovenia for acting as host to the regional workshop on firearm regulation in Europe, held at Ljubljana from 22 to 26 September 1997, to the Government of the United Republic of Tanzania for acting as host to the regional workshop on firearm regulation in Africa, held at Arusha from 3 to 7 November 1997, to the Government of Brazil for acting as host to the regional workshop on firearm regulation in the Americas, held at São Paulo from 8 to 12 December 1997, and to the Government of India for acting as host to the regional workshop on firearm regulation in Asia, held at New Delhi from 27 to 31 January 1998;

4. Recommends that States, in the light of the above-mentioned considerations, work towards the elaboration of an international instrument to combat the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms, their parts and components and ammunition within the context of a United Nations convention against transnational organized crime;

5. Invites States, when discussing the elaboration of the international instrument referred to in paragraph 4 above, to take into account, as appropriate, the views of interested non-governmental organizations and other interested parties;

6. Recommends that States, in discussing the elaboration of the international instrument, take into account, where relevant and appropriate, the Inter-American Convention against the Illicit Manufacturing of and Trafficking in Firearms, Ammunition, Explosives, and Other Related Materials,⁷⁰ as well as other existing international instruments and ongoing initiatives;

7. Decides that the ad hoc committee on the elaboration of a comprehensive international convention against transnational organized crime, to be established by the General Assembly, should hold discussions on the elaboration of an international instrument to combat the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms, their parts and components and ammunition, including, inter alia, effective methods of identifying and tracing firearms, as well as on the establishment or maintenance of an import and export and in-transit licensing or similar authorization regime for the international commercial transfer of firearms, their parts and components and ammunition to prevent their diversion for criminal misuse;

8. Invites the International Criminal Police Organization and other intergovernmental organizations to provide the Secretary-General with views and proposals regarding their possible contributions towards the development and implementation of technical cooperation to strengthen the ability of law enforcement officials to combat illicit trafficking in and criminal misuse of firearms, and requests the Secretary-General to report thereon to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its ninth session.

1998/19. Action against illegal trafficking in migrants, including by sea

The Economic and Social Council,

Considering that illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants are normally carried out by organizations as part of their transnational criminal operations and ordinarily take place under inhuman conditions which result in a great number of accidents and casualties,

Stressing the need to combat all criminal practices connected with illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, having due regard to universally recognized human rights,

Stressing also that it is important that the States concerned establish bilateral, regional and multilateral coordinating mechanisms to fight activities related to illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 51/62 of 12 December 1996, in which the Assembly, inter alia, requested the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice to consider giving attention to the question of the smuggling of aliens,

Recalling also its resolutions 1994/14 of 25 July 1994 and 1995/10 of 24 July 1995,

Taking note of the report of the meeting of the inter-sessional open-ended intergovernmental group of experts on the elaboration of a preliminary draft of a possible comprehensive international convention against organized transnational crime of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, held at Warsaw from 2 to 6 February 1998,⁷⁶ and recalling the text of the draft United Nations framework convention against organized crime, submitted to the General Assembly at its fifty-first session by the Government of Poland,⁷⁶

Taking note also of the existing proposals for a convention and a protocol on the subject of illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, including by sea, submitted to it by the Governments of Austria and Italy,

Taking note further of the proposal considered by the group of experts that the draft of an international convention against organized transnational crime could consist of a main convention and additional protocols covering specific offences,⁷⁷

Stressing the importance for any legal instruments against illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, including by sea, of being consistent legally and substantively with the draft of an international convention against transnational organized crime,

Emphasizing that women and children are particularly vulnerable to becoming victims of the crime of illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants,

1. Recognizes the importance of elaborating an efficient legal instrument combating all aspects of transnational organized crime, for example, illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, including by sea, having due regard to universally recognized human rights;

2. Decides that the ad hoc committee on the elaboration of a comprehensive international convention against transnational organized crime, to be established by the General Assembly, should hold discussions on the elaboration of an international instrument against illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, including by sea, taking into account the existing proposals for legal instruments against illegal trafficking in and transporting of migrants, including by sea.⁷⁸

1998/20. Action to combat international trafficking in women and children

The Economic and Social Council,

Gravely concerned by the significant and continuing increase in the activities of transnational criminal organizations and others that profit from international trafficking in women and children,

Declaring that the attention and resources of law enforcement authorities, in particular in the countries of destination for the women and children being trafficked, must be directed towards preventing and punishing the activities of all those involved in organizing and facilitating such international trafficking, including criminal groups, individual traffickers, employers and consumers, who often force women and children into forms of debt bondage, servitude or sexual exploitation, involving criminal activities, in order to pay for their passage,

Recognizing that organized international criminal groups are becoming increasingly dangerous and active in international trafficking in women and children, without regard to dangerous and inhumane conditions and in flagrant violation of domestic laws and international standards,

Taking note of the report of the meeting of the inter-sessional open-ended intergovernmental group of experts on the elaboration of a preliminary draft of a possible comprehensive international convention against organized transnational crime, held at Warsaw from 2 to 6 February 1998,⁵⁶ and recalling the text of the draft United Nations framework convention against organized crime, submitted to the General Assembly at its fifty-first session by the Government of Poland,⁷⁶

Recalling its resolution 1996/26 of 24 July 1996, on measures to prevent illicit international trafficking in children and to establish penalties appropriate to such offences,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 52/86 of 12 December 1997, on crime prevention and criminal justice measures to eliminate violence against women,

Convinced of the need for all States to protect fully the universally recognized human rights of women and children, regardless of their legal status, and to provide humane treatment, in particular with regard to assistance, and protection,

Recognizing that international trafficking in women and children has high social and economic costs, often contributing to official corruption and burdening law enforcement agencies in all States where women and children subjected to such trafficking depart, transit or are found,

Reaffirming respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all States, including their right to control immigration flows,

Concerned that trafficking in women and children undermines public confidence in laws, policies and procedures relating to immigration and to ensuring the protection of genuine refugees,

Commending those States that have enacted effective domestic legislation permitting seizure and forfeiture of property, both real and personal, that is knowingly used in organized criminal activities that involve trafficking in women and children, as well as all property used in or derived from such trafficking,

Encouraging Member States that have not yet done so to enact domestic criminal legislation to combat international trafficking in women and children,

Concerned that, in the absence of a universal instrument on these matters, women and children will not be sufficiently protected against this type of crime, which is increasingly transcending national borders,

Declaring that effective action to combat international trafficking in women and children requires a comprehensive approach in the countries of origin, transit and destination that includes preventive measures to educate potential victims and their families as well as to frustrate traffickers, enforcement measures against traffickers and all those who assist them and protective measures to aid victims of trafficking, including protection for those victims who would assist in the prosecution of the traffickers,

1. Decides that the ad hoc committee on the elaboration of a comprehensive international convention against transnational organized crime, to be established by the General Assembly, should hold discussions on the elaboration, as appropriate, of an international instrument addressing trafficking in women and children;

2. Stresses the relevance of the following issues in connection with trafficking in women and children:

(a) The need for States to take effective and expeditious measures, in particular the enactment or amendment, if necessary, of domestic legislation, to provide for appropriate penalties, such as substantial imprisonment, fines and forfeiture, in order to combat all aspects of organized criminal activities related to trafficking at the international level in women and children;

(b) The importance for States of sharing information, coordinating law enforcement activities and otherwise cooperating, if their laws permit, in order to locate and arrest those who organize trafficking in women and children, as well as those who exploit those trafficked;

(c) The need for States to provide specialized training for law enforcement, immigration and other officers concerned, as well as to initiate public information campaigns to make both potential victims and the general public aware of the terrible exploitation and possible loss of life inherent in trafficking in women and children;

(d) The need for countries of origin, transit and destination to observe fully international obligations and national laws, including those concerning the humane treatment and strict observance of all human rights of women and children, regardless of whether they were trafficked voluntarily or involuntarily;

(e) The goal of ensuring that international efforts to prevent international trafficking in women and children do not inhibit immigration or freedom of travel consistent with laws or undercut the protection provided to refugees by international law;

(f) The need for strengthened international cooperation and technical assistance for the benefit of developing countries.

1998/21. United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice

The Economic and Social Council,

Bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 46/152 of 18 December 1991, on the creation of an effective United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme,

Reaffirming the importance of United Nations standards, norms and guidelines in crime prevention and criminal justice and the need to maintain a balance between the current main priority issue of combating transnational organized crime and the other priority issues of the Programme,

I

USE AND APPLICATION OF UNITED NATIONS STANDARDS AND NORMS IN CRIME PREVENTION AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Recalling its resolution 1993/34 of 27 July 1993, in section III of which it requested the Secretary-General to commence without delay a process of information-gathering to be undertaken by means of surveys,

1. Recommends that the relevant national authorities promote the use and application of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to continue the information-gathering and to submit to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its ninth session a report on the use and application of the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (The Tokyo Rules),⁷⁹ the Guidelines on the Role of Prosecutors⁸⁰ and the Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers,⁸¹ and to prepare updated reports where at least thirty additional States have replied in respect of a standard or norm on which a report has already been submitted;

3. Also requests the Secretary-General to prepare survey instruments on the United Nations Declaration against Corruption and Bribery in International Commercial Transactions,⁵⁹ the United Nations Declaration on Crime and Public Security⁸² and the International Code of Conduct for Public Officials;⁶²

4. Invites States to provide resources to the Secretariat with a view to making the information provided on the use and application of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice accessible through the United Nations Crime and Justice Information Network via the World Wide Web;

5. Invites States and research institutes to make use of the information gathered regarding the use and application of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice;

6. Requests the Secretary-General to include in his budget proposals on the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme the resources appropriate for the Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention of the Secretariat, in order to enable the Centre to fulfil its mandates;

II

ADMINISTRATION OF JUVENILE JUSTICE

Recalling its resolution 1997/30 of 21 July 1997, on the administration of juvenile justice, and the Guidelines for Action on Children in the Criminal Justice System, annexed to that resolution,

Welcoming the fact that the Committee on the Rights of the Child places considerable emphasis on juvenile justice during the review of State party reports, and noting that its concluding observations often include recommendations to seek technical assistance in juvenile justice from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, the Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention of the Secretariat and the United Nations Children's Fund, in accordance with article 45 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child,²⁶

Emphasizing the important preventive character of the effective use and application of existing United Nations standards and norms in juvenile justice,

Concerned about the situation of children in conflict with the law and their treatment by the criminal justice system in a number of States,

Concerned also about the fact that, in the view of the Committee on the Rights of the Child, juvenile justice reform is needed in almost all States whose country reports have been considered,

1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General on the use and application of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice,⁸³ in which the Secretary-General highlighted difficulties and deficiencies in the use and application of United Nations standards and norms in juvenile justice by Member States;

2. Welcomes the fact that the Centre for International Crime Prevention of the Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention of the Secretariat has enhanced its cooperation with other United Nations entities and with other partners involved in assisting Member States in setting up separate juvenile justice systems or in improving existing juvenile justice systems by adapting them to the United Nations standards and norms in juvenile justice;

⁸¹ Ibid., chap. I, sect. B.3, annex.

⁸² General Assembly resolution 51/60, annex.

⁸³ E/CN.15/1998/8 and Add.1.

3. Also welcomes the increased number of technical assistance projects in the field of juvenile justice, which reflects an increased awareness on the part of Member States of the importance of juvenile justice reform in establishing and maintaining stable societies and the rule of law;

4. Further welcomes the establishment of a coordination panel on technical advice and assistance in juvenile justice to coordinate activities in the field of juvenile justice, subject to the conditions set out in Economic and Social Council resolution 1997/30, and calls on the partners involved to increase their cooperation, share information and pool their capacities and interests in order to increase the effectiveness of programme implementation;

5. Urges States to include, where necessary, provisions for juvenile justice in their national development plans, calls upon States to include the administration of juvenile justice in their funding policies for development cooperation, and invites them to respond favourably to requests from other States that are seeking assistance from the Centre for International Crime Prevention, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights or the United Nations Children's Fund in developing and improving juvenile justice systems;

6. Urges States parties to the Convention on the Rights of the Child²⁶ to intensify their efforts to ensure full implementation of their obligations under the Convention and to pursue the goals set forth in the Convention with regard to the treatment of children in the administration of juvenile justice, and urges States to use and apply the United Nations standards and norms in juvenile justice and related instruments;

7. Reaffirms that juvenile justice remains a high priority in the work of the Centre for International Crime Prevention, in particular as juveniles, both those in conflict with the law and those in difficult circumstances who may be potential future criminals, are easy prey for criminal organizations closely linked with activities of transnational organized crime;

8. Requests the Centre to continue to provide technical assistance in the field of juvenile justice, and calls on Member States to provide the necessary resources;

9. Underlines the need for mainstreaming a gender perspective into all policies and programmes relating to children in the criminal justice system;

10. Requests the Secretary-General to report on the administration of juvenile justice, as well as on the activities of the coordination panel on technical advice and assistance in juvenile justice, to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its eighth session;

III

7. Invites the Secretary-General, with the assistance of interested States and relevant organizations, to make use of the database referred to in paragraph 4 above in order to provide guidelines for drafting appropriate laws on victims and, at the request of Member States, to assist in the elaboration of new legislation;

8. Invites the Secretary-General, Member States and intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations:

(a) To promote, where necessary, demonstration or pilot projects for the establishment and the further development of victim services, and other operational activities;

17. The Secretary-General is requested to assist Member States, upon request, in the elaboration of joint strategies and the mobilization of support for providing assistance to victims, including wider citizen participation and the promotion of the principles of restorative justice.

1998/22. Status of foreign citizens in criminal proceedings

The Economic and Social Council,

Guided by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted and proclaimed by the General Assembly by its resolution 217 A (III) of 10 December 1948,

Bearing in mind the relevant international legal instruments in the field of human rights,

Bearing in mind also the Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners, adopted by the First United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at Geneva from 22 August to 3 September 1955,⁹¹ and approved by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 663 C (XXIV) of 31 July 1957, and the procedures for the effective implementation of the Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners, approved by the Council in its resolution 1984/47 of 25 May 1984 and set out in the annex thereto, ⁹¹ United Nations publication, Sales No. 1956.IV.4, annex I, sect. A.

Recalling General Assembly resolution 49/159 of 23 December 1994, in which the Assembly approved the Naples Political Declaration and Global Action Plan against Organized Transnational Crime adopted by the World Ministerial Conference on Organized Transnational Crime, held at Naples, Italy, from 21 to 23 November 1994,⁵⁴

Conscious of the need to respect human dignity and the recognized rights of persons undergoing criminal proceedings as set forth in the International Covenants on Human Rights,⁵⁴

Urges Member States that have not yet done so to consider adopting the following measures:

(a) Carefully examine whether foreign citizens under criminal prosecution are guaranteed universally recognized rights with regard to criminal prosecution at all stages of proceedings;

(b) Ensure that individuals are not subjected to more severe custodial penalties or inferior prison conditions in a State solely because they are not nationals of that State;

(c) Undertake the necessary arrangements to ensure that any foreign citizen subject to criminal proceedings whose native language is not that of the State conducting the proceedings against him or her and who, for that reason, is unable to understand the nature of such proceedings has access throughout his or her trial to the services of a suitable interpreter in his or her native language, to the extent possible;

(d) Whenever permitted by its internal law or practice, make available to foreign citizens as well as to nationals, provided that they fulfil the relevant legal requirements, alternative penal sentences or administrative penalties provided for under the legislation of the State conducting proceedings;

1998/23. International cooperation aimed at the reduction of prison overcrowding and the promotion of alternative sentencing

The Economic and Social Council,

Deeply concerned by the serious problem confronting many Member States as a result of prison overcrowding,

Convinced that conditions in overcrowded prisons may affect the human rights of prisoners,

Mindful of the fact that the physical and social conditions associated with prison overcrowding may result in outbreaks of violence in prisons, a development that could pose a grave threat to law and order,

Recalling the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (The Tokyo Rules),⁷⁹ and convinced of the necessity of their further implementation,

Recalling also the resolutions on the conditions of prisoners adopted by United Nations congresses on the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders, in particular resolution 16 on reduction of the prison population, alternatives to imprisonment and social integration of offenders and resolution 17 on the human rights of prisoners, both adopted on 6 September 1985 by the Seventh United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders,⁹³

Noting that the International Conference on Community Service Orders in Africa, held at Kadoma, Zimbabwe, from 24 to 28 November 1997, adopted the Kadoma Declaration on Community Service, contained in annex I to the present resolution,

Taking note of the recommendations of the seminar entitled "Criminal justice: the challenge of prison overcrowding", held jointly by the Latin American Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders and the European Commission at San José, Costa Rica, from 3 to 7 February 1997, contained in annex II to the present resolution,

Mindful that many Member States lack the necessary resources to resolve the problem of prison overcrowding, and conscious that the inadequate facilities and cell accommodations in prisons are a product of the difficult socio-economic conditions prevailing in developing countries and in countries with economies in transition,

Noting that, in an attempt to reduce prison overcrowding, some Member States have been trying to find a solution by granting amnesties or pardons or by building new prisons,

Recognizing the need for Member States to establish economic and technical cooperation for the purpose of improving prison conditions and allocating resources to that end,

Considering that prison overcrowding causes a variety of problems, including difficulties for overworked staff,

Taking into account the limited effectiveness of imprisonment, especially for prisoners serving short sentences, and the cost of imprisonment to society as a whole,

Considering the growing interest in many Member States in measures to replace custodial sentences, especially taking into account the principles of human rights,

Considering also that community service and other non-custodial measures are innovative alternatives to imprisonment and that there have been promising developments in this area,

Considering further that compensation for damage done is an important element of non-custodial sentences,

Considering that legislation can be introduced to ensure that community service and other non-custodial measures will be imposed as alternatives to imprisonment,

⁵² United Nations, Treaty Series, vol. 596, No. 8638.

1. Urges Member States, if they have not yet done so, to consider introducing appropriate alternatives to imprisonment in their criminal justice systems;⁹⁴

2. Recommends to Member States that have not yet done so to consider adopting effective measures to reduce pre-trial detention;

3. Recommends to Member States, subject to national law, to consider the following:

(a) Dealing with petty offences according to customary practice, where such practice exists, provided that doing so meets human rights requirements and that those involved so agree;

(b) If possible, using amicable means of settlement to deal with petty offences and resolving those offences among the parties, for example, by using mediation, acceptance of civil reparation or agreement to compensation through part of the income of the offender or through the work done by the offender to recompense the victim;

(c) If possible, preferring community service and other non-custodial measures to imprisonment;

(d) Conducting a study on the feasibility of adapting successful models of non-custodial measures and applying them in States where they are not yet being applied;

(e) Educating the public about the objectives of the above-mentioned alternatives to imprisonment and about how those alternatives work;

4. Invites international and regional financial institutions such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund to incorporate in their technical assistance programmes measures to reduce prison overcrowding, including the establishment of adequate infrastructure and the development of alternatives to imprisonment in criminal justice systems;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to report to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice no later than at its tenth session on the implementation of the present resolution.

ANNEX I

Kadoma Declaration on Community Service

Recalling the Kampala Declaration on Prison Conditions in Africa, adopted at the International Seminar on Prison Conditions in Africa, held at Kampala from 19 to 21 September 1996, which takes into account the limited effectiveness of imprisonment, especially for those serving short sentences, and the cost of imprisonment to the whole of society, ⁹⁴ See the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (The Tokyo Rules), contained in the annex to General Assembly resolution 45/110, and Human Rights and Pre-trial Detention: Handbook of International Standards relating to Pre-trial Detention, Professional Training Series, No. 3 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.94.XIV.6).

Noting the growing interest in many countries in measures that replace custodial sentences and the promising developments across the world in this regard,

Noting with appreciation that the importance of the Kampala Declaration was recognized by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 1997/36 of 21 July 1997 on international cooperation for the improvement of prison conditions, to which the Declaration was annexed,

Bearing in mind the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for Non-custodial Measures (The Tokyo Rules)⁹⁵ and the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice (The Beijing Rules),⁹⁵

Considering that, in many countries in Africa, the level of prison overcrowding is inhuman,

Recalling that the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights⁹⁶ reaffirms the dignity inherent in a human being and the prohibition of degrading punishment and treatment,

Welcoming the success of the Zimbabwe community service scheme and its adoption by the Government of Zimbabwe following a three-year trial period,

Noting with appreciation that other African countries, including French-speaking and Portuguese-speaking countries, are interested in introducing community service as a penal sanction in their criminal justice systems,

The participants at the International Conference on Community Service Orders in Africa, held at Kadoma, Zimbabwe, from 24 to 28 November 1997, make the following Declaration:

1. The use of prison should be strictly limited to being a measure of last resort. Prisons represent a waste of scarce resources and human potential. The majority of prisoners who occupy them pose no actual threat to society.

2. The overcrowding in our prisons requires positive action through, inter alia, the introduction of community service.

3. Community service is in conformity with African traditions of dealing with offenders and with healing the damage caused by crime within the community. Furthermore, it is a positive and cost-effective measure to be preferred, whenever possible, to a sentence of imprisonment.

4. Community service should be effectively implemented and supervised and should involve a programme of work in which the offender is required to carry out a number of hours of voluntary work for the benefit of the community in his or her own time.

5. Governments, donors and civil society organizations are invited to support research, pilot schemes and other initiatives in this important area.

6. Countries that already have community service should take into account lessons learned from elsewhere and review their own schemes accordingly.

⁹⁵ General Assembly resolution 40/33, annex.

⁹⁶ United Nations, Treaty Series, vol. 1520, No. 26363.

7. There should be promotion of community support through sensitization campaigns targeting public opinion and the development of statistical databases to measure the effectiveness of community service.

8. We encourage those countries that have not yet done so to develop non-custodial sentencing alternatives and to this end we commit ourselves to cooperating with and coordinating our action through other national committees on community service and/or interested groups, in order better to promote the scheme.

9. We adopt the Plan of Action attached hereto.

APPENDIX

Plan of action for the Kadoma Declaration on Community Service

Further to the Kadoma Declaration on Community Service, adopted by the participants at the International Conference on Community Service Orders in Africa, held at Kadoma, Zimbabwe, from 24 to 28 November 1997, the participants adopt the following Plan of Action:

1. Network

Establish a network of national committees on community service and other interested groups to provide mutual support and encouragement through:

- The provision of resource persons to assist at seminars in the subregion and elsewhere;
- The sharing of documentation (legislation, guidelines, administrative forms) and ideas;
- Coordination and support of new projects;
- Cooperation and assistance in administering the scheme;
- Assistance in staff training;
- Exchange visits.

2. Community service directory

Compile a community service directory. To this end, a home page will be established on the Internet informing interested persons of developments in this area and a book will be produced that includes:

- The contact points and addresses of all national committees on community service and those contacts engaged in community service schemes;
- A list of experts and resource persons;
- Contacts in interested countries;
- Interested groups and organizations around the world;
- Donor and government contacts.

The book will be distributed in different languages, including in French and English.

3. Newsletter

Issue a newsletter:

- To be produced by each national committee on community service at regular intervals and circulated to the network;
- To include initiatives undertaken, problems encountered, solutions found, reports on workshops, a calendar of events, requests for support (for example, resource persons), statistics and other information;

- To be disseminated through the Internet or the mail, or both.

4. Research and data-gathering

Set up mechanisms for research and data-gathering whereby:

- Research findings and data gathered will be shared through the newsletter or via the Internet;
- Research projects will be identified (for example, on cost-benefit analyses) and funding application supported by the network;
- Joint research projects on the benefits, problems and effectiveness of community service where the scheme is applied will be undertaken regionally and internationally.

ANNEX II

Recommendations of the seminar entitled "Criminal justice: the challenge of prison overcrowding", held at San José, Costa Rica, from 3 to 7 February 1997

1. The Secretary-General should take measures to ensure that assistance is offered to States requesting it, either by drawing on existing resources or by creating a special budget heading, with a view to improving the physical conditions of prisons.

2. The Secretary-General should take measures to ensure that the relevant entities are furnished with the necessary resources to provide training for the administrative and operational personnel of the prisons of Member States requesting such training, with priority being accorded to the most overcrowded prisons.

3. Measures should be taken to ensure that international and regional financial institutions, such as the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank, adopt initiatives aimed at reducing prison overcrowding, including the provision of assistance for programmes of prison construction and the renovation of infrastructure.

4. The World Health Organization and regional bodies should be requested to incorporate, in their programmes of assistance, initiatives aimed at improving prison hospital facilities and the medical and hospital services offered to prisoners in States requesting such assistance.

5. Member States should urge the Secretary-General to promote and adopt, jointly with requesting Member States, measures to privatize individual prisons in such a way that they provide for security, the well-being and social reintegration of prisoners, profitable industrial use of prison labour and employment opportunities for prisoners after their release.

6. Member States should seek to establish in prisons human rights committees and work panels as alternative conflict-resolution mechanisms.

7. Member States should explore the possibility of adopting strategies to involve private enterprise in prison social rehabilitation programmes by creating enterprises and micro-enterprises to encourage investment in the vocational training of prisoners, employment creation within prisons and the reintegration of former prisoners into the labour force, thereby ensuring full application of the principles of social reintegration and rehabilitation of former prisoners within the productive mainstream of countries.

8. Member States should take measures to ensure the marketing of prison production through promotional and marketing programmes and to set up progressively workshops in prisons.

1998/24. Technical cooperation and advisory services in crime prevention and criminal justice

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 52/90 of 12 December 1997, on strengthening the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme, particularly its technical cooperation capacity,

Stressing the direct relevance of crime prevention and criminal justice to sustained development, stability, improved quality of life, democracy and human rights, which is increasingly being recognized by United Nations entities, specialized agencies and other international organizations,

5. Welcomes the close cooperation between the Centre and the United Nations International Drug Control Programme, in particular in the areas of action against money-laundering and of drugs and prisons, and calls upon the two entities to continue to undertake joint activities, in particular the elaboration and execution of technical cooperation projects;

6. Expresses its concern at the fact that the lack of adequate resources may impede progress in the further operationalization of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme and hamper the implementation of those projects that have so far been elaborated in response to urgent requests from countries in need;

7. Expresses its appreciation to those Member States that contribute to the activities of the Programme by providing funding and the services of associate experts, consultants and experts for training purposes, advisory missions and the implementation of technical assistance projects, by developing training manuals and other material, by offering fellowship opportunities and by hosting action-oriented workshops and expert group meetings;

Emphasizing that the need to balance the global licit supply of opiates against the legitimate demand for opiates for medical and scientific purposes is central to the international strategy and policy of drug abuse control,

Noting the fundamental need for international cooperation and solidarity with the traditional supplier countries in drug abuse control in general and in the universal application of the provisions of the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs of 1961¹⁰² in particular,

Having considered the Report of the International Narcotics Control Board for 1997,¹⁰³ in which the Board pointed out that in 1996 a balance between consumption and production of opiate raw materials had been achieved, and noting that efforts were made by the two traditional supplier countries, India and Turkey, to maintain, together with other producing countries, the balance between supply and demand,

Noting the importance of opiates in pain relief therapy as advocated by the World Health Organization,

1. Urges all Governments to continue to contribute to the maintenance of a balance between the licit supply of and demand for opiates for medical and scientific needs, the achievement of which would be facilitated by maintaining, insofar as their constitutional and legal systems permit, support to the traditional supplier countries, and to cooperate in preventing the proliferation of sources of production and manufacture for export;

2. Urges Governments of all producing countries to adhere strictly to the provisions of the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs of 1961¹⁰² and to take effective measures to prevent illicit production or diversion of opiate raw materials to illicit channels;

3. Urges consumer countries to assess their needs for opiates realistically and to communicate those needs to the International Narcotics Control Board in order to ensure easy supply;

4. Commends the Board for its efforts in monitoring the implementation of the relevant Economic and Social Council resolutions and in particular:

(a) In urging the Governments concerned to adjust global production of opiate raw materials to a level corresponding to actual licit needs and to avoid unforeseen imbalances between licit supply of and demand for opiates caused by the sales of products manufactured from seized and confiscated drugs;

(b) In arranging informal meetings during sessions of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs with the main States importing and producing opiate raw materials;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to transmit the text of the present resolution to all Governments for consideration and implementation.

1998/26. Advancement of women: implementation of the Platform for Action of the Fourth World Conference on Women and the role of operational activities in promoting, in particular, capacity-building and resource mobilization for enhancing the participation of women in development

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling its agreed conclusions 1997/2 of 18 July 1997, on mainstreaming the gender perspective into all policies and programmes in the United Nations system,⁴⁵ and General Assembly resolutions 50/120 of 20 December 1995, 52/100 of 12 December 1997 and 52/195 and 52/203 of 18 December 1997,

Recalling also that Governments have the primary responsibility for implementing the Platform for Action adopted by the Fourth World Conference on Women,² ¹⁰⁰ Ibid., 1992, Supplement No. 10 (E/1992/30), chap. I, sect. C.

¹⁰¹ Ibid., 1995, Supplement No. 10 and addendum (E/1995/30 and Add.1), chap. I, sect. D.

¹⁰³ United Nations publication, Sales No. E.98.XI.1.

Reaffirming the importance of operational activities for development in assisting the developing countries in implementing the commitments of the Platform for Action,

Reaffirming also that operational activities for development within the United Nations system have a critical and unique role to play in enabling developing countries to take the lead in the management of their own development process and that the funds and programmes constitute important vehicles for advancing international development cooperation,

Taking note of the report of the Secretary-General on advancement of women: implementation of the Platform for Action of the Fourth World Conference on Women and the role of operational activities in promoting, in particular, capacity-building and resource mobilization for enhancing the participation of women in development,¹⁰⁴

Noting that coordinated and integrated follow-up to United Nations conferences has become a priority of the United Nations system and that all activities related to global conference follow-up should fully integrate a gender perspective,

Emphasizing the importance of data disaggregated on the basis of sex and age for the evaluation of gender mainstreaming,

Expressing serious concern at the persistent insufficiency of resources for operational activities for development of the United Nations system, in particular the decline in contributions to core resources,

Stressing that national plans and priorities constitute the only viable frame of reference for national programming of operational activities for development within the United Nations system and that programmes should be based on such development plans and priorities and thus should be country-driven,

Stressing also in that context the need to take into account the outcomes and commitments of relevant United Nations conferences, as well as the individual mandates and complementarities of the organizations and bodies of the United Nations development system, bearing in mind the need to avoid duplication,

1. Welcomes the activities within the United Nations system that are aimed at implementing the Beijing Declaration¹ and the Platform for Action² of the Fourth World Conference on Women, in particular for mainstreaming gender issues, and recognizes the need to integrate further a gender perspective, in particular into operational activities for development;

2. Also welcomes the opportunities that are presented by the reform process in the United Nations better to coordinate and mainstream gender issues as part of a strategic framework, and reaffirms that an active and visible policy of gender mainstreaming should be integrated into the ongoing pilot phase and review of the United Nations Development Assistance Framework;³⁵

3. Calls upon the United Nations system to incorporate fully a gender perspective into the coordinated and integrated implementation of and follow-up to major United Nations conferences and summits and to continue to strengthen its capacity to support and implement world conference commitments, in particular the Beijing Declaration and the Platform for Action;

4. Calls upon the funds, programmes and agencies of the United Nations system, within their poverty eradication activities, to target women and girls living in poverty and to ensure the availability of funding sources for such activities;

5. Calls upon Governments to implement specific programmes for the eradication of poverty and illiteracy, ensuring women's equal rights and access to basic social services, such as education and health, as well as productive resources, training, employment, credit, microfinance and the promotion of entrepreneurial activities in order to promote the advancement and empowerment of women in all countries, invites the international community to support national efforts in developing countries in this regard, and invites non-governmental organizations, in this regard, to integrate a gender perspective into their programmes;

6. Recognizes the need for the United Nations system to adopt a coordinated and coherent policy for gender mainstreaming, including the establishment and strengthening of the role of gender units and focal points, including guidelines and directives for mainstreaming a gender perspective in policies and programmes for achieving gender equality;

7. Reiterates that location, seniority level, resources and participation of gender units, gender advisers and focal points in all policy-making and programming processes are crucial for translating the gender mainstreaming mandate into practical reality;

8. Reaffirms that responsibility for translating gender mainstreaming into practice rests at the highest levels;

9. Urges all funds, programmes and agencies of the United Nations system to increase their efforts to incorporate fully a gender analysis and perspective into their operational activities, with a view to achieving time-bound measurable goals, and emphasizes that this process should be guided by the need for the United Nations system to extend assistance to developing countries in meeting their commitments under the Beijing Declaration and the Platform for Action;

10. Requests the funds, programmes and agencies of the United Nations system to assist Governments in integrating data disaggregated by sex and age into their country programmes;

11. Emphasizes the role of the resident coordinators, within their mandate, to incorporate fully a gender perspective in the implementation of operational activities for development, in consultation with the host Government, and the need to provide regular gender training for resident coordinators and their staff;

12. Recognizes the need for accountability in the operational activities of the United Nations system in the implementation of gender mainstreaming activities, including in the report on the triennial policy review and through the preparation of comprehensive reports on the use of resources allocated for gender mainstreaming, in accordance with the relevant decisions of the respective governing bodies;

13. Requests the governing bodies of the United Nations funds and programmes to monitor the implementation of gender mainstreaming in their programmes of work, including in the budgeting of their respective organizations;

14. Also requests the respective governing bodies to ensure the development of integrated monitoring and evaluation of gender mainstreaming activities to facilitate an early identification of problems and to develop effective responses thereto, and requests the United Nations funds and programmes to evaluate the impact of their gender mainstreaming activities, in cooperation with the national Governments concerned, and to report thereon;

15. Requests the funds, programmes and agencies of the United Nations system, within their mandates and the priorities set by their respective governing bodies, to establish internal funding targets for gender mainstreaming wherever they do not exist, and requests that, where they do exist, more determined efforts be made to reach their own targets and to report regularly to their respective governing bodies thereon;

16. Encourages the United Nations development funds and programmes, in mobilizing resources from all available sources, to provide for particular attention to allocating resources to gender mainstreaming activities and capacity-building;

17. Welcomes the work that the United Nations Development Fund for Women has undertaken to support inter-agency cooperation in gender mainstreaming, as well as its efforts to assist the advancement and empowerment of women at the country level, inter alia, by placing gender advisers and gender specialists, and recommends that States and agencies of the United Nations system consider increasing their contribution to and support for the work of the Fund;

18. Reaffirms that, in order to implement the Platform for Action, a reformulation of policies and reallocation of resources may be needed, but that some policy changes may not necessarily have financial implications;

19. Also reaffirms that, in order to implement the Platform for Action, adequate mobilization of resources at the national and international levels, as well as new and additional resources to the developing countries, in particular those in Africa and the least developed countries, from all available funding mechanisms, including multilateral, bilateral and private sources for the advancement of women, will also be required;

20. Welcomes the work undertaken by the Inter-Agency Committee on Women and Gender Equality of the Administrative Committee on Coordination in implementing General Assembly resolution 52/100, and, in this regard, requests the funds and programmes to submit proposals for the implementation of paragraphs 12 and 40 of resolution 52/100 to their respective governing bodies;

21. Requests all funds, programmes and relevant agencies of the United Nations system to assist Governments, upon their request, in their national efforts to implement the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women,⁴ including the reporting system;

22. Requests the Secretary-General, in reporting to the preparatory committee for the high-level review in the year 2000 of the implementation of the Nairobi Forward-looking Strategies for the Advancement of Women³ and the Platform for Action, to be held as a special session of the General Assembly, to include information on the progress in gender mainstreaming in operational activities and on the implementation of the present resolution.

Noting with concern that malaria and diarrhoeal diseases remain prevalent in developing countries, especially in Africa, and noting their dire consequences for health and development in Africa,

Recognizing that these diseases especially afflict people living in poverty, that effective and affordable means of preventing and treating them are available and that combating them is an effective and essential element in eradicating poverty and fostering development,

Noting the leadership role in global malaria control given to the World Health Organization in General Assembly resolution 49/135 and Economic and Social Council resolution 1995/63 and the role of the World Health Organization in directing and coordinating international efforts to prevent and control these diseases,

2. Requests the General Assembly to adopt a programme of action for the year 2000;

3. Stresses that an international year for the culture of peace at the turn of the millennium would provide the opportunity to boost the efforts of the international community to establish and promote an everlasting culture of peace;

4. Recognizes, therefore, that the promotion of a culture of peace should be a high-profile theme in the mobilizing events and evaluations being planned through the year 2000, at the national, regional and international levels:

(a) The Year affords the opportunity to make national actions broad-based, providing a special opportunity to promote peace, non-violence, reconciliation and national unity and to prevent violent conflicts;

¹²⁵ E/1998/52, annex.

(b) At the regional and international levels, the Year will underline the priorities of peace, all human rights development and democracy and the central role that concerted action by different entities of the United Nations system can play in promoting a culture of peace;

(c) The programme of activities for the Year should take into account, as appropriate, the proposed Millennium Assembly during the fifty-fifth session of the General Assembly in the year 2000;

Mindful of the imperative need to keep under continuous review the activities of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system in the implementation of the various United Nations decisions relating to decolonization,

9. Recommends that the executive heads of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system formulate, with the active cooperation of the regional organizations concerned, concrete proposals for the full implementation of the relevant resolutions of the United Nations and submit the proposals to their governing and legislative organs;

10. Also recommends that the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system continue to review at the regular meetings of their governing bodies the implementation of resolution 1514 (XV) and other relevant resolutions of the United Nations;

11. Welcomes the continuing initiative exercised by the United Nations Development Programme in maintaining close liaison among the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system and in providing assistance to the peoples of Non-Self-Governing Territories;

The Economic and Social Council,

Noting that the requested assessment has not been completed,

Welcoming the proposals to continue the work on improvements to the criteria and methodology for the designation of least developed countries,¹³⁰

Taking note of the content of the letter dated 8 July 1998 from the Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Vanuatu to the President of the Economic and Social Council on the proposed graduation of Vanuatu from the list of the least developed countries,¹³¹ wherein reasons were advanced to support the position that the review of the status of Vanuatu should be deferred to the year 2000, and which was circulated as a document of the Council,

1. Reaffirms the need for such an assessment to be made in respect of a decision on the graduation of Vanuatu from the list of the least developed countries;

2. Notes that the Economic and Social Council will discuss the programme of work of the Committee for Development Planning during the organizational session for 1999 of the Council, and, in this regard, stresses the need for the Committee to include in its report to the Council at its substantive session of 1999 an assessment of the usefulness of a vulnerability index for small island developing States as a criterion for the designation of least developed countries and consideration of the work of all relevant international agencies on the vulnerability of small States;

3. Decides to postpone its consideration of the graduation of Vanuatu until the above-mentioned report of the Committee for Development Planning has been submitted and to take a decision accordingly.

8. Welcomes the role played by the Administrative Committee on Coordination and the contribution of its ad hoc task forces and its standing machinery in promoting United Nations system-wide coordination and coordinated and integrated inter-agency follow-up to conferences at all levels, also welcomes the efforts of the Committee to ensure a clear sharing of tasks and interaction within its standing machinery on the follow-up to conferences, encourages regular interaction between the inter-agency committees of the Committee and enhanced interaction between the relevant executive committees and the standing bodies of the Committee, welcomes and encourages the interaction between the organizations and agencies of the United Nations system, including the Bretton Woods institutions, on the follow-up to conferences, and requests that collaboration among organizations of the system on conference follow-up also include the use of networks of United Nations system organizations that make use of task managers and information technology and liaise with the Committee;

9. Also welcomes the briefings on the work of the Administrative Committee on Coordination given in 1998, and requests the Secretary-General to ensure more intensive and improved interaction between the Committee and the Council and its functional and regional commissions, inter alia, by providing briefings after each meeting of the Committee on a regular and timely basis;

10. Urges the Administrative Committee on Coordination to disseminate widely throughout the United Nations system, including through greater use of the Internet, the results of its deliberations, including the work of the ad hoc task forces, and to make the outputs of the task forces available to intergovernmental bodies of the United Nations system for their consideration when integrating conference goals into their programmes of work, and invites the organizations of the United Nations system, bearing in mind the guidance of member States, to use and implement fully the outputs of these task forces;

11. Stresses the role of the specialized agencies in the implementation and follow-up of conference outcomes, calls for further interaction between the Council and the specialized agencies, and encourages more active and high-level participation, in particular at the level of executive heads, by the specialized agencies in its sessions, especially in the consideration of conference follow-up;

IV

COUNTRY-LEVEL FOLLOW-UP

12. Reaffirms that national Governments have the primary responsibility for the implementation and evaluation of conference follow-up, calls on all countries to continue to assess the progress made in implementing conference outcomes in those countries, and encourages the dissemination of best practices;

13. Welcomes the progress achieved in the coordination of conference follow-up at the country level and urges further intensified efforts to this end, reaffirms that the resident coordinators, within their mandates, have an important role to play in assisting Governments and enhancing United Nations system-wide coordination, and, in this regard, calls on the resident coordinators to facilitate through their annual reports an evaluation of the coordination of the United Nations system activities relating to conference implementation and to disseminate best practices, and invites the United Nations Development Group to exercise fully its important role in ensuring coordinated United Nations follow-up to conferences;

14. Encourages the resident coordinator system, within existing mechanisms and in close collaboration with Governments, to continue to foster a broad dialogue with and to support the involvement of all relevant actors in the follow-up to conferences, also encourages the establishment of thematic groups on cross-cutting conference themes as well as the full utilization of collaborative programming frameworks, including the country strategy note, where they exist, and the ongoing pilot phase of the United Nations Development Assistance Framework,³⁵ as appropriate, to support, at the request of Governments, the development of national strategies and action plans for integrated conference follow-up, and further encourages greater interaction between the country representatives of United Nations agencies, funds and programmes, including the Bretton Woods institutions;

15. Recognizes the importance of integrated and coordinated implementation of conference outcomes, including commitments made under those conferences, in countries not covered by the resident coordinator system, calls on those countries to continue to assess the progress they have made in implementing conference outcomes, and encourages the dissemination of best practices in this regard, including through their existing national voluntary reporting mechanisms;

V

EVALUATION OF THE INTEGRATED IMPLEMENTATION OF CONFERENCE FOLLOW-UP

16. Reaffirms the importance of the monitoring and evaluation, by the relevant intergovernmental bodies, of the performance of relevant parts of the United Nations system, in accordance with the priorities set by Member States, with respect to assisting countries in meeting the commitments, objectives and goals emanating from conferences, and calls upon the relevant organizations of the United Nations system to carry out evaluations of the impact of their activities in support of the coordinated implementation of conferences, taking into account their existing practices;

17. Agrees to consider conducting in the year 2000, as a possible contribution to the Millennium Assembly, without prejudice to the discussion of this issue by the General Assembly, a review by the Council of progress made within the United Nations system in the promotion of integrated and coordinated implementation and follow-up of major United Nations conferences and summits in the economic, social and related fields, and requests the Secretary-General to submit a report to the Council at its substantive session of 1999 on possible modalities of such a review;

18. Invites the Secretary-General to prepare a progress report on the implementation of the present resolution for consideration by the Council in 1999.

1998/45. Suggested guidelines for addressing the year 2000 problem of computers

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 52/233 of 26 June 1998 on the global implications of the year 2000 date conversion problem of computers, in which the Assembly, inter alia, called upon the Economic and Social Council to prepare guidelines on which Member States would be able to draw in addressing the diverse aspects of this problem,

Recognizing the serious risks posed by the year 2000 problem and the urgent need for Member States and all parts of the United Nations system to achieve compliance well in advance of the inflexible date of 31 December 1999,

1. Adopts the suggested guidelines for addressing the year 2000 problem of computers contained in the annex to the present resolution;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to ensure broad dissemination of the suggested guidelines for maximum utilization by Member States and those areas of the United Nations system that are not yet year 2000 compliant, as a matter of urgency.

ANNEX

Suggested guidelines for addressing the year 2000 problem of computers

The objective of the present guidelines is to raise the awareness of Governments on the year 2000 problem and compile a general list of issues that should be considered in this context. The problem stems from the fact that many hardware and software systems use only the last two digits of the four-digit designation of a given year to identify that year. Hence, if not converted by the target date, 31 December 1999, those systems will recognize "00" not as the year 2000 but instead as the year 1900. Electronic systems that are not year 2000 compliant and involve processes based on dates will either shut down, produce meaningless and misleading results or revert to some other date, as a result of which whole sectors of the economy and critical government operations could experience significant disruptions.

Although there is an abundance of material available on the Internet from expert groups and government and private institutions warning about the impact of the date issue, it is felt that there is still a need to stress the complexity of the problem, which could affect not only businesses and Governments but also international cooperation. If one partner in a private or intergovernmental network is not year 2000 compliant, this could create a domino effect, causing the whole network of cooperation to break down and affecting even compliant segments. There is also a misconception that the problem is limited to computer systems. In fact, all equipment configurations with embedded systems that use code or chips and involve the handling of dates could be affected. Misunderstanding of the year 2000 problem as being a problem of individual computer systems has led to the belief that the finding of solutions can be left to technical experts. However, recognition of the fact that the millennium bug affects a wide range of different systems and that a domino effect is possible has led to the understanding of the year 2000 problem as being also a management problem.

This brief note attempts to summarize the issues involved and provide general guidelines for attacking the problem; for more detailed information, readers are referred to the Internet and the other sources of information mentioned above. Although the four-step procedure outlined below is geared to government institutions, most of it applies equally to the private sector.

1. Problem awareness

- Governments and international organizations, at the highest level, should announce their commitment to meeting the year 2000 challenge. Progress should be publicly reported at regular intervals;
- A year 2000 awareness campaign should be initiated and directed at target groups, such as small businesses and local government agencies, that may still not be aware of the issue and its complexities;
- A comprehensive year 2000 strategy should be developed that would allow Governments to address the problem in a coordinated manner. The strategic recommendations should be translated into tactical objectives by local governments or executing agents;
- Cooperation between Governments and the private sector should be initiated at all levels of government, including the national and international levels.

2. Problem assessment

- A management structure should be put in place that assigns clear responsibility and authority for addressing the various aspects of the problem;
- Year 2000 compliance should be clearly defined in operational terms and standards should be established for determining what constitutes compliance. For critical systems, a formal certification procedure should be considered;
- Some consensus regarding the order of criticality of processes should be reached. Criteria to be considered are: preventing loss of life, allowing effective government, maintaining civil order, avoiding large-scale hardship, allowing continuation of commercial activities, preventing environmental damage, and so forth;

- Sectors of the infrastructure and systems of national importance for which compliance must be assured should be identified. The list should include but should not be limited to transport and communication, utilities, finance, national security, public health, nuclear facilities and international relations;
- Each organization responsible for providing critical services should be encouraged or required to develop a plan to solve its year 2000 problems. The plan should outline steps to be taken in systems assessment, repair, testing, implementation and coordination with other entities;
- For areas that are not of primary national importance, a risk analysis should be carried out to establish an order of priority for ensuring compliance. It is now recognized that 100 per cent compliance will be difficult to achieve. For low-risk areas where non-compliance will have little impact, action could be delayed;
- To avoid a domino effect, interdependencies between systems of low priority and areas of national importance must be identified;
- The interface between national systems and the systems of other Governments should be defined. Particular attention should also be given to private-sector service providers, for example, in the areas of communication, air traffic control and power supply, who operate on a regional or global level but are an integral part of the national infrastructure;
- Mechanisms for disseminating candid information about the status of remediation should be established;
- Questions regarding public and private sector liability for damages resulting from non-compliance and warranty issues should be investigated.

3. Problem solution

- Validation strategies and testing procedures for all converted or replaced systems and their components should be established;
- A manpower analysis should be carried out to determine the human resources required for the conversion. Many countries, especially developing countries, are already experiencing a shortage of skilled information technology workers. This problem will be aggravated by the year 2000 issue. Developing countries will be particularly vulnerable;
- Budgetary provisions must be made to secure funds for new hardware, conversion software, human resources and related costs. Further, the financial responsibility for the cost of conversion must be determined. Some countries may consider funding by international organizations, especially the World Bank, which has grant loan funds available;

- Suppliers and designers of systems should be identified and integrated into the validation and testing process, whenever possible;
- As regards the application of the validation and testing process established earlier, systems will be certified or steps to convert systems will be taken according to their priority. Since problems and their solutions may be similar across applications and processes, a mechanism for the exchange of information and the consolidation of activities should be established at the national and international levels.

4. Contingency planning

- Governments should establish general contingency plans for all systems and activities of national importance and the systems that support them for continuity of operations. Back-up arrangements should be made at the national and international levels;
- A hotline should be established so that the public can report possible millennium-related problems and obtain assistance in case of emergencies;
- The disaster recovery plans of all systems should be reviewed and updated to avoid loss of data and ensure the resumption of operation as soon as possible;
- In case year 2000 compliance cannot be achieved before 31 December 1999, some critical systems may have to be temporarily decommissioned and replaced by back-up processes. Planning for the establishment of back-up processes for critical infrastructure systems should start immediately. It is important to determine how far in advance such plans will need to be implemented so as to be effective in the event that the deadline cannot be met.

1998/46. Further measures for the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolutions 50/227 of 24 May 1996 and 52/12 B of 19 December 1997,

1. Adopts the texts contained in annexes I, II and III to the present resolution;
2. Expresses its appreciation to the functional commissions for the interest they have taken in reviewing their working methods, and encourages them to continue to do so, taking into account the suggestions and recommendations appearing in annex II to the present resolution, and to adopt practices best suited to their mandates, priorities and responsibilities;

3. Welcomes the reform measures undertaken by the regional commissions, and encourages them to continue to undertake, under the aegis of their respective intergovernmental bodies, further measures to enhance their efficiency and effectiveness as presented in annex III to the present resolution;

4. Decides to continue its deliberations on pending issues pursuant to the mandates given to it, as contained in General Assembly resolutions 50/227 and 52/12 B;

5. Also decides to hold, at its resumed substantive session of 1998, elections for the composition of the bodies as laid down in annex I to the present resolution, so that these bodies are fully constituted from 1 January 1999, and requests its Bureau to work out appropriate mechanisms for the holding of the elections for this purpose;

6. Further decides to bring the present resolution to the attention of the General Assembly in pursuance of paragraph 70 of annex I to Assembly resolution 50/227 and paragraphs 9 and 10 of Assembly resolution 52/12 B.

ANNEX I

Subsidiary bodies identified for restructuring and revitalization

A. COMMISSION ON SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY FOR DEVELOPMENT

1. The Commission on Science and Technology for Development shall remain a functional commission of the Economic and Social Council and shall continue to meet biennially for two weeks.

2. The Commission is encouraged to sharpen the focus of its work, devoting particular attention to the issues of transfer of technology and capacity-building, in particular of the developing countries. In regard to transfer of technology, the examination of concrete applications/activities is encouraged.

3. Effective coordination shall be established with all other functional commissions and with the Economic and Social Council. The Commission should concentrate, in particular, on working closely with the Commission on Sustainable Development and with the Trade and Development Board of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Methods to be employed to enhance these linkages should include the following:

(a) Closer communication should be established between the bureaux of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development and the Commission on Sustainable Development as well as with other bureaux of the functional commissions, as appropriate;

(b) Regular communication should take place between the secretariats/offices servicing the Commission on Science and Technology for Development, the Commission on Sustainable Development and the Trade and Development Board;

(c) The outcome of the meetings of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development should continue to be made available to the States Members of the United Nations, including through briefings to delegations in Geneva and New York by the Bureau and secretariat of the Commission;

(d) The outcome of the meetings of the Commission should be shared for information purposes with all relevant functional commissions and other relevant United Nations bodies.

4. The coordination between the Commission and other relevant United Nations bodies, including the regional commissions, should be improved and made more effective.

5. The United Nations Conference on Trade and Development shall continue to serve as the secretariat of the Commission. The Commission should make maximum use of the expertise that the secretariat of the Conference can offer, while also drawing, as appropriate, on expertise from elsewhere in the United Nations system, including the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat and relevant specialized agencies.

6. The membership of the Commission is to be reduced from fifty-three to thirty-three with the following geographical distribution: eight members from African States, seven members from Asian States, six members from Latin American and Caribbean States, four members from Eastern European States and eight members from Western European and other States. The term of office is to be four years.

B. COMMITTEE FOR DEVELOPMENT PLANNING

7. The Committee for Development Planning shall be renamed the Committee for Development Policy and shall continue to be a subsidiary body of the Economic and Social Council.

8. The Committee shall comprise twenty-four independent experts with a good mix of expertise, who are to be drawn from the fields of economic development, social development and environmental protection, in order to avoid the need to engage the assistance of consultants and so as to reflect an adequate geographical and gender balance. Membership should include those who are able to contribute on emerging issues and to the multilateral process. The experts should be nominated by the Secretary-General, after consultation with interested Governments, and approved by the Economic and Social Council. The term of office is to be three years.

9. The Committee shall continue the triennial review of the status of the least developed countries and shall meet on this issue once every three years.

10. The Economic and Social Council should decide on an appropriate programme of work for the Committee. In January/February of each year, the Council, at the time of deciding the themes for its substantive session, should advise the Committee about the theme(s) to be considered at the annual session of the Committee, which is not to exceed five working days and is to be held in April/May. The Committee shall submit its report to the Council at its substantive session in July. The report shall also include the proposals of the Committee to the Council concerning its programme of work for the following year, for consideration and approval at the next organizational session of the Council in January/February.

11. The General Assembly, the Secretary-General and the subsidiary bodies of the Economic and Social Council may also propose, through the Council, issues for consideration by the Committee.

12. The dissemination of information on the work of the Committee should be improved, including through the establishment of an Internet web site and through a presentation by its Bureau on the outcome of its deliberations.

13. In undertaking its responsibilities, the Committee should, in addition to holding its formal meetings, explore the scope for effective preparations for its deliberations via informal networking arrangements. The Secretariat should provide assistance in this regard.

C. COMMITTEE ON NEW AND RENEWABLE SOURCES OF ENERGY AND ON ENERGY FOR DEVELOPMENT

D. COMMITTEE ON NATURAL RESOURCES

14. The two committees shall be merged into a single expert body, to be named the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources for Development, which shall serve as a subsidiary body of the Economic and Social Council.

15. The Committee should comprise, with due attention to geographical representation and gender balance, two sub-groups of twelve experts nominated by Governments and approved by the Economic and Social Council. One sub-group should deal with issues relating to energy, the other with issues relating to water resources. The geographical distribution is to be as follows: six members from African States, five members from Asian States, four members from Latin American and Caribbean States, three members from Eastern European States and six members from Western European and other States. The term of office is to be four years.

16. The Committee shall meet biennially for two weeks on the understanding that the days available should be divided evenly in a flexible manner between the two sub-groups.

17. Upon the recommendation of both or either of the expert groups of the Committee, the Economic and Social Council may decide on modalities for the establishment of ad hoc expert groups, when necessary, to consider issues relating to minerals.

18. In addition, the General Assembly may invite the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and the regional commissions to consider effective ways to address, within their respective areas of competence, relevant aspects of this issue.

19. In formulating its programme of work, to be presented to the Economic and Social Council for consideration and decision, the Committee should take into full account the multi-year programme of work of the Commission on Sustainable Development so as to ensure that its own programme of work will be structured in a manner that could enable it to contribute to the work of the Commission. The Council, in considering and deciding on the programme of work of the Committee, should ensure the special relationship between the Committee and the Commission and a coherence between their respective programmes of work. For its part, the Commission is requested to consider which aspects of its multi-year programme of work the Committee can usefully address.

20. The Committee should maintain close links with the United Nations Environment Programme, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the regional commissions and the specialized agencies, as appropriate.

ANNEX II

Functional commissions of the Economic and Social Council with specific responsibilities for the follow-up to the major United Nations conferences

1. The General Assembly, in its resolutions 50/227 of 24 May 1996 and 52/12 B of 19 December 1997, mandated a review by the Economic and Social Council of the functional commissions of the Council.¹⁴² In recent years, the functional commissions have taken an interest in reviewing their own working methods and should continue to do so, benefiting from the experience gained. Each commission should be encouraged to adopt practices best suited to its mandate and responsibilities. In this respect, the following general suggestions and recommendations are provided by the Council to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the functional commissions.

A. WORKING METHODS

2. Bearing in mind the interlinkages of issues and their cross-cutting nature, there is a need for the functional commissions to strengthen their coordination, while paying careful attention to the mandates and terms of reference of each commission. The Economic and Social Council has to play a key role in this process. In this context, the adoption of a multi-year thematic programme for the functional commissions responsible for follow-up to the major United Nations conferences can be helpful.

3. For those functional commissions that have more than one theme for discussion, sufficient time should be allocated for each of the priority themes so as to enable Member States to have focused and in-depth discussions, bearing in mind the interlinkages between the priority themes.

4. Inter-sessional meetings can help to focus the work of a commission by identifying key elements to be discussed and important problems to be addressed within a specific item pertaining to that work. These meetings should contribute to the preparations for the meeting of a functional commission, ¹⁴² The functional commissions of the Economic and Social Council entrusted with the follow-up to the major United Nations conferences are the Commission on Sustainable Development, the Commission on Human Rights, the Commission for Social Development, the Commission on the Status of Women, the Commission on Population and Development and the Commission on Human Settlements. Although the Commission on Human Settlements is a standing committee, the collective term "functional commissions" is used throughout the present annex.

but should not be a substitute for intergovernmental debates in the context of the meeting of the commission itself.

5. Meetings hosted and funded by Governments can also provide useful inputs to the work of the functional commissions, in relation to their respective programmes of work.

6. The work of the commissions should be organized in such a way as to enable agenda items that may lead to negotiated outcomes to be introduced early, so that there is sufficient time for informal consultation on the outcomes.

7. To avoid duplication or overlapping, the functional commissions may be encouraged to request, through the Economic and Social Council, as appropriate, that another functional commission be charged to look into an issue under consideration by the commission making the request, without overloading the programme of work of the other commission. The functional commissions may also be encouraged to request, through the Council, as appropriate, additional inputs from other functional commissions on issues of interest to the commission making the request.

8. The functional commissions should make better use of panels of experts, which should have balanced representation so as to facilitate consideration of substantive issues. As far as possible, synopses of statements that panellists propose to make should be circulated to Member States sufficiently in advance to facilitate a well-prepared dialogue. Care should be taken to ensure that panel members focus their presentations on the agenda item(s) under discussion and not on a related subject, so that adequate time is available for dialogue. Bureaux should ensure that the time allocated to the intergovernmental debate is adequate.

9. The functional commissions should also explore ways to exchange national experiences and best practices in the implementation of effective conference follow-up, including through voluntary national presentations of country experiences and interactive dialogues. The dialogues should focus, in particular, on lessons learned from national-level conference follow-up. It is also necessary that the Secretariat provide Member States with the highlights of such best practices and lessons learned.

10. Bearing in mind the importance of the general debate in providing useful input for the themes under discussion, the functional commissions should ensure that the debate is focused, adds value and contributes to action-oriented outcomes of the session.

11. The functional commissions must ensure that they add value to the process of implementing the programmes of action adopted by the major global conferences. The commissions should therefore focus on:

(a) Deliberating on the progress achieved and the constraints faced as well as action-oriented recommendations on the conference outcomes at the national and international levels;

(b) Fostering the exchange of local, national and regional experiences on implementing conference outcomes;

(c) Reviewing the progress achieved at the national and international levels on specific issues under their multi-year programmes of work through appropriate reporting systems, so as to draw attention to common experiences, successful approaches and areas of particular difficulty and to identify new and emerging issues that require priority attention;

(d) Producing clear, concise and action-oriented outcomes of their deliberations.

12. The voluntary submission of national information, including, for example, information in the form of periodic communications or national reports by Governments, represents a valuable contribution to the follow-up to and review of the implementation of the recommendations of relevant conferences. The Economic and Social Council should reiterate its request to the Secretary-General to prepare a standardized and simplified format, which could be used by Governments in preparing information on a single subject or on clusters of subjects.

13. The functional commissions should mainstream a gender perspective in their work by fully implementing agreed conclusions 1997/2 of 18 July 1997 of the Economic and Social Council,⁴⁵ in particular the sixteenth paragraph thereof.

B. ROLE OF THE BUREAU

14. The Bureau plays a crucial role in facilitating the preparation for and in ensuring the successful outcome of meetings. The incoming Bureau should preferably be elected immediately after the conclusion of the previous session of the commission, as appropriate. Therefore, early designation by regional groups of their candidatures, especially for the position of Chairman, is important.

15. Inter-sessional meetings of the Bureau are very useful and important in preparing for the upcoming session. Regular and informal open-ended briefings by the Bureau, in conjunction with the Secretariat and the Member States, on the preparation for the session, need to be encouraged further. In order to enable the Bureau to carry out its functions effectively, consideration should be given to providing appropriate financial support, through extrabudgetary contributions, to members of the Bureau, in particular those from the developing countries, so as to enable them to participate in the meetings of the Bureau, in inter-sessional meetings of the commission and in the sessions of the commission itself.

16. The bureaux of the functional commissions, along with the Bureau of the Economic and Social Council, are encouraged to enhance coordination, in particular through regular meetings whenever necessary. In addition to meetings, bureaux should explore the scope for coordination via informal networking arrangements. The Secretariat should provide assistance in this regard.

17. The bureaux of the functional commissions should conduct transparent and open-ended consultations with Member States, with a view to seeking guidance from and ensuring greater involvement of Member States in the preparatory work of the sessions of the commissions.

C. PARTICIPATION

18. The participation of officials from capitals responsible for the specific follow-up to United Nations conferences, as well as experts, should be encouraged. High-level participation is desirable and will be facilitated by enhancing the quality of deliberations in the functional commissions.

19. The participation of other relevant entities of the United Nations system, including the Bretton Woods institutions and other specialized agencies, should be encouraged, where appropriate.

20. The functional commissions entrusted with conference follow-up have benefited from the breadth of expertise of non-governmental organizations and the capacity of those organizations to support the work of the United Nations. Bearing in mind Economic and Social Council resolution 1996/31 of 25 July 1996, the functional commissions should take into account in their deliberations the full diversity of the views of non-governmental organizations at the national, regional and international levels. Efforts should be made to facilitate the balanced participation of non-governmental organizations from developed and developing countries.

D. DOCUMENTATION

21. Reports should be concise, coherent and analytical in order to facilitate a focused discussion and a productive outcome.

22. Reports should contain clear and action-oriented recommendations, which would enhance effective implementation of the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences.

23. The availability of reports in electronic format, though desirable, should not substitute for hard-copy reports, which must be made available in a timely manner in all official United Nations languages, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 52/214 B of 22 December 1997.

24. In the preparatory process, the convening of workshops, seminars, round tables and panels of experts focusing on the priority themes may provide many useful ideas in the preparation of documentation and therefore should be given appropriate consideration. In this context, it is important that efforts be made to facilitate the participation of experts from developing countries in such forums. Consultations with other relevant actors, including non-State actors, when possible and as appropriate, can be useful in the preparation of reports.

25. In the preparation of reports by the Secretariat for the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the subsidiary bodies of the Council, the Secretary-General should continue to make use, when appropriate, of the practice of designating task managers, so that a particular United Nations agency would be responsible for coordinating the response of the entire United Nations system on a given subject, including the formulation of recommendations for future action. All relevant bodies in the United Nations system should be involved in the preparatory process, as appropriate. Where necessary, task forces, reporting to an assigned manager, should be established to facilitate the coordination of inputs.

26. An early exchange of views by/with the Secretariat and Member States on the preparation of reports can be helpful in strengthening their content. The Bureau should monitor timely preparation.

27. To allow more time for the Member States to interact with each other, the introduction of the reports by the Secretariat should be kept to the minimum length necessary and, whenever possible, a group of related documents should be introduced together.

28. Recommendations in the reports should focus on steps taken and measures required to enhance the full implementation of conference outcomes at the national and international levels and should clearly identify those actions that are required for a coordinated United Nations system-wide response. In preparing such reports, the Secretariat should draw on the experiences gained by Member States in their national implementation of follow-up to conferences, bearing in mind that the reporting on national implementation of conference outcomes is the responsibility of Governments. In this regard, support provided by the international community should also be included. The Secretariat should also draw on the experience gained by the United Nations system in assisting implementation at the field level, including through the resident coordinator system. Input from the resident coordinator system should be prepared in full consultation with the national Government.

29. The Secretariat is requested to present issues and approaches in a gender-sensitive manner when preparing reports so as to provide the intergovernmental machinery with an analytical basis for gender-responsive policy formulation and to ensure that the intergovernmental machinery is made aware of the decisions and recommendations of the relevant bodies in relation to gender mainstreaming.

30. The functional commissions, at the conclusion of each session, should consider and decide, upon recommendation of their bureaux, whether their outputs might be relevant to the work of other functional commissions and, if so, request the Bureau of the Economic and Social Council to arrange for this material to be brought to the attention of the other commissions in a timely manner. The functional commissions could also consider whether the reports of other functional commissions are relevant to their work and, if so, request the Bureau of the Council to arrange for this material to be made available to them.

E. OUTCOME/REPORTING

31. The format of the outcomes of the meetings will vary from one functional commission to another, but the outcome should be focused and concise, should contain concrete recommendations and actions, based on intergovernmental deliberations and negotiations, and should not be intended as a redefinition of the already agreed documents of the major conferences.

32. The Secretariat should produce a consolidated report for the consideration of the Economic and Social Council that looks at linkages between the functional commissions. This report should highlight the key points on which the Council needs to consider taking action.

33. The Economic and Social Council should, for its part, ensure that it reviews the above-mentioned recommendations, concentrating especially on horizontal or cross-cutting issues, with a view, in particular, to ensuring consistency between recommendations presented by different functional commissions. Within the agreed outputs, the functional commissions should clearly identify any recommendations that have coordination, programmatic or budgetary implications for the United Nations.

34. The Member States should be given ample time to negotiate the outcome of the meetings.

35. While recognizing the right of any Member State to introduce draft resolutions or decisions that it deems necessary, the functional commissions should be encouraged to utilize agreed outputs that serve to integrate the particular sectoral concerns that may arise within the overall framework of the follow-up to a global conference, as appropriate.

F. RELATIONS WITH THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

36. The Economic and Social Council should focus on improving the effectiveness of the functional commissions, including their role as instruments for conference follow-up, through better working methods and harmonization of their multi-year programmes of work. The Council should monitor on a yearly basis the steps taken by the functional commissions in response to Council recommendations on the harmonization of programmes of work. The Council should also monitor annually the way in which its functional commissions mainstream a gender perspective on the basis of the report on the follow-up to the Fourth World Conference on Women.

37. The Economic and Social Council should ensure that general discussion in the functional commissions on cross-cutting issues common to the major United Nations conferences should be within their respective areas of competence and within their multi-year programmes of work in order to foster the discussion of such issues by the Council and the General Assembly.

38. The Economic and Social Council needs to be informed fully of the coordinating work of the Administrative Committee on Coordination so that it can ensure that the functional commissions are aware in a timely manner of the work of the Committee related to the follow-up to the major global conferences.

G. INTERRELATIONSHIP BETWEEN FUNCTIONAL COMMISSIONS

39. As agreed in Economic and Social Council resolution 1997/61 of 25 July 1997, cooperation among functional commissions should be supported and enhanced by the Bureau of the Council with the assistance of the respective secretariats of the functional commissions.

H. RELATIONS WITH THE REGIONAL COMMISSIONS AND OTHER RELEVANT REGIONAL BODIES

40. The regional commissions have been given specific mandates for the follow-up to the major global conferences and they have an important role to play in this regard.

41. Bearing in mind the important role of the regional commissions and other regional bodies in implementing the outcome of the major global conferences, their contribution should be reflected in the work of the functional commissions.

ANNEX III

Regional commissions

1. The General Assembly, in its resolutions 50/227 of 24 May 1996 and 52/12 B of 19 December 1997, mandated a review by the Economic and Social Council of the regional commissions. The commissions, in response to Assembly resolution 50/227 and Council resolution 1996/41 of 26 July 1996, as well as on their own initiative, have carried out reforms with differences in content and scope, in accordance with specificities of each region, aimed at achieving greater relevance, efficiency and effectiveness.

2. The Economic and Social Council welcomes the reform measures undertaken by the regional commissions and encourages them to continue to undertake, as appropriate, under the aegis of their respective intergovernmental bodies, further measures in this regard.

3. The Economic and Social Council recognizes that each regional commission operates in a different economic and institutional environment and that regional commissions should therefore continue to respond to regional needs as reflected in the priorities set by members of the respective commissions.

4. Bearing this in mind, as well as the role of the regional commissions within the United Nations system in their respective regions as mandated in section IV of the annex to General Assembly resolution 32/197 of 20 December 1977, the following guidance is provided by the Economic and Social Council with respect to improving the contributions and the relevance of the commissions in the reform process of the United Nations, in accordance with the mandates and priorities of each of the commissions.

A. THE REGIONAL COMMISSIONS AS REGIONAL OUTPOSTS OF THE UNITED NATIONS

5. According to regional needs and circumstances, the regional commissions fulfil norm-setting, dissemination and analytical functions as well as undertake operational activities that are complementary and mutually reinforcing. The regional commissions provide an important forum for articulating regional perspectives on global issues and for building consensus within their respective regions. This capacity should be utilized more fully by United Nations bodies, funds and programmes, as appropriate.

6. The linking of the activities of the regional commissions more effectively with the overall activities of the United Nations in the economic and social sectors should be pursued vigorously. The active involvement and participation of the executive secretaries of the commissions, or their representatives, in the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs and the United Nations Development Group should be effectively ensured.

7. The undertaking of joint exercises in accordance with their respective mandates and priorities should be encouraged between each of the secretariats of the commissions, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat and the secretariat of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development on the basis of memoranda/letters of understanding and should be reflected in their respective programmes of work.

8. An important role has been given to the regional commissions in the preparations for and follow-up to major United Nations conferences in accordance with their respective mandates and priorities. The Economic and Social Council should provide overall guidance for the work of the regional commissions in this area, bearing in mind the need for a multisectoral approach.

9. The Economic and Social Council welcomes the ongoing exercises in some of the regional commissions on priority-setting and encourages the other regional commissions to carry out similar activities. The involvement of Governments in this process should help the commissions to achieve greater effectiveness and efficiency.

10. Improving coordination of the activities of the regional commissions and various United Nations entities operating at the regional level, in particular the United Nations Development Programme, within their respective mandates and priorities, is particularly important. This should be further addressed through the following concrete measures:

(a) Reactivation of the United Nations Development Programme/regional commissions task force for the purpose of addressing, more effectively, issues of common concern;

(b) Closer consultation of the regional commissions by the United Nations Development Programme during the programming stages of its regional activities, with the Programme considering the commissions to be partners in the undertaking of those activities. The secretariats of the regional commissions should make available to the relevant offices of the Programme, in particular the regional bureaux, their respective programmes of work.

11. The potential for active involvement of the regional commissions in the United Nations Development Assistance Framework³³ should be reviewed in the ongoing pilot phase of the Framework.

B. THE REGIONAL COMMISSIONS AS PART OF THEIR RESPECTIVE REGIONAL INSTITUTIONAL LANDSCAPES

12. The role of the regional commissions as part of the institutional landscape of their respective regions calls for close cooperation between the commissions and other relevant regional bodies in order to reinforce synergies and complementarities between their respective programmes of work. The regional commissions are encouraged to intensify their cooperation and regular exchange of information, as determined by their respective intergovernmental bodies, with relevant regional bodies, institutions and networks. When holding meetings with their respective regional bodies and institutions, the regional commissions should ensure that such meetings concentrate on specific issues for which a regional coordinated approach is desirable and reflect the mandates and priorities of the regional commissions.

13. The team leadership role of the regional commissions calls for their holding regular inter-agency meetings in each region with a view to improving coordination among the programmes of work of the organizations of the United Nations system in that region. In this respect, the Economic and Social Council welcomes the efforts by the Secretary-General to improve coordination within the United Nations system, including his proposal of yearly meetings, to be chaired by the Deputy Secretary-General, in each geographical area, among the relevant entities of the United Nations system engaged in regional and intercountry activities. These meetings should be cost-effective and built up on already existing coordination mechanisms and should focus on specific issues requiring coordination at the regional level. The outcome of these meetings should be reported to the Council through the respective intergovernmental bodies of the regional commissions, as appropriate. In this regard, the Council encourages the Secretary-General to take into account these measures in his report under the agenda item on regional cooperation in 1999.

C. ROLE OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

14. The Economic and Social Council should encourage the regular exchange of information, as appropriate, between the bureaux of the regional commissions and its own Bureau. Whenever possible, the participation of the chairpersons of the regional commissions in the relevant deliberations of the Council should be welcomed. The Council should also encourage the participation of the executive secretaries, when feasible, in its high-level debates and should further encourage inputs from the regional commissions in its substantive consideration of global issues with a regional dimension, including through the utilization of the Regional Commissions New York Office. Regular briefings of the Council by the executive secretaries should be organized during the meetings of the Executive Committee on Economic and Social Affairs and the United Nations Development Group. The Council should also encourage better two-way flow of information on activities of the regional commissions, including through the simultaneous launching of the economic and social surveys in New York and at the seats of the regional commissions.

15. The Economic and Social Council should also encourage regular interaction between the regional commissions in order for them to share each other's best practices, experiences and concrete achievements. The Council should also encourage interregional cooperation involving two or more regional commissions, as well as the United Nations Development Programme, when appropriate.

16. The Economic and Social Council should promote greater cooperation between the regional commissions and its functional commissions through the regular exchange of information supported by their respective secretariats, as appropriate.

17. The Economic and Social Council should maintain its oversight and coordination role to ensure that decisions taken by the intergovernmental bodies of the regional commissions and the United Nations funds and programmes are complementary and mutually supportive.

18. The Economic and Social Council should encourage the exchange of information and cooperation between the regional commissions and the Bretton Woods institutions and the World Trade Organization on issues of common interest.

1998/47. Further measures for the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields: modalities for elections

The Economic and Social Council,

Taking into account its resolution 1998/46 of 31 July 1998 and annexes I to III thereto,

Bearing in mind that the Council, at its resumed substantive session of 1998, will hold elections for the composition of the bodies referred to in annex I to resolution 1998/46, so that these bodies are fully constituted from 1 January 1999,

1. Decides to terminate, as of 31 December 1998, the current membership of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development, the Committee for Development Planning, the Committee on Natural Resources and the Committee on New and Renewable Sources of Energy and on Energy for Development;
