Submission by the Great Britain: Equality and Human Rights Commission

Statement on the protection of human rights of women to access effective justice following pregnancy or maternity discrimination

Mr President,

This is a statement on behalf of the Equality and Human Rights Commission¹.

Research has revealed worrying levels of workplace pregnancy and maternity discrimination in Great Britain. Three in four mothers reported a negative or possibly discriminatory experience during pregnancy, maternity leave, or on return to work. And one in nine reported that they were either dismissed; made compulsorily redundant, where others in their workplace were not; or treated so poorly they felt they had to leave their job. However, less than one percent reported pursuing a claim to an employment tribunal².

Evidence suggests that the introduction of employment tribunal fees in Great Britain, alongside reforms to legal aid in England and Wales, may have had the effect of unduly restricting women's access to justice³⁴⁵⁶.

We call on the UK Government to mitigate any indirectly discriminatory effect these changes have had on women's access to justice, and to recognise the multiple barriers that pregnant women and new mothers face in seeking legal redress following workplace discrimination⁷.

We therefore recommend that the UK Government considers increasing the time limit from three to six months for bringing an Employment Tribunal claim involving pregnancy and maternity discrimination.

Thank you Mr President.
